

Wednesday eve,

George, my darling,

It's twelve long weeks since I've seen you and it's still like a dream to me. You a soldier in the U.S. army and an army wife and babe in apt C 2. But this arrangement is only temporary and we're waiting patiently and lovingly for you to return to that little world of ours. There's again hoping for that quick victory and peace.

Your Sunday letter came this morning and I do hope you spent a nice day with your buddies. They all look like regular guys from the snapshots and you look grand to me. Those are swell pictures, each one of them and they too will tell our kids an interesting story some day. Try to take some more soon and I'll probably finish up my roll of films in a week or so.

We spent the day indoors as the weather wasn't too nice out. Baby is fine, growing up fast and is still as devilish as ever. He managed to turn over a box of confectioners sugar and a box of blue white I was busy ironing. Helma, Joel, my mother and my Aunt Mildred spent part of the afternoon and evening with me. They're all well. Your father called and all is well with your folks. Sam Arnold brought up the lease and I'll sign it to-morrow, after reading it over.

My aunt is with me now and may spend the night here, I'm not sure though. At present we're listening to the radio and I'm doing some mending and sewing. Baby is quite blissfully asleep after having a rather hectic time knocking everyone out and throwing warden blocks at Joel. But he's under my control, have no fears dearest. If nothing else he's going to learn obedience and good behavior. What an eye I'm going to be to that son of yours.

This is a shorty so I'll bid you a very Good night, pleasant dreams and all my love and devotion to you, darling. Keep well and a special hug and kiss from Jimmie:

Sincerely yours,
Florence

P.S. Aunt Medred sends her best regards to you.
