Saturday

Dear George,

The memory of Aaron has already passed. It seems years have elapsed; since I last saw him. So faint is my recollection of him. The time is going quite slowly for me these days. I am still in the process of acclimating myself to this living alone and liking it. I have already joined the public library, and am planning a very extensive year, as far as reading is concerned. By the way, what was the name of that book you advised me to read?

I have arranged with someone to teach me to drive; and I'm hoping in the very near future to be able to get my license. There is no question about it, I really could make lots of use out a car. How in the world ~~am~~ going to get enough money to buy one; but there is no use worrying about that until I get my license.

Before I forget, I was in the Y.M.C.A. the other day, and I am very seriously contemplating membership there. To my surprise, they are equipped with barbells. Joining this institution should prove worth it's weight in gold. One can always meet a nice bunch of boys there. The big trouble presented by this plan, is the membership fee of 12 dollars a year; but I think that I will be able to meet this so mercenary requisite.

The boss was here yesterday, he didn't stay long enough to have it amount to anything. He requested a few minor changes and tried to look authoritative; otherwise the visit was just a bust. I managed to sneak a word in concerning more money, and although he didn't say much, it looks very promising. I think that he will be out here next Friday too. It was all set for me to drive back with him yesterday; when some last minute business turned up; which necessitated my staying out here today. I had several of the boys in today, and in the few hours that we spent in the plant, I had the busiest day of my stay out here. Between the hours of 9 and 11, I had to answer 5 teletype messages, a phone call from N.Y., and in between all this I was making out the balance of records due us from the Scranton plant. For a while, I didn't know whether I was coming or going; but I managed to do all right with my first teletype messages to N.Y. It sure is a good thing that I practised my typing; else I should be absolutely helpless out here.

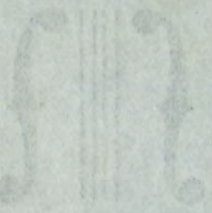

I still haven't decided how much money to send you; but please keep in mind that I always want to send more than I do. I want to save as much as I can; but there is always something to prevent this. Not the least of which is the fact that I don't make enough to have it amount to anything; but there will come a day, I hope.

Regards to Flo

With a handshake in mind,

Bob

It didn't take me a half hour to write this letter; pretty good, eh what?
