Monday

Dear George,

I finally located a bank that has that checking service we were talking about. I have a book with 20 checks in it. This cost me $2; but I guess it will prove very handy.

I am enclosing a check for $10. This just about leaves me broke; but I'll manage all right. Out of this money Pop is to get $3. You can handle the rest in the usual manner.

The trip back was lousy. The bus was so old that even the driver kept cursing it. The seats were not comfortable and the air in the bus was putrid; otherwise it was a lovely trip.

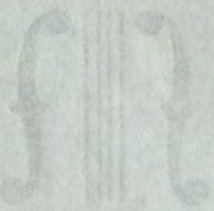

It has turned cold out here, otherwise everything looks the same. N.Y. hasn't called once today, and the day is nearly over. Things sure are dead. Add to this not doing anything-- a beautiful girl in a new dress with nothing to do but look pretty while flashing a wedding ring, and you have my everyday mental anguish. The girl here just won a beauty contest, and she keeps flashing her wares at me all day. I guess that I was just born to suffer. Where does one find himself a wife?

I am impatiently looking forward to my workout tonight, and wish it were time to quit already; but I guess it won't be long now.

Hoping that you and Flo are all right after yesterday's spread,
I am

As ever,

Bob
