

Saturday

Dear George:

I intend to write from the office this p. m. at greater length, but rushing these few lines at home so as to catch an early mail to you.

Spoke to Florence twice yesterday. From the office there were too many interruptions, as I called again last night. So I can doubly assure you all's well.

Jules Lieber was in the office yesterday. He is selling his Spiegel at 6. Wanted a suggestion, so advised him Commercial Solvents. Don't know when this dog will get going, but when it does, it will bust out in a rash. Don't know whether it will take a week or a month,

but when it does it will be complete.
Why I am bothering you about stocks when I should know you have military headaches to worry about.

Weather in NY has been marvelous for this time of the year.
But I fear me it won't be long before we'll be in snow,
for the indications are starting today.

The morning abwels are still with me, so I'll postpone till the afternoon further news.

My best and loads of good luck.

Sincerely
Max
