

Thursday evening,

My darling,

Hope that all is well with you and that something good materializes after all these months. Never mind the stripes, dearest, just stay around in the good old U. S.

To-day has been a rather warm, humid day and as always I've been as busy as a bee since early morning. Baby and I are feeling swell, still miss you so very much and always love you so dearly. What more can I ask for? How do you like these snaps? Arent they grand and I'm only enclosing (4) four of them in this letter. We only received 1 set of 8 pictures (enlarged) instead of 2 of each because that service has been discontinued for the present. So I'll keep 1 set and send the remainder to-morrow. Keep the ones you desire, and send the rest back for the album. In the mail I also got the announcement of the Sherrin birth and the new baby's name is Michael Stephen. Also got your Tuesday letter and Seymour's enclosed V-letter. I'll try to take some pictures of your folks on Sunday, if the weather is nice and later in the day they're going to Kay's for dinner.

This morning Jimmie and I got out quite early and did our household shopping. We also paid a visit to Thelma and Boss. Joel is still in the hospital and Thelma will be surprised when the time comes to take him home. After lunch, I drove out to Harry Juffel with the sisters and babies and had my teeth looked over. One small cavity had to be filled and was taken care of during today's visit. Octavia's my teeth are O.K. and need no cleaning. Thelma had a tooth extracted and was amazed at Harry's work - no pain and little bother. She also had a cleaning. The bill all told amounted to $3.00 and that was a great surprise to both of us. After the visit to the dentist, we decided to go to Sears as it was only 3.15 and we had a little time. We took Jimmie with us and he almost wrecked that lovely store. As soon as he came in, he knocked over 2 large boxes of material but I managed to set them right again. You know how quick he is when he's up to mischief. Then we went to the shoe department and he took the shoes off the counter and placed them neatly on the floor near the aisle. Daddy, I think he's an adorable rascal. I almost forgot this incident. In the morning while shopping at Bloch's, I left him strapped in the stroller outside the store. When I came to the checking counter, I glanced out at baby and there he was standing in the stroller with his pants, overalls and sweater down on the bottom of the stroller. He slipped off the straps and was beautifully exposed with that cute bare ass and his little dinky taking a peep at the people on Flatbush Avenue. What a sight but I managed to get out to him quickly and right him again. Hope to see folks, who are well and read them your letters. Billy called again and sends his regards to you. I keep well, my sweetheart, and all my love and devotion to you as always.

Sincerely,
Florence
