

1780 Oct. 24.

Newbury 24. Oct. 1780.

86 8

Dear Sir

I've but a minutes time to inform you of the devastation committed in this quarter by the enemy from Canada.

We had information that the enemy were approaching in a large body - a scout of ours discovered them marching in a direction to this place; but, they being discovered, changed their course to Proyalton, twelve miles NW of the College - they burnt the whole of said Proyalton except two or three houses - the number of houses burnt, consisted of twenty nine, together with barns, cornhouses &c. to each of them, will filled

Newbury 24: 1780

Dear Sir

I've but a minute's time to inform you of the devastation committed in this quarter by the enemy from Canada.

We had information that the enemy were approaching in a large body --- a Scout of ours discovered them marching in a direction to this Place; but, they being discovered changed their course to Royalton, twelve miles NW of the College -- they burnt the whole of said Royaltons except two or three houses the number of houses burnt, consisted of twenty nine, together with barns, cornhouses & e.^a to each of them well

Fill⁹

filled with provisions of every kind - they killed four and took about thirty prisoners - The Militia turned out with great alacrity - within two days we had at least two thousand men collected; but the enemy's retreat was so rapid they got off without much damage - They are still hovering back of our frontiers & we are ⁱⁿ daily ~~in~~ expectation of another visit from them - I am d.^r in haste with the greatest esteem,

Your most obedient

and most humble servant,

Jacob Frezley

M. Weare Esq^r

with provisions of every kind __ they killed four, took about thirty prisoners __ The Militia turned out with great alacrity __ within two days or had at least two thousand men collected; but the enemy's retreat was so rapid they got off without much damage __ they are still hovering back of our frontiers & we are ^{^in} daily [struck] expectation of another visit from them __ I am N.J. in haste, with the greatest esteem,

your most obedient
and most hum.^l servant
Jacob Bayley

M Weare Esq.