

June 8th, 1942

Dear George.

There isn't too much to convey to you today. It's about 6:15 P.M. and some of us are going to take in a free show, which starts at 7:30.

Everything, now that I am more acclimated, is much more to my liking. The food, work, (what there is of it) and all the other details.

Sleeping is quite pleasant. At least, it's cool here. Although yesterday was scorching hot.

As yet, there is no indication that I'm to leave here. So perhaps you can see your way clear to sending me a letter as soon as possible. I have an idea that I'll still be here.

Don't worry about me -
I think I'll get fatter and lazier, if things continue as they are.

Hope Florence is getting along well.

See you next Sunday -
maybe? -

With a handshake in mind -

Bob

Priv. Robert Stoff
1229 R.C. Company A
Barrack 2. Fort Dix, N.J.

FROM

Pvt. Robert Stoff
1229 R. C. Company A
Barrack 2. Fort Dix, N. J.

Free

Mr. George Stoff
Room 1412
29 Broadway
New York City

