NJobless Hit
17-Year Low

The nation's unemployment rate hit a 17-year low for the fourth time in 1968, in August, the Labor Department said.

The number of jobless declined 450,000, to 2.8 million, 3.5 per cent of the total labor force and nearly double the expected August drop.

"The unemployment rate once again equaled the Korean war-era low reached in January and May of this year," the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The total of 2.8 million unemployed was down some 170,000 from a year earlier.

CRIME ON THE
"HIGH SEAS"

The annals of crime contain much that looks incredible at first view. One such strange-but-true incident on the "high seas" actually took place in a hot, steaming jungle, the records of the Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company note, while another had white mice playing key roles. Unbelievable, and yet...

In the 1850's California's gold sometimes reached New York by sea after an overland jungle trek through Panama. Word of one such shipment got talked about: ten masked men ambushed a mule train carrying $106,000 in gold, and promptly vanished in the jungle.

The Panamanian army chased the bandits and all were captured, but $5,000 in gold was missing.

The lost gold? For all that is known, it is still in the jungle!

Early in April, 1870, the steamer "George Washington" put out of New York, bound for New Orleans. The fourth day of her southerly course brought the cry dreaded by seamen the world over: "Fire in the hold!"

According to the "Disaster Books" in the Marine Library of the Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company, prompt action by the crew saved the ship. As he searched the smokeblackened hold for a key to the fire's origin, the ship's captain came upon a four-foot-square box. Marked "Handle with Care - Keep Dry," it was still smoldering.

The manifest stated only that the box contained "valuable machinery." Curious, the captain ordered it opened.

Packed inside in straw and sawdust was a soda-water bottle filled with gasoline, a can of spirits of turpentine, an explosive mixture of potassium chlorate, and two cigar boxes full of white mice!

The "valuable machinery" was really a lethal incendiary device. The hungry mice, nibbling at their cigar box prison, were intended to set off the explosive. Then the ignited turpentine, gasoline, sawdust and straw were to start a blaze that would wipe out ship, crew and heavily insured cargo—and destroy all evidence of arson.

The plot failed only because the fire was speedily detected. Atlantic Mutual's files give the names of two men later charged by a U.S. court with "shipping explosive oil without labelling the contents upon the case." But the identity of "a third party not in custody"—the packer of the deadly box—is lost to history.

The Beauty of it all

by MARY LEE

With short skirts and pantyhose still the rage, the garterless syndrome continues. Grip-powered foundations and stretchy stockings have been joined with a new "magic spray."

All you do is spray the "hold up" around the top of your legs, slip on your hosiery, and they hold in place until you wipe them off with a damp cloth. Even the men might find this one handy for their socks. (Hold Up, by Sil-o-ette, will be sold in foundation and hosiery departments).

The Flirty Thirties are back in fashion, no doubt influenced by the highly publicized movie "Funny Girl." In fact you'll see the return of the Garbo slouch hat, the Clara Bow beret, the Jean Harlow cloche and the Baby Snooks bonnet, too.

It's all part of getting back to the feminine look, thank goodness. Soft silhouettes with revealing lines are great to see again, particularly in bias-cut dresses of matte jersey and satin-back crepe. Coats that wrap and tie for curvier shapes are IN, too, in the right places.

Give A Damn Lives At K.S.C.

Nashua In The Plans

Last week four KSC students went to Peterborough to see John Torres, director of the Saxton's River project. Their purpose: to find out what else KSC students can do to aid the project.

The four students, Juli Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Turner, and Marilyn Treat came back to Keene with a flood of ideas to relay to the student body. Goldsmith and Miss Treat called a special meeting "for students who were interested in further helping with the Saxton's River project," and, though notice was short, 46 students attended.

At the informal meeting the group was told that the Give a Damn Show is going on the road. Most of those attending were given the addresses of students from the project and will write letters to them explaining what the KSC students have in mind for further helping the project.

Also discussed was the possibility of a labor force to help Torres with carpentry work when the site is established.

On Oct. 19, Miss Shaw, Miss Treat, Turner and Goldsmith traveled to Nashua to solicit interest in having the show there. They secured the support of some of the faculty at Nashua High School and the local clergy. The four students returned to Nashua yesterday to talk to administrators and the students at River College and Nashua High School. It is hoped that River will sponsor the show and that Nashua High students will lend their time to publicity and ticket sales efforts.

The students said they wanted to take the show on the road for several reasons. First, they recognize it as a means of educating the area residents to the problems of ghetto areas and of encouraging further support in New Hampshire communities for the Saxton's River project.

The students also see this project as a means of uniting the KSC student body.

Dr. Zorn told the student organizers that the administration feels "this is definitely one of the directions students here should be taking."

Dr. Zorn further said he was pleased with the outcome of the benefit show here and hoped for more student involvement in the project as student plans expand.

The four students plan to organize an informal group at the college for those interested in the project. Dr. Peter Jenkins will act as advisor to the group.

Poetry Society Presents
Black Poetry At K.S.C.

by Don Therrien

On Saturday, Nov. 2, at 8 p.m., The Free Poetry Society will present a dramatic reading entitled "The Black Word" or "A Scenario of American Negro Poetry."

The group will be directed by James McDonald, who adapted the presentation for the stage. Performing along with McDonald will be Jeff Parsons, Beth French, Gary French, Bill Shaw, and Molly McDonald. This will be the first performance of the group on the KSC campus. Gary French directed the group in "Under Milkwood" earlier this year.

The body of the presentation, "The Black Word," will have an historic perspective. It will cover Negro history in America from the slave ships to the contemporary race rebellion. All works in this section will be by black authors and will all be complete works with the exception of a selection from Ellison's "Invisible Man." There will be poems by Richard Wright, Margaret Walker, Ralph Ellison, Robert Hayden, Gwendolyn Brooks, Langston Hughes, and others. The selections will span the gamut of the emotional and physical experience in America.

The prologue, a poem by Kenneth Fearing, and the epilogue a selection from Carl Sandburg's

"The People, Yes" are the only selections written by white authors. The reason for this, according to McDonald, is the way in which they have stated certain positions. Fearing says that the Negro situation in America just couldn't have happened, but it did. Sandburg says that it has happened, and that this is how the people are and feel and then asks where do we go from here.

McDonald has three reasons for presenting this program. The first is for the benefit of the Saxton's River Scholarship Fund (which was inaugurated in Keene last week with the "Give a Damn" show). Admission to the performance will be one dollar with all proceeds going to that fund. To help the fund, the Monadnock Region Human Relations Board has supplied funds for the rental of Drenan Auditorium.

His second reason is to introduce the citizens of Keene and students of the college to Negro poetry.

The third reason is that he hopes to make the audience aware that the present race problem does not lie only in Watts, Selma, and Harlem but in every corner of America - whether it is all white or all black.

MERP Weekend Is Coming

MERP is coming. MERP is an annual event sponsored by Nu Beta Upsilon. Men's Economic Recuperation Program (MERP) places full responsibility of that weekend's dating on the woman. She will ask him out, pick him up, and within, reason, escort him home. This year many activities are planned, from Friday night right through Sunday supper. Friday night calls for a scavenger hunt, Saturday morning, weather permitting, a sport and games event; Saturday afternoon, a pumpkin carving; Saturday night the traditional dance; Sunday afternoon a powderpuff football game with a spaghetti supper following.

The scavenger hunt will start at Blake House at 7 p.m. Participants are asked to bring a flashlight. Lists will be passed out on a first-come-first-go basis. Two hours will be allotted for scavenging. Students should plan to be back by 9 p.m. Until 9:30, when the prize winners will be announced, cider and donuts will be served to entrants. There are a few things that Nu Beta wishes to remind those interested - that the more who go, the merrier it gets, that areas will be assigned on the basis of transportation with areas for those with and without cars, that participants are requested to stay in their own areas, and that they are to have fun.

Weather permitting, Saturday morning's festivities will include a sport and games event with sports and games to be revealed Saturday morning at the A-field. All day morning at the A-field. All with or without cars, that participants are requested to stay in their own areas, and that they are to have fun.

Saturday afternoon brings a pumpkin carving and carving utensils for their dates. Prizes will be awarded at the dance for the biggest and best pumpkins.

Frosh Senators Elected

On Friday the class of 1972 elected its six representatives to the Student Senate. The six new senators are:

Ron Taylor, of Portsmouth, Margaret Winters, from Longmeadow, Mass.

Royal Ford, of Hopkinton, Gail Capelle, of Weymouth, Mass. Sue Callahan, of Northfield, Mass. Bill Staples, of Portsmouth.

The six senators agreed that freshmen should not lose interest in campus politics now that the elections are over. They hope to represent the class, but they can only do so as long as the members of the class let them know what they want. They said that they will always be available for suggestions.

The Monadnock congratulates these people and wishes them the best of luck for the year.

Also, the Monadnock asks that the members of their class give them the comment and support that they need to do an effective job.

What's Happened To Peace

Whatever happened to peace? Groups which formerly pledged themselves to the cause of peace have broken their pledges and have switched to militance. The peace movement of the early '60s failed to produce any significant change in the United States military policy or national sentiment about war in general. This failure has led to frustration, to cynicism, and now, desperation.

But in spite of this frustration, there is one group that continues its program for peace. The American Friends Service Committee was founded in 1917, by the Society of Friends (the Quakers). Since then the AFSC has helped the victims of poverty, disaster, and injustice, as well as war.

And now the AFSC is planning a program of "peace education" to begin immediately after the November elections.

Last Thursday, Russell Johnson, secretary of peace education for the New England office of the AFSC, met with a dozen Keene citizens to discuss starting a peace education program in this community. (Mr. Johnson was one of the panelists of the Vietnam seminar held at KSC last December).

Mr. Johnson told the gathering that this is a year of "frustration and uncertainty," but we are still confronted with a basic question: "How do we educate for peace and social change?"

Several people at the gathering decided that the schools would be the most logical place for the teaching of pacifist ideals, but that the efforts of students in this direction had been discouraged by school officials.

So the question was left for all to think about.

In the meantime, organizers such as Tom Hayden, expect to continue their drives for peace and the inculcation of peaceful ideas in the people of the United States. But the problem of war effects all of us, and its solution must involve all of us. We cannot delegate the solving of the problem to the AFSC, Russell Johnson, Tom Hayden, President Johnson, or anyone else.

Cast Announced

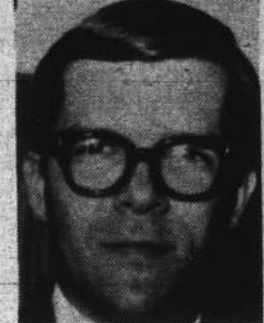

The cast for the theater production, "The Importance of Being Earnest," to be presented Nov. 20-23 has been announced. The play is an English comedy of manners revolving around John Worthing, J.P., of the Manor House, Woolton, Hertfordshire, and his friend, Algernon Montcrieff, parts played respectively by John Rice and Charles Howland. Others include the Rev. Canon Chasuble, D., rector of Woolton played by Ronald Littlefield, Merriman, butler to Mr. Worthing, played by Peter Oths, Lane, Mr. Montcrieff's manservant played by David Demires. Two of the four female roles, those of the Hon. Gwendolen Fairfax and her mother, Lady Bracknell will be played by Cheryl Downing and Kristen Wakefield. The cast also includes the Rev. Canon Chasuble, D., rector of Woolton played by Ronald Littlefield, Merriman, butler to Mr. Worthing, played by Peter Oths, Lane, Mr. Montcrieff's manservant played by David Demires. The Ethics of Non-Participation

by Tom Stauffer

Several well attended meetings of recent weeks have centered attention on a peculiar subject - why citizens of a democratic society should not participate in their democratic society. Public opinion polls show that many Americans in the coming elections plan to stay at home. Other polls show that others wish to vote "No." McCarthyites threaten to stay at home or throw away their vote by writing in the name of a Black Panther leader (who is barred by the Constitution from holding Presidential office because of his age). Many will vote for Wallace or the Vegetarians or the Theocratic Party. Bloopies and Yuppies with a flair for the candidate invite the nation to "tune out" the elections. Pat Paulsen is making surprising gains in spite of the great put-out.

Unquestionably, this is a sign of political polarization and decay tumbling from racial, urban, and national policy consciousness of this decade. Unquestionably, it can be analyzed in neat tight terms. Undeniably, however, those who preach non-participation are inconsistent in their arguments and short-sighted in the implications of their actions.

Myopic politics is not only unimaginative, it is also dangerous. If the early signs of a pro-Rumplestiltskin shift hold true, there is a disturbing certainty that the elections could be thrown into the Congress. Long-range implications of non-participation would lead to further national mistrust and conspiracy theories at a time when men of good will are attempting to find grounds for accommodation. Fortright policies over the next four years would be thwarted by citizens world-wide questioning the legitimacy of the American process. But most importantly, the "stay-at-home" voter would be shirking his ethical responsibility to face the problems of his times and participate in the democratic process.

Beyond these dangers, however, lies a contradiction so huge as to cast the shadow of fickleness across the reputations of many non-participants. Strange as it may seem, the same malady may also infect the Wallaceites. Dissenters and non-participants in a democratic state must put up or shut up; if after being given a decent interval to present their case they feel that their life, liberty, and happiness is in danger, it is the dissenters DUTY to discard the system and replace it with another. Since the losers of Miami and Chicago apparently do not feel so alienated as to dispose of the American system (since it was that system that allowed them to present their case in the first place), they face a dilemma: if they support the choice of their party, they face the possibility of having to lose some "face"; if they decide to sit out this election, they betray the very basis of their democratic and liberal beliefs.

It should be entirely clear which alternative is the best. Liberalism is founded on the premise that the individual should realize his self-fulfillment within human society, that human expression and dignity must be protected, that liberty by its definition means active participation for all citizens. Democracy, a liberal concept, requires active participation of the citizenry. And since the non-participants have had their rights to dissent by vote and demonstration protected under the American democratic system, it seems reasonable to ask the non-participant on what basis he bases his case for demanding the protection of the democratic right to dissent one month while the next month declaring his opposition to sharing in the democratic process.

Any answer need not even contemplate the right to dissent (this existed all along). The answer must come to grips with the fundamental question, "how do I dissent?" The dissent in the New Hampshire March primary which eventually forced non-quitter Lyndon Johnson to quit the White House, the anti-Vietnam dissent which forced Washington into a bombing halt and the Paris peace talks, and the dissent of the Negro minority which forced an apathetic or racist majority to move in the direction of greater equality of opportunity all exemplify the fact that in all these cases, results were realized by participation not the lack thereof.

Results were possible because those involved decided to stick by the courage of their convictions and work within the democratic process, and the right to dissent toward the realization of their goals. Non-participation is a sign of weakness, not strength. It is a sign of betraying the fundamental precepts of democracy, liberty and individual rights. It is a sign of the breach of good faith when those who demand the right to dissent, upon being dissented against by majority will, decide that the majority does not have that right. Finally, it is a sign of pusillanimity.

"We are not only protesting the war but also the system that got us in Vietnam," Duncan added. Besides an end to the war, he said, the demonstrators want:

- to end the draft;
- to end military propaganda among our civilian population, "like John Wayne movies,"
- to get the military off the campuses;
- the Pentagon to release a list of soldiers imprisoned or discharged because of their opposition to the war;
- an end to the stigma attached to a dishonorable discharge, which Duncan said soldiers receive because "they refuse to have their consciences dictated to by men who have none."

The day's main speaker was Hugh Hester, who proved that a

Building Dedication

KEENE - Keene State College will formally dedicate its three newest buildings in ceremonies scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 27, it was announced today by President Roman J. Zorn.

The buildings are the new physical education building on Appleway which will be named the Spaulding Gymnasium; the science building on Appleway, which will be named the Science Center, and the technology building on Winchester Street, which will become the C. A. Adams Technology Building in honor of the KSC professor who taught industrial education for 33 years before retiring in 1967.

The building names were recommended by a College committee and approved by the University trustees.

Two large lecture halls in the Science Center will be named in honor of two other retired professors with long service to Keene State. They are Miss Ella O. Keene, professor emerita of geography, who was on the faculty here for 24 years, and Maynard G. Waite, professor emerita of education and languages, who served on the KSC faculty for 35 years.

The three professors emerita compiled a total of 92 years at the Keene State College faculty. The present Spaulding Gymnasium is now undergoing renovation and rebuilding, with a large wing to be added to the building on Main Street. The Spaulding name will be given to the new physical education building, with the old gym becoming the new Lloyd P. Young Student Union. The new student union is expected to be ready for occupancy in early 1969. Dedication day ceremonies will be combined with the annual Parents' Day observation at the College.

A committee to plan appropriate exercises for the dedication is headed by Robert L. Mallat Jr., director of physical

Frost Material Given To Plymouth College

Reprint from the Keene Evening Sentinel

PLYMOUTH, N.H. -- Plymouth State College is the recipient of one of the world's largest collections of original manuscripts and letters of beloved AMERICAN POET ROBERT FROST.

The collection contains more than 200 items, many never before seen and is valued at more than $1 million.

Discovered were 12 signed volumes of poetry with handwritten corrections throughout, 80 typed manuscripts of published poetry, work drafts, six volumes of notes and assorted prose works.

The collection was given by Mrs. Amy Browne Townsend of Bridgewater, and her sister, Mrs. Eleanor Browne Galashaw of Cambridge, Mass.

The collection was uncovered this summer in the attic of the Webster farm house in Bridgewater by Thomas E. McNamara, an English professor at Plymouth State.

The farm house is owned by the two donors and was built by a descendant of Col. David Webster, an early settler in the area.

The donors' parents, George H. and Emily Webster Browne were intimate friends of Frost's and the letters in the collection were from Frost to Browne. The letters are the greatest collection written by Frost to any one person previous to 1930.

George H. Browne was one of the founders of the Browne and Nichols School in Cambridge, and the collection also contains five original copies of lectures given by Frost at the school. Some 90 photographs and negatives of Frost are also in the collection. McNamara made the discovery after a long sequence of events. As a student of Frost's works, he conducted a college seminar on the poet during the winter of 1967.

Attending the seminar was Mrs. Guy Spears, one of Plymouth's oldest residents and a historian on the era. She related some of her memories of Frost, with whom she attended high school in Lawrence, Mass., and with whom she was a close personal friend.

During the seminar, Mrs. Spears mentioned that Frost had told her of a poem he had written called "The Slide" which was based on an actual event of a farmer sliding down a hill in Plymouth many years before. Frost said the story was told him by his friend, George Browne.

One of the students at the seminar, Mrs. Ellie Wolf, then got the idea of communicating with her friend Mrs. Amy Browne Townsend, daughter of George Browne, to see if she might have any material relating to the poem and the slide. Mrs. Townsend suggested that Mrs. Wolf and McNamara visit the Webster farm. During the trip to the attic, the great wealth of Frost material was uncovered.

Mrs. Wagner, Staff Member of the week.

Staff Member of the Week: Mrs. Wagner

by Audrey Evans

This week's staff member is Mrs. Doris Wagner, a familiar face behind the Student Union desk. She graduated from Syracuse University in New York in 1953, then worked as a dietitian at Van Dyke Hospital in Syracuse until 1966 when her husband was transferred. He is now administrative assistant at the National Grange Insurance Company in Keene.

Mrs. Wagner now serves as secretary to Mr. Robert Campbell (Student Union director) and to Mr. Donald Moore (associate director). In addition to her regular bookkeeping tasks she prepares the weekly "Calendar of Meetings and Events," and handles the scheduling of college facilities for groups who wish to use them. She is the central treasurer for the student activity fee accounts which involves, among other things, admission fees for concerts and dances. She handles the athletic accounts, involving money for trips and appropriating officials. In addition, she does clerical work for student organizations and orders candy and tobacco supplies for the Union.

Mrs. Wagner belongs to the American Dietetic Association, and in her spare time enjoys sewing, gardening, and photography. She also enjoys traveling and has been to Puerto Rico, Haiti, and Jamaica, as well as California and Florida. In fact, she went to New Orleans and Oklahoma City on her vacation two weeks ago.

MENC at Keene State College

The Music Educators National Conference on this campus has begun work on projects for the fall. The first of these on the agenda is an enthusiastic membership drive. This year the Keene State chapter expects to have the largest enrollment in New Hampshire. With the response thus far that goal may well be in sight.

The next questions are "who can" and "how to" join the organization. MENC was initiated for those students intending to make music education their field of study. Its scope has since broadened, to encompass all those students who express a sincere interest in music. Those people on campus to contact for membership information are: Mrs. Miriam Goder from the music dept., Tom Powers, president of the chapter, or Wendy Fiske, secretary-treasurer.

The regular meeting held Tuesday evening Oct. 15, at the Goder residence revealed big plans for the coming year. The Menco Spectrum which generated so much student enthusiasm is a must, and a trip to the MENC annual convention in Washington, D. C. is a hope.

Besides the local and national affairs mentioned, MENC is involved with state activities. A "Welcome Wagon" dinner for music educators at the Crystal Restaurant proved very successful. Another such occasion in Manchester Oct. 17 showed Keene well represented with a total of 18 in attendance.

Nixon Wins Mock Election

Republican Presidential candidate Richard Nixon won the mock presidential election that was sponsored by the K.S.C. Young Republican on Oct. 17 in the Student Union. Nixon lead Humphrey by 2-1 in the results. Listed on the ballot were: Nixon, Humphrey, Wallace, Halstead, and the NEW Party. Write-ins were permitted. The voting was opened to all Keene State College students.

The results of the balloting were:

Nixon	70
Humphrey	37
Wallace	22
McCarthy	8
New Party	2
Halstead	7

now teaching in Milford. The purpose of this seminar was to discuss the founding of an Economic Education Center for the state of New Hampshire.

EDITORIAL SOLIDARITY

Why aren't the matriculants at Keene State College reacting to the obvious need for solidarity with the striking New York City teachers?

Here are the future teachers of New Hampshire — sitting on their duffs while oppression and tyranny rule over fellow combatants against ignorance — while fellow teachers are deprived of their basic and fundamental rights. Unless we support our brethren, who will support us when we go forth unguarded save by our knowledge and desire to teach?

One thing that everyone can do is to contribute money to support the striking teachers in New York City. Money and letters of support and solidarity should be sent to Albert Shanker, President of the New York Teachers Association.

GUEST EDITORIAL

by Jonathan Schor

This Friday night the essence of this great institution will be chosen. At the meeting of the College Senate the four elective members of the Executive Committee of the College Senate will be elected.

This executive committee has the responsibility to advise the President in appointing the various members of the standing committees. These committees are: The Admissions and Standards, Curricula, College Welfare, and Student Affairs and Organizations. These four committees hold the awesome power of defining the policy that is Keene State College.

There are those who have great hopes that an already growing trend of responsible student participation will continue. The election of the Executive Committee is a vital part of this trend for it will be the responsibility of that committee to place the student representatives in the areas where they will be most effective.

It is our hope that the student body will not be disappointed and the hope of "rising expectations" will not be dimmed or turned to revolution. Only the just appointment of responsible people can keep the growing rapport between student and faculty in a healthy state.

Letters To The Editor

I would like to take this opportunity to voice my extreme disgust upon seeing the sign of obscene degradation exposed to the Administration, Faculty, Student Body, and public at large, by Daniel Delora of Kappa Delta Phi Fraternity in last week's MONADNOCK. It seemed to me that this was very irresponsible conduct from a sophomore in college. It was in insult to all reading the newspaper and it absolutely negated the significance of the worthy function which the fraternity had sponsored.

I request that Daniel Delora send a letter of apology to the paper, suitable for publication if possible, apologizing for the personal insult he so blatantly bestowed upon all those reading last week's issue. Respectfully yours, Dennis L. Clark

To the Editor:
Since the proposal for the "Give

A Damn" four opinions pro and con have been flying everywhere. One such sentiment which I have noticed on more than one occasion is that rather than taking "Give A Damn" to other colleges we should send plans for building their own. This I feel is an excellent idea, however, the drawbacks are numerous. The situation at KSC at the time of the show's undertaking would certainly not be repeated at another school and yet I think at least part of it is a necessary prerequisite.

In the first place, we had the town of Keene backing us. This was more than merchants buying ads and individuals coming to the show. The editor of the Sentinel was sold on the project and put in some punches that we needed. Another factor involved was our own faculty. Professors Salts and Wells assisted in the program offered to the ghetto students in the

by Dr. John Wiseman

By this clever attempt to denigrate Eugene McCarthy, Mr. Stauffer has obscured the real meaning of the McCarthy movement, and has negated his own campaign to make the Senator the scapegoat for what he apparently already believes will be Humphrey's defeat. That he thoroughly dislikes McCarthy is not particularly important, but that he allows his animosity to blind him to simple political facts is significant, since he accuses McCarthy of this very failing.

For months McCarthy followers listened to McCarthy speeches dealing with racial problems, minimum wages, urban crises and health, and protested in vain against the news reporting which perpetuated the fiction of the one issue campaign. Only once during the long campaign was the fiction forgotten long enough to belie its validity. On March 13 political analysts DENIED that the results of the New Hampshire balloting reflected only anti-Vietnam sentiment. They were probably right. McCarthy workers will have stacks of canvassing instructions explaining the Senator's stand on other issues. (For an elaboration of this point, see THE NEW REPUBLIC, August 3, 1968).

Perhaps Mr. Stauffer has hit the nail on the head in stating that McCarthyites were "unable to grapple with the nuts and bolts" of winning the nomination. Just how does one "grapple with" a state law that allowed Pennsylvanians to cast an unprecedented 400,000 votes for the Senator, while the delegates remained uncommitted and threw most of their support to Humphrey, the party bosses' choice? Just how does one "grapple with" laws which provided for the selection of delegates by state central committees chosen two or four years ago, long before the issues were clarified? Just how does one "grapple with" the 110 votes cast by National Committee members chosen in 1964? The procedures for choosing delegates in the vast majority of our states simply do not give the voters a chance to express their preference; however, in 11 primaries that were held, anti-administration candidates drew 77% of the Democratic votes, of which McCarthy received 43%. Surely this is an indication of the will of the majority of Democrats, but how does one "grapple with" the persistent blindness of party hacks to this situation?

Mr. Stauffer suggests that by troubling themselves with the "dirty business of practical politics" these obstacles might have been overcome. What would he call the efforts made in those 11 primaries: the tedious compilation of registration lists; the hours spent knocking on doors; the thousands of letters written to Congressmen, delegates, friends and strangers; the solicitation of funds; the manning of headquarters; the efforts to encourage registration; the innumerable phone calls to get out the vote? Clean politics, perhaps? If he refers to making clandestine deals which betray the electorate or "law and order," if he really means DIRTY politics and seriously encourages them, then we can only fear for the future of our democratic political system, surely such an attitude will never lead honest, intelligent people to become actively involved in politics, and without them politics will become very dirty indeed.

McCarthy's ability to encourage participation in the democratic process and his faith in the American people, to decide elections on the basis of rationally presented issues has brought a hope for constructive change in the mechanics of politics and in the country itself. It does no great service to Kennedy backers to point out that they sealed "the Senator's fate" because they preferred to judge by personality and not by the similarity of their views and sympathy with these ideals. The fact that many of them did precisely this, would seem to make them, not McCarthy, the spoilers.

Contrary to Mr. Stauffer's assertion, Senator McCarthy has been anything but a "spoiler." He has urged his supporters to remain and work in the Democratic party, and most of them have. (In New Hampshire, for example, half of the new Democratic county chairmen were McCarthy supporters and over half of the State Democratic Committee members are sympathetic to McCarthy's views.) The Senator himself has steadfastly refused to allow his name to be used in a fourth party effort. He is, in fact, actively campaigning for the very DEMOCRATIC candidates whose careers in American politics will assure the "influencing of future Democratic presidents." His refusal to endorse to Humphrey may not win an address on Pennsylvania Avenue or another term in the Senate, but his position cannot kill the force of his ideas and example.

summer. And finally we had Mr. Torres at each of our weekly meetings to co-ordinate the activities for the show. He gave ideas and incentive. Though I have heard opinions that his approach is harsh and unnecessary, he supplied us with the bitter reality of the situation and it hit home.

All these factors combined proved to bring everyone at KSC closer to the project and the people involved. It generated a spirit which gathered momentum as it gathered followers. It's this spirit that we need to disperse, and a set of typed instructions for a benefit show won't do this. If we can instill our enthusiasm into the youth of some other schools they'll take it from there. The vitality and genuine human feeling we illustrate won't be answered with but $1 worth of caring. If we make them "Give A Damn" they'll do the same for others.

Sincerely,
Wendy Fiske

Editor's note: Miss Fiske's letter points out one important reason for taking the show on the road... other communities can't be expected to feel the enthusiasm we do until we bring it to them through the show. But there's still another reason: If the students here can sit back and feel "they've done their share" then they never really felt anything Sat. night, and they never listened to what John Torres was saying. It is the feeling of the students here

From the Editor's Desk:

In last week's issue of the Monadnock, Dr. James Smart reviewed the book Upper Ashuelot. The review has received student interest, and for this reason, The Monadnock invites faculty members to write reviews of new books. There is indication that students reading material in their major areas would be interested in the opinion of faculty. It is also hoped that such reviews would serve as an introduction to reading material that may otherwise be overlooked by students.

PROUDLY ANNOUNCES

Fraternity News

Alpha

Alpha is proud to have Brother Jay Dufour reign over this year's highly successful Greek Week. The brotherhood feels that Jay represents the typical Alpha image. The fraternity would like to thank all those who were involved in the campaign and who helped make Jay's victory possible.

In the Greek events, every Alpha brother put forth his best effort. Spider Loughlin managed a first place tie in the 220 yard dash, and took a third place in the 100 yard dash. Other brothers took several seconds and thirds in numerous events. The competitive spirit was obvious in each brother, and everyone did the best he could.

The three fraternities ended up Greek Week with a gathering at the Elk's Camp. The party was quite successful as each person from all three fraternities seemed to have a good time. Brothers Manny Oliveira and Ed Moreau were both enjoying themselves immensely. They both took a drastic step forward by bringing dates! It was rumored that Manny was caught holding hands with his date. We hope that this wasn't too much for him to handle all in one night!

We are happy to announce that Mr. Hubert C. Bird, from the Music Department, has been chosen as our new advisor. Mr. Bird, a fraternity man himself was were passed in a discussion of Marshall McLuhan's latest book. Some fraters chose to pass the time singing old Irish folk songs.

Greek Week came to an anti-climatic ending on Sunday afternoon, as a concert (?) featuring The Left Bank convinced people they'd rather be studying. The best part of the program was the introduction by Dr. President Jerry Gilman. The funniest part of the program was that, until the curtain opened, everyone in the audience was convinced that The Left Bank was a professional group.

In summary, it seems that Greek Week was not a howling success or a pathetic failure. Instead it was a mediocre happening. Perhaps the attempt at making the former Greek weekend into a full week fell short on its first attempt. Perhaps the lack of attendance by the student-body detracted from the needed enthusiasm. At any rate, the fraternities are all we have, and as the most powerful and most organized groups on campus, I feel that they are falling short in their efforts to provide this campus with a motivating force. If Kappa would harness the energy displayed at their Greek God rally, and Alpha would make an effort to show us they are really tough, and Alpha would stop ducking their responsibilities — perhaps the much needed enthusiasm for campus life and college spirit could be achieved.

Tau Kappa Epsilon Takes Sweep Greek Week

I would like to take this opportunity to clarify a few premature gross errors committed by some misinformed individuals who wrote in the fraternity column of last week's Monadnock. It takes little talent, both athletically or otherwise, to create a dreamland — like illusion of superiority, but it is only through proven ability that this dreamland becomes reality. Statistics are reality, and TKE finished Greek Week with a total of 43 points, challenged by a close second place contender with a total of 27 points. The TKEs co-ordinated effort commenced on Wednesday with the championship football game between TKE A and Kappa A. Exceptional quarterbacking in the Landry tradition combined with a superior overall effort proved too much for the Kappa animals who went down to an 8-0 defeat. The real test of ability, however, came to light on Saturday morning when the final games of the week were played. TKE had six first place contestants from a total of nine events. TKE also at least placed in every event except one. Special congratulations chosen because of his interest in Alpha and his knowledge of fraternity matters. We know that Mr. Bird will be beneficial to the fraternity and are looking forward to working with him.

Alpha would like to salute the other fraternities and the IFC for making this Greek Week the best week this campus has seen in a long time. We feel that the fraternities could progress a great deal if we could work together throughout the academic year, rather than confining it to one week. The Alpha Duck would also like to salute the progress that is being made on the new gym that was supposed to be finished for the fall term of 1968. With a little bit of luck and barring workers' strikes and fires, we may be able to utilize all facilities by the fall term of 1969.

TKE's Bryan Abbott leads the field in the high jump with a final jump of 6 feet.

TKE's Tom Richards hurls the javelin to a first place victory.

Berkeley Students Divided Over Course Issue

BERKELEY, CALIF. (CPS) — About 700 University of California students held a rally Friday in support of students taking Social Analysis 199X, the course being taught by Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver and other guest lecturers.

After the rally they marched into Sproul Hall as the 100 students who are taking the Cleaver course attempted to file their course lists.

Registrar Clinton C. Gilliam refused to accept the course lists unless 199X had been crossed out by the student. The students objected because their lists had been properly signed by their advisors and a university dean. They said they would not cross the course off their lists and would try to get the Registrar's decision changed.

The rally on the Sproul steps, which had a disappointingly small turnout, brought out again the division among students over how to view the Cleaver issue. Art Goldberg, a leader of the 1964 Free Speech Movement here, told the rally, "The Cleaver issue is a racism issue. The Regents don't want a black man to say anything on the campus, except for house niggers. I thought people here would realize this, (Continued on page 7)

So You Think You Have Troubles!

A published Reuters report from Buenos Aires told of a man who went into a hospital in that city to have a bunion removed. The report went, "Fearing the pain during the bunion treatment, the patient asked for a general anesthetic, and this led to a heart attack. Doctors revived him by opening his chest and massaging his heart. He was then put in an oxygen tent, where he suffered a stomach contraction, followed by a rupture of the stomach, and peritonitis. After more treatment, the patient fell off a stretcher on which he was being carried, broke a leg and collarbone, and suffered further damage to his heart, making a tracheotomy necessary. He ended with a breathing tube in his throat, a drainage tube in his stomach, a leg in plaster, an arm in a sling, and the bunion still intact."

Owls Upset Castleton 3-1 Smash Fitchburg 6-1

Are Now 7-1 For The Season

Swain Breaks Scoring Record

On Friday, Oct. 18, The KSC Varsity Soccer team topped its 1968 record to 7-1 by defeating Fitchburg State College, 6-1. Keene's Rik Swain broke the school's scoring record when he scored four times upping his total to 14 goals. The previous record was 12.

The first period of play was sluggish and scoreless. KSC passed poorly and seemed to run in slow motion. This pace remained until the late minutes of the second period when Fitchburg Owls and they started to look alert. They failed to score in the first half and it ended with Fitchburg leading, 1-0.

Coming back from the half-time break, the Owls looked like a new team. Their running and passing game netted them five goals and this completely swamped their opponents. Chuck Stone scored first on an assist from Steve Parker to tie the score. Swain then scored his first goal on an assist from Terry Moore. Steve Parker scored and then Swain scored again and again. The third period ended with KSC firmly in the lead, 5-1.

The Owl's record now stands at 7-1 with the only defeat coming at the hands of Westfield State College. Since the season started, Keene has scored 42 times against its opponents 18 goals. If they can defeat Eastern Connecticut they will be in a tie for the conference lead.

On Tuesday, October 15, 1968, the KSC Varsity Soccer Team played its finest game of the year as it upset an undefeated Castleton State College team, 3-1. Brian Richardson, Keene goalie, played a tremendous game in containing the Vermonters.

The first half was a scoreless

TKE vs. Kappa, playing Football.

Each team continually harassed the other into mistakes. It was a fast moving half which saw 20 shots on goal, 8 for Keene and 12 for Castleton. This first half shut out up to 7 the number of goals Richardson's consecutive shutout periods.

The second half of the game spelled the difference. Keene scored early and late in the third period and Castleton scored in the middle of the period. The first Keene score came on a corner kick from Steve Parker which was headed in by teammate Rik Swain. Keene's lead was shortlived as Richardson of Castleton bounced a shot in over Richardson's head, a little more than a minute later, Parker assisted Bob Casagrande to put KSC in front for good, 2-1.

In the fourth period, Keene scored again on a Parker-Swain corner kick-making the final score 3-1.

When asked for a comment on the game, KSC Coach Summer Joyce said, "This was the finest game any soccer team I have coached has played. If we continue to play this way and suffer no injuries, we'll have a good chance to win it all."

Kettles vs TKE "C"

The Kettles won their first game of the season TKE "C" Thursday, October 17 by a narrow margin of 6-0. Mark Bostes quarterbacked for the Kettles and "Rah Rah" Boonisar for TKE.

The first half saw the Kettles on the move as they went all the way for a touchdown which was later called back because of a penalty. A few minutes later TKE turned the tables and scored on a bomb which was also called back.

Toward the end of the first half Rick Piotrowski took a Bostes pass for the only TD.

The second half displayed great defensive playing on the part of both teams as they held each other to no score. The game dropped TKE "C" to second place and out of their tie for first with TKE "A."

The offense for both teams was slow in getting off the ground.

Everyone keeps talking about academic freedom, educational reform, and credit for the course."

Mark Rudd, chairman of Students for a Democratic Society at Columbia, who is in Berkeley to raise money for Columbia rebels facing court charges, agreed with Goldberg. He told the students that such issues as the Morningside Heights Gym and Columbia's participation in the Institute for Defense Analyses were "symbols" to the Columbia rebels.

"People went into the buildings because of total opposition to racism and imperialism," he added, urging that Berkeley students look at the Cleaver issue as a symbol of racism.

But a student taking the Cleaver course told the rally that the main issue was getting credit for the course and that students should wait and see what the Regents do at their meeting next weekend. He was booed by some members of the crowd.

Once inside the building some students wanted to stage a sit-in until Gilliam accepted the study lists, but a majority opposed it and the group broke up after about an hour.

In another development faculty members at the university's Institute for the Study of the Black Community recommended that the Berkeley faculty ignore the Board of Regents ruling removing credit for the course if Cleaver makes more than one appearance. The faculty at Stanford University voted to support the Berkeley faculty.

Kappa started the first drive late in the first half on three consecutive passes to George Manekas. TKE was able to contain them on an interception by Zankowsky.

The pace picked up in the second half when TKE pushed Kappa back to their goal line and scored two points on a safety. Later in the second half Kappa took a Kappa punt for a 60 yard ruckback and a perfect T.D. set-up for TKE.

Zankowsky then caught a pass from Landry and scored. Kappa battled back with a long drive highlighted by a bomb to Manekas. They were forced to give up the ball on downs and TKE ran out the clock.

Who's Who in the Phys. Ed. Dept.

Our subject for this week's Who's Who is Summer Joyce, Athletic Director of KSC and faculty member of long standing.

Following his education at Springfield College, he taught at Clark University for three years, and at a Baltimore high school for four years.

In 1942 he came to Keene Teachers College. At that time Spaulding Gymnasium, which was built in 1928, was an advanced structure as compared to the gymnasiums in many other colleges in the New England State College Athletic Conference. It was considered, according to Joyce, to be a progressive building and school, because it had a swimming pool.

Times have changed and so has KSC. We now have a new gym—one that better suits the needs of students, faculty and school. Concerning the new gym and working in it, he commented that "it is frustrating because the building is not done, but there are certain things have been caused by investigations, as at the University of Michigan. In others trustees have been confronted by students with demands for upgrading the institutions.

If one were to epitomize the lowest common denominator of a reactionary trustee, it would be hard to come up with someone better than J. Edgar Hoover of FBI fame. The opportunity to confront a school with a demand for his resignation would be welcomed by any activist group at most campuses throughout the country.

Such an opportunity has opened up at George Washington University where Hoover does indeed sit on the board of trustees. The GWU chapter of Students for a Democratic Society is initiating a drive to rid the university of his trusteeship. SDS is doing this in classic confrontation style, and the university will probably soon be the focal point for a large share of national publicity.

The first step in shaking up a campus is funding an issue for which general student support can be aroused. The Hoover issue is one. Just like you don't have to be Jewish to enjoy Levy's Rye Bread, you don't have to be leftist or even liberal to want Hoover off the board.

Petitions are circulating all over the GWU campus this week demanding Hoover's resignation.

On the first day, SDS found itself overwhelmed with support.

The petitions will be presented to the board of trustees. If they act, SDS is in the flexible position of reacting to suit its strength and the university's weakness. If the trustees do not act, a classic confrontation will evolve. From that point, in its standard fashion, SDS will add the rest of the "crisis" picket signs will probably be raised. Other radical demands will most likely be made.

The entire event is timed so that by election day the nationwide general student strike SDS has called will be a natural course of events at GW.

The results were both interesting and encouraging. In these areas, the percentage of increase in the number of passport applicants during the low volume period exceeded the national average. At one point during this period, Chicago had an increase of almost three times the national average.

If we can persuade the public to apply for passports during the months of October, November, December, January and even early February, this will enable us to be of greater service to the public. In addition, it will assist in leveling the seasonal workload of the Passport Office, allow us to work more efficiently, and reduce the overtime which is always required at the peak of the passport application season. This will benefit every U.S. citizen, since it will give him more for his tax dollar.

THE PASSPORT OFFICE NEEDS YOUR HELP IN THE "APPLY EARLY" PROJECT. LAST YEAR 292,070 STUDENTS AND 88,490 TEACHERS APPLIED. I BELIEVE THAT MOST OF THESE TRAVELERS PLAN THEIR TRIPS ABROAD WELL IN ADVANCE. THEY GET TRAVEL BRO-

CHURES, INFORMATION, AND MAKE RESERVATIONS FAR AHEAD OF THEIR DEPARTURE. FOR THESE TRAVELERS THERE IS REALLY NO NEED TO DEMAND "INSTANT PASSPORT SERVICE." THESE ARE THE TRAVELERS I HOPE WE CAN PERSUADE TO APPLY FOR THEIR PASSPORTS DURING OUR LOW VOLUME PERIOD. If you will help us get the word out and convince teachers and students to avoid long lines and crowded conditions at the Passport Agencies and Clerks of Court, you will be helping them, the Passport Office and the American taxpayer.

Overseas Travel

Every spring the Passport Office is flooded with passport applications. Long lines of applicants appear at the Passport Agencies around the country and at the Offices of Clerks of Court who accept passport applications. The volume becomes so heavy at times, that we cannot maintain our normal schedule of issuing passports within three to five days. The pressure during this period is intense—not only on Passport Office personnel but also on the Clerks of Court. The volume of passport applications begins a slow rise in January, with a sharp increase and pressure starting in March, peaking in May-June, and slowly subsiding until a low is reached in December. Last year, in an effort to ease the problem, I enlisted the assistance of those persons interested in overseas travel in New York City and Chicago areas asking them to convey a message to the public. The message that I asked them to convey was this: "IN ORDER TO HELP US GIVE YOU THE BEST POSSIBLE SERVICE, APPLY FOR YOUR PASSPORT AS EARLY AS YOU CAN AND PREFERABLY DURING NOVEMBER, DECEMBER AND JANUARY."

The results were both interesting and encouraging. In these areas, the percentage of increase in the number of passport applicants during the low volume period exceeded the national average. At one point during this period, Chicago had an increase of almost three times the national average.

If we can persuade the public to apply for passports during the months of October, November, December, January and even early February, this will enable us to be of greater service to the public. In addition, it will assist in leveling the seasonal workload of the Passport Office, allow us to work more efficiently, and reduce the overtime which is always required at the peak of the passport application season. This will benefit every U.S. citizen, since it will give him more for his tax dollar.

THE PASSPORT OFFICE NEEDS YOUR HELP IN THE "APPLY EARLY" PROJECT. LAST YEAR 292,070 STUDENTS AND 88,490 TEACHERS APPLIED. I BELIEVE THAT MOST OF THESE TRAVELERS PLAN THEIR TRIPS ABROAD WELL IN ADVANCE. THEY GET TRAVEL BRO-

CHURES, INFORMATION, AND MAKE RESERVATIONS FAR AHEAD OF THEIR DEPARTURE. FOR THESE TRAVELERS THERE IS REALLY NO NEED TO DEMAND "INSTANT PASSPORT SERVICE." THESE ARE THE TRAVELERS I HOPE WE CAN PERSUADE TO APPLY FOR THEIR PASSPORTS DURING OUR LOW VOLUME PERIOD. If you will help us get the word out and convince teachers and students to avoid long lines and crowded conditions at the Passport Agencies and Clerks of Court, you will be helping them, the Passport Office and the American taxpayer.

contemporary problems. "Question Songs," he calls them. In the June '67 issue, Mr. Masten said this of himself: "I'm part of the 'silent generation' (younger than Seeger, older than Dylan). I blew my teens on panty raids and phone booth stuffing, spent my twenties lost in the violence of the boob-tube and was three years into my money grubbin' thirties before I asked my first question. I guess I'm a late bloomer."

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF. (CPS)—Superficially it looked like most other peace marches. There were the disorganized throng gathering

His social conscience is tempered by an understanding of human fallibility—I would say that he is the most honestly self-reflective protest singer I have ever heard. The picture he paints of man is a balanced one, and most happily free of self-righteousness."

in a park, monitors with bullhorns trying to get order, and people selling peace literature. But this march was different. It was not led by draft resisters or pacifists or radicals or hippies, but by soldiers.

The difference showed in many ways. It was a quiet march, without the singing and chanting of slogans that usually mark such affairs. And there were no right-wing hecklers, for who could call these peace marchers cowards? There were about 20,000 who

During election year, scores of politicians present their magic policies to us, the electorate. To be certain that we become as intimate as possible with their political competence and perception, the mass media is overloaded with candidates' theories and promises. We are made cognizant that each has been intelligently educated, thoroughly trained for his potential position, and made wise through the cultivation of his knowledge and experience.

At first glance, it would appear that with such intelligence and soul-searching available in these leaders we are about to enter an era of peace; a long-awaited nirvana in which the common man is allowed to be free from the threat of violence—local, national, and international.

Upon looking closer, unfortunately, it can be recognized that our leaders are simply, in too many respects, reflecting the negative points of those whom they claim to represent. (And this representation apparently is too often one year for us, three years for them.) This negativity is seen in unsuccessful communication, inability to successfully deal with frustration in a sensitive and creative manner, and the all too frequent attitude of "I'm for me, alone."

It would seem that with all the positive attitudes being presented, this "aloneness" (of various geographical and spiritual degrees) which stimulates unnecessary sorrow and death—manifested most dramatically in war—could be banished forever.

Our politicians are joined by their political peers of other countries in calling for peace. Everyone is calling for peace. But this call is nearly obliterated by the thunder of weapons—a man-made thunder, ages old, which many believe is necessary to preserve . . . peace.

Is killing, is war, inherent in man, or are both results of social learning? Is it a mind-numbing thought that it is inherent. If it is a learning process, then we can change it. We are not jungle animals who thrive on the baser instinct of "Survival of the Fittest."

We, the little people, the world's illigitimians, must learn to love, to understand, to punch pillows rather than each other, to touch each other spiritually and mean it. When we have achieved this communion of non-violence, our leaders must be at the same point. We, apparently, must teach them; politico complications notwithstanding.

We CAN work very well without war, thank you.

either marched or attended the rally afterward—half of them were servicemen, reservists, and veterans of Vietnam and previous wars, or both. They set out from the Panhandle or San Francisco's Golden Gate Park, led by about 300 active-duty servicemen, a few in uniform.

There might have been more active duty servicemen marching, but local armed service bases scheduled special marches and maneuvers for this weekend. Leaders of the march had failed to get an injunction against the special maneuvers. One installation, the Presidio of San Francisco, abruptly cancelled all leaves and passes.

Several soldiers went AWOL to join the march. Four of them, accompanied by some of the demonstrators, went to the Presidio afterwards to turn themselves in to military police.

The organizers of the march also had trouble getting information onto some of the bases. One group, including Navy nurse Susan Schnall, who marched at the head of Saturday's parade, dropped leaflets on several Navy installations from a private plane. The Federal Aviation Agency threatened to fine the plane's pilot for flying too low and although a Navy spokesman said no action was planned at present against Lt. Schnall, he added that a "higher authority" might have more to say about the incident.

After a march through the streets of San Francisco that was so long it could only have been planned by military men, the soldiers, veterans, and their civilian supporters held a rally in front of the Civic Center.

Airman First Class Michael Locke, one of the organizers of the demonstration, who marched at its head in uniform, read a regulation from the Secretary of the Air Force saying the uniform should not be worn at demonstrations "in opposition to the deployment of U.S. armed forces."

Locke said, "I can think of no greater cause for which to wear my uniform than the cause of peace." The crowd gave him a standing ovation.

A number of the speakers pointed out that this was the first time servicemen and veterans had openly marched against a war. They said soldiers would exercise their constitutional right to dissent.

Regents Put Down Reagan

Those were the words of California Governor Ronald Reagan after he had pushed his way through a crowd of several hundred students to reach a closed session of the University of California Regents, meeting on the University campus here Thursday and Friday. He was speaking to another Regent but was overheard by a reporter.

That afternoon Reagan made good his threat, proposing an eight-point plan that would have stripped the university faculty of virtually all their power and put the Regents in complete charge.

But most of the Regents wanted to avoid the confrontation they knew this would create, and they voted 13-8 that his motion was out of order. Earlier they voted 14-7, again over Reagan's objections, to delay until their Nov. 22 meeting any more action on the course be-

$12,000 To Re Do Newman Barn

On October 17, Right Reverend Ernest J. Primeau, Roman Catholic Bishop of Manchester, granted permission to the KSC Newman Center to proceed with the renovation of their barn. Along with the permission, Primeau granted the Center $12,000 to finance this renovation.

The barn, located at the rear of the Newman Center, has been vacant since the Center came into full operation three years ago. Father Gerard Vallee, Newman chaplain, was very pleased with the bishop's decision. "I've been waiting seven and a half months for this," he said, "it should really add to what this organization can do for the campus."

Newman members are busily gutting the barn to help defray the construction costs. According to Father Vallee, the fourteen hours work put in by the members over the last two weekends has saved over $450 in demolition expenses. These savings will be reinvested in the renovations.

As to the interior, it will be one large room. It will be equipped with a charcoal pit, public announcement system, and an electric organ. The modern rustic decor will be indirectly lighted. The room will serve many purposes. Socially, Father Vallee can see the room being used for dances, lectures, meetings, movies, and suppers. It will also serve to implement a fuller Newman program and hold Sunday masses. In addition, its use will be offered to other faiths for either religious or social purposes.

The construction is being handled by Tony Carrier, Contractor and the heating of the barn will be done by Cheshire Heat.

Completion of the renovations is expected by Dec. 17, in time for the Newman Christmas party.

Peterson At K.S.C.

Republican gubernatorial candidate Walter Peterson was on the K.S.C. campus last Friday. He met with students and faculty in the Student Union. Many students asked him questions on the various campaign issues.

On Education, Peterson said that we must make sure that all children in New Hampshire have an equal opportunity to attend high quality schools regardless of where they live. He wants to provide more direct aid to the local school districts by making major progress toward fully funding our Foundation Aid to Education Program. He also feels that we must strive to attract and retain good teachers by providing them with higher salaries and better working conditions.

Walter Peterson will be back on campus on Friday, Nov. 1. He will be at the dining commons along with Congressman James Cleveland and Executive Council candidate Bernard Streeter. They will eat dinner with the college Young Republican volunteers at 5 p.m. The college Young Republicans will pass out campaign material at the shopping centers for Peterson and Congressman Cleveland that night.

All those students who would like to take part in Friday night activities should contact one of the following persons: Guy Granger or John Cass in Hamers, Martha Folger in Fiske, Joanna Olsen in Monadnock, Jay Tutthill in Monadnock, Pat Ritzenthaler or Susan Bateman in Randall.

McCarthy At Peterborough

Senator Eugene McCarthy spoke in behalf of Democratic Congressional candidate David Hoeh in Peterborough on Saturday afternoon.

The Senator said that Hoeh had become "a symbol of my campaign in New Hampshire, and since Chicago, has become a symbol throughout the nation."

The Senator's appearance with Mr. Hoeh at the Peterborough Historical Society was one stop on a tour of support through the Second Congressional District. Hoeh had been Senator McCarthy's campaign manager in New Hampshire.

Senator McCarthy told the 200 persons in the audience that they should not yet "claim credit for change and progress" within the political system. "That would be like being satisfied with being halfway up the hill."

Curfew Change Accepted

A committee of the Women's Council to review the curfew change petition, offered the following proposal last Tuesday night: Freshman first semester, 11:00 weekdays, and 1:00 weekends; second semester 12:00 weekdays, 2:00 weekends. The committee further recommended that upper class women have "self imposed" curfew. Members of that committee are Debbie Rogers, chairman, Jean Cotti, Jeanne Chase, Wendy Maxwell, Joanne Raymond, and Marilyn Treat.

The proposal was voted on and passed by a vote of 41 to 5. Becky Raynes, president of the council, asked for volunteers for a new committee to review the possibilities of various systems to lock the dormitory doors after hours.

The Council resolved to vote on whatever proposal this committee introduces at the next meeting, and will at that time, if the

Dr. Roman J. Zorn, president of Keene State College for the past four and one-half years, will become president of Nevada Southern University in Las Vegas, Nev., effective March 1. His appointment was announced Monday afternoon in Reno, Nev., by trustees of the University of Nevada System.

Dr. Zorn, 51, came to Keene State College in 1964 — one year after the State Legislature made Keene and Plymouth Teachers' Colleges a division of the University of New Hampshire System. A native of Wisconsin, he was dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Rhode Island when appointed to the Keene State College post.

During his presidency, the College has carried out a $10 million construction program to keep pace with a 62 percent increase in enrollment since 1964 and a major expansion of its academic programs. These include five new major liberal arts curricula and a two-year degree program in industrial technology.

Trustees of the University of New Hampshire, in accepting Dr. Zorn's resignation, warmly commended him for "providing outstanding leadership during a period of unparalleled growth and development."

Board Chairman Fred W. Hall, Jr. of Rochester said a committee of trustees and Keene State College faculty and students will be appointed to select Dr. Zorn's successor. Arrangements to oversee the College's day-to-day operations in the interim between Dr. Zorn's departure and the installation

Faculty Evaluation Considered

The Student Senate has appointed a committee to study the pros and cons of some form of faculty evaluation by students.

Don Nelson, president of the senate, brought the proposal before the senators at the regular meeting Monday, Oct. 21.

The members of the committee are Don Therrien, Bob Anderson and Ron Taylor.

In other business, Frank L'Honnemedieu presented a proposal from the Hennessey Hall Co-ordinating Committee. The proposal requested that women be allowed to visit the men's living quarters.

The proposal was referred to the Student Affairs Committee of the Senate.

proposal is accepted by the Council, forward the matter to the Student Senate.

The committee hopes to hear student suggestions, and has already approached Dean Charles Smith of the Housing office. Members of that committee are Gerry Tenney, Carol Aleksie, Linda Livingston, Judy Henderson, Pam Burrage, Carolyn Keck, Marjorie Shaw, Phyllis Sullivan, Valerie King, Kathie Kneel.

Jack Corey, one of the College Senate Representatives, attended the Women's Council meeting.

L. to r.: Mike O'Shaughnessy, Marty Nitschelm, and Rick Roy who went out last Thursday night to campaign for Dave Hoeh. These are 3 of the many students who have campaigned for Hoeh.
