NOW! We have a choice

We're supporting McLANE FOR GOVERNOR

Malcolm McLane's candidacy offers new hope to the people, to the cities and towns of the Granite State. He has more elective, legislative experience, education and civic service than both his opponents combined. For voters concerned over New Hampshire's endangered University system, natural resources, its inequitable tax structure, concerned over the problems of the elderly, the unemployed and the needy, McLane's candidacy is more than welcome...it is needed. We now have a choice.

Hollies to perform Friday

The Hollies, noted mainly for their many middle-sixties hits and former member Graham Nash, will be coming to KSC Friday, Oct. 20, at 8 p.m.

The five man group now consists of Tony Hicks, Bernard Clavert, and Bobby Elliot—all original members—plus new members Terry Sylvestre and Nikael Rickfors.

Formed in 1962, the Hollies were a major group in England, but never were as popular in America. Their first hit here was "Bus Stop," in 1966, which was followed by "On a Carousel," "Look Through Any Window," and "Stop, Stop, Stop."

They recently made a small comeback with the album "Distant Light," which contains their hit "Long Cool Woman in a Black Dress."

Also coming are the Park Street Under and folksinger Danny O'Keefe.

The concert, sponsored by Keene State College Athletics Inc., will be in the Spaulding Gymnasium, and will cost $4 a ticket. Tickets are available at the Student Union, or at the door.

NHCUC seen 'important'

By RICK HARTFORD
Equinox Staff Writer

A New Hampshire College and University Council (NHCUC) awareness survey conducted here last spring showed that more than two-thirds of those responding consider the NHCUC important or very important.

Criticism from faculty members included comments that "it should be much better publicized," and "transportation, distance, time problems are a drawback."

The survey was sent to 141 faculty and administrators by the Office of Public Information last spring. Some 53 responses were received, or 38 per cent.

One faculty member said, "The pooling of resources ought to be a valuable asset (but) it seems to be a paper organization at present."

About one-third of those replying did not know the name of KSC's Consortium coordinator (Dr. Thomas C. Havill).

The questionnaire was also sent to the faculty and administrators of all 10 NHCUC schools. Seventy-four per cent of all who replied rated the NHCUC important or very important.

Storaska gives advice on defense

Frederic Storaska

Frederic Storaska, a national authority on the subject of assaults on women, gave KSC women advice last week on how to protect themselves from assaulters peeping toms, obscene phone calls, exhibitionists, and even dates.

Storaska has been doing research on the subject for some eight years and is the author of the book "To Be or not to Be Raped" which is soon to be published.

A third degree black belt in Shotokan Karate, Storaska outlined four main theories of protection against rape or assault.

He said that a woman usually has a weapon in her pocketbook, the first thing to be dropped during an assault. Tear gas and mace are fine if the wind doesn't blow, he said.

He said that in 90 per cent of all assault cases, the weapon is taken away from the woman and used against her.

MARTIAL ARTS: He encouraged the learning of karate, jujitsu, and judo over all other methods. "It's not pretty what you do," but, "It's not called fighting, it's winning," he said.

assaulted and was stabbed to death in front of a crowd of people.

STRUGGLING: "It further satiates the man," he said.

If the victim leads the assaulter on until she can react with no danger to herself, it may take him three through five minutes to become sexually stimulated, instead of five to ten seconds. Also, it could be a robber, not a rape, and struggle could induce the robber to seriously hurt his victim, while all he wanted was her money, he added.

Storaska demonstrated and explained to the audience how a girl can render her attacker harmless or dead.

Using several girls from the audience, he explained how a girl, by pretending to caress the attacker's face while his arms are around her, can easily reach up and put out his eyes with her thumbs or fingers.

Another method explained was while the victim is being held from behind, the girl can reach back gently, supposedly to fondle the male's testicles, squeeze one, and send the attacker instantly into shock, or kill him.

Some methods of defense that don't

Michael Franklin gets KSC teacher award

Michael J. Franklin, KSC instructor in special education, is the winner of KSC's second annual Distinguished Teacher Award.

The award, held a secret until its presentation, was given to Franklin at the Parents Day Honors Convocation held last Sunday.

Franklin, a New York City native, joined the Keene State College faculty three years ago and works primarily in developing programs for training teachers whose pupils have learning disabilities or emotional disturbances.

Franklin received a B.A. in literature from the State University of New York at Buffalo and a master of education degree in special education from the University of Virginia.

He has been active in the Keene Learning Community and last year began a demonstration classroom for teaching disabled children from local and regional elementary schools. He assisted in developing a new education curriculum—the bachelor of science in education—which began implementation a year ago.

The Distinguished Teacher Award is given by the KSC Alumni Association for "excellence in classroom teaching, an interest in the intellectual development of students, ability to inspire students, integrity, the encouragement of independent thinking, rapport with students, and a positive attitude toward students and student achievement."

The first recipient of the award was Dr. Ann C. Peters, former chairwoman of the KSC Mathematics Department, who retired last year.

Also honored at the Convocation were the top four freshmen of the class of '75. They were Mrs. Amy Bernier, majoring in elementary education; Ingrida Dusen, a secondary education major; Leslie A. Fraser, a music education major, and Carol N. Smith, majoring in English.

Granite State Awards were given to Cleon E. Heald, a realtor serving his 6th term in the New Hampshire Legislature; and Kenneth F. Zwicker, the assistant publisher of the Keene Evening Sentinel for the past 17 years.

Nixon must be defeated

As Arthur Schlesinger once put it, bombing Vietnam to destroy the Communists is like weeding a flower garden with a bulldozer.

Indeed, Vietnam is beginning to look like it was devastated by a monstrous bulldozer—27 million craters, 74 per cent of the timber gone, thousands of acres destroyed by napalm and rendered useless for years to come.

However, it is not only the physical landscape that is being destroyed beyond hope, it is also the spirit of the human beings that claw desperately to adapt to the barren wasteland that was once their country.

Each month, 135,000 more civilians are killed, maimed, or left homeless, while countless more watch on as thousands of vicious pellet bombs and booby traps—cruel devices that can wait for years for their victim—rain down from the sky.

Each month, the once fertile lands that the farmers grew their rice on are deserted to the malaria infested bomb craters.

Each month, villages are deserted, surrendered to the mutilated bodies that are melted and twisted like pieces of tin.

who would want to live in a land like this? And who would have the calculating and cold heart that would make it such a land?

It is senseless to destroy a country, to make it uninhabitable and to spend 20,000 American lives to accomplish it.

Yet, Richard Nixon has done just that. And he has done it with pride.

There are no longer any words strong enough to describe President Nixon, or his intolerable conduct.

The only thing strong enough to bring the message home is action. That action must be the defeat of Richard Nixon in November, and the election of George McGovern.

November 7th must be a day when America says to the rest of the world, "We have made a mistake, and we admit it. Let's bind the wounds and rebuild what we have ruined."

And January 21 must be a day when George McGovern says to America, "The war is over, and we have won—won back the respect that Richard Nixon threw away."

Either way—Nixon or McGovern—America will never be the same again. But let's take the positive candidate, and the positive step.

The choice is clear. It is George McGovern, and only he, who can stop the vicious chain of mistakes that has plagued us for ten years.

'Things I'd like to see'

To the Editor,

Things I'd like to see at KSC, but, alas, will never be as long as ignorance and apathy are free:

1) More money for the media, specifically, Kronicland Theatre; both of these student organizations are drastically short in their funds—in the fall of 1969 the Kronicland received $13,000. This year they received $8,850 and the student body has suffered for it. No color pictures, relatively poor quality candid, a soft-cover high school type cover. What is the reason? Here's a big one; 2 years ago the Social Council received $6,000. This year they are getting $14,000 for those terrible everybody-sit-on-your-ass-and-beg concerts. Let's can that fly-by-night stuff and invest in something that we all benefit from; a good yearbook.

The theater is in the same boat. The fall of '70 Theater received $11,050. The fall of '72 they received $6,000. Students, you're cheating yourselves. The plays are free, entertaining and a lot of the time provocative. A lot of little special interest groups and a couple of big ones are siphoning off funds that in these times of tight money should go to organizations doing the most for the students as a whole. 'Nuf said.

2) I'd like to see a student senate more concerned with a place to think than a place to drink; a step toward this quality control is the publishing of the students overall evaluation of their teachers. A; pub is a good idea, but I think it's too late; you'd just be fooling yourselves.

3) A real honest-to-goodness debate of the issues pertinent to this school system by our "learned" faculty. If you're just here to parrot the books in your classes or for the money, fine. Be men and women enough to admit it. But don't try to bullshit us into believing everything is rosy and that you are in complete agreement with everything your colleagues are doing. They do that in Washington; we don't need it here.

4) Both Socrates and Dick Gregory are in agreement that if you clean the body, you clean the mind. What as professional educators are you doing about this. Even the citadel of physical education is an eyesore and a disgrace to the building it's in. I refer to the so-called exercise room in the PE building. It's so poorly equipped I'd be ashamed to bring anyone not of this school in there. It looks more like the town dump than a well-equipped exercise room.

This is a place that both sexes could use and would cost the least to maintain.

Why Nixon? Many supporters can't answer

By ERIC MALONEY
Equinox News Editor

In an election year where the people of America are finally offered a choice, it is disheartening to see so many citizens choosing without asking why.

One of the major frustrations of the McGovern workers is the thoughtless support that families are giving to President Nixon. These people, when asked why they support the President, are most apt to answer, "I don't know... I just like him."

When further pressed, they are likely to rationalize their stand, offering weak arguments that can't be countered, because the disorganizer is often told that the person doesn't want to talk about it. His mind is made up, and cannot be changed.

The question, of course, is why so many Americans are becoming such blind followers.

One main reason can be found in a recent survey by Psychology Today, which shows that, although half the people questioned were unsatisfied with the way the country is being run, they are satisfied with their personal lives. They do not wish to be bothered by political matters, as is shown is the Gallup poll that revealed that less than 50 per cent of those questioned had ever heard of the Watergate affair.

In other words, they have been lulled into a false sense of security with the administration's rhetoric about ending the war, fighting inflation, and solving the problems of crime and drugs. The government has used its position of being the authority respected and revered as a means of discrediting the opposition, and

I mean—how long does it take a dumbbell to disintegrate or what is the half-life of a barbell? One initial informed investment would set that place straight. Right now it looks like it was furnished by Klem Kadiddlehopper.

5) Finally, I'd like to see a school newspaper support a real Independent who does not hedge on issues or reject priorities. God, at Randall Hall, I tried to pin McLane down on abortion, pot, mental health, the school system. Each time he agreed with someone else or didn't give an opinion or said that "yes, certainly, that deserves my close attention as governor." Also, it's time for the Equinox to return to real reporting and informing. If I want opinion, I'll listen to the old lady on Open Mike talk about the weather. I'm sick of simplistic editorials offering no viable alternatives to the anti-taxers except a man who wants to ride in on the business profits tax surplus. Come home, Equinox.

ON THE HOLLIES CONCERT

To the Editor,

The Student Senate has been designated as the organization to oversee all campus entertainment type functions. Certain rules must be abided by in order for any student organization to sponsor an event.

The Hollies concert, to be held Friday, October 20, is sponsored by the Keene State College Athletics, Inc. This is not a student organization. However, under the new policy governing group social events on campus, all social events, regardless of their sponsor, must comply.

Student Senate is aware of the fact that no student organization is responsible for this upcoming concert. We are hopeful that the KSCA will enjoy success in their program while complying with the new policy.

NOT VOTING POLITICAL ACT

To the Editor:

Voting in 1972 clearly defines the future of the air war—the future of the Thieu regime—the future of new-heathly 18 and 19 year old bodies.

Some believe that a Nixon victory enhances the possibilities for change through revolution. Such logic seems historically and economically unsound. I don't believe there will be change in a predominantly middle- and working-class society marshalled by Nixon.

Some are not voting as a refusal to participate in politics.

Voting in the 1964 Presidential elections was surely only a political act.

Voting in 1968 was a political act. Wanting to end war and not voting for George McGovern is a voluntary participation in the perpetuation of the war and in your brothers' deaths.

Not voting this year is a very political act.

WOOF WOOF Woof woof woof woof art

By LINDA NILSEN
and RON BOISVERT

Since dogs invaded KSC last year, it has been commonplace to see two or three of the frolicking canines outside the union, or even one sitting next to you in class.

Recently, however, the presence of puppies in the dorms, the Student Union, and classroom buildings have created quite a stir.

Finally, last week the president's office issued a ban on all pets other than seeing eye dogs in all buildings on campus because of "possible annoyance, safety and health hazards."

Leo F. Redfern, KSC president, said that in addition to the possible disruption of classes or meetings, there is a problem of health and sanitation, plus the possibility of the person in charge being held liable to a law suit if panic or injury results.

College rules had previously kept pets only out of dormitories, while state law barred animals from eating places such as the commons or the Union snack bar. Not only is it against the rules to bring a dog into the dorm, but it is a cruel thing to do, according to Mrs. Jane Bird, Randall Hall housemother.

"I love dogs myself," she said, "but it shows a lack of consideration for the dog and for other people to bring it into the dorm."

A similar view was expounded by Douglas F. Mayer, director of the Student Union and adog owner himself, who said that even though a rule exists dogs still occasionally get into the snack bar.

"Students should be considerate enough to keep their dogs at home," he said.

The dog craze really began two springs ago when a number of students began escorting puppies around campus. Many of these are still around this year, although they've grown considerably since then.

Today one can see any number of German shepherds, beagles, terriers, sheep dogs, Irish setters, Great Danes and a host of mongrels all over campus.

Apparently a number of puppies, some of them a breed of Labrador and Husky, were brought to campus and merely given away to all too willing students somewhere along the line. Some even survived in dorms for a while.

Such was the case of Alexis, who now has retreated to the off-campus domicile of Brad Lizotte, a junior music major.

Alexis, who, according to Lizotte, doesn't eat a lot, but "sure goes a lot," spoke her first word (bark?) when Prof. William Pardus said she had to be removed from his music class.

It's apparent that Alexis won't be attending any more music classes. A similar fate will befall the dog who attended one class so regularly that the professor was considering giving him credit for the course.

But why do people keep dogs? Mainly for companionship, according to George Beauregard, a KSC sophomore and the owner of two Irish setters.

"They really are good company, especially if you live alone," he said.

Beauregard also uses his dogs for breeding purposes. Both are pure-breed females (Shannon and Sheba) and are worth $100 and $150 respectively.

They are inexpensive to feed, Beauregard explained, costing only $15 a month.

Puppies on campus have indeed created a stir. Only one thing is for sure. KSC's canine friends will have to rely on the fur on their backs rather than the heat in KSC's buildings to keep them warm this winter.

Look, son, I've had enough of your lip.

Columnist offers preposterous football predictions

by Pete Hanrahan

The NFL Football season heads into its sixth week on Sunday. While Miami is currently the only undefeated team, they have apparently lost starting quarterback Bob Griese for the season. This week's action features several key contests and this sportswriter is going to really stick his neck out by making the following predictions:

GREEN BAY over ATLANTA - Both are smart, young teams. Give the Pack an edge on the rushing of John Brockington and MacArthur Lane.

JETS over BALTIMORE - Joe Namath is hot, and passed for 495 yards when the two teams met in September. A long afternoon for Johnny Unitas.

MIAMI over BUFFALO - O.J. Simpson is off and flying, but even with Earl Morrall at quarterback, the Dolphins have too much balance for the improving Bills.

LOS ANGELES over CINCINNATI - The Rams have All-Pro Roman

Gabriel in top form at quarterback, complimented by a tough defense. In a real battle, look for the Rams to prevail.

CLEVELAND over HOUSTON - Both clubs have quarterback woes, but Cleveland holds an edge defensively.

WASHINGTON over DALLAS - Sonny Jurgensen has won the quarterbacking job and has three fine receivers to compliment the running of Larry Brown. Dallas is tough all-around, but misses Roger Staubach. The Washington defense will tell the story.

OAKLAND over DENVER - The Broncos have run into a lot of tough luck, and have scored near upsets in their last two tries. More tough luck is in store.

SAN FRANCISCO over NEW ORLEANS - The 49'ers have been disappointing, but should have enough to top the winless Saints.

KANSAS CITY over PHILADELPHIA - After the upset loss to the Bengals, the Chiefs will be out for blood. And the Eagles have never flown much lower.

GIANTS over ST. LOUIS - The Giants and Cards are about equal defensively, but the fine performances of Norm Snead and Charlie Evans have given the Giant offense a big lift.

DETROIT over SAN DIEGO - The Lions are smarting from Monday's loss to Green Bay. They'll feel better Sunday.

MINNESOTA over CHICAGO - (Monday night) With Fran Tarkenton leading the way, the Minnesota offense will hold an edge. And defense is the Vikes' forte.

Owls top Gorham, 8-0 ...

By JASON HANDFIELD

Keene State College ran their record to 8-1 by defeating Gorham State 8-0 in the Owls initial conference game. Again the Owls were led by the boys' from Slough, England, as Mick Rooney and Graham Jones each tallied three times. Both now have eight goals apiece for the season.

The other tallies for Keene came from Mark McEvoy, Klaus Weber and fullback Don Kozera, who picked up his first goal of the season.

Keene goalie, Brad Sterner, a native of Manchester, Conn. picked up his fifth shutout of the season with help from Larry Badger in the second half. The always tough underrated defense composed of ballplayers such as Kozera, Jerry Leavitt, Todd Sliggy and Dick Bush kept Gorham from penetration Owl territory.

The booters of coach Ron Butcher have a busy week ahead facing Eastern Conn., another conference foe on Tuesday, Nason College of Maine on Thursday, and a home encounter with Lyndon State on Saturday.

... and Castleton, 4-1

By RUSS REISCH

The Keene booters won their 3rd game in a row and 7th of the season against one loss with a 4-1 win over the Castleton State Spartans. The Owls have now outscored their eight opponents 31-7, at the half way point of the season.

The first half began with some seesaw action and continued as both teams felt each other out. Each team managed good attacks but until Mickey Rooney scored there were few shots taken. Rooney scored on a penalty shot from ten yards out into the left corner at 17:00.

At 35:00 of the second half, Pete Roos scored a goal for Castleton to tie the game one apiece. Teammate Vass assisted. But that's as close as Castleton got, as Graham Jones sent a pass to Hal Shortleeve who scored at 30:00.

Keene got their third goal at 25:00 on a shot by Rooney that was going wide of the net, but a Castleton player who was attempting to clear the ball accidentally kicked it into the open net past a surprised goalie. Since Jones was closest to the ball, he got the goal his sixth. He leads the team in this category.

The whole second half was filled with spirited action and good playing by both teams with most of the 37 shots on the goalies taken in this period.

Graham Jones set up Mark McEvoy for a tally at 22:25 to end out the scoring. Jones, in the right corner, booted the ball across the goal crease and McEvoy who was standing at the left post, deflected the ball into the open net.

Near the end of the game, Jones injured his leg and was assisted off the field.

According to Coach Butcher he will play Saturday in Keene's first conference match, against the University of Maine, at Gorham.

Spartan goalie Dan Adams was the busiest of the two netminders as he handled 18 saves on 25 Owls shots. Keene goalie Brad Steurer marked up 7 saves on 12 opponent shots.

TKE A leads intramurals

By STANLEY SPIROU

The Intramural football season is now in its final regular season week, with TKE A boasting a perfect 8-0 record. TKE leads the National Division while Alpha A, with a 7-1 mark, is setting the pace in the American Division. Alpha's only loss came at the hands of TKE-A and this afternoon the two teams will square off again in what promises to be a hard fought battle.

Harriers defeat Plymouth

Coach Bob Taft's Cross Country Owls rolled to a convincing 23-36 win over arch-rival Plymouth State yesterday. Plymouth's Len Hall won the race, held at KSC's home course at Robin Hood Park, in 25:50. Hall's time bettered Keith Martell's record over the 4.8 mile course by nineteen seconds.

But for KSC, depth proved to be the determining factor. Bob Brown was second for Keene, and Dave Millson third. After Plymouth's Bob Rindfleisch crossed the line, Keene veterans Keith Martell, Glenn Braunhardt and Pete Hanrahan tied for fifth to sew up the win.

PSC's Tom Atherton took eighth, but four more Owls finished before the fourth Plymouth runner appeared, as (LATE) The Keene State Soccer Owls kept their NESAC Tourny hopes alive with a 3-0 win over Eastern Connecticut yesterday. Hal Shortleeve scored twice on corner kicks from Graham Jones, one in the first half, and one in the second. Later in the second half Mickey Rooney scored on a hard, 30-foot shot. Brad Steurer, playing the entire contest in goal for Keene, played what was described as a "fantastic game" by Coach Ron Butcher.

Field Hockey Teams beat Dartmouth

Dartmouth, 6-1, last Tuesday. The Dartmouth team, though not inexperienced, was playing the first field hockey game in their school's history.

And it showed. Their over-aggressive defense made possible a number of fast breaks for Keene, resulting in the lopsided score.

Sandwiching Marshall's four tallies were goals by Linda Scrempf and Linda Maree with an assist by Sue Nevin. In the junior varsity encounter, Juli Schaeffer scored twice and Trudy Peterson had a goal and an assist to pace the 3-0 shutout.

"Our playing was sporadic at times but still together enough to blank Dartmouth," Coach Cathi Savoie said. "The defense did an excellent job of feeding the forwards, thereby making the three determining fast breaks possible."

Last Thursday, the varsity and junior varsity scored identical 1-1 ties against visiting Bridgewater State College. Although controlling the ball most of the game, Keene could score only once on the rain drenched field. The goal was by Karen Cushing on a pass from Nancy Marietta.

The junior varsity goal was scored by Juli Schaeffer on a solid drive from a short corner.

"This game was the turning point of our season," JV coach Savoie said. "It was an all out team effort, every player showing and understanding team effort and displaying individual ability."

Ruggers beaten by Dartmouth in a surprisingly close match

The KSC Rugby Club "A" team lost to the Dartmouth "B" team 14-3 and the KSC B's lost to the Dartmouth C's 24-0, Saturday in Hanover.

The KSC A's playing their best game ever, according to player-coach Bruce Stephenson, lost a very hard, closely fought game. The scoring opened with Dartmouth scoring a try about 15 minutes into the game when a good line movement penetrated the KSC back line. The try went unconverted but gave Dartmouth a 4-0 lead. This was the only scoring of the first half as the KSC pack (forwards) began to completely dominate the Dartmouth pack.

The second half saw Keene drive repeated toward Dartmouth's goal only to be stopped by their own errors. Dartmouth then struck quickly by driving the ball near the Owl goals. Twice the KSC pack beat Dartmouth in scrums on the Owl five yard line but inexplicably missed kick by Keene flew into the stomach of a Dartmouth forward who fell and scored. Again the conversion missed but Dartmouth held a strong 8-0 lead.

The KSC pack came back relentlessly driving Dartmouth back to their 25 yard line where the greencommitted a penalty. Bruce Stephenson goaled the penalty kick and the score was 8-3 with twenty minutes to play.

The Keene scrum continued to overpower Dartmouth, driving the ball within the Dartmouth twenty-five a number of times. The Owls inexperience led to painful mistakes and the repeated charges came to naught.

Dartmouth iced the victory with five minutes to play, when their winger set off on a fifty yard run, being missed by half a dozen Owl tacklers who tried grab him high. He scored under the posts and the kick was made easily. Dartmouth had the win, 14-3.

The Owl B's lacking experience and cohesion, were completely overpowered in the second half, losing 24-0 after being down only 8-0 at the half.

Dartmouth was very impressed with the Keene forwards. Dartmouth Match Secretary Trevor O'Neil said that the Dartmouth A's would like to play us simply to match the packs. Trevor said good packs are hard to find and Keene has one of the best he has seen.

Coach Stephenson simply said, "We played a great game, the forwards were excellent and all the backs lack experience. The team should be proud of the way they played today."

The ruggers do not play this weekend but instead travel to New York City to watch the New Zealand National Rugby Team play a New York Metropolitan Rugby Union side. Anyone is welcome and those wishing to go should contact members of the rugby team.

The ruggers next outing is Sunday, Oct. 29 against the University of New Hampshire in Durham.

Mass. Meet ruled no contest

Coach Bob Taft split his cross country team Saturday to participate in two invitational meets. The Varsity squad ran at the Merrimack Invitational at North Andover, Mass. The Merrimack event, however, was later declared no contest.

The Junior Varsity did a commendable job by finishing fourth in the ten-team Plymouth Invitational, running against varsity teams. Plymouth won the event, grabbing the first three places. Panther runners Len Hall, Tom Atherton and Bob Rindfleisch all bettered Hall's course record.

After a heated coach's meeting, the decision was made to call the meet no contest.

As near as can be estimated, Glenn Braunhardt and Keith Martell, who were in the misdirected group, would have finished somewhere in the top ten. Bob Brown was the first runner to complete the course correctly, so he would have been at least 13th. Pete Hanrahan was 16th for Keene while Dave Millson and Rocky Stone were 18th and 24th respectively.

The Owls would have been a clear-cut second of nineteen teams, losing only to Albany State, a strong squad which had wrapped up the top five positions before the mixup.

19-team Merrimack meet.

With less than a mile to go in the race, the leaders in the 129-man pack were directed by the Merrimack College hockey coach to take an incorrect turn. After 12 men had passed that point, the coach realized his mistake. He then directed the rest of the pack in the right direction. The top 12 then finished the race, crossing the finish line well before the rest of the pack had arrived. The remainder of the runners then finished the course correctly.

For Keene, Don McCarthy was 8th, John Barrows was 10th and Chuck Torpey finished 15th. Coach Taft was especially pleased with the performances of these three freshmen, all of whom received medals. Finishing the scoring for the Owls were Mike Marino 30th, Kris Roberts 33rd, Tom Keegan 34th and Jerry Dee 35th. Tommy Greenwood, KSC's lone runner in the Plymouth JV Invitational, finished second. Greenwood won last year's JV event on the same course.

For the top six Owl runners, it was a very disappointing day. Taft had hoped this team would pick up a trophy at the

JV Owl booters win two, tie one — remain unbeaten

The JV soccer Owls retained their unbeaten record by tying Dean Junior College, 3-3 in a last minute, come from behind effort, last Tuesday.

The first half produced many near misses for both teams, as control of the game fluctuated first from one team then to the other. Dean scored first when Keene goalie Jeff Morrill misjudged a high ball and a Dean forward slammed it home. Harry Price scored for the Owls ten minutes later on a loose ball in front of the goal. The play was set up by James McCormick who bothered Dean on left flank all afternoon.

Dean scored again just as the horn sounded ending the first half. Although it was hotly disputed, the referee awarded the goal to Dean.

Dean increased their lead to 3-1 in the second half when one of their forwards hit an apparently harmless shot from twenty yards out. Morrill was screened on the shot however, and the ball sailed over his head into the goal.

Ten minutes later, James McCormick reponed with a goal on a good pass from Dan Sherbourne. The goal seemed to ignite the Owls as they began to dominate play. One near miss then another became the pattern of play.

With ten minutes remaining, McCormick rose to the occasion. After a solo charge through the defense, he scored the equalizing goal.

The game got rough as each team tried in vain for the winning score. As tempers flared, incidents on the field culminated with the ejection of the Dean goalie.

"This was our toughest game of the year and we really rose to the occasion, especially when we were down 3-1 with only twenty minutes to play," coach Steve Parker said. Jim McCormick was really good with a mixture of skill and toughness, but the man to watch was center-forward Emerson Coleman. He didn't put a foot wrong and really deserves a great deal of credit."

Keene 6 - Canaan 0

Last Thursday, the Owls outplayed Canaan College by a convincing 6-0 margin.

"This was probably our best performance of the year in terms of team cohesion," Parker said after the game. "Our defense was superb and we converted to offense very easily. James McCormick and Marc Watkins scored very impressive goals from good build-up plays, and were well supported in the scoring bracket by Planta and Morgan."

Keene 7 - Leicester 0

"Well, I guess you can't play well every game, and we certainly didn't play well today," coach Steve Parker said after the Owls 7-0 win over Leicester Junior College last Saturday.

Although the Owls may not have played well, they did manage to score seven goals without reply and raise their record to an unbeaten 5-0-1. The first half saw four goals find the Leicester net. First Watkins headed in a McCormick center pass, then Zeke Ramanek scored an assisted goal. Lyman Morgan made it 3-0 on a good pass from Marc Watkins. Colin Wilcox added a "bullet of a shot" just before half time to make it 4-0.

In the second half, Tom Rhodes scored a goal from close range. Mike Planta followed with a penalty conversion. To complete the scoring John O'Day, a relative newcomer to the team, scored his first goal of the season from close range.

The games' dichotomy was summed up by Parker's comment, "What can you say when you play bad but still score seven goals?"

Why Nixon?

defending itself against charges of dishonesty and corruption.

Many Nixon people, therefore, by shutting off any arguments made by the McGovern forces, are actually trying to prevent their thin walls of security from toppling. The charges of radicalism against McGovern have made them fear the possibilities of change, which might shake what little stability they have, and have compelled them to stay with the "less dangerous" status quo.

It is unlikely that McGovern will be able to snap Americans out of this lethargy before November 7, but if he doesn't he cannot possibly win. Until the American populace wakes up, and seriously asks itself, "Why Richard Nixon?", President Nixon has the election all but sewed up.

However, if McGovern should suddenly and dramatically force a change in the attitude of America, President Nixon is in trouble. For when you get right down to it, there is no legitimate reason for giving Nixon another four years. He has done nothing for this country, and has only managed to kill 20,000 more Americans in Vietnam, impose wage-price controls while allowing large corporations price increases, veto numerous progressive measures such as education appropriations and welfare reform, and slowly transform America into a corrupt and repressive nation. The question "What has

McGovern, on the other hand, offers an end to the war and an end to the divisiveness and hostility that the war has caused. Although many of his proposed programs are untested and subject to much debate, they are intended as a means to relieve the suffering of so many people in America, rather than as a favor to the pentagon and the large corporations.

America has allowed McGovern to be scrutinized and picked apart—the examination of Mr. Nixon is long overdue. Nixon has avoided the scrutiny so far in this campaign, by maintaining an aloof attitude and refusing to admit that there is a Democrat even running, but the time will come sooner or later when it will be unavoidable.

So, perhaps in the end it is Richard Nixon who is the issue, for it is Richard Nixon who is the war and the divisiveness. As people ask themselves, "Why Vietnam?" they should ask themselves "Why Richard Nixon?"

And if their answer to the first question is "no reason", then the answer to the second query should be the same.

And if there is no question, then there should be no complaints when it suddenly dawns upon America that Richard Nixon is no answer.

Douglas raps Nixon policy

By RICK HARTFORD
Equinox Staff Writer

"President Nixon is a very stupid man," said actress, author, opera singer, and politician Helen Gahagan Douglas Wednesday.

Wife of actor-director Melvin Douglas, she has been involved in California politics for a number of years, and was defeated by Nixon for a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives in 1948. She is now involved with the McGovern for President campaign.

"Nixon's one ambition is for power," she said.

"He resorts to those techniques that have served him before."

She was referring to accusations made by Nixon that Jerry Voorhis, whom he defeated for the House of Representatives, and herself had been "fellow travelers," or communists.

While Nixon was supposed to end the war, he extended it by going into Cambodia, she said. The war has "desensitized" young people, and they are "fed on an atmosphere of violence," she stated.

Speaking on the military budget, she said that McGovern wants to take some of the fat out of the budget and distribute it around the country, while Nixon has spent 60 billion tax dollars on the war.

No money for education bills, but enough for more bombs, she said.

She said the "attack on the press" is an "erosion of liberty," when the Supreme Court decides a newsman has to divulge information.

"I view with great concern this undertaking," she said of the breaking into the Democratic headquarters. It was not the doing of overzealous college boys, but the work of trained men, she said.

The money for the Watergate affair "goes right into the White House, but he (Nixon) doesn't know anything about it," she said. For two years there has been an effort to sabotage the democratic party, she told the audience.

The fundamental pillars of liberty are being attacked, she stated, when homes can be invaded, and people can be arrested and held without bail.

It's "very easy to copy the thing you abhor," she said of totalitarianism.

Would cost state $1 million

Crowley supports $100 tuition cut

By MARTY GINGRAS
Equinox Exec. Editor

A $100 tuition reduction for University in-state students is one of my goals if elected, Roger Crowley, Democratic candidate for governor, told KSC students last Thursday.

Crowley said that the reduction would cost the state government about $1 million.

He listed his three priorities as the providing of relief to property owners in New Hampshire, the restoration of cuts to foundations aids, and more grants to school building aids.

Crowley explained the Homestead Exemption Plan which he said would give home owners tax exemption of $2000 on the value of their property. This exemption would not be given to business, industrial or out-of-state people who own seasonal homes, he said.

He added that the exemption would be a flat $2000 rather than a graduated one, saying that a person who owns a $100,000 home is more able to pay taxes than someone who owns a $10,000 home.

According to Crowley, the N.H. Tax Commission has determined that there is $5.5 billion worth of taxable property in New Hampshire. Industry and commerce pay 53% of the property taxes, and the home owners pay the other 47%, he said.

Crowley, who calls himself a moderate, said he has been labeled a conservative because of his stand on taxes.

Mildred Horton named UNH trustee head

Mildred McAfee Horton of Randolph was elected chairman of the University of New Hampshire Board of Trustees at their meeting Saturday.

Horton, 72, has been a trustee member since 1963. She succeeds Atty. Fred W. Hall Jr. of Rochester.

She received her B.A. degree from Vassar College, an M.A. from the University of Chicago and an L.L.D. from Oberlin College.

An educator all her life, Horton taught sociology and economics at various colleges in Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee in the twenties and early thirties and served as president of Wellesley College from 1936 to 1949.

She also served as commander of the WAVES during World War II.

In addition, Horton is a past president of the National Social Welfare Assembly (1950-53), a member of the Committee on the White House Conference on Education (1955) and co-chairman of the National Women's Commission on Civil Rights (1963-64), among others.

Also elected at the trustee meeting were: Philip S. Dunlap, former president of the State Senate, vice-chairman; Margaret R. Ramsey, of Swansey, secretary; Richard A. Morse of Manchester, legal advisor; and Norman W. Myers, treasurer.

of more than 1,500 works.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra is widely recognized as a front-rank symphonic ensemble and gives some 200 concerts annually, including 'adults' and young people's subscription series, tour concerts, Cabaret "Pops" concerts and free outdoor summer concerts in Michigan.

The orchestra's roster of performers is interspersed with such legendary names as Gabriolowitsch, Richard Strauss, Enesco, Rachmaninoff, Victor Herbert, Prokofiev, Reiner, Glazounov, Mitropoulos.

The orchestra, with an annual budget of some $2.6 million, relies on the support of citizens, and "belongs" to the people of Detroit.

He said that new taxes are not needed because of the surplus of money in the state. He cited these surpluses as including the funds from the business profits tax, surpluses of $8.3 and 4.0 million from the past biennium, $18 million from the Federal Revenue Sharing Plan, and a minimum of 10 per cent, or $23 million, for growth. Crowley's figures show a surplus of $60.3 for the next biennium.

There is also an indication of another surplus at the close of this fiscal year, he said.

"This state will be better off financially than any time in the past century."

Crowley said that another of his priorities is the restoration of the State Hospital which he said needs help due to "unintentional neglect."

"It won't cost that much money," he said, but later added, "We'll have to decide whether to rehabilitate the hospital, start over again, or fund small centers throughout the state."

Crowley also expressed the belief that the campaign of Malcolm McLane will hurt his chances. He said he does not consider McLane a viable candidate because of his contradiction on taxes and because he is not known in the state.

When asked about the support he has received from the Manchester Union Leader, Crowley replied, "I have never solicited the Union Leader for support. They just happen to have the same stand on taxes."

Crowley's stand on other issues are: ENVIRONMENT: He said he considered environmental issues a priority and has met with people from agencies throughout the state. "However, I'm not at all convinced we need an environmental protection agency."

EMPLOYMENT: "Some of the problems are caused by jobs and factories in the state which pay low wages." He said that many places may close down due to environmental laws. He added that we should look ahead at failing industries and set up employment in those areas which will need it.

ABORTION LAWS: He said he believed the abortion laws in New Hampshire to be adequate.

NATIONAL ELECTIONS: "I support the entire Democratic ticket."
