Ingls Lecture, 1935

Alexander Inglis was a noted teacher at Harvard university who gave special attention to the study of high school education. His work was so outstanding that after his death in 1924 a memorial was established in his honor and consists of an annual lecture to be delivered at Harvard on some phase of secondary education.

Each year since 1925 this lecture has been delivered and then printed in an attractive little book for sale by the Harvard University Press at $1 per copy. The 1935 lecture, given by Samuel S. Drury, Rector of St. Paul's School, Concord, N.H., is on "The Care of the Pupil." Members of high school faculties and of future teachers of America groups will be interested in this volume. The author points out:

The pleasure of getting an education is in the truth and in the companionship. If young people do not really enjoy going to school there is a radical wrong somewhere.

STUDENT COUNCIL TO BE TRIED AS NEW VENTURE PURPOSES ARE OUTLINED

Plan Is Presented to Student Body and Will Be Further Developed

One of the interesting matters before the student body of Keene Normal school this fall is the formation of a Student Council. Last April the delegation which attended the meeting of teacher college representatives at New York university returned enthusiastic for a trial of such a council. An informal vote was taken and it resulted in about 350 votes for the formation of a council, to 15 against. Further consideration of the subject was put over until the year 1935-36.

The opening assembly address by a member of the senior class was on this topic. Andrew J. Crooker, Jr., '36, Hillsboro, outlined the purposes of a student council under four main heads:

1. To promote a better training of teachers through better organization.
2. The experience of assisting in the organization and running of a student council will carry over into later years.
3. Such a council will promote a closer relationship between faculty and students, not only in academic work, but in social life as well.
4. The social and intellectual welfare of the students will be promoted in many ways.

The speaker mentioned the several problems to be met in such a venture, but clearly made the point that these problems were possible of solution. Continuing, Mr. Crooker said, "It can easily be seen that a student council would act as an organizing medium for practically any task

KEENE NORMAL ALUMNI MEET AT STATE TEACHERS' CONVENTION IN CONCORD

K. N. S. Faculty Members Have Important Part in Programs and Business Sessions

During the sessions of the 82nd annual meeting of the New Hampshire State Teachers' association held at Concord, Oct. 10-11, students carried on the classes at the Normal school. Members of the faculty could attend on either or both days, and many availed themselves of the opportunity to be present at both days' sessions.

Greatest local interest in the event was in the K.N.S. alumni luncheon held at noon on Thursday, the 11th, at the Universalist church. Pres. Wallace E. Mason was present and after a fine meal furnished by the women of the entertaining church, told briefly of the condition of the school and of matters of general interest to former students. About 100 were present to enjoy the reunion.

The chapel choir, under the direction of Harry W. Davis, made the trip to Concord, and rendered a fine program of musical numbers for the guests present. This added very much to the occasion.

Several members of the faculty had important parts on the afternoon section meetings. Sprague W. Drenan, head of the English department, was the speaker before the English section, and gave a paper entitled, "32,400 Minutes of High School English," which was enthusiastically received. Miss Isabel U. Esten presided at the section for deans. Both of these meetings were on Thursday.

PRESIDENT BRETT OF THE INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB ATTENDS INSTITUTE

Member of Keene Sentinel Newspaper Staff Addresses First Fall Meeting

The first meeting of the year of the International Relations club of Keene Normal school was held in the social room of Huntress hall on Sept. 24, with the president, Wesley F. Brett of Keene, in charge. Plans for the various meetings of the school year were outlined and a new type of meetings discussed.

Following the business session, Mr. Brett introduced Henry O. Nadig, of the Keene Sentinel editorial staff, who spoke on the topic, "Can Tomorrow Come?" Mr. Nadig explained the present picture in international affairs, defining the various governmental systems and "isms." He raised the question as to what type of "tomorrow" is wished for and, assuming that it would naturally be one of democracy and harmony and world peace, named and explained several factors which he felt essential in this "tomorrow" and analyzed those factors which must be emphasized in order to bring about the end which mankind is more and more desiring.

During the summer vacation, Wesley F. Brett, president of the club, was for 10 days a member of the Institute of International Relations, held on the campus of Wellesley college. This institute for students of foreign affairs was conducted by the New England branch of the Friends Service committee.

The officers for this year are: president, Miss Helen Pratt, Keene; vice-president, Miss Katharine Gage, Manchester; secretary, Miss Dorothy Plaisted, Sanford; treasurer, Miss Ellen Hartshorn, Manchester.

SUCCESSFUL SUMMER SCHOOL

The summer session of the New Hampshire Normal schools was held at Keene from July 9 to Aug. 16. The enrollment reached a record for the past ten years; over 200 being included in the regular student body, and 20 in the special two-week's session of the arts and crafts courses.

The faculty included members of the staff of the two schools and visiting teachers. Aside from those whose names appeared in the early prospectus the following gave courses: Miss Olive Carson, supervisor of elementary training in the schools of Medford, Mass., the primary school; Mrs. Marion F. Hudson, K.N.S., elementary education; Maynard C. Waltz, K.N.S. (substituting for Charles W. Cutts), economics; Miss M. Marie Thyng, K.N.S.; biology; Mrs. Florence Schroeder, Needham, Mass., music; William A. Caldwell, K.N.S., physical education.

Immediately following the summer session, from Aug. 19-22, Pres. KAPPA NEWS

Thursday afternoon, Sept. 26 the members of Kappa Delta Phi fraternity played host to the members of the school faculty. The occasion was the annual tea given to the faculty by the members of the fraternity at their house.

The two front rooms of the house were used as reception rooms and the warm glow that was cast by the fires in the fireplaces gave the whole setting a pleasant aspect. After a tour of inspection of the house, with the members acting as guides, the faculty expressed much admiration for the attractiveness of the rooms of the young men.

The committee chairman of the entertainment was Andrew J. Crooker, Jr., Hillsboro, assisted by Kenneth L. Creighton, Hampton, and Jessie F. Davis, Hampstead. President Francis Linscott and the other members of the fraternity received and escorted the faculty about their house.

The tea was poured by Dean of women, Isabelle U. Esten and Assistant Dean Ida E. Fernald.

ART DEPT.

The Art club is putting on an Art-For-Anybody's-Sake campaign. Membership is no longer limited to art students. No talent is required. In fact, any display of talent might puzzle or embarrass the art majors. Besides there's more chance for improvement when you begin with nothing.

It is hard to conceive the variety of projects classified under "Crafts" which is the main interest of the Club. In the first place, anyone does something that everyone else isn't doing. The emphasis is on "do" and not on "something." To be specific, any activity is acceptable, from cutting out paper dolls to drafting steam engines. Here's your chance to learn how to make inexpensive Christmas gifts. And there is a lot of muttering about personal, original, hand-blocked Christmas cards.

If you are interested drop up to the Studio.

ALPHA PI TAU

The offices elected to serve for the year 1935-36 are as follows: president, Paul K. Stimson, Milford; vice-president, Neil Sullivan, Manchester; secretary, Wesley F. Brett, Keene; and treasurer, Amilcare Scarponi, Portsmouth. Walter Lucien is master of ceremonies.

The date of the Alpha Pi Tau dance was Oct. 18, and the place, Spaulding gymnasium. Ira Stopford, '36, Portsmouth, was in general charge. Further details in a later issue.

We were glad to welcome back to the campus, two brothers: Newell Paire, and Russell Raymond, '34, both of Keene. Newell is to complete his fourth year in the four-year English curriculum; and "Rus" is registered in the special elementary curriculum.

Another theft has been reported at K.N.S. The scholarship cup has been stolen! The Alpha fraternity pleads guilty for the second time!

TRADES and INDUSTRIES

We of the Trades and Industry course are very glad to welcome Mr. Laverne Bushnell as a member of our faculty. Mr. Bushnell comes to us from Weymouth, Mass., where he has been employed by Cities Service Refining Co. Previously he has had experience in the educational field.

Three of the class of 1936 are off campus engaged in practice teaching: Daniel Sullivan, Portsmouth, at Dover; Joseph Baines, Manchester, at Rochester; and Gilbert Wyman, Keene, at Hancock.

Paul Reason and Amilcare Scarponi of the class of 1937, are in industry for the present quarter; Reason in Keene and Scarponi in Portsmouth. The other Trades and Industry juniors are working in the shop at the school on a project of making twenty vises.

"I think I'll make a trip around the globe," said the gold fish.—Pen Dragon.

HOME ECONOMICS

CONGRATULATIONS:

To our new department head, Dr. MacArthur. We pledge to her our loyalty and wish that her stay in New Hampshire may be most pleasant.

To our 1935 graduates, all of whom are employed for the year in their own profession.

To our older graduates, many of whom have been advanced to places of greater importance, and to several who have now homes of their own.

To the girls of Blake house, whose living quarters have been made most attractive during the summer.

To the members of the class in economics, whose class room has been changed from Blake house to make room for the new laundry and offices. They now have a less distance to walk, and are not tantalized by the odors of good cooking from the food laboratory.

MUSIC NOTES

The Orpheus club held its first meeting on Sept. 30 at the school camp. Supper was served at six o'clock. A musical program and social time was enjoyed. Among those who took part were Miss Mabel Felch, Miss Virginia Hough, Miss Ruth Clement, Miss Lorraine Rocheleau, Miss Arline Richards, and Miss Sarah Wyman.

Jesse Davis, Hampstead, music student, is the successful leader of three community choruses. One is located in Gilsum, one in Westmoreland, and one at the Sturtevant chapel, Keene. Miss Mary Hall, '29, Cheshire County recreational director is in general charge of these projects.

WELCOME

GREETINGS FRESHMEN!

Keene Normal school extends this hearty greeting as it opens its doors for the beginning of the 27th year of success. Since 1909, this welcome has announced the entrance of another freshmen class. The steady growth of Keene Normal School greatly emphasizes the truth of her ideals and the worth of the graduates who have come and gone before you into the profession of teaching.

Each year has shown a great advancement over the previous year, and is evidenced by the increased membership of the freshmen classes. Contrary to the usual belief that quantity defeats quality, it has been heartening to see a parallel increase in the quality of the prospective teachers. The efficiency level for the teachers in New Hampshire has been raised as a result. Not only has the school been bettered by such material, but also by the injection of a new ever-sparking spirit which has tended to raise the moral of the student body.

That spirit seethes with fun and good humor. It is with eagerness that the upperclass body returns to the Alma Mater to begin each new year. Our social community, which is organized for teacher training, lays much stress upon this factor.

Another view of this spirit presents an entirely different picture. The man or woman has doffed the pointed cap, and is intensely pursuing knowledge.

We welcome this spirit to Keene Normal School.

The development of the Normal School during the past twenty-six years allows it in turn to offer many advantages. These advantages come in many forms through every activity. Most eminent as the years pass is the feeling of fellowship and cooperation between the upperclassmen and the "frosh." The antiquated class distinction has broken down, and has been replaced by a new order which leads to a better intermingling of ideas. Thus to a better training of everyone for our profession.

Freshmen, we are eager to adopt your best ideas, we extend ours in the same manner. We welcome you to Keene Normal School in every sense of the word, and we want your first year here to be successful.

EDUCATION NOTES

A new school for boys has been established at Dublin, a few miles from Keene in the Monadnock region. It will be known as the Dublin School, and will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Lehman. It will have a course of study fitting for college, and also a primary department. Winter sports will be featured as well as other forms of organized athletics.

Raymond E. Clafin, a graduate from Brown university, with a degree of Master of Arts from Harvard, and further graduate study at Columbia, has assumed the position of headmaster of the Keene High school with the beginning of the new year. Mr. Clafin taught at Kimball Union Academy at Meriden and for the past thirteen years has been headmaster of the Lebanon High school.

Willis O. Smith, who retired as headmaster at Keene last June, is this year substituting as head of the Laconia High school.

The fifteenth annual American Education Week will be observed Nov. 11-12, 1935. The general theme for the week is "The School and Democracy." Special daily themes are suggested for discussion on the several days of the week.

I would like to see adult education courses simple, not over and above the heads but at the level of the boy who leaves school in the sixth grade.

—Florence Hale, director of radio, N.E.A.

A high school of music and art is being established in New York City. Students will be required to pass the regular high school entrance before they will be eligible to take the special test for admission to the music and art high school. The school will give a regular academic course besides its special cultural training.

ON WITH THE DANCE!

Is dancing form important? Is it necessary that we follow some standard even in the favorite indoor sport of American Youth? Form has always been essential in every activity where there is a general use of all the muscles, particularly in dancing.

The modern type of ball-room dancing, contrary to the Kentucky mountain type, necessitates an almost one hundred per cent coordination of movement between two individuals. To achieve this there must be not only a unity of purpose but an inherent sense of rhythm... form and rhythm are inseparable.

Form usually changes with each generation. This is a result of changed ideas for the release of the musical and rhythmical tendencies. Each group has contributed something toward the improvement of dancing form since the beginning of biparty dancing. Today a dancing form evidences the untiring effort on the part of a few individuals who have taken the best techniques from each generation and combined them.

Those responsible for our social life are not alone in their efforts to do away with the unsocial forms of dancing. Dancing of the right type is wholeheartedly recommended as a medium of social intercourse.

The following item is from the report of a convention of dancing masters who give the following accepted dancing form in detail:

"Freak dancing has disappeared for those who know. Steps are more dignified and taken closer to the partner.

"Young people hold their heads close together, it is true, but erect and to the side with chins well up—a natural way of standing. There is no looking down nor closing the eyes and for a girl to drape her arm about the neck of her partner is to label her two years behind the times."

John Anfronak of Claremont, who was graduated in 1933 after taking the three-year Junior High school course, is entering Teachers college, Columbia, this fall where he has received a scholarship and will continue with graduate studies.

Miss Natalie Scott of Haverhill, Mass., a three-year Junior High graduate of 1933, and recently a substitute teacher in the schools of Haverhill, has been elected teacher of the fifth grade of the Tilden school in that city.

MARRIAGES

Among the marriages of K.N.S. graduates announced during the summer and early fall are the following. Others will appear in later issues.

TATE-KUKKOLA

Miss Edith Kukkola of Newport and Francis G. Tate of Manchester, both graduates of Keene Normal school in 1934 were married early in September in Newport. Since her graduation from Keene Normal school, the bride has been employed in the Brampton Woolen company's office as clerk. Mr. Tate taught last year at Wolfeboro. The couple will reside in Portsmouth where Mr. Tate has a teaching position in the Junior High school for 1935-36.

TWO NORMAL SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASE IN 1935 TEACHER PLACEMENTS

Placements of graduates of the class of 1935 of the two Normal schools of the state, Plymouth and Keene, were well ahead of that for any class in recent years, according to a statement made at the opening of the new year by President Wallace E. Mason. All the Keene graduates of the home economics curriculum and of the special course for three-year graduates with an extra year's study of elementary work, have found positions. Next in order in percentage of placements were graduates of the trade and industry course, and the three-year elementary.

Members of the three-year Junior High school course, both in the general curriculum and the art and music supervisory, did not fare as well. The total of those having teaching positions is between 50 and 60 per cent of the 1935 class. Four of the five college graduates who took a special year's course for High school positions are placed.

As usual several of the class are in other institutions for further study as candidates for degrees. A class has been formed again this year giving a special elementary training to those who have had three or four years in the High school curriculum. A number of the members of the class of 1935 have joined this group as well as several from earlier classes who did not get places.

Others of the classes from 1932 to 1935 have secured teaching berths, after being at home or engaged in advanced study. The record for placements in New Hampshire Normal schools is far ahead of that of similar teacher training institutions in other states, according to President Mason.

VARIED ATHLETIC TRAINING FOR FUTURE TEACHERS AT K.N.S.

W. A. A. NEWS

The new officers of the Women's Athletic association this year are as follows: president, Florence Duston, Hampstead; vice-president, Katherine Gage, Manchester; secretary, Edith A. Noble, Amherst; treasurer, Velma A. Bartlett, Claremont; faculty adviser, Miss Marjory Bateman.

Heads of sports: hockey, Evelyn Pederson, Claremont; badminton, Ellen Hartshorn, Manchester; baseball, Betsy Crowell, Exeter; basketball, Rita Leonard, Haverhill; bowling, Eleanor Child, Concord; archery, Florence Edwards, Bennington; swimming, Dorothy Plaisted, Sanford, Me.; tennis, Arline Richards, Franklin; volleyball, Shirley McIntyre, Whitefield.

On Sept. 25, the Women's Athletic association entertained the freshmen girls at the school camp. The students in charge of the clean-up committee and the food committee were: Miss Jean Taylor, Pittsfield, and Miss Gertrude Emerson, Concord, respectively.

This year, strolling through the Woolworth and Newberry stores, deciding which movie looks most promising, and gazing rapturously at the new fall fur coats will not be considered hiking. According to the Women's Athletic association standards, hiking will count only under the following conditions: (1) that the place and time of hiking are stated, and (2) that at least one other activity has been entered into during the week.

Under the leadership of Miss Bateman, the increasing participation in athletics, and the willing support on all sides, this year promises to be the most successful in the history of the W.A.A.

The slogan of the W.A.A. is "A game for every girl and every

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

The badminton and tennis tournaments are now in their second and third rounds. Division hockey games started Oct. 7, followed by the class games. Archery has called out some skilled freshmen, as have swimming and bowling.

All these activities will have their climax on Fall Sports Day which has been set for Nov. 16. This will include the hockey color game, archery and bowling tournaments, badminton and tennis color and single finals, and a swimming meet. This program is under the direction of Miss Bateman, with the assistance of the heads of sports.

Two practice games of hockey have been played with the high school and there will be two more. A varsity hockey team will be chosen from those who have made the division, class, and color teams.

girl in a game." Miss Bateman says, "Believe in everyone playing for the fun of it rather than for the winning alone. The semi-professional hockey and basketball squads with their membership of 16 to 20 girls, have given way on Keene Normal campus, to the division and class teams with a total membership of over one hundred players. At Keene you play whether you are an expert or not; you may be beaten, but you have lots of fun.

"Individual sports, such as tennis, badminton, swimming and archery are gaining in popularity. The modern college girl is becoming more adult in her games and sports. She wants to learn in college the sports she will participate in all the rest of her life. So, although she enjoys hockey and basketball she does not confine herself solely to them."

TENNIS

The usual interest in tennis is apparent among the men students at K. N. S. this fall. A tournament is in progress on the courts in the rear of the Mason library, under the direction of Sprague W. Drenan. Twenty men are participating in this tournament and as a result of this contest will receive their rating for the regular squad next spring.

The upper-classmen participating in the tournament are: Paul K. Stimson, captain, James Leh, James Noucas, Robert Zieff, Robert Edmunds, Elson Herrick, Robert Omand, Carl Youngquist, Lawrence Goss, Waldo R. Streeter, Kenneth Creighton, Lewis Montrone, George Corson, Paul Reason, Stanley Johnson, and Paul McNamara.

The freshmen entrants in the competition are as follows: Robert Tapply, Raymond Kulas, Richard Dundas, James McKeon, Dave Applebaum, Gordon Tate, and Jack Graves.

SPEED BALL has been so interesting that the boys' sports editors haven't paused long enough to write about it, as yet. We hope to give a full account of the speed ball games in the next issue.

EDUCATION NOTES

The dearth of books interestingly written, with an adult point of view but not too difficult for adults of limited schooling, is one of the greatest drawbacks to more rapid progress in adult education on the lower levels.

—Linda A. Eastman, librarian, Cleveland, Ohio.

THE CONNECTICUT TEACHER for June, 1935 reports that a fourth year has been added to the course for the preparation of elementary teachers in the normal schools at Willimantic, Danbury, and New Haven.

SPORT NOTES

At the annual Columbus Day marathon championship run between Boscawen and Manchester, Clarence H. DeMar of our faculty placed third. Last year he won this event. This year William F. Simmons of Lynn, Mass., was first. DeMar's time for the course was 2:52:23.

On Oct. 14, the K.N.S. girls' field hockey teams won two victories from the first and second teams of the Keene high school. The first team score was 3 to 0, and for the "jayvee" game, 1 to 0. This was the first defeat for K. H. S. first team this season.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE

By H. B. P.

The many friends of Carl Preston Swinnerton, who was a popular teacher in the science department at Keene Normal for several years previous to 1929, will be interested to know of his marriage to Miss Natalie Emerson Marshall, a classmate at New Hampton Literary Institute. Mr. Swinnerton is now an instructor at Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, in which town the couple will make their home at Whitefield house.

Many teachers and students have been interested to visit the exhibit of art works conducted by Miss Helena Putnam and her pupils. Besides sketches and paintings in oil and water color, the exhibition contained a metal craft display. It was held at the rooms of the Keene Women's Club Exchange. Miss Putnam was formerly assistant in art at K.N.S.

Miss Isabelle U. Esten gave a series of teas to women members of the faculty at the opening of the school year. One was in honor of the new head of the home economics department, Miss Edith H. MacArthur, Ph.D. On another occasion the six other new women teachers were welcomed and were given an opportunity to meet informally the other faculty women.

Harry B. Preston was the speaker at a regional meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held at the club house of the Hooper Golf club, Walpole. Abigail Stearns chapter, Walpole, was hostess for the meeting.

Harry W. Davis, head of the music department, is again in charge of the choir at the first Congregational church. For several years he has been a member of the quartette at the Unitarian church.

TO SEPTIMIUS

HORACE—ODE VI: BOOK II.
Ah, friend Septimius, you who with me
Would brave the farthest seas, Spain's hostile lands,
Or wildest Africa, whose treacherous sands
Are washed by Moorish waves eternally:

Would God that, wearied of the rugged ways
Of war and of the sea, I might find peace
In Tibur, founded by the sons of Greece,
And there live out my uneventful days;

But if that prayer by Fortune be distant
By the Galaeus shall I seek my home Whose banks the fine-leece flocks are wont to roam—
Where once Laconian Phalantus reigned.

This countryside of all the earth, I name
Most fair. Hymettus' mount cannot excel
Its golden honey, and its olives well
May rival those which make Venafrum's fame;

There Jupiter endows the sunny fields
With winters mild, long fruitful
Springs; and there,
By Bacchus blest, the slopes of Aulon bear
Grapes like the purple grapes Falernum yields.

This place of blooming hillsides and repose Beckons to both of us. There, at the end,

Upon the ashes of your poet friend
May you bestow the tears which friendship owes. HELEN M. PRATT.

LESLIE PINCKNEY HILL

Lord, who am I to teach the way
To little children day by day,
So prone myself to go astray?
I teach them knowledge, but I know
How faint they flicker and how long
The candles of my knowledge glow.

I teach them power to will and do,
But only now to learn anew
My own great weakness thru and thru.
I teach them love for all mankind
And all God's creatures, but I find
My love comes lagging far behind.

Lord, if their guide I still must be,
Oh, let the little children see
The teacher leaning hard on Thee.

which the student body would wish to undertake. It would do away with the feeling that one should wait for another in starting projects and outlining policies. It would tend to promote a more hearty spirit of unity among the students. It must be remembered that a council is organized not to tear down existing traditions, but to build on the old."

In closing the speaker pointed out that such a program calls for able administration and expert guidance from all interested. "Capability, dependability and loyalty are needed in the highest sense," he said.

It is planned to bring the matter of a constitution and by-laws before the student body at an early date. Members of the New York delegation, of last spring, with the class officers, will cooperate with Pres. Wallace E. Mason and Dean H. D. Carle in forwarding the movement.

Question Period Is Held at Close

Deputy Commissioner of Education, Walter M. May, of Concord, was the guest of the Keene Normal school faculty at their regular monthly meeting in Hale building, on Nov. 4. Previous to the formal business and address, members of the staff enjoyed a social hour, during which tea was served with Miss Isabel M. Blake and Miss Elizabeth F. Gregory as hostesses.

Pres. Wallace E. Mason introduced Commissioner May, who spoke on the topic "Professionalization of Subject Matter in a Teacher Training Institution." Mr. May has made an extended study of this subject during the past years, and brought his hearers the results of his wide reading and observation. At the close of the address he answered questions from the floor for a half-hour.

Besides the Normal school faculty, guests included Miss Louise M. Norton, Concord, supervisor of home economics; Harold E. Swain, Exeter, supervisor of trades and industries, both of the field staff of the New Hampshire State Board of Education. Miss Mary A. Markham, and Mrs. Ruth Hewett of the faculty of Casleton, Vt. DRAMATIC CLUB GIVES THREE-ACT COMEDY AS ITS FIRST PRESENTATIONCharacters Perform Well in Percival
Wilde's "The Little Shot"

The Keene Normal school Dramatic club presented as its first production of the year in Parker hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 13, the three-act comedy "The Little Shot," by Percival Wilde. The club is to be congratulated on the selection of a recent Broadway success for its initial performance. Members of the cast were experienced in school theatricals and gave a smooth characterization. Miss Lucille Sterling, Rye, was cast as the lady villain, and Paul K. Stimson, Milford, carried the male lead.

The comedy element was well brought out by each character and each read his part in a way to give full value to the many clever lines. As has been the custom for the past several years here, the sets and make-up were of a high standard for the work of amateurs. The production was staged and coached by Sprague W. Dreman, head of the English department.

The characters in the order of appearance were as follows: "Pat Vining," Miss Sterling; "Henry James Atherton," Wesley F. Brett, Keene; "Clyde Middleton," Mr. Stimson; "Mildred East," Miss June Kendall, Montpelier, Vt.; "Sturge Peabody," James H. Leh, Keene; and "Scarlati," Lewis Montroné, Keene.

The entire action of the play took place during the morning and afternoon of a Saturday in January in New York city.

SCIENCE AND NATURE CLUBS COMBINE, TRUFANT IS CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Students Participate in Annual Saturday Climb of Mt. Monadnock

In view of the similarity of their aims and activities, the Academy of Science and the Nature club have amalgamated. Because the Academy of Science is the older organization the combined club will function under that name.

At a recent meeting the following officers were elected: president, Richard O. Trufant, Peterboro; vice-president, Miss Dorothy Stewart, Canterbury; secretary, Miss Helen Noyes, Plais-tow; and treasurer, Robert Edmunds, Loudon. The club sponsors, Mrs. Ethel J. Ramsden, and dean H. D. Carle, with the officers, are planning a full program of outings, visits to places of scientific interest and lectures.

Monadnock Trip

The annual autumn Monadnock trip sponsored by the club for members of the school took place on Saturday, Oct. 19. Over 50 people were transported by bus to the foot of the Marlboro trail, by which they climbed to the top. The beauty of the day amply rewarded the climbers with an extensive and colorful view.

County Fair

In keeping with the Hallowe'en season, the third annual country fair was held in Spaulding gymnasium, Saturday, Oct. 26. Vernon J. Perkins, Lyme, was master of ceremonies. There were numerous side-shows, "animal exhibits," tossing of rings, etc. The students attended in "hick" costume. The exhibits included "the bearded lady, the smallest and biggest monkeys, the tall lady," and various other freaks. There was also fortune telling, and a grab bag. Prizes were awarded by Robert Edmunds,

VARIOUS CLUB ACTIVITIES

Nu Beta Upsilon

Last year the Nu Beta Upsilon Sorority had a successful and profitable season under the presidency of Miss Eleanor F. Tarbox, Brattleboro, Vt. Emerson, Hampstead; secretary, Miss Lois E. Steere, Littleton; and treasurer, Miss Barbara Vogel, Manchester.

The Sorority was fortunate to have as their speaker, at the second meeting of the year, Alexander F. Gifford, instructor in economics. Mr. Gifford spoke on the Bulgarian home comparing it with the American home. Mrs. Donald Ewing of Keene, a former teacher in Bulgaria, modeled a Bulgarian costume. Following the talk, refreshments were served.

The Rostra

At the Oct. 9th meeting of The Rostra held at the school camp at Wilson Pond, three girls were initiated into the club. They were the Misses Grace Blanchard, Greenfield, Mass.; Nellie Walent, Nashua, and Barbara Capron, Quechee, Vt.

Miss Dorothy Plaisted, Sanford, Me., was in charge of refreshments and entertainment, assisted by several of the older members of the club. The following officers were elected for the school year: president, Miss Plaisted; vice-president, Miss Grace; secretary, Miss Blanchard; and Miss Capron, treasurer.

Loudon. Mr. Perkins announced at the close of the program that there would be "fancy stepping" and dancing was in order for the remainder of the evening.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. at Keene Normal school gave a tea to the freshman Protestant girls of the school in their clubroom in Huntress hall, Oct. 16. About seventy-five girls attended, including members and freshmen.

Tea was poured by the faculty members present, Miss Ida E. Fernald, assistant dean and Miss Isabelle N. Blake, adviser to the Y. W. C. A.

Music was furnished by a trio consisting of Miss Elizabeth Giradet, violin, Pittsfield; Miss Esther Hussey, cello, Greenland; and Miss Elizabeth Goodale, piano, Pittsfield. Miss Mabelle Feleh, Seabrook, rendered two pleasing vocal selections.

In charge of the program was Miss Dorothy Plaisted, Sanford, Me., assisted by Miss Marie Johnson, Deering, and Miss Ellen Hartshorn, Manchester.

President, Miss Beatrice A. Judkins, Lakeport; secretary, Miss Lois A. Milendy, Manchester; and Miss Marie Johnston, Deering, were hostesses.

The committee in charge of refreshments was Miss Evelyn Pederson, Claremont; Miss Ethel Croteau, Sunapee; and Miss Eunice Stearns, Winchester.

The clubroom was attractively decorated by Miss Harriet Crosby, Alton; Miss Georgia Plummer, West Lebanon; and Mrs. Bessie Adams, Leominster, Mass.

Initiation

The Y. W. C. A. held an impressive candlelight service Tuesday evening, Oct. 29, in the Huntress club room. At this time 36 girls were initiated into the organization.

After the service, welcomes were given by the president, Miss Beatrice Judkins, and faculty adviser, Miss Blake. An enjoyable program of games and group singing was in charge of the committee, followed by refreshments of punch and cookies.

FORUM ARRANGES STRONG DEBATING SCHEDULE FOR THE FALL SEASON

Middlebury, American International College, and B.C. Come to Keene

The Forum has arranged a strong fall debating schedule, with most of the debates at home. Topics are of current interest.

The first contest took place at the Monday assembly on Oct. 28, when a team from Middlebury college upheld the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved: That the United States should follow a policy of economic nationalism." Middlebury speakers were: Robert MacDonald, Barre, Vt.; William Heck, Chaminade, N. Y.; and Norman Smith, New York City. Local men who supported the negative of the question were: George Newman and Louis Montrone, Keene, and Andrew J. Crooker, Jr., Hillsboro.

On Nov. 1, a men's team from the American International college, Springfield, Mass., engaged in a debate on the subject of socialized medicine in Parker hall. The visiting team which upheld the affirmative consisted of William Jones and Donald Clancy, both of Springfield, Mass.; and David Keefe, North Hampton. The Keene team was made up of Ross Gale, Rutland, Vt.; Kenneth Creighton, Hampton; and Philip Ide, West Swanzey.

Other debates scheduled for the men's team include Boston college, here, Nov. 12; Boston university, here, Nov. 15; and a contest with Fitchburg Teachers college at Fitchburg on Nov. 19.

The women's team will go to University of Vermont, Nov. 22, and will debate here on Dec. 2 with a team from Middlebury. Miss Edna M. McGlynn and Maynard C. Waltz are the faculty sponsors for The Forum, and Andrew J. Crooker, Jr., is manager of the men's debates.

FRESHMAN STATISTICS

Pres. Wallace E. Mason has announced some interesting statistics in regard to the home background of members of the freshman class. There is an increase of 12 per cent in the past 10 years of freshmen born in New Hampshire. In 1925, 56 per cent of the freshmen were natives of this state. This year the percentage of the class born in New Hampshire is 68.

In 1925, 11 other states, Massachusetts leading, were represented and there were five freshmen born in four foreign countries. This year Massachusetts also leads in the number of freshmen born in six other states, with five from foreign countries.

As to parentage, 41 freshmen in 1925 named both parents as being born in New Hampshire, while in 1935 both parents of 39 freshmen were born in this state.

In this instance, the percentage of students having both parents natives of the Granite State has increased, despite the fact that there are two less in actual number, since the number of the 1925 class was 260, while the present freshman class numbers but 133.

The number of 1925 freshmen of foreign born parentage was 36. This year 22 freshmen have parents born in foreign countries.

Extension Courses

The State Board of Education has given its approval to the establishment of courses for the professional training of teachers in service in the state. Courses in the two Normal schools may be given off campus where there is a minimum of ten students, and there may be other courses offered by other instructors.

It is planned to give the same credit for an extension course by a Normal teacher as for a corresponding course taught during term time. For three hours credit a class must meet for 45 session hours. There will be a small registration fee for each semester hour of credit. Details are being worked out by the Division of University Extension, State Board of Education, Concord.

KAPPA NEWS

Thursday night, Oct. 31, Mayor George F. T. Trask spoke to the young men students and the men faculty at a social get-together held under the auspices of the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity in the Kappa house on Appian Way. Mayor Trask first spoke upon the subject of safety in accordance with the observance of National Safety week. The main part of his speech had to do with his duties as chief executive of the city of Keene.

Harry B. Preston, house father of Kappa Delta Phi fraternity welcomed the guests to the Kappa house. Pres. Francis Linscott, Exeter, was general chairman and toastmaster. Other members of the committee in charge of the get-together were: Vernon J. Perkins, Lyme; Walter Palmer, Enfield; and Robert Piper, Northwood Ridge.

The members of Kappa Delta Phi fraternity have played host to the Middlebury and Springfield debating teams.

KEENE CLUB

The Keene Club held its first outing of the year recently at the school camp which was in the form of a welcoming party to new members. Lunch was served by a committee of which Miss Elizabeth Scribner was chairman. Following this came a regular meeting of the club at which plans for the season were made. These included a parent-student-faculty get-together, a card party and a Saturday evening social. The date for the latter has been set for Jan. 18, 1936.

Miss Elizabeth Harris arranged a fine program of music and readings in which each freshman put on an act, everyone of which was interesting and original. Mrs. Marion F. Hudson, the faculty adviser of the club was in general charge. There were 48 members and guests present.

Teacher: Does the fire-bug carry an electric lighter or does he get his light from another source?

Student: He carries an electric light!

ALPHA PI TAU

The annual dance, held on Oct. 18, was well attended, with a large number of freshmen as guests, and several alumni back for the affair. The gym was decorated with a battery of colored lights arranged by Wesley F. Brett. Other committee chairmen included; Stanley Johnson, music; Lawrence Goss, invitations; Waldo Streeter and James Noucas, refreshments; and Robert Edmunds, programs.

Honorary members and patrons attending were Dean H. Dwight Carle, Dean Isabelle U. Esten, Assistant Dean, Miss Ida E. Fernald, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad A. Adams, Mrs. Frank H. Blackington, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James A. Keech, and Rodney A. Griffin, Franklin.

We welcome back to the campus, brothers Baines and Wyman, who have been teaching for ten weeks at Rochester and Hancock, respectively. Also, brother Scarponi, who has been working in his home town, Portsmouth, and Paul Reason, who has had a position in Keene. We wish the best of success to those going out to teach.

TRADES and INDUSTRIES

A Bit of History

In 1909, when the Keene Normal school was founded it was a school for young women only, but a few years later young men were admitted, and in Sept., 1926 came the Trades and Industries curriculum.

Manual instruction was carried on for a time in a barn near the home of Pres. Mason. On Christmas night, 1925, this barn was burned, and soon after, construction of the present Butterfield hall was begun. This was on the site of another barn which had been used as a temporary gymnasium. Funds for the vocational building were provided by Gov. John G. Winant and his council from emergency state funds. The building is named for Ernest W. Butterfield, former commissioner of education in New Hampshire.

Two years after the vocational building was erected the gymnasium gift of Hon. and Mrs. Huntley N. Spaulding was presented to the school. Since that time each year has seen about 100 men registered at the school.

The annual freshman party was held at the school camp on Oct. 30. Games and group singing were in charge of the social committee. A hallowe'en supper was served by the refreshment committee.

We are looking forward to the return of the practice teachers. Those who are to go out next nine have received their teaching assignments as follows: Miss Irene Szalajeska, Hancock; Miss Jennia Simonds, Hampstead; and Helen Schellenberg, Keene Junior High.

Some of our members have gained quite a bit of experience judging canning exhibits at the Grange fair and at the Junior and Senior high schools.

Unit kitchens have been installed in the cooking laboratory and an electric stove and two breakfast sets have been added to the equipment.

MUSIC NOTES

The Keene Normal school orchestra made its appearance in complete numbers at the Senior chapel on the Monday when our guests from Castleton were present. Expressions by faculty and students alike showed much appreciation for the orchestra. Let's strive to have a bigger and better orchestra!

Misses Elizabeth Giradet, violin, and Elizabeth Goodale, piano, with D. Wilder Goodale, saxophone, played program music at the Ladies' night at the Methodist church in Keene.

The Keene Normal school trio consisting of Misses Elizabeth Giradet, Elizabeth Goodale, and Esther Hussey played program music at the mother and daughter's night at the Community church in Dublin.

A trio composed of Misses Dorothy McLemore, Winifred Hammond, and Esther Hussey, played at the Woman's club reception for Mrs. Grace Morrison Pool.

KEENE KRONICLE

The Keene Kronicle, published during the early part of each month for students, alumni, and friends of the state normal school, Keene, N.H. Subscription, 50 cents per year.

PLEBISCITE

Recently a plebiscite was held in Fiske dining hall to determine the attitude of the faculty and of the student body toward mixed tables, that is, men and women dining together at the same tables. Hitler's majority in the Saar Basin was greatly overshadowed by the long list of names in favor of this move. Both students and faculty members showed ardent enthusiasm when the paper was circulated and the votes counted.

In years past it has not been uncommon for students to graduate after their professional and social training not knowing many of the opposite sex and at the same time, not known by many. This condition which has existed in spite of many plans will, in practically every case, be eliminated. The value of dining together has been recognized by every race. It is one of the excellent means of making friends. This will be an invaluable aid to Keene Normal school students.

This feeling of friendliness and fellowship will be greatly enhanced by a wholesome relationship which may be the real idea. The person who is not known by his fellow students usually needs help in being recognized. Every individual has some field in which he excels. This excellence in the individual needs drawing out and developing. A student cannot be helped when he lives alone — lives within himself. The warm pleasant feeling which has always existed in the dining hall coupled with this recent step will be greatly appreciated by those who feel the effect of its friendly spirit.

Again Keene Normal marches on in the parade of progress in an endeavor to aid her students professionally and socially.

EDUCATION NOTES

Two radio programs this season are of value to those interested in education: over the N.B.C. network Saturdays at 11 a.m. and Wednesday evenings at 7:30. The Saturday broadcasts are conducted by Dr. Florence Hale, and are of special interest to teachers, while the programs on Wednesday evenings are planned to inform the public on work of the schools.

We note with sorrow the death of Dr. William John Cooper, former commissioner of education, which occurred on Sept. 20. Dr. Cooper was well known in the state, having been a speaker at both Normal schools, and at the meeting of the State Teachers' association at Littleton, in 1929. He was also a frequent guest at the October conferences at Crawford House.

The old obstacles to a democratic system of public education still survive in various forms. They are these: an aristocratic society; the notion that the support of schools is not a legitimate responsibility of the state; that education is a matter for the family, the church, and the individual to provide; that the masses do not deserve or need education beyond the rudiments; that free education is public charity. Then, too, those who have profited by the old order oppose the new. And there is social inertia opposing any change. —Herman H. Horne, School of Education, New York University.

The Concord Teachers association has published a memorial volume to Louis John Rundlett, for 49 years superintendent of schools of that city. The book contains a sketch of Mr. Rundlett's life by Mrs. Elisabeth R. Elkins, former member of the State Board of Education of New Hampshire. There are also tributes from well-known educators, including former Commissioner Ernest W. Butterfield,

WHAT GORHAM IS DOING

In order that students of Keene Normal may know what a sister school with similar problems is doing in the way of a student council we present a brief sketch of The Civic Committee and its work at Gorham Normal school, Maine. The paragraphs are from THE ORACLE of Oct. 10.

"In the fall of 1928 the Civic Committee was organized. It is the outstanding representative body of the school and it represents a democratic principle in Gorham Normal school. It is made up of delegates from every class and club in the school. Once a student is a member he is always a member.

"The purpose of the Civic Committee is to arouse a consciousness on the part of each student of Gorham Normal School, good citizenship of our Normal School community, to create a desire to be a good citizen, and to encourage the practice of the civic virtues — honesty, truthfulness and courtesy — on the school grounds, in the dormitories and off the campus. It is designed to encourage student discussion and solution of school problems as they arise. The club has assumed such annual responsibilities as Superintendent's Day, which will be held next month, and the arrangement of chapel programs given by various clubs. Each year the club sends two delegates to New York to the spring student convention."

and Commissioner James N. Pringle. A considerable number of pages are taken up with extracts from Mr. Rundlett's addresses to his teachers at the opening of the school year from 1914 to 1935. Ruel C. Tucker, sub-master of Concord High School, is the editor.

THE MELTING POT of the New Hampshire Home Economics association is published three times each year by the Association. For the first time this fall the four-page paper is printed at the Keene Normal shop.

VARIED ATHLETIC TRAINING FOR FUTURE TEACHERS AT K.N.S.

W. A. A. NEWS

Donations of from five cents to five dollars to the W.A.A. treasury will be appreciated as this organization hopes to buy a bicycle.

Incidentally dues are twenty-five cents and they will be gladly received by Miss Velma Bartlett, treasurer.

Nov. 5, the W.A.A. held its first initiation. The following girls were taken into the club: The Misses Mildred Emerson, Loretta Fitzgerald, Barbara Gardner, Esther Hussey, Aina Hysk, Phyllis O'Brien, Helen Tsiotas, Ruth Chadwick, Elizabeth Martin, Eileen McKenna, Harriet Crosby, Beatrice Whitaker, and Phyllis Adams.

Division and class hockey games are over with the number of participants over the hundred mark. It is not to be supposed that all of these were star hockey players, but it is not necessary to be an expert to enjoy a game.

There were seven division games and it was only after several close games that the 3H division came out on top.

In the class games the freshmen nosed out the seniors in a 1-0 victory.

With such close division and class games the red and white game promises to be an exciting one.

One more set will finish the badminton tournament. This is between Miss Dorothy Plaisted and Miss Velma Peirce.

How many of you have read Miss Bateman's article on basketball in the April, 1935 issue of "Mind and Body"? Take a tip; it's good.

Only fools are certain, Bobby; wise men hesitate.
Are you sure of that, Pop?
Yes, certain of it.

SPORT NOTES

A cross country meet has been arranged with Fitchburg Teachers college, just as THE KRONICLE is being printed. Not many of this type of institutions have taken up distance running, and a schedule has been difficult to arrange this year.

Tourist: Is it an offense to park on Main Street in this town?

Native: No sir; by gum, if you kin park on Main Street here it's a miracle.

Magistrate (to prisoner): How big was the brick you threw? Was it as big as my head?

Prisoner: Yes, your honor. but not so thick.

CROSS COUNTRY

The first country meet of the season occurred on Saturday morning, Oct. 26 over the Keene course with the team from Gorham Maine Normal running against the local harriers. Keene won 18 to 40.

The time for the three mile course was 16 minutes and 53 seconds. Three Keene runners were tied for first place.

The runners finished in the following order: Stanley Johnson, Robert Edmunds and Elmer Carle, Keene, tied for first; Stapleford, Gorham, fourth; Roger Travis, Keene, fifth; Willis, Gorham, 6th; Sherman Joslin, Keene, 7th; James Jordan, Keene, 8th; Ellis, Gorham, 9th; Edwards, Grover, and Boswell, Gorham, 10th, 11th, and 12th, respectively.

Johnson and Edmunds ran neck and neck the entire distance and when 25 yards from the finish waited for Carle, their teammate, and crossed the finish line holding hands.

A return meet was held at Gorham, on Saturday, Nov. 2, in a drizzling rain. Again Keene defeated the Maine runners 20 to 35, and came within 22 seconds of breaking the Gorham course record over a distance of three and one-eighth miles.

Johnson and Edmunds, Keene tied for first place, covering the distance in 18 minutes and 12 seconds. Kulas and Travis, Keene freshmen brought up the rear, the latter, as last man, taking 21 minutes, 34 seconds, making a variance of three minutes and 22 seconds between first and last place Keene men, with Gorham runners in between.

The summary of the meet: 1st and 2nd, Johnson and Edmunds, K; 3rd, Carle, K; 4th, Stapleford, G; 5th, Willis, G; 6th, Jordan, K; 7th, Jess, G; 8th, Joslin, K; 9th, Ellis, G;

GORHAM RUNNERS ENTERTAINED

On the occasion of the meet here with Gorham Normal school, the members of the two teams and the coaches were entertained at an informal banquet at the school camp at Wilson pond. Members of the Alpha Pi Tau fraternity acted as hosts. A bountiful meal was served with food generously given by the Normal school dining hall. This was prepared and served by a committee of Alpha men: Ira Stopford, Newell Paire, James Nocas, Paul Nordman and Neil Sullivan.

Pres. Paul K. Stimson welcomed the guests and turned the meeting over to Robert Edmunds, captain of the local cross country team, who acted as toastmaster. Members of both teams were introduced by their coaches, following a short speech by William A. Caldwell. Other members of the faculty present included Messrs. Goodrich, Morrison, Adams, DeMar, and Blackington.

After a pleasant evening spent in games and group singing, the Gorham men were lodged in Shedd house which had been vacated by the Alphas for their use. This party was the first attempt by a school organization to entertain a visiting athletic team except by routine hospitality.

Hayes, Edward and Grove, G, tie for 10th, 11th, and 12th; 13th, Kulas, K; 14th, Travis, K.

Clarence H. DeMar accompanied the Keene team and ran with it but not as a team member. He came in fourth. The Gorham students were greatly pleased to have DeMar participate and before and after the race they besieged him with questions and interviews and requests for autographs.

Everett Packard is coach of the Gorham team and William A. Caldwell of the Keene team.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE

By H. B. P.

James A. Keech, instructor in chemistry, has been elected president of the Keene Philatelic society for the ensuing year. The society sponsored their second annual stamp exhibition during National Stamp week, on Nov. 7-8.

Local people to attend the annual meeting of the New Hampshire League of Arts and Crafts at Concord, recently, included Dean Isabelle U. Esten, the Misses Idella K. Farnum, Dorothy Willens and Miriam P. Hodges, all members of the Normal school faculty. Plans have been formed to establish a branch of the league in Keene. On a recent visit here Frank A. Staples of Concord, league director, stated that sales in the state for this season had already exceeded $24,000.

Miss Isabel M. Blake, instructor in the department of history, and faculty adviser of the local International Relations club, spoke on the topic of internationalism at a broadcast over station W.F.E.A. at Manchester recently. It was one of a series sponsored by the State Federation of Women's department of international relations.

Miss Janet C. Russell, assistant in music 1931-33, is spending the year in study in London, with a view of making concert work her profession. For the past two years she has been director of music in the schools of Concord. Miss Ruth B. Dieffenbach who was with the music department 1933-35 as assistant, is teaching music in the schools of Glastonbury, Conn., this year.

The class gift of 1935, a Pergola for the campus has been completed and has received a coat of paint. It is placed near the tennis courts just west of the sunken garden. It was built by local labor with funds contributed by last year's seniors. It is a fitting and much appreciated gift.

My pupil had never been near the ocean so when I asked him questions about the ocean he was all at sea.

Ruth Travers has been seriously considering taking Mrs. Ramsden's place. In fact she has already started calling floor meetings.

Fire, fire, where was the fire? We wished that we'd found it on the night of Oct. 15. It was a pretty cold night for a pajama parade.

Kora thinks that the Keene fire department is not very efficient. It was called to Huntress because the exit lights were burning and left without putting them out.

Has anyone a map-stand which he would lend to Miss Blake? In class the other day she found Kermit Bennett unsatisfactory; the maps just wouldn't turn over his shoulders. And we can't spoil the maps by cutting a hole for his head!

In the poetry contest conducted last spring by the English club a board of judges composed of persons outside the school community awarded first prize to Miss Helen Pratt, Keene, and the second to Miss Vanetta Clawson, Spofford. Miss Clawson's poem has already appeared in THE KRONICLE, and it is our plan to print the winning verse of Miss Pratt in an early number.

Shirley: Of course.

Mr. Gifford: And if he asked you to go a second and a third time, you'd go?

Shirley: Yes.

Mr. Gifford: But now suppose that this young man was from the northern part of the British Isles—

Shirley, interrupting: That's all the better. So am I.

The program was outlined and each college was assigned special study for its group between now and then.

the Misses Claudia Croteau '36, Marlboro; Marie I. Johnson '36, Deering; and Louise N. Hatch '37, Milford, all members of elementary divisions. The day Saturday was taken up with visiting classes at the sister institution. The return to Keene was made on Sunday afternoon.

The returning group were enthusiastic in praise of the hospitality which had been accorded them in the Green Mountain state, and prepared to receive their newly made friends and to assist in giving them an equally good impression of Keene.

The Vermont delegation reached here on Sunday for a full day of activity on Monday. Faculty representatives were Mrs. Ruth Hewitt, head of the department of home economics, and Miss Mary A. Markham, director of music. The students were Miss Mary O'Neil, Rutland, president of the senior class; Miss Natalie Sherman, Fair Haven, editor-in-chief of the school paper, and Miss Margaret Flynn, Rutland, president of International club. All were students in the fourth year of the elementary curriculum.

At the Monday assembly in Spaulding gym a special musical program was presented by the school orchestra under the direction of Harry W. Davis, and the visiting students told of some of the activities at their institution.

The remainder of the day was spent in attending classes. The faculty guests were invited to the tea and address by Deputy Commissioner Walter M. May in the Hale building in the late afternoon. A visit to the school camp and to the points of interest in and about Keene completed the formal program of entertainment. The return to Castleton was made on Tuesday morning.

The exchange was arranged by Pres. Wallace E. Mason and Caroline S. Woodruff of Castleton as an experiment. It was the sisted Mr. Drenan included these members of the club; assistant director, Miss Ruth Mary Doe, Northwood; stage manager, Richard O. Trufant, Peterboro; assistant stage manager, Newell Paire, Keene; scene wright, Mr. Brett; electrician, Ross Gale, Rutland, Vt.; property manager, Ira Stopford, Portsmouth; assistant property manager, Vladimir Leskowitz, Keene; make-up, Miss Velma Peirce, Peterborough and Miss Alfreda Kyrka, Franklin; and business manager, Robert F. Edmunds, London.

A program note made clear to the audience the objective of the school Dramatic club in giving its productions. It read as follows: "The purpose of the club is not to develop actors but to help students in learning the many things necessary to stage production, assembly programs, and similar activities in their own schools."

Education Week

As this issue of THE KRONICLE is being set up and printed American Education week is being observed throughout the nation. The Keene Woman's club through its committee on education was sponsor for a series of articles published in the local daily "The Sentinel." These were designed to call attention of the public to the work of our schools and to the problems in the field of education.

For each day of the week there was a special subject considered. On Wednesday, Nov. 13, the topic was "The Nation and the Schools." Pres. Wallace E. Mason contributed a paper based on this subject. Some of the outstanding sentences from Dr. Mason's article are as follows: "The schools in our land are right in teaching loyalty through respect for the flag which is a symbol for all our people."

"Children thus educated by a nation thus educationally minded will never permit a dictator."

GOVERNOR and COUNCIL AP-
PROVE CAMPUS PURCHASEWilcox Estate on Winchester Street
Is Added to K.N.S. Property

A recent meeting of the governor and council gave the necessary authority to the State Board of Education for the purchase of the so-called Wilcox property next to Blake House, on Winchester street. The property includes the former home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wilcox and the vacant lot between it and the home economics practice house, directly across the street from Fiske and Butterfield halls.

All friends of Keene Normal will rejoice in this substantial addition to the school plant. The house is well suited to be made a cottage dormitory, thus saving the rent of one other cottage. This will also assist in the movement to centralize the student body near the school.

Pres. Wallace E. Mason expressed himself particularly

SOCIAL CHANGE IS MADE TO ALLOW GUESTS AT SAT-URDAY NIGHT PROGRAMS

A change has been made in the regulations concerning guests at the regular Saturday evening socials at the school. Hitherto, there have been no guests allowed on the floor during the period of dancing, though they were welcome to enjoy the entertainment programs.

Since the membership of the school is somewhat smaller this year and the accommodations for dancers are not as restricted the social committee changed the ruling in regard to guests. The

CAMPUS CLUB REVIEW

RURAL CLUB HOLDS "GRANGE MEETINGS"

Members of the Rural club arranged the program for the social on Saturday, Nov. 23, and the entertainment took the form of an "open Grange meeting," with Vernon J. Perkins, Lyme, as master, and other members filling the other chairs. Miss Josephine Karwacki, Manchester, acted as lecturer and introduced the musical and literary numbers. These consisted of songs by the "Grangers," readings, solos, and a talk by David W. Armstrong, Grafton Center, on "What is the Grange."

Miss Idella K. Farnum, instructor and adviser of the club, assisted the students in the preparation of the program. Other faculty members who served as patrons and patronesses included Mr. and Mrs. Spencer E. Eaton, Miss Augusta Pragst and Melvin J. West. The committee in charge of the social was composed of Miss Natalie A. Haddock, Lakeport, and James H. Leh, Keene.

Following the program dancing was enjoyed with music by a student orchestra: Miss Virginia Hough, Lebanon; Miss Ruth L. Hoey, Gonic; Miss Ruth E. Bernier, Exeter; Miss Ruth Mary Doe, Northwood; and Carl G. Bartlett, Concord.

Academy of Science

The Academy of Science initiated a new idea by holding open house at the school camp on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 24. About forty-five students attended this first open house to take part in singing old songs, toasting marshmallows and having an altogether pleasant afternoon. This plan gives students an opportunity to walk out to the school camp and there enjoy beside the open fireplace, a refreshing cup of tea or coffee before returning to school.

VARIOUS CLUB ACTIVITIES

The Forum

So far this season the Forum has carried on an extensive program of debates and several more have been scheduled for the near future.

On November 15 the Men's Varsity Team engaged in a debate at Boston University on the Supreme Court question. Speakers representing Keene were Neil Sullivan and Louis Montrone.

On November 19 the Men's Varsity Team sent a group to Fitchburg Normal to debate the federal control of radio. Keene speakers were: Robert Edmunds, Laurence Goss, Robert Zieff, and Philip Ide, taking the rebuttal.

The Women's Varsity Team held its first two debates on Nov. 21 and 22, when a team was sent to Vermont to debate the medical question. Those representing Keene were the Misses Phyllis O'Brien, Doris Delaware, and Jean Taylor. At the same time the Men's debating team consisting of Neil Sullivan and Robert Edmunds debated with the University of Vermont on the same question.

On December 3 another debate with the Middlebury College team on the subject of socialized medicine was held in Parker Hall. The Keene team consisted of the Misses Helen Tsiotas, Dorothy Woinick, Marion Bergeron, and Jean Taylor.

Other debates scheduled include one with Fitchburg Teachers college at Keene, and four to be broadcast over station W. F. E. A., two in December and two during January.

Rural Club

The Rural club initiated twenty-nine new members at the school camp at the beginning of the school year. The program was in charge of Miss Ruth Brown. Everyone enjoyed stunts games, and singing at the time. Miss Lois Parker was in charge of the floor committee, and how we all did eat!

International Relations Club

When the Executive committee of the Model League, at which Keene Normal school was represented, met at Connecticut college, in New London, on Sunday, Nov. 3, representatives submitted to the Secretary-General a list of countries which their colleges wished to represent.

In view of the allocating of the countries at the Steering committee meeting of Dec. 8, Keene's list specified, according to her preference, the following countries: Turkey, Egypt, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Spain, Argentina.

The next meeting of the Executive committee will be held at Smith college, on Sunday, Jan. 12.

Nu Beta Upsilon

Using as the basis of their program, the play "When Keene Was Very Young" by Sewall Ford, published recently in the "Yankee," the Home Economics club sponsored the program for the social of Nov. 16. The Central figure in the sketch was Nathan Blake, early local pioneer, in whose home now remodelled, the home economics laboratory is situated. The part of Mr. Blake was taken by Miss Charlotte Redden, Portsmouth. Other parts were taken by members of the club.

Miss Lois Melendy, Hollis, was general chairman in charge of the program. Those assisting her included Miss Lois E. Steere, Littleton, costumes; Miss Ruth B. Little, Manchester, properties; and Miss Alfreida Kyrka, Franklin, make-up.

The play proved a well rounded combination of dramatic effort, historic instruction, and genuine entertainment.

Orchestral music for dancing was furnished by a student orchestra.

SIGMA PI EPSILON GROUP STUDIES MODERN DRAMA

The Sigma Pi Epsilon has undertaken the study of modern drama as its yearly project. Noel Coward and his plays: "Cavalcade," "Bittersweet," and "Design for Living" furnished the material for the meeting of Nov. 19. The order of the program was as follows: "Interesting Facts of Noel Coward's Life," Miss Barbara Severance; comments upon his plays seen by members of the club; resume of "Design for Living," the Misses Lucille Plante and Dorothy Plaisted; Miss Plante read selections from the latter play which illustrated the author's attitude toward life, his style of writing and his mannerisms.

In a period of open discussion it was brought out that Coward's attitude was essentially modern, his dialogue racy and natural, and his themes clever, but odd. Miss Severance concluded the program by reading Noel Coward's personal comments upon his own plays.

Manchester Club Dance

The second annual Thanksgiving week dance for students and alumni of K. N. S. sponsored by the Manchester club of the school, was held at A. C. A. hall, Nov. 29, with more than 200 attending. Guests were present from Portsmouth, Concord, Laconia and other cities and towns of the state.

The ballroom was attractively decorated in green and white and music was furnished by a well known dance band. Headmaster and Mrs. Carl P. James of Manchester Central and Mr. and Mrs. Chris J. Agrafiotis, were the chaperons.

The student committee in charge of the affair was composed of Neil Sullivan, president of the club, chairman, and Miss Mae Youngquist, Miss Katherine Gage, Miss Georgia Day and James Nocas.

GIFTS TO MASON LIBRARY

The Mason library has received several valuable gifts of late and the president, faculty and student-body appreciate the kindness of friends in the city who take such an active interest in the institution.

During the summer there came from the Faulkner estate a large and valuable collection of framed pictures, reproductions of works of art and European cathedrals. These have been hung in the various rooms of the building. Also included in the collection were several casts of masterpieces of sculpture.

Miss M. Eleanor Prentiss has given a large number of back numbers of Country Life and other periodicals. Mrs. Frederick C. Stearns has presented a collection of foreign photographs which are valuable to art students, and Miss Mary L. Saxton, Keene librarian, has given a large quantity of duplicates from her own collection of pictures. From Miss Margaret Twitchell came a beautiful book of hand-colored scenes in Glacier National park.

The latest gift is a large number of volumes of "The National Geographic" Magazine from Mrs. A. A. Pratte, at the request of her late husband, Dr. A. A. Pratte, for many years school physician of the city of Keene and the Normal school.

Freshman Girl Honored

Miss Edith Sanborn, Epping, a member of the freshman class, has received a singular honor, in being selected as "the most outstanding all-round 4-H club girl of the state." As a reward for this distinction Miss Sanborn was selected to be one of four New Hampshire girls to attend the national 4-H club congress held at Chicago, Dec. 1-6. Miss Mary L. Sanborn, Durham, assistant state club leader in New Hampshire university extension service accompanied the four girls.

KAPPA NEWS

The annual dance held in the Spaulding Gym on Nov. 22, was a great success. A large number of alumni returned for the occasion. The room was transformed into an indoor garden by the use of streamers, live plants and a large crystal ball in the center. Colored lights helped to make a pleasant atmosphere.

In the receiving line were Pres. and Mrs. Wallace E. Mason, Dean Esten and Assistant Dean Fernald, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer E. Eaton, and Francis Linseott, president of the Gamma chapter with his partner, Miss Ethel Fish, Keene.

Jesse Davis, Hampstead, was in charge of the decorating committee.

Refreshments of punch and of cookies during intermission were in charge of Kenneth Creighton, Hampton; Donald Cooney, Enfield was in charge of the general program.

Music by an eight-piece band added much to the program.

ART DEPT.

Work has already begun in the redecorating of the art studio on the third floor of the Hale building. The walls have been cleaned preparatory to receiving a coat of paint. It is planned to have the new color scheme include a cream color for the walls and an attractive shade of green for the woodwork. This will make the room very much lighter and generally more attractive.

The Arden Art club has started work on a Christmas project, which this year will be the making of blocks for printing Christmas cards. Any student may sign up for this work even if they have not had previous experience, and have no especial talent. It has been decided not to have a school calendar as in several years past.

An art club has been formed in the city and students and alumni interested in the subject are invited to join. Harry Donnelly is president and Miss Christine Ek, graduate of K. N. S. in the art supervisory department, is secretary.

ALPHA PI TAU

Plans are underway for the annual "Alpha Night" to be presented on some Saturday evening in the gym. Indications are that the program this year will be up to the usual high standard, and equally amusing.

Reports from brothers who are off the campus engaged in practice teaching, Paul K. Stimson, Newell Paire, and Waldo Streeter are to the effect that they are happy in their assignments and are getting along well.

Congratulations to the following alumni:

To Brother Bill Steele, '31 on completion of a successful year as president of the Charlestown Community Men's club.

To Brother Neal Curtin, '33, recently made director of the Young Men's Republican club of Portsmouth, his home town.

To Brother Johnnie Whitehead '33 now principal of the Bartlett grade school building, Goffstown.

TRADES and INDUSTRIES

Of the members of the class of 1937 of the Trades and Industries curriculum, George Corson, Dover and Ira Stopford, Portsmouth, are off campus this quarter in industry. Robert Omand, Manchester, is working in the school shop.

Of the senior class in this curriculum Waldo Streeter, Keene, is at Rochester High school, Paul Corrette, Lebanon, at Hancock High and Francis Linseott, Exeter, at Dover.

Laverne Bushnell, our new instructor, has moved his family to Keene and now occupies a home at 20 Appleton Street.

Prof: Describe the mechanism of a steam shovel.

Student: Do you mean to tell me you can carry steam on a shovel?

Gentleman: Where is the foreman of this crew?

Worker: I dunno there's only three of us working here.

HOME ECONOMICS

Dr. J. O. Stuart Murray of Keene was the speaker at a recent meeting of the home Economics club. The subject of his talk was the home life of the French Canadians. In closing Dr. Murray recited several typical poems in Canadian dialect.

Many favorable comments have been heard on the home economics dramatic program given at the Saturday evening social on Nov. 16. It was based on a play dealing with the early settlers of Keene, one of whose families lived at Blake house, our laboratory.

Members of the department are, as usual at this season, busy with different Christmas projects. One of these is the making of a Christmas box which is to be given to a needy family in Keene.

Miss Lois Steere, '37, Littleton, has been selected as home economics editor of "THE KRONICLE."

MUSIC NOTES

Christmas programs under the direction of Jesse F. Davis will be given on December twenty-second in the morning at Westmoreland and in the evening at Sturtevant chapel.

A trio consisting of Misses Elizabeth Goodale, piano; Elizabeth Giradet, violin; and Virginia Symonds, zyllophone, played at the 2HE and 2HM Public Speaking banquet held at the school camp.

Jesse F. Davis sang at the Sturtevant Chapel, at the Marlboro Woman's Club, and at the union farewell service for Rev. Raymond Chappell at the Baptist Church, Keene.

Let's strive to make our Keene Normal school orchestra "bigger and better," one of the main features at K. N. S.

Laverne Bushnell, of the faculty, has organized a Keene Normal School band for boys and girls.

KEENE KRONICLE

The Keene Kronicle, published during the early part of each month for students, alumni, and friends of the state normal school, Keene, N.H. Subscription, 50 cents per year.

EDITORIAL

Probably no one of us fully realizes the advantages which our training here at Keene has over the work in the ordinary Liberal Arts College, in preparation for a teaching career. Some of us complain because we have so few academic courses, and because every subject is more or less professionalized. Certainly, in order to acquire the well-rounded personality so indispensable to the good teacher, we do need a large measure of the so-called "cultural" studies, and of general information—perhaps more than we are able to crowd into the brief time allotted us here. On the other hand, this attitude, which becomes here a habit of relating practically everything to the teaching situation, has a distinct though often unfelt, value to anyone who is to do any teaching whatever.

Even in our practice-teaching, it is probable that many of us fail to appreciate the benefit of this constant atmosphere.

Especially in training schools where supervision is closer it may be difficult to recognize this. In the school where I received my experience, however, where we started our work with no more direction than the teacher in a regular position, it was noticeable that the actual teaching seemed to us the only logical outcome of our previous training. Though we naturally felt a qualm or two in approaching our first classes, every one of us remarked that teaching seemed "the most natural thing in the world."

Often in comparing notes with college graduates who are starting their teaching in almost identical situations, we find that they are having a struggle with problems which we solve as a matter of course; that they work far into the night preparing lessons, although in the subject matter they have probably a better background than we; in fact they lack the assurance which we have gained, almost unconsciously, in our class work. Therefore, even without our practice-teaching experience, we may honestly feel that we are better prepared to teach. Of course—for those of us who want positions in Junior and Senior High Schools—it's quite another matter to convince the superintendents. —H.M.P.

EDUCATION NOTES

The November issue of the Journal of the N. E. A. contains an article entitled "The Story of an Experiment" by Supt. Louis P. Benezet, of Manchester. In this article Supt. Benezet tells of his success in introducing the study of arithmetic into the later grades of the elementary school.

The annual meeting of the Department of Superintendence is scheduled for Feb. 22-27 at Saint Louis. The newly completed Memorial Plaza will afford a spacious auditorium for the sessions of the conference. Supt. A. J. Stoddard of Providence, R. I. is this year president of this department of the N.E.A.

Most outstanding of the Student Council's accomplishments during the past year at Franklin Junior High, Highland Park, N. J., was the adoption of the progress honor roll to replace the honor roll.

The new roll was the result of long research into systems used in other schools. It is based on democratic principles and stresses improvement over one's self instead of over one's classmates. —Student Leader.

Almost a million teachers and thousands of other persons—including custodians, engineers, bus drivers, school clerks, social workers, and public health officials—are required to keep the schools in operation. There were about two per cent fewer teachers, principals and supervisors last year than in 1932, altho total school enrollments were higher by about 500,000 pupils.

A new men's dormitory was recently dedicated at State Teachers college, Trenton, N. J., Roscoe L. West, president. It has been named Bliss Hall in honor of Dr. Don C. Bliss, Dartmouth '92, a former president of the institution. Dr. Bliss gave the address on the occasion of the dedicatory exercises on the subject "Spirit Makes a College."

KEEPING UP WITH THE WORLD

One of the most frequent, and perhaps one of the most justifiable criticisms of present-day college students is the statement that we fail to keep in touch with the world—that we don't read the papers. It is easy to allow ourselves to become so engrossed in a constant round of studies and campus life that the outside world more or less ceases to exist as far as we're concerned. Quite natural and explainable, but certainly none of us will go so far as to call it desirable.

In Mrs. Poole's lectures this winter we are offered an unusual opportunity to catch up and to check up on our knowledge and understanding of "history in the making." We should all welcome this chance to hear current events discussed intelligently and without bias. Still we mustn't think of this as a substitute for keeping in touch with the news. Those who heard Mrs. Poole's first talk will agree, I'm sure, that she will stimulate us to follow the news even more closely from day to day.

According to a survey made during the past month by the New York Times, college enrollment is increasing. The survey showed a gain of 6.6 per cent. over last year in student number.

Political theory is coming steadily into educational practice. Everywhere there is a heightened realization of the need to make the school develop the national ideals. —Isaac Kandel.

All education must be social, civic, and ultimately political. —John Dewey.

Universities and high schools in Bolivia are running full blast for the first time since the Chaco war with Paraguay started in 1932. The June armistice permitted students to return from the front, and the universities were reopened in June.

1936 TRIENNIAL ALUMNI GATHERING NEXT JUNE

Officers Urge "Old Grads" to Return to School at Graduation Time

Attention Alumni!

It is not too early to plan to attend the 1936 Triennial Alumni reunion which will be held at the school in connection with the graduation season in June of next year. This will be the sixth meeting of the General Alumni club. The exact date and outline plans for the meeting will be announced in due course. The meeting in 1933 was a distinct success, and since that time something over 350 names have been added to the list of graduates of the institution. This should swell the attendance at least 50 per cent.

The officers of the association are: president, Cleon E. Heald, Portsmouth; vice-president, Miss Margaret Morse, Brattleboro, Vt.; corresponding secretary, Miss Mary Philbrick, Portsmouth; recording secretary, Miss Harriet Bryer, Peterborough; and treasurer, Mrs. Maude S. Holton, Keene.

All up for the 1936 Reunion!

LOCKE-STRATTON

Miss Mildred G. Stratton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome B. Stratton of 9 Abbott street, Nashua, was married recently to Edward B. Locke, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Locke of Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Mrs. Locke is a graduate of Nashua High school, and following her graduation at Keene in 1926 took post graduate work at the University of New Hampshire. For the past several years she has been instructor in clothing in the home economics department of the Milton, Mass., High school. Mr. Locke was graduated from the Mechanics Arts High school in Boston, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and is at present engaged in army work. The couple will reside in Copake, N.Y.

VARIED ATHLETIC TRAINING FOR FUTURE TEACHERS AT K.N.S.

FALL SPORTS DAY

Fall sports day for the girls of K.N.S. was held on Sat. Nov. 16 with women from Fitchburg, Mass., State Teachers' college as guests playing side by side with their hosts and not as rivals. About 130 participated in the various events.

The Yellows, captained by Miss Ruth Chadwick, Methuen, Mass., nosed out the Blue team captained by Miss Edith A. Noble, Mont Vernon, 18 to 16. There was a field hockey game, archery and tennis in the morning and the parade was held after lunch, followed by badminton, bowling and swimming in the afternoon.

The parade was in the form of a mock funeral procession marking the burial of the long life of athletic rivalry or "bone of contention." The "bones" were borne to the athletic field on Hyde street in a blue and yellow casket with the pall bearers dressed in the same colors. The body was cremated.

The first morning event was a hockey game at 10 o'clock which ended in a tie. Following this the archery and tennis tournaments were begun and lasted until lunch at 12:30.

At 1:30 the badminton and bowling tournaments were held in the gym. The badminton players were about as evenly matched as those playing tennis, and only after several close games did the yellows triumph. The Yellows were also successful in bowling by a narrow margin of 312 to 309.

Swimming concluded the day's events and in this the Blues walked away with the honors, 59 to 40.

Miss Lovell of Fitchburg scored high honors for the Blues in diving. Novel events were the balloon race and the magazine relay in which the swimmers read aloud out of magazines while they swam up and down the pool.

Miss Francis E. Smith of Meredith had high score in archery and Miss Shirley McIntyre of Whitefield was second. Miss Thelma F. Page of Hampton and Miss A. Fiske of Fitchburg, were tied for high bowling honors. Miss Alice Hoskiewicz of Springfield, Vt., was second, and Miss E. McSheehy of Fitchburg was third.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The girls' basketball squad held its first practice in the gym on Dec. 2 with 63 girls reporting. Division and class games will be played soon, followed by the color game.

The traditional games with Plymouth will be played, the first at Plymouth Jan 18, and the return game at Keene, Feb. 8. At Plymouth the center jump will be used and at Keene the throw-in from the side.

Miss Josephine Bolger, physical director at Fitchburg, accompanied the young ladies from the state teachers college.

BOYS' SPORT NOTES

Basketball

Coach W.A. Caldwell called basketball practice on Nov. 18. His call was responded to by 17 good men. Among them were Art. Giovannangeli, Jimmy Leh, Stan. Johnson, Neil Sullivan, Kenneth Creighton, stars of last year; and a gang new whirlwinds including Paul MacNamara, Robert Tapply, Gordon Tate, David Applebaum, and Paul Clark.

This year promises to be a very good one because only two of last year's regulars were lost by graduation. Also, the games will be much faster because of a few changes in the amateur rules. Games have been scheduled with most of the other Teachers colleges of New England, and the Keene "Y" club.

The following is the complete schedule with some dates still tentative:

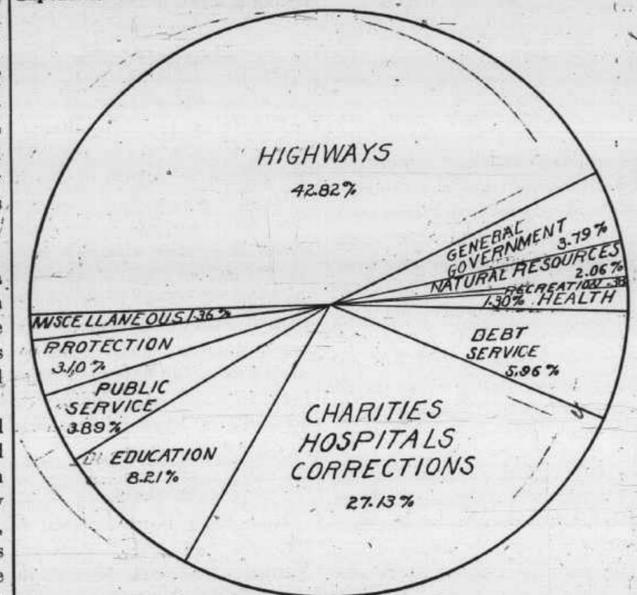

- Dec. 7—Castleton Normal School, at Castleton, Vt.
- Dec. 12—Keene "Y" Seniors in Spaulding gym.
- Dec. 19—Keene at Gorham, Me.
- Jan. 10, 1936—Keene at New Britain, Conn.
- Jan. 13—Castleton, Vt., Normal school here.
- Jan. 15—Keene at Fitchburg, Mass.
- Jan. 17—Gorham, Me., Teachers college here.
- Jan. 18—Hyannis, Mass., teachers college, here.
- Feb. 8—University of New Hampshire freshmen at Durham.
- Feb. 13—Keene at Salem, Mass.
- Feb. 26—B. U. Freshmen at Boston.
- Feb. 28—New Britain, Conn., State Teachers college here.
- Mar. 4—B. U. Freshmen here.
- Mar. 6—Salem Teachers college here.

Let's all turn out and give our team the best support that it has ever known! Show some of that "school spirit" that we are all supposed to possess!

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE

By H. B. P.

Miss Vryling W. Buffum, librarian, was the speaker recently, at a meeting of the Hancock Women's club. Miss Alice M. Stone, assistant librarian was a member of the board of judges at the 12th annual prize speaking for the Dennis O'Shea cup, held at the Laconia High school on Nov. 22.

Members of the faculty and a number of the student body are enjoying the monthly talks on current affairs sponsored by the Keene Women's club, and held in Parker hall. The talks are given by Mrs. Grace Morrison Pool, dean of Stonleigh college. Rye, and former president of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

Keene Normal has lost a firm friend in the passing of Mrs. Mary A. Prentice. Her home next to the Mason library and directly opposite the school campus brought her into contact with many faculty members and students. She retained her interest in education and its problems due to her early life as a teacher. Mrs. Prentice was active until a few months ago in many civic social organizations of Keene.

Pres. Wallace E. Mason was in Boston on Nov. 15, to attend a two-day conference of the New England Teachers' Training association. The meeting was held in connection with the 18th meeting of the New England Association of School Superintendents, and the Massachusetts School Superintendents' association.

Dr. Edith MacArthur, head of the department of home economics spoke recently on nutrition before the Wheelock Parent Teachers' association. Miss Isabel M. Blake, instructor in history has filled several engagements during the fall, among them the Fortnightly club of Keene, and the Women's club of East Swanzey.

River Issue

Undaunted by the recent court decision that the Connecticut is a New Hampshire river, the current issue of THE DIAL, Brattleboro, Vt., High school publication, is a "Connecticut River issue." There is a story, two essays, and several bits of verse on that topic. The illustrations also carry out the theme. A good idea!

What's Going On

BOSTON UNIVERSITY NEWS, a weekly, often carries in a "box" on the front page a list of attractions current at local theatres, concert halls, etc. In this way attention of the student body is called to the cultural opportunities of the metropolitan area.

A Distinguished Record

The November number of "The College at Springfield BULLETIN" is largely given over to appreciation of the work of the president of the institution, Dr. Laurence L. Doggett, who has held the position since Aug. 1, 1896. Home Coming Day at Springfield this year, on Nov. 23, was set aside as "President Doggett Day."

Junior High Annual

Through the kindness of Everett V. Thompson, K.N.S., '25, we have received the annual (tenth anniversary issue), of "THE STYLUS" from Lincoln Junior High school, Malden, Mass. Both in literary make-up and in the mechanical detail it is a most worthy publication. Mr. Thompson is a member of the staff of this school, in charge of science, and the band.

Dance Recital

State Teachers college, Mankato, Minn., recently sponsored a dance recital by Ted Shawn, in which the American ballet "John Brown Sees the Glory" was a featured number.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

Mr. Morrison, discussing individual differences and the influence of situations upon personal reactions: "Now, I was fussy this morning—and complained about the breakfast set before me. It was an excellent breakfast for an ordinary man, but I'm no ordinary man after I've been out until one o'clock."

B. Harris, reporting in history class: "This speech, probably James Otis' best, lasted for five years."

We wonder how long the audience lasted!

Does anyone know when the 3 H J division is supposed to have economics on Friday afternoon? First they go at two, then at three, and then at two and three.

Miss Blake: "—but now that theory has been exploded." Voice from back of room: "BANG!"

M. Foster, reporting on home economics project: "This project proved successful because the children have taken an interest not only in their own families but in the neighbors' families."

Do they need a project for that?

Miss Gregory, trying to guide a discussion of the comparative production of world powers: "I'm sorry, Miss Day, but I'm afraid you have consumption." Poor Georgia!

Student, reading a proposal for a project: "Then come rehearsals, staging, and general concrete work."

Mr. Morrison: "They must be giving this in a concrete stadium."

Shirley: "I read a book by Arnold for today."

Miss Randall: "Yes, what of it?"

VERSE

(The following poem won first prize in the contest last spring sponsored by the English club. —H.B.P.)

Hospitality

There isn't much I have to offer you—
I haven't very much myself you see,
What I do have, though, you are welcome to—

No little cakes with marmalade and tea
Served in a gracious room before the fire
No polished table under Flemish lace

With gleaming silver, bright as heart's desire,
And fragile crystal, etched with antique grace,
That shimmers in the changeful candlelight,
No faintly-perfumed linen sheets at night;

No deeply-cushioned chairs for idle talk;
Not even shaded lawn with winding walk;
But you may sit beneath my apple-tree,
Share my blue sky, and all outdoors, with me.

—Helen M. Pratt.

The Manchester club presented an interesting program which pleased at the foresight of the board members in protecting the school against the possibility of the undesirable use of the land and buildings so close to the campus. It is expected that the necessary negotiations with the trustees of the Wilcox estate will be completed within a short time.

Another improvement to the material plant recently completed is the installation of a forced control draft at the central heating plant. Beside the advantages of a saving in labor and coal, it is expected that there will be even more heat produced and a greatly reduced amount of smoke. It has already, during the first weeks of its installation, proved its worth, according to engineer Elmer F. Beard.

The system is operated by two automatic fans which supply a steady flow of air, through pipes, over the top of the fire in each of the three boilers. This air eats up the gases. The continual flow is air is considered superior to the blower system or forced draft.

All state-owned buildings on the campus, including the home economics house and the green house on Winchester street, the Mason library on Main street, Spaulding gymnasium, the Kappa fraternity house, and other cottage dormitories on Appian Way, as well as the two main dormitories, are heated from the central plant.

Following the program, dancing was enjoyed until 11 o'clock.

following is the new regulation, which we print as a matter of record and for the convenience of those who wish to extend the privilege of the socials to former students or other guests:

"Any former student of the school may be a guest at the Saturday night social once during a semester, under the following conditions:

"1. Application is to be made for a guest card at the office before Saturday noon.

"Any student who is entertaining a guest at the school for a week-end may obtain a guest card for this friend in accordance with the above rules. It is understood that this will not increase the quota of 12 guest cards."

Miss Elizabeth E. Gregory is chairman of the faculty social committee.

DR. McGLYNN, POPULAR INSTRUCTOR, SUCCEEDED BY MRS. MARY D. DEANS

Just before the Christmas recess Pres. Wallace E. Mason announced that Dr. M. Edna McGlynn, for over seven years a popular member of the faculty, had been released to accept a position at State Teachers' college, Salem, Mass. During her stay here Miss McGlynn made many friends. She was not only a popular teacher of her subject, social science, but a leader in school and community activities. She had held the position of sponsor of the Forum, and De La Salle club, and had been coach of varsity debating. In the community she was an officer and active member of the women's organization of St. Bernard's parish, serving as vice-regent of the Catholic Daughters of America.

At Salem, Dr. McGlynn takes the place of Miss Lena FitzHugh, retired, who had held the position.

MEXICAN PATIO SILHOUETTES FEATURE DECORATIONS FOR ANNUAL MID-YEAR BALL

Wall Paintings, Tapestry, and Red Tile Roof Complete Friendly Atmosphere for Dance —Senoritas Serve Refreshments from Spanish Jars at Stone Well

On Friday evening, Jan. 24, more than 80 couples attended the annual Mid-Year Ball in Spaulding gymnasium. In agreeable contrast to the near-zero weather outside, the dancers found themselves in the warm atmosphere of an old Mexican patio. Through arched windows one looked out upon palms and cacti silhouetted against the desert night; while wall paintings, tapestry, cacti, and other appropriate details added color to the interior; and a red-tile roof around the balcony completed the illusion.

A center of interest was the refreshment booth, in the form of a stone well, bright with Spanish mosaics, surrounded by water jars, and topped by a cleverly constructed grotesque of a bull's head. Here, gayly-dressed Senoritas served punch, ice-cream, and cookies to the dancers. Every detail seemed in perfect keeping, and many remarked how admirably the motif was adapted to the architecture of the hall.

A reception was held prior to the dancing with the patrons and patronesses, Pres. and Mrs. Wallace E. Mason, H. Dwight Carle, Miss Isabelle U. Esten, Miss Ida M. Fernald, Miss Edith MacArthur, Miss Mabel R. Brown, and

TWO SPECIAL SPEAKERS ADDRESS STUDENT BODY IN ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

Students and faculty of K.N.S. have been privileged to hear two interesting out-of-town speakers, recently. Members of the Outing club of Keene were special guests at Spaulding gymnasium on Jan. 20, when Winston H. Pote of Lynn, Mass., showed his thrilling reels of moving pictures of Mount Washington; and on Jan. 23, Dr. Samuel W. Grafflin of White Plains, N.Y., gave an inspirational talk to the student body.

In the case of the first lecture, Mr. Pote showed four moving pictures covering some of his experiences skiing in the White Mountains; life on the summit of Mount Washington, observing weather conditions, etc.

The lecturer interspersed much humor in his pictures. He reversed several of the movie reels, particularly one which showed a

CAMPUS CLUB REVIEW

KAPPA KOONS APPEAR IN ANNUAL MINSTREL SHOW

The social of Saturday, Jan. 11, was given over to the annual minstrel show of the Kappa fraternity, known as the "Kappa Koons."

With Fred Barry of Charlestown, Vernon Perkins of Lyme Center, Richard Trufant from Peterboro and Ross Gale of Rutland, Vt., as the black-faced and brilliantly costumed end-men, and Daniel Sullivan of Portsmouth as the tuxedoed interlocutor, the fraternity men, 18 in number, including J. Lawrence Bucher of Alton at the piano, formed a large semi-circle on the stage. Except for the end-men and the interlocutor, the men were informally dressed in tieless white shirts and dark and white trousers.

Besides chorus numbers and the inevitable pertinent joke and wisecrack about some fellow student or faculty member, there were several specialty numbers. These included a violin solo by Clarence O. Richardson, Harrisville; a clarinette solo by Paul Corrette, Lebanon; and vocal solos by Jesse F. Davis, Hampstead and Sherman H. Joslyn, Monroe. The audience showed its appreciation by demanding encores.

The Kappa men presented also a guest artist in the person of little Miss Mary Lashua of Lincoln school who became the hit of the show with her agile and graceful acrobatic dancing. The students gave her great applause.

After the show, dancing was enjoyed until 9:30. Miss Martha E. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Davis and Harry B. Preston were faculty patrons and patronesses. Richard Trufant and Miss Natalie A. Haddock of Lakeport were the student members of the social committee in charge.

VARIOUS CLUB ACTIVITIES

Academy of Science
The Academy of Science held a luncheon meeting and initiation at the school camp, at Wilson pond on Jan. 13. Twenty-five students, mostly sophomores were made members. Richard O. Trufant, Peterboro, president, was in charge of the meeting, assisted by H. Dwight Carle and Mrs. Ethel Ramsden, faculty advisors. Games were played and the members joined in singing New Hampshire songs. They hiked home following the meeting.

The Academy has undertaken the task of preparing and arranging to display the large number of museum specimens recently donated to the school. We feel that it is in keeping with the purpose of the club to become better acquainted with the birds, insects, minerals and ethnological remains of this vicinity.

The Forum
The Forum completed its 1935 debating schedule with two radio debates over station WFEA, Manchester. The first was held on Dec. 4, with Boston university and the Supreme Court question was debated. Those representing Keene were: Neil Sullivan, Manchester, and Lewis Montrone, Keene, with Robert Edmunds, chairman. The second debate was held on Dec. 18 with Boston college and the medical question was debated. Keene speakers were: Robert Edmunds, London; Sherman Joslyn, Monroe; Ross Gale, Rutland, Vt.; with Phillip Ide, West Swanzey, chairman.

It is with deep regret that the Forum has lost its faculty adviser and coach, Dr. Edna M. McGlynn. The success of the club and its Varsity teams may be attributed to her kind and helpful work.

Orpheus Club
Guest night was observed by the Orpheus club at its January meeting held in Parker hall on the 13th, at which time Charles L. Brown of Gardner, Mass. formerly Keene, violinist, and Mrs. Edda Bennett Beal of Keene, accompanist, were featured artists.

In addition to the members of the club, a large number of other students and members of the faculty availed themselves of the invitation to listen to the program.

Mr. Brown selected his numbers with fine taste and judgment, playing a wide variety of pieces which appealed to both the critical musician and the casual listener. In all of his selections Mr. Brown skillfully met all the demands but won particular approval of his audience in his handling of many double-stop passages, and also by frequent use of the harmonics. Mrs. Beal handled the accompaniments well, the selections calling for exacting playing at all times.

Y. W. C. A.
The Y. W. C. A. with the help of the Dramatic Club, presented a very successful Saturday Night Social in the form of a Christmas Party. The comedy "Solitaire" by Leslie Carey, was presented by the Dramatic Club, after which, a social hour with the Christmas tree and dancing followed.

The Y. W. C. A. held a very interesting meeting on December 17, when a Christmas program was enjoyed. After the singing of a number of Christmas Carols by the members, Alexander G. Gifford gave a very interesting talk on "Christmas Customs in European Countries."

Rural Club
A regular meeting of the Rural club was held in Hale building

NEGRO SOCIAL WORKER ADDRESSES STUDENTS

The International Relations club, on the week-end of Dec. 14 brought for a series of talks and conferences E. Vernon Scott, negro social worker and musician, of Providence, R.I. Mr. Scott is a personal friend of Wesley F. Brett, president of the club. They met last summer at the International Institute, at Wellesley, Mass., where both were delegates.

Mr. Scott spoke on the problems of his race at a special Sunday evening meeting in the Huntress hall club room. A period of questions followed and a social hour. A committee of the club served cocoa and cakes. Several members of the faculty, including Frederick J. Simmons, head of the department of social science, were special guests of honor.

At the weekly assembly on Monday, Jan. 16, Mr. Scott sang several negro spirituals and also gave a short but pleasing talk. On Sunday the 15th, he was the speaker at services of several churches of Keene. The club is to be commended in bringing here from time to time, speakers with new view points on social and international topics.

Richard O. Trufant and Amilcare Scarponi, represented the local club on Sunday, Jan. 12 at a meeting of the steering committee in charge of the coming Williamstown, Mass., model league meeting. This was held on the campus of Smith college, Northampton, Mass.

on Jan. 14, with Miss Ruth Travers, Whitefield, presiding. The program for the evening consisted of an address by Harry B. Preston of the faculty, on "Old Covered Bridges of New Hampshire." Miss Augusta Pragst and Mrs. Mary D. Deans, faculty members were special guests.

REHEARSALS BEGIN FOR SPRING MUSICAL FESTIVAL

The first rehearsal of the school chorus for the spring festival has been held under the direction of Harry W. Davis, head of the music department of the school. The work upon which the chorus has started preparations is Gounod's opera "Faust" to be sung in cantata form. It is planned to have several musical organizations of the city join in the final production, reinforcing the numbers of the chorus to 150 voices.

This opera calls for six soloists, the leading parts are for tenor and for coloratura soprano. The date for the festival has not been set.

Something of the treat to be expected in the spring can be gained from the success of the Christmas concert given by the combined musical groups of the school on the evening of Sunday, Dec. 15. On that occasion the Woman's Glee club presented Nevin's "The Adoration" for the first part. Miss Barbara Severence of Hillsboro acted as reader, and the solo parts were taken by Miss Dorothy Orser, of Hillsboro, and Mrs. Mildred H. Whitecomb, Keene, a former K.N.S. music student. A group from the orchestra accompanied the work.

The second part consisted of an opening number by the chapel choir, with J. Laurence Bucher, accompanist. Jesse F. Davis, Hampstead, gave a baritone solo, and Carl G. Bartlett, Concord, played a trombone solo. There were three carols by a mixed quartette consisting of Harry W. Davis, tenor; Jesse F. Davis, Base; Mrs. Whitecomb, soprano; and Miss Virginia Hough, Lebanon, alto. The closing number by the chorus and full orchestra was the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah." Several musicians from the city assisted in the orchestra. Harry W. Davis was conductor for both parts one and two.

KAPPA NEWS

Back for the week-end of the minstrel show were several alumni, among them, Herbert Hecker, '33, Manchester; Thomas McCullough, '35, Sanbornton; and John Lylas, '34, Charlestown.

"Credit for the success of the show should go to all members of the fraternity, for each member had a part. General supervision of the performance was in charge of Daniel Sullivan, acting president, and the musical numbers were put on by J. Laurence Bucher, and Jesse F. Davis.

The house was decorated most beautifully for Christmas. Displays of colored lights and evergreens were used to good effect.

The "Gang" at the house on Appian way has again changed with the beginning of the third quarter. Crooker, Linscott and Corrette have succeeded Bucher, D. Sullivan and Richardson. The three later are practicing teaching.

ART DEPT.

A very attractive souvenir calendar has been received from Laconia High school, a project of the Art club there. This club is sponsored by Miss Grace Horr, a graduate of the K.N.S. art course and now supervisor of art in the schools of Laconia. The four designs of the calendar were first drawn on paper, then traced on linoleum block and cut by hand. The printing was done in the High school print shop.

The chief work of the past few weeks has centered in plans for the decoration of the gymnasium for the mid-year ball. Art students and teachers were assisted by other members of the school in the carrying out of the Spanish design. Many favorable comments were heard on the artistic success of the project.

Some attractive air views of school campus have been made and from the plates post cards have been printed. Also, small calendar pads have been added to make a serviceable calendar for 1936.

ALPHA PI TAU

The first issue of the year of "The Alpha Bulletin" went out to alumni and friends of the fraternity under date of Jan. 10. Featured in this number are two fine editorials "The Unrewarded Profession" and "Ideals are Different."

The program for a Saturday evening social, has been postponed from February until early spring. A committee has been selected to arrange for this event consisting of James Noucas, and Joseph Baines, Manchester, and Wesley F. Brett, Keene. It is hoped that a one-act play may be presented.

Another event to which members and alumni are looking forward to is the third annual banquet. This too, will be held in the spring.

And now, "full steam ahead" for the rushing season! Practically the same rules as last year have been approved by the dean's committee.

HOME ECONOMICS

Mrs. Marion F. Hudson was the speaker at a recent meeting of the Home Economics Club. She told us about home life in England and Scotland. She also showed household articles brought from these countries.

Freshman "HomeEccers" have been invited to join the club. Initiation will take place in a few weeks.

Students in child care went into a slightly different phase of the work for a few weeks this year and made and painted playthings for some Keene children.

The members of the club were busy just before mid-years with the plans and preparations for the Tea dance. Miss Charlotte Redden, Portsmouth, was chairman of the committee which worked with the members of Alpha Pi Tau for this event.

TRADES and INDUSTRIES

Members of the Junior class in this department are making preparations for rewiring the nature room for a new lighting system. A valuable collection of articles has recently been placed there and the new lights are needed to illuminate the specimens.

Robert Omand, Manchester, who is doing his period of industry at the Butterfield shop, is making new cone pulleys for the lathes in the woodworking shop.

Two new lights have been installed in the drafting room in order to better light the benches for the benefit of the drawing students.

Tragedy in the machine shop! Mr. Eaton found linseed oil in the machine oil can!

The attractive dance orders both for the mid-year ball and for the tea dance were made at the print shop.

MUSIC NOTES

Preparation for the May Festival have begun with rehearsals of the selections from Faust. Let's strive to make it bigger and better than ever before. We send out an S. O. S. call to the men singers, both bass and tenor, of Keene Normal School.

The Chapel Chapel members enjoyed a delightful supper, a rehearsal, and a social good time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Davis on Sunday night, Jan. 19. The Chapel Choir members express their gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Davis for the enjoyable evening.

The K. N. S. band is a factor in the basketball games. It gives courage and support to the team. Let's make our band bigger and better and support it in every way.

EDITORIAL

Have you heard such remarks around campus as "When is the Student Council going to do something? Where are the results of its meetings?" or have you forgotten that there is a Student Council?

To those of us who have been laboring to establish a working basis for the Council, such attitudes are difficult to explain. We wonder if the students, now that they have elected their representatives, feel that the Council is "all set to go." If so, their ideas should be corrected.

You, the students, should remember that this Student Council is an organization, initiated by you at your own request, not to represent one division or class of the student body, but to act for the entire registration of K.N.S. To make this organization worthwhile, your representatives must proceed carefully, first to get in working order and then to consider the definite purposes which it is to accomplish. Our Council has been far from inactive when, in three meetings, it has elected temporary officers, and drawn up, revised and accepted a constitution. Any workable constitution for an organization which is to be permanent requires much time and thought. It must be discussed in detail, questioned and proved to be practical. That old adage "Haste makes waste" has not lost its application. In a recent study made by one of our faculty members, it was found that of 225 normal schools in the United States 56 have or have had student representative bodies, seventeen of which have failed, one reason for this failure being "hasty legislation."

Though we may be moving slowly, we feel that it is far better to build up gradually, encouraging confidence in the Student Council, until we reach the point where we will be able to successfully do "big things." Our work during the first year, however, must be the accomplishment of those beginning steps which will vitalize the purpose of the Council as written in our recently drafted constitution. This purpose is to "serve as a medium through which greater cooperation may be obtained between students and faculty in matters pertaining to student interests and activities; and to take initiative steps in upholding and promoting the standards of K.N.S."

EDUCATION NOTES

J. C. Brown, superintendent of schools at Pelham, N.Y., has been elected president of the Council of School Superintendents of New York for the current year. Supt. Brown has been a speaker at Keene Normal twice within recent years: at the summer conference of superintendents and headmasters in 1929; and at the spring meeting of Cheshire county teachers in 1934.

Two internationally known educators passed away recently: James H. Breasted, well-known Egyptologist and writer of text books on Oriental history on Dec. 1, and Kenyon L. Butterfield, president of Massachusetts State College, 1906 to 1924 on Nov. 25.

Youth's brain power has been underestimated.

His Exalted Highness, the Nizam of Hyderabad, plans to present a radio set to each of his 20,000 villages when he celebrates the twenty-fifth anniversary of his reign in February. Accordingly, Hyderabad in India will be on the radio map next year and its 12,000,000-odd inhabitants will be able to tune in on the rest of the world and listen to election speeches, jazz, educational addresses, and all such delightful things. The movie and the radio are helping to make the whole world kin.
—New York Times.

Philosophy is the study of what men think; psychology is the study of why they think it.
—G. K. Chesterton.

James G. Reardon, of Adams, has been appointed commissioner of Education for the commonwealth of Massachusetts, succeeding Payson Smith, who held the position for 18 years. Former Commissioner Smith was the commencement speaker in Keene last June.

USE THE POOL

If human nature were not fairly constant, a proverb would never exist. However, "Someone else's pasture always looks greener" needs no explanation. We often envy other colleges for the things they have which Keene can not offer, yet we forget that there are times when we do not make the most of what we do have. Preaching? No just observing! How many nights is the swimming pool used? How many afternoons? One might think a swimming pool was a choice trinket only to be shown off to company and friends.

Where are the good swimmers? I suppose the Freshmen are keeping their stars until the winter splash meet in February. Maybe every swimmer in school is a "pro," yet how can judges choose invisible candidates for the color teams and class teams? Even if you are a beginner in diving or swimming, remember there are skilled instructors ready to help you, and "practice makes perfect."

The irony of it all! We abandon the swimming pool during the winter, because we are not accustomed to swim during the winter months, and when summer comes, we start for the lakes.

What's a swimmin' pool for, anyhow?
—D.F.P.

Nashua is to have a new High school building. Work has been begun on the site at South Common. Funds are being provided in part from the Federal government, and the work is in charge of a Hanover firm of contractors.

A recent checkup on winter term registration figures at the University of New Hampshire showed a mark only 80 lower than the same figure for the fall term.

On registration day, January 2, the total was short by 138. Late registrations are responsible for the increase. The 80 students who failed to return dropped out mainly because of financial difficulties, according to Oren V. Henderson, university registrar.

FORMER K.N.S. STUDENTS MEET AT BOULDER CITY

Singing of School Song on Street Prompts Reunion of Grads

Frank E. Kirby, a former student of Keene Normal, now employed at Boulder City, Nev. had an interesting experience recently when he was overheard singing the school song "Fight, Fight, Fight for Old Keene Normal," by a passing woman who proved to be Miss Mary Cyr a graduate of the school in 1922. She immediately made herself known and the two had quite a chat as their thoughts turned back to New Hampshire and Keene Normal school.

The meeting prompted Mr. Kirby to write the following interesting letter to Pres. Wallace E. Mason:

"I am some 3,000 odd miles from Keene Normal school but allow me to show you how small the world is and how important our songs are which we sing in school.

"I am assisting a carpenter foreman here on Boulder Dam. I have been quite lonesome and in 'my solitude,' so called, I love to sing.

"Early this evening I got off my transport at 7 p.m. I work from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. I started walking right to my dormitory singing, 'Fight, Fight, Fight, for Old Keene Normal.' A woman was walking past me and I paid no attention until she stopped and said: 'Sing that song over again.' I did and she joined in with me.

"Her name is Mary Cyr, a graduate of 1922. She wishes to be remembered to Miss Esten, Miss Fernald, Miss Brown, Mr. Mason and, particularly, to Miss Randall."

BOLAND-CROSBY
On Nov. 27, 1935, William E. Boland, Jr., '27, at K.N.S. was married to Miss Mary Rose Crosby, of Brockton, Mass. The ceremony was performed at St. Edward's church, Brockton.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Achievements to Date

Keene 52—Castleton Normal 10

The local basket ball team began this season with a 52 to 10 victory over Castleton Normal at Castleton, Vt., on Sat. Dec. 7. With a good lead at the half, Coach W. A. Caldwell began to use his reserves. He played ten men during the forty minutes of the game and every one of them proved his worth to the extent of at least two points. Feb. 3 is the date of the return game with Castleton, here.

K.N.S. 26—Keene 'Y' Seniors 21

Although the Normal players were delayed in getting started on Thursday eve., Dec. 12, they managed to defeat the Keene "Y" Seniors 26 to 21, in a hard fought game at Spaulding gym. Art. Giovannangeli for the hosts and his brother Tavio, playing for the Y team both put up a good brand of basketball. Jim Leh, one of last year's embryo stars, showed up well with seven points of the locals' score. The leader in point making was Art. Giovannangeli, with eight.

New Britain 47—Keene 30

The varsity suffered a severe set-back from New Britain State Teachers' college at New Britain Conn., on Jan. 10. The down-state teachers took the lead early in the game and kept it to the end. Keene tried to come back but were unsuccessful and the game ended with our boys on the wrong end of a 47 to 30 score.

Fitchburg 38—Keene 32

Again the locals were defeated, this time by Fitchburg Teachers' college, at Fitchburg, the score being 38 to 32. The boys were lacking the services of their regular center, Sullivan, who was unable to make the trip due to illness. Jimmie Noucas led in the scoring for Keene with seven points.

Keene 42—Gorham 37

On Jan. 17, K. N. S. Varsity nosed out the team from Gorham, Me., Normal by a hard earned victory, 42 to 37. The entire game was "nip and tuck," until the final quarter when Keene decided to stop fooling and drop in a few baskets. Giovannangeli with 13 points, and Johnson with 12 lead the scoring for the locals; Gerber with 12, and Ham with 10, led the visitors. The newly formed Keene band played several selections before and during the intermissions. This added much to the pleasure of the audience.

Keene 43—Hyannis State Teachers' College 20

The Keene quartette sailed to an easy victory over the men from Hyannis State Teachers' college on Jan. 18. The score at the end of the game was 43 to 20. Coach Caldwell started his reserves and did not throw in his regular team until the final quarter. During this last period Keene scored 17 points to Hyannis' 2. The summary:

Basketball practices have been well attended, and incidentally a lot of fun.

The varsity squad includes the following Misses: Rita Leonard, Georgia Day, Fern Lloyd, Virginia Hough, Muriel Angwin, Helen Thomas, Edna Twombly, Alfreda Kyrka, Betty Martin, Bertha McLoy, Florence Dustin, Lula Morey, Rose Zysk, Catherine Stafford, and Shirley McIntyre.

Division games will start at the beginning of the new semester.

LOCAL COACH HONORED

At a recent meeting of the committee of the National Amateur Athletic federation, New Hampshire Women's division, held at the Manchester Y. W. C. A., plans were formed for a sport's day or play day to be held in the near future. Miss Marjorie Bateman, coach at K.N.S., was named chairman of a committee to make arrangements. Other matters which came up for discussion were the matter of dividing the state into districts, and the value of winter sports. Strong disapproval was voiced to the holding of tournaments of girls' teams for publicity purposes.

"A game for every girl, and every girl in a game" is the aim of this federation.

VERSE

(This poem was awarded second place in the Sigma Pi Epsilon contest last year.)

I opened wide my door— and there
With foot already on the step,
My startled eyes beheld a stranger—
One whose loud insistent knock
Had roused me from my dreams—
Dreams that imagination had begot.
I must have plainly showed my disappointment,
For he smiled— a sad, slow smile—
With something more in it than just amusement—
Rather it seemed the smile of one Who still clings to one last thread of hope,
Knowing even as he clings, that his efforts are in vain—
All else is second to his waiting—waiting—
Impatiently I stood there, wondering—Wondering what had brought this stranger to my door,
This man with all the knowledge of the ages
Writ deep in tired eyes that told a story—
A story of a man who gave— and did kind things,
But still was unaccustomed to appreciation.
Shabby? Yes—but something more—
More than just the dirty ragged clothes,
Bespoke the traveller who had journeyed far—
And not in a luxurious style—
But when he asked a favor of me, a sacrifice so slight
That I stumble over words and was ashamed as I refused,
I excused my own discomfort with other reasons
Than the real ones—love of comfort and routine,
But he—with the air of one one half knowing what the answer was Before it had even reached my halting tongue,
Just smiled again, a pitying smile of vast experience
And slowly turned, and walked away—
Walked into the waning day and shadows,
And was illumined against the blazing, setting sun.
And I, I watched him go, and waited—
What for? I'll never know. But some small voice
That was within me knew and did reproach me much—Until at last, remorselessly I stilled that voice, and turned,

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE

By H. B. P.

Merton T. Goodrich, head of the mathematics department, gave an address on Dec. 16, at a meeting of the Historical Society of Cheshire county. Mr. Goodrich discussed Genealogical Rackets versus Genealogical Researches.

During the Christmas recess the engagement was announced of Miss Dorothy S. Simpson, of Laconia, to Charles G. Hapgood of Roxbury, Mass. Both were former teachers at Central Junior High School. Miss Simpson is now with the Yale School of Nursing, at New Haven, Ct., as dietitian and Mr. Hapgood is a teacher in the training school at State Teachers college, Fitchburg, Mass.

Charles H. Britton, 70, for many years night engineer at the Normal school central heating plant passed away on Dec. 9. Mr. Britton made many friends among students and teachers during his long period of service with the institution.

At the regular faculty meeting held in Hale building on Jan. 14, members of the faculty together with the staff of the two practice schools listened to a paper by Sprague W. Drenan, based on his study of the accomplishment of High school graduates in English. Mrs. Marion F. Hudson, Miss Marie Thyng, and Dr. Edith MacArthur served tea. Miss Inez M. Vaughan poured.

Turned into the house now filled with the dusky twilight
And sat amid the moving shadows
'til again,
I was in the land of dreams that never can come true.
Poor creature! How in my own complacency
Was I to know that at my door had been
The kindly maker of dreams come true, the one Called Opportunity.
—Ruth McVeigh.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

K.N.S. student, in a heated discussion of disciplinary methods: "I believe in using the Golden Rule—an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth."

Why is Mrs. Ramsden writing all her assignment on the blackboard now instead of giving them orally? Could it be because her class studied flower parts the other day when she assigned them flower parts? That's it precisely.

Mr. Morrison, after opening a window: "It's impossible to regulate the temperature in this room. Now my right foot's cold but there's still hot air around my head." So he blames the room for that!

"Buck" Jordan always looks for himself on the bulletin board. He hasn't found himself there yet! We think he's too large for the board anyway.

Mr. Skelton: "It's all right to teach plain facts but there's such a thing as carrying it too far. For example, in teaching history do we necessarily need to stress the fact that Henry Clay, when on a diplomatic mission in Belgium, stayed up all night to play poker?"

Student: "That depends upon whom he was playing with."

Did you know why our campus was so lovely on the Sunday before Christmas vacation? According to President Mason it was because every girl in the Hale building put a light in her window.

The other day Art Giovannangeli told an economics class that we can raise shoes in the United States. Will they grow on trees or bushes, Art?

A. T. Atkins at Junior High: "Of what political importance is the year 1936?"

Bright pupil: "It's leap year."

Teacher to freshman class: "This is the first class in which I've had to give everyone 'H-----,' of course I mean HONOR."

EXCHANGES

THE DIAL SCORES AGAIN

Again THE DIAL, from Brattleboro, Vt., High school has produced a unique issue with the December 1935 number, called "Dorothy Canfield Fisher Issue." Articles and illustrations including a most attractive cover, feature the life and work of this outstanding Vermont writer.

ANNIVERSARY ISSUES

Five daily issues of the STATE SIGNAL, State Teachers college, Trenton, N.J., were put out during December to mark the 50th anniversary of that publication. One of the numbers was a comic sheet with local hits on members of the faculty and student body.

GRANDCHILDREN

Several schools of the state are publishing mimeographed papers of real excellence. Several, where the teacher-sponsors are former K.N.S. students and even former members of the KRONICLE staff, we claim as "grandchildren" of the KRONICLE.

"MT. CARDIGAN VIEWS," from Canaan High school is the work of classes under the direction of Miss Marion Lathe, former editor-in-chief here. The color work as well as the literary material is of high character. An interesting cooperative venture is "THE QUINTS" from the five rural one-room schools of Sanbornton. The teachers of three of these are recent K.N.S. graduates: Thomas McCullough, Miss Pauline Robey and Miss Anabelle Allen. Miss Helen Pratt, while a practice teacher at Orford High assisted her pupils to issue a similar publication called "THE CROW'S NEST."

There are no doubt others sponsored by graduates. Let us see them.

IN A MIRROR

"KEENE KRONICLE—This first issue, welcoming the Freshmen, certainly should make the, a well as upper classmen, proud of their paper."

—The Verlyn, Lyndon Institute. Thank you, Verlyn!

MRS. DEANS COMES

of history teacher for the past 18 years. The best wishes of a host of friends among student body, alumni, faculty and people of the city go to Miss McGlynn in her new work.

As her successor in the social science department, Pres. Mason has been fortunate in securing Mrs. Mary Donald Deans, who comes from the school system of Los Angeles where she has taught for 13 years. Mrs. Deans is a New Englander by birth and training. She is a native of Quincy, Mass., and her early education was obtained there and at Hardwick Academy, Vermont. She has an A.B. degree from Colby college, Waterville, Me., with one year at Radcliffe college. Her A.M. is from the University of California.

For a time she was teacher and superintendent of schools in Arkansas, and since going to the Coast has taught in Los Angeles for the past 11 years in the San Pedro High school. Her summers have been spent in study and in foreign travel. Mrs. Deans has also had considerable experience as a public speaker on wide variety of educational and cultural subjects.

As we speed the parting friend, we extend a most hearty welcome to her successor, and trust that Mrs. Deans will be most happy in her return to "Old New England."

CLUBS

The Rostra

The Rostra held a meeting Jan. 7. This meeting was to be a regular program meeting, but instead the time was given over to discussion of important business. Miss Helen Pratt, Keene, was appointed chairman of a committee to select a play to be given for a Saturday night social. The club is carrying out its project of "Modern Italy in Contrast to Ancient Rome" with discussions on literature, the army, and changing customs.

MID-YEAR BALL

Only those who had some part in this project can fully appreciate the amount of work and the fine spirit of cooperation which went into these decorations.

Amicare Scarponi, Portsmouth, and Ruth Bond, Manchester, were the head ushers and their assistants were Kenneth L. Creighton, Hampton; Barbara MacComb, Concord; Jesse F. Davis, Hampstead; Anna Willgeroth, Hillsboro; Frank Linscott, Exeter; Ethel Fish, Keene; Harold Smith, Groveton; Ann Sullivan, Concord; Paul Perkins, Franklin; Alfreda Kyrka, Franklin; Gordon Tate, Belmont; and June Kendall, Worcester, Mass.

Tea Dance

Those students who attended the mid-year ball were furnished an opportunity to entertain their guests at a second delightful function when the Nu Beta Upsilon and Alpha Pi Tau societies sponsored their annual Tea Dance on Saturday afternoon.

Honorary members of both organizations acted as patrons and patronesses, and the entire faculty were invited to attend.

A blue and yellow color scheme was carried out in fragrant spring flowers and other pleasing details. Dancing to the music of Frank Bush's orchestra was enjoyed, and tea was served by candlelight. Dean Esten poured at the faculty table, and other guests were served by a group of students.

The committee in charge included Miss Charlotte Redden, Portsmouth; Miss Edith Rich, Paterson, N.J.; Miss Marcella Finley, Colebrook; Joseph Baines and Neil Sullivan, Manchester; and James Whittemore, Andover. Printing of programs and tickets was in charge of A. G. Scarponi, Portsmouth.

We are much indebted to the sponsors of the Tea Dance for their great contribution to a most enjoyable week-end.

man smoking backwards. He also caused much laughter as he described some of the queer dress of skiers, some of the men stripped to the waist taking sun-baths while they were skiing in the late spring months. He also showed pictures of the travelers encountering high winds with many humorous incidents, one of them being nearly blown away as he shook a blanket.

Dr. Grafflin was brought to Keene for a series of talks to student and other groups, among them the students of Keene High school, the local Rotary club and others. He was introduced to the student body by Sec. Oscar L. Elwell, of the County Y.M.C.A., and was listened to with keen enjoyment and close attention.

In his address the speaker stressed five kinds of teachers, telling something about each by way of illustration: Teachers who regard their position as just a job, those who look upon it as a journey, those who look upon it as just a jaunt, those who regard it as a joust, and those who see in the children the citizens of time.

Mr. Cutts Returns

With the opening of school after the Christmas recess Charles W. Cutts was able to resume his work as teacher of economics after a long illness. His many friends were much pleased to see him again about the campus and in his class room.

Alexander F. Gifford, who acceptably acted as substitute for Mr. Cutts, returned to his home in New Bedford, Mr. Gifford made many friends during his comparatively brief stay in Keene, and they will follow his future career with interest.

Hansel and Gretel

Members of the first four grades of Wheelock Training school with their teachers were special guests at the production of a one-act play in Parker hall on Jan. 22. The play was written, produced and directed as a project by the members of Miss Augusta Pragst's class in elementary methods.

This group is composed of special students most of whom are graduates of Keene Normal school, and whose work for this year is specializing in primary methods, including literature for children, dramatization, and reading.

The play was the old folk tale of "Hansel and Gretel." The original dialogue was very effective as well as the simple scenery which was designed and made by members of the class. The youthful audience showed its appreciation by generous and spontaneous laughter and applause.

Miss M. Lula Morey, Keene, played the part of the witch; Rene Mathieu, Penacook, Hansel; and Miss Ruth Mary Doe, Northwood, Gretel. The remaining parts were well filled by other students.

LATIN CLUB MEMBERS MAKE COMPARISON OF
HORACE with WILL ROGERSRostra Delves into Life and Work of Roman Poet and Philosopher

The present school year is the bimillennium of the birth of the Roman poet and philosopher, Horace. Recognition of this fact has been by many educational institutions. Upon a request by the editor of THE KRONICLE, the Rostra, the Latin club, has prepared the following interesting comparison of the life and work of Horace with that of the late American humorist and philosopher, Will Rogers.

How similar are the profound thoughts of all great philosophers. Some man has expressed for each generation the philosophy of the age. We claim Will Rogers, the ideal of America in 1935. If we delve into his basic thoughts, camouflaged as they are by their subtle humor, we find them to be the same as those which have been propounded by other great thinkers before him. How could they be otherwise for they deal with universal subjects and expressed timeless truths. His very thoughts were expressed two thousand years ago by a man as great as he, Horace, the interpreter of Roman times. Are you skeptical? Well, let's see.

Horace

On Dec. 8, 65 B.C., Horace was born to a lowly slave family. He entered a world passing through a period of turmoil, grief, unhappiness, dissatisfaction. Pessimism was the attitude prevalent among the people.

Yet, Horace, from early boy-

SCHOOL INSTRUCTORS ACTIVE IN COMMUNITY LIFE OF CITY PRES.
MASON'S SURVEY SHOWS

Answers to questionnaire reveals professors are in great demand for speaking engagements — Students also give of their talent to church and club groups — K.N.S. buildings are open to most representative organizations.

Keene Normal school professors have made themselves an integral part of the community life of the city, rendering various services to civic, church and fraternal groups, thus putting into practise the ideal which they stress to students, that in their teaching positions they should render service to the town or city in which they reside.

A recent faculty survey made by Pres. Wallace E. Mason E. Mason showed educational, social and professional cooperation to various agencies in Keene and Cheshire county, the most recent of which was participation in flood relief activity through the Red Cross and citizen committees.

In addition to the contributions to the life of the city by the instructors, the students also give of their talents, the music department particularly furnishing students for special programs on church, fraternal and club occasions.

The school buildings are also open to the Keene Woman's club, the Boy scouts, Girl scouts and other character building organizations.

Most of the men are "joiners," having membership in at least one fraternal affiliation, and many of their wives are active in the D. A. R., Woman's club, American Association of University Women, college alumnae associations, and church societies.

The faculty summary reveals both Pres. Mason and Charles W. Cutts as past presidents of the Keene Rotary club and Mr. Cutts as present director. Both are also active in the First Congregational church.

Sprague W. Drenan is a past president of the Keene Philatelic society and James A. Keech is present head of that organization.

Harry B. Preston is called upon frequently as a supply preacher in Keene churches and in smaller communities, and also presents the highlights of his school course on New Hampshire resources in lectures before Parent-Teacher associations, 4-H clubs, etc.

Some of the other activities of the teaching staff as outlined by them in response to Pres. Mason's questionnaire show the following:

Frederick J. Simmons: Talks before the nurses of Elliot Community hospital, and the Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church. Lieutenant governor of the New Hampshire district in the Social Science Honor society, called Pi Gamma Mu. Served on Pi Gamma Mu finance committee at the national convention in New York.

Spencer E. Eaton: Superintendent of First Baptist church Sunday School, president of social committee at the school, and speaker on different occasions.

The past month has been a busy one in the life of the two fraternities. Immediately following the opening of the new semester the annual rushing season was on for one week. The Kappas entertained at the school camp at Wilson pond, where a social hour and supper was enjoyed. Several of the honorary members of the fraternity gave short addresses.

The Alpha party was held in the social room of Spaulding gymnasium. Pres. Wallace E. Mason, Dean Carle and others spoke, and refreshments were served.

Invitations were extended to the new men and the following pledged,

Mr. Drenan wrote the second a comedy, "MacBeth," or "How North Flowerpot High School Raised Its Graduation Funds". It was a cheerful travesty on the method of dramatic production among the unwary. Those having parts were Paul K. Stimson, Milford; James McKeon, Somersworth; Richard Hopwood, Keene; Gerald Atkins, Haverhill; Lawrence Goss, Rye; Lewis Montrone, Keene; Walter Lucien, Nashua; the Misses Lucille Plante, Fitzwilliam; Mae Youngquist, Manchester; Helen Pratt, Keene; Dorothy Plaisted, Sanford, Me.; Lucille Sterling, Portsmouth; Barbara Severance, Hillsborough; Katherine Gage, Manchester; and Iona Sheeche, Lebanon.

VARIOUS CLUB ACTIVITIES

The Rostra

The Rostra enjoyed a social evening Thursday, February 27 in charge of Miss Barbara Capron Quechee, Vt. The club enjoyed the privilege of hearing Miss Vyrling W. Buffum speak on "Roman Customs Yesterday and Today," and since her travels there have been extensive the talk was most interesting. After the program refreshments were served and an informal discussion held with Miss Buffum answering any questions the club wished to ask. There was perfect attendance and everyone enjoyed the evening.

Forum Debate

Teams of women representing the University of New Hampshire and K.N.S. met in Parker hall, on Feb. 27 for a no decision debate.

The Keene team upheld the affirmative of the question "Resolved: That socialized medicine should be established in this state." This was the first debate held under the direction of Mrs. Mary D. Deans, new debating instructor at the local institution.

The university speakers were Miss Rosamond Emerson, Miss Ann Corson, Miss Veronica Doe, and Miss Dorothy Hanschumaker. The Keene debaters were Miss Helen C. Tsiotas, Manchester; Miss Marion Bergeron, Keene; Miss Natalie Haddock, Laconia; and Phyllis O'Brien, Nashua.

Neil Sullivan, Manchester, president of the Forum, presided and the timers were Miss Doris Delaware, Auburn; and Miss Dorothy Woinick, Springfield, Vt.

"Macbeth" was repeated for the Dramatic club social at Parker hall, on Saturday evening, Mar. 7.

Forum Social

At the Saturday night social, Feb. 29 the Forum presented a mock trial entitled "The Peanut County Court in Session." It was directed by Miss Doris Delaware and Laurence Goss. The leading part, that of Judge Wigglebeard, was taken by Kenneth Creighton. The case tried was one of "salt an' battery" in which Hiram Stubble was charged with having pulled Siram Milkweed's nose. The parts of Hiram and Silas were played by Miss Miriam Roby and Miss Alfreda Kyrka, respectively. Neil Sullivan played the part of the very aggressive "city sliker," Lawyer Toppenbottom, while Harold Graham played the part of the opposing Lawyer Slipshod. Miss Helen Tsiotas played the part of Luke Beeswax who was the witness for the defence and testified with unbelievable dullness. Miss Irma Dostilio played the part of Oscar Schmultz, D.A. (Dots all) a witness and the owner of the store in which the incident had taken place. Clair Wyman was the clerk and Miss Jane Langer was the sheriff. The twelve jurors were members of the club.

The trial was brought to an abrupt ending by Hessa Greenum (Miss Jean Taylor) who came with news that the Judge's wife had become entangled in the Judge's fishlines and wished him to come home immediately or else get figures on a funeral.

Science Club

Members of the Science club made an inspection of the Granite State studio recently, and were shown the various processes of photographing, developing and printing. Following the explanation of the equipment and operations by the studio staff the group had their photograph taken. More than 40 members of the club were included in the party.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB AFFILIATED WITH CARNEGIE FOUNDATION

The International Relations club of Keene Normal school has affiliated with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Wesley F. Brett, president of the club, announced. Connection with this organization will keep the club closely in touch with world affairs through the fortnightly summary of events sent by the Carnegie Endowment to each of the club members. The club will also receive many books on international affairs and pamphlets of similar interest. Mr. Brett said that the club will form a library of its own with these books. The condition under which the club affiliated was that it remain a study group and that it engage in no propaganda.

Books which have already been received and which will be the initial volumes in the library are: "Peace and the Plain Man," by Sir Norman Angell; "Democratic Governments in Europe," by Buell, Chase and Valeur; "Labor's Way to Peace," by the Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, M. P.; and "The Treaty of Versailles and After," by Lord Riddell and others. Several pamphlets have also already been received by the club. Miss Helen M. Pratt is the secretary of the club and received the announcement of acceptance of affiliation.

Y. W. C. A.

At the last regular meeting of Y.W.C.A., on Tuesday, March 13, Miss Doris Hopkins of Manchester, state executive secretary of the Y.W.C.A., gave a most interesting address to a large group of student members. Her subject concerned the work carried on in New Hampshire and the aims of the national Y.W.C.A. One of the noteworthy points of her talk was that of the opportunity offered Y.W.C.A. groups to take part in public affairs.

DRAMA CONTEST

Keene Normal school will sponsor a state Drama day program Saturday afternoon and evening, Mar. 28, when eight secondary schools of the state will compete at Parker hall in the presentation of one-act plays, it was announced by Sprague W. Drenan, head of the English department of the Normal school.

Schools of New Hampshire which will compete at Keene are: Peterboro, Laconia, Manchester West, Hanover, Rochester, Franklin, and Nashua High schools, and the Robinson Seminary of Exeter. Members of Mr. Drenan's class in drama will resolve into committees for arrangement and direction of the affair.

THE YEARBOOK

The school annual "THE KRONICLE" is in active preparation. Under the leadership of Miss Helen M. Pratt, editor-in-chief, and Wesley F. Brett, assistant, both of Keene, the material is being collected and arranged. Most of the school group photographs have been taken. It is planned to have the book present several improved and novel features. Roy A. Sullivan, of the Sentinel force, will again assist the editors. Harry B. Preston, who has served as faculty sponsor for the past five issues, has been obliged to resign due to press of outside engagements. A successor will be announced soon.

KAPPA NEWS

Some weeks ago four men sang in the Kappa Minstrel Show. Today they have grown from unknown harmonizers to the Kappa Quartet. Strong support of the entire student body has encouraged the fellows so that after placing in both the preliminaries and semi-finals of the Colonial Amateur auditions, they came through to place second in the finals.

Dressed in white jackets and dark trousers—Jeff, Sherm, Walt, and Perk, presented a natty appearance on the Latches' stage when they fulfilled the expectations of their supporters by rendering an excellent program. More power to you men, we expect more at later dates.

The musical bug that has entered many bonnets is running unexcelled in the House. Jeff's tuba, Luther's alto, Don's kettle drums, Dan's trumpet provide accompaniment for Chaucer and Kant.

Ah, we musn't forget the strains of melody that issue from the piano when Sherm and Carl have a few moments of leisure.

ART DEPT.

Miss Dorothy Wilens, head of the art department was detained at her home by illness for several weeks before and after the early spring recess. The work was carried forward by Miss Miriam Huges, assistant, with the help of the senior students in training, and Mrs. F. H. Blackington, Jr.

The Art club is soon to begin work on a project with marionettes and invites all students who are interested in this fascinating and ancient art to join in with the regular members.

The work of redecorating the wall of the studio has been finished and there remains only to have the tables scrapped and re-finished. Several changes have been made in the arrangements of working conditions, which has improved the lighting and otherwise makes the room more convenient for student work.

ALPHA PI TAU

The Alpha fraternity was well represented this year on the basketball floor, having a total of twelve men on the varsity squad.

One of the members, Neil Sullivan, a member of the elementary curriculum of the senior class was, at the close of the season, elected honorary captain. He is a graduate of Manchester Central High school, and has played center. He is six feet, two inches tall and weighs 179.

Due to an injury Sullivan played in only 10 of the fourteen games which were against strong freshmen college and teachers college teams during the season, and scored a total of 68 points.

The members of the fraternity and pledges spent the evening of March 6 at the school camp, Wilson pond. Dinner was served by the members and was enjoyed by all the early comers. The freshmen in turn entertained the upper classmen at the camp on the evening of March 13.

HOME ECONOMICS

On Jan. 30, the freshmen Home Economics students were initiated into the Nu Beta Upsilon Sorority and at a later meeting they entertained with a skit based on a radio program.

OPPORTUNITY DAYS

In this issue of THE KRONICLE, you will find articles concerning dates March 28, (one-act play contest.) April 4, (junior high sports day) and May 2, (battle of brains). These are opportunity days for everyone in the Normal School.

Perhaps this is contrary to the usual thought that the opportunity is for the entrants in the several contests. True, our visitors have great opportunities during their brief stay on campus. They not only meet and compete with representatives of other schools, but they have contact with "you" as a member of Keene Normal School. These meetings will have a stamp on their minds that will never disappear. Therefore, it is vital that these days show our Alma Mater at her best.

This attitude places every member of the school in the position of a middleman. It means that each one will be a pivotal point upon which rests, in a great sense, the inherent success of these opportunity days.

True and rich hospitality should be shown to the students who have worked hard for this honor. A strong handclasp and a warm smile will go a long way toward easing the tension under which they work. However, the work does not end here. The second task is to make every visitor feel the spirit of friendly competition. Teams must become acquainted with each other and not be segregated into rival camps. We want each of these days filled with fun and work, with each member of the school personally responsible.

The opportunity rests on each one of you of you. Will you meet it?

EDUCATION NOTES

It has been announced that the cities of Willimantic, Danbury and New Haven, Conn., now require a four-year normal course for all elementary teachers.

J. Halsey Gulick, who was recently elected to the headmastership of Proctor academy, Andover, assumed his new duties with the beginning of the winter term. Mr. Gulick was educated at Phillips Exeter academy and at Princeton.

With the beginning of the next school year, Charles F. Cook will retire as headmaster of Concord High school, a position which he had held for many years. His successor will be the present sub-master, Ruel E. Tucker, a graduate of Dartmouth college with the class of 1924.

Dr. William A. Eddy, since 1928 a popular professor of English at Dartmouth, has been elected to the presidency of Hobart college, Geneva, N.Y. to take effect next September, with the opening of college.

In Washington, D.C., new schools this fall are Anacostia Senior-Junior High school and Woodrow Wilson High school.

New high schools opening this fall in New York City are Samuel Gompers, capacity 1696; Brooklyn Tech., 5,500; Staten Island Vocational, 1,580. These are all P.W.A. projects.

"No longer can teachers ignore their community and its needs. Today the job demands active community interest and participation. Examine any school or school system where excellent public relations exist, and you will find not only efficient, tactful, human administration, but teachers that are imbued with the idea of service to patrons and to the community."

TEACHER and DEMOCRACY

At this particular time we hear a great deal about our government; how it has or has not been run, and how it should be run. Disregarding how the government is run, we realize more and more that the people elect the government. These people are children at one time, and this is where we fit into the picture. The schools hold the task of orienting these children to the fundamentals of our government. Practical and concrete information should be so instilled into the children's mind that all false ideas in later years will be eliminated.

Secretary of the Interior, Harold C. Ickes, sends the following message to the teachers of America in the "Student Leader."

"The personnel of the Government is decided at the polls. The trends of development of the government are determined largely in the schools.

This assurance is a real safeguard of our democracy. People whose ideals for democracy are buttressed by an impartial study of civic problems in the schools can be depended upon to guard with zeal the welfare of democracy.

I hope for a very practical outcome of such study and discussion of our form of government. It should result in so clear an understanding of the virtues of the democratic way of life that young people will develop into fearless and tireless advocates of democracy.

There are peacetime battles which should be as challenging to this generation of youth as battles with rifles. Let the school and college make clear to youth what the basic civic issues are. Youth will find the solution in terms of historic ideals for which America has stood and will defend those ideals with the same fervor as our forefathers did.

The season closed with two sensational wins on the local floor, with Boston university, 43 to 41 and with Salem, Mass., Teachers college, 35 to 32. The games in chronological order;

Keene 46—Gorham Normal 44

On Feb. 1, at Gorham, Keene started the game with a scoring sprint making seven field points before Gorham made a point. The half ended, however, with the score 24 to 20 in Keene's favor. In the third period Keene made 21 points, and the last quarter, too, was very fast as is shown by a total score of 100 points, averaging two and one-half points per minute of play. Gorham made many tries of long shots in the hope of cutting down Keene's lead. Final tally, Keene 56—Gorham 44.

Keene 29—University Freshmen 20

At Durham on Feb. 8, K.N.S. nosed out the team representing the University of New Hampshire 29 to 20 in a fast offensive game. Keene took the lead and held it throughout. Coach Caldwell had reason to be proud of the work of his team against the Wildcat kittens, and he stated on their return to Keene that the locals "played smart basketball."

Salem 32—Keene 28

On Thursday evening, Feb. 13, Salem, Mass., State Teachers college basketball team romped over the K.N.S. basketball team to a 32 to 28 victory at Salem. Salem jumped into the lead in the first period and held it throughout, Twohig and Levey, with 11 points each, were high scorers for the winners, while Sullivan and Giovannangeli scored nine and seven points respectively for Keene.

Keene 59—Castleton Normal 18

The postponed game with Castleton, Vt., Normal was played off in Spaulding gym, on Feb. 24. Keene came through to win an easy victory, 59 to 18. Keene did not allow the Green Mountain boys a single floor goal in the second period. In the third period Keene made 10 points and Castleton six; and in the final chapter they rang up 15 points to their opponents three. Many substitutes were used by Coach Caldwell, including Johnson, Tate, Leh, at forward; Kingman and Clark at center; and Applebaum, Tapley, and Beard at guard. These men are fast gaining experience for next year's team, when several of the regular players graduate.

B.U. Freshmen 31 — Keene 29

On Feb. 26 Boston university freshmen basketball team came from behind to nose out the Keene Normal team in the last minute of play 31 to 29 in St. Botolph gym in Boston.

Keene apparently had the game all sewed up with a seven-point lead and only a minute and a half to play when the B.U. Frosh awoke and scored nine points.

The game was more exciting than the main contest between Clark university and B.U. varsity.

Baskets by Nechtem, Kishkis Leahy, and a closing foul shot followed by a court shot by Nechtem clinched the game for the Terrier pups in one of the most amazing finishes ever witnessed at the B.U. gym.

New Britain 42—Keene 39

In one of the most exciting games of the season, New Britain State Teachers college, Conn., nosed out the K.N.S. team on Feb. 28, 42 to 39. The locals trailed for three periods but came from behind with a closing period rally and tied the score; only to lose out in the last few seconds. The height and weight of the visitors proved too much for Keene.

The game was played in Spaulding gym.

Keene 43—B.U. Freshmen 41

Jimmie Noucas was the hero of the return game with Boston university Freshmen played here on March 4. In the last twelve seconds of the game his goal from the floor clinched the victory and brought revenge for the defeat in the game at Boston.

Early in the game the visitors led and later the score was twice tied.

Keene 35—Salem 32

The season closed in a blaze of glory with a victory over Salem, Mass., Teachers college, on Friday, Mar. 6, here.

Salem was somewhat tired from a Thursday night game against Huntington school of Boston,

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

First Plymouth Game

On Feb. 1, Plymouth played Keene at Keene in their first traditional game of the year.

During the first quarter Plymouth took the lead by ringing up six points and leaving Keene at the post. The second quarter was entirely different. Keene girls chalked up eight points for the books.

During the third quarter Keene scored eight more points and allowed their opponents five. In the final period each team scored four points.

Helen Thomas and Rita Leonard accounted for sixteen of Keene's points. Shirley Bryan scored nine for her team.

A social was held in Hale building after the game was over.

Second Plymouth Game

On Feb. 8, Keene travelled to Plymouth for a return game, which proved to be very exciting.

In the first quarter Plymouth scored twelve points and Keene two. In the second period, Keene allowed Plymouth only two while they scored seven.

During the third quarter Plymouth scored four points and Keene did nobly and scored nine.

In the final period Keene made a sensational come-back to win from Plymouth 24-22 for the third consecutive year.

Rita Leonard and Georgia Day were high scorers, scoring eleven points apiece. Shirley Bryan was high scorer for Plymouth.

and also had only one substitute to rely upon, three of their subs not arriving until the game was almost over. Both teams were about even on their foul shooting but Keene had the edge on baskets from the floor. Salem, as most other teams which have played Keene this season, had a considerable height advantage.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE

By H. B. P.

Pres. Wallace E. Mason and Leonard S. Morrison, head of the department of secondary education attended a two-day conference of superintendents and members of the state department held at Plymouth Feb. 3 and 4.

May 2, Saturday, has been set as the date for the annual scholarship day, at the two teacher training institutions of the state. This is commonly known as the "battle of brains."

Leonard S. Morrison of the faculty was the speaker at a recent meeting of the officers and teachers of the local Baptist church. His talk dealt with the state program of studies for the teaching of temperance.

Beginning with the second semester, Miss Lucy Clark, school nurse began a leave of absence to study for an advanced degree at Teachers college, Columbia. Miss Clark has the best wishes of her fellow members of the faculty and of the student body among whom she is very popular. We all look forward to her return to campus next September. During her absence a substitute nurse, Miss Stiles, R.N. will be in charge of the infirmary.

Mrs. Ethel J. Ramsden of the department of science, was the speaker on Mar. 4 at Hopkins Parent-Teacher association, Swanzey. Her subject was "The Child."

Members of the faculty attended the second meeting of the newly formed Keene Teachers association on Feb. 27. There was a dinner, a musical program by a Boston harpist and an address by Pres. Charles T. Herlihy, of Fitchburg Teachers college. His subject was "Is the Child Today the Center of Our City School System?"

AROUND THE CAMPUS

President Mason, welcoming Mrs. Deans:

"The fact is, we all try to know as much about each other as we possibly can."

Too true, too true!

Miss Gregory: "Why in Australia do they put awnings on the North windows?"

Bright student: "To keep the sun out."

Does anyone need a rest? We suggest the "Quiet Zone" in Huntress. Reasonable rates for a room with absolute peace guaranteed. Loud breathers not admitted.

Dick Trufant, in a drama class: "How many times can you drop the curtain in a one-act play?"

That depends—how easily does it break?

Teacher of ed. to 3 H J's: "Probably you'll be so well-grounded in English literature that you won't need any question books."

S. McIntyre: "We'll be grounded, all right!"

Mr. Carle, in chapel: "I remember once when the girls went to Middlebury. The debate was held in the museum down among the animals, and I was the only one in the audience."

Did the 3HE's and the 2HM's—no the 2HR's—well who had that history observation anyway? Do you know, Miss Blake!

Miss Gregory: "Who lives in the south frigid zone?"

Bright student: "Only Byrd and he's not there all the time."

Wanted: an alarm clock with half a bell, so that when two people are rooming together, it only wakes up one of them.

Miss Blake: "Why aren't New Hampshire and Vermont always at sword's points as Germany and France are?"

Hazel Brown: "I don't know unless it's because New Hampshire and Vermont are nearer to each other."

BOOK REVIEW

"IF I HAVE FOUR APPLES"

If you have two apples and someone gives you two more, how many will you have? If you are like the Roe family in Josephine Lawrence's "If I Have Four Apples," your answer will be eight. On the basis of this simple mathematical problem, Mrs. Lawrence in her latest book, portrays a middle-class American family which refuses to have its mistakes pointed out to it and continues to believe that its income, though actually inadequate to supply the necessities of life, warrants the possession of all luxuries.

In the family there is the father who can't see that renting a home might be cheaper than owning one; the mother, earning fifteen dollars a week working in a department store, who has a mania for installment buying; an elder daughter who in a moment of weakness signs a contract to purchase a modernistic, white dining room set because it goes with the kind of home about which she dreams, only to find to her amazement that she has agreed to pay out nine dollars of her eighteen-dollar a week salary for forty weeks for "the last thing she wanted or required," a younger daughter who, in spite of failure at a performance of her dancing class, insists that she could be a famous ballet dancer, "If she had the right teacher," and a young son of less than mediocre ability who plans to go to college, (although his folks haven't the money to send him) only to be completely disillusioned when he learns that his grades won't even permit him to graduate with his high school class.

At first thought the novel may strike you as the story of a super-ignorant American family, but on further consideration, one realizes that it is the story of all of us. The author depicts our guillibility to modern schemes of installment buying and the disaster which follows these "time" purchases, and most important, our lack of courage to face the truth. Perhaps she is trying to tell us that our chances for happiness are much greater if we are willing to admit that hood practiced his simple philosophy which guided him to seek happiness from within rather than from outside factors. He has expressed his beliefs in his poetry when he tells us "to go to extremes in nothing; to follow a path of moderation in everything." We often think of this as being the "Golden Mean" of life.

Horace was surprisingly proud of his humble birth; he suffered no self-consciousness even though he lacked an exalted social position. His poetry constantly reminds us how much he loved the peace of the countryside where he was born. He spent much of his time on his Labine farm:

"Yonder little nook of earth Beyond all others smiles for me."

He wrote much of the happenings of the day. Merely as an onlooker, he "smilingly told the truth" about the vices of politics and the vanity of human wishes.

Although a pagan, Horace firmly believed in immortality and Providence. So he was able to console many people who were sorrowing when a friend or relative had died: "Ah! Hard it is. But patience lends strength to endure what Heaven sends."

Horace has been a guide of men throughout the ages as a friend, a teacher, and a philosopher. He has shown us the path to a saner living.

Will Rogers

Selfishness in the human race was a quality upon which Rogers placed much emphasis. "There ain't but one wrong with every one of us in the world and that's selfishness." He himself could never be accused of self-interest in the light of his unlimited benefits and charities.

Nothing can prove Will's love for the country any more than a sentence from his introduction to "Trails Plowed Under," a book of Charles M. Russell's Painting. Here he assumes that "Heaven is a range with a good chuck wagon and plenty of food at nightfall." His place of after-life was modelled after his own ranch which he loved so well because it gave him an opportunity to play and ride with his children.

To pick out a single factor leading to his fame, the one which did the most to place Rogers in the hearts of all the people was his own political satire.

Rogers' lowly birth and Indian blood might have been a source of shame to a smaller man. He, however, applied his sense of humor, resulting in such comments as this:

"My ancestors didn't come over in the Mayflower, they met the boat."

Human nature was Will Rogers' best subject, and the false admirer was never confused in his mind with a true friend.

Horace might have lived today or Will Rogers might have been a Roman. A philosopher is a philosopher wherever he lives.

He draws word pictures of his neighbors and his world for those who admire, but lack the skill. An explanation for each perplexing query of life is sought and molded into pleasant lines that please the ear of expressionless souls.

Chance linked 1935 sorrowing over the death of a beloved man, to 65 B.C. which yielded a child whose understanding would be respected two thousand years later.

KEENE NORMAL SCHOOL AGAIN SPONSORS COMMUNITY MUSIC FESTIVAL PROGRAM

Students Participate in and Listen to Three High Grade Concerts

For the third consecutive season the May community music festival, sponsored by the Keene Normal school, delighted music lovers of the city and surrounding towns. The dates were the evenings of May 10, 11, and 12. So far as known no other teacher training institution in the east sponsors such a festival as a part of its regular program of activities. The three concerts brought before the public a group of nationally known soloists, and a number of local cooperating musical organizations.

Sunday evening featured a large chorus made up of choirs of five local churches and the Keene Normal chapel choir, under the direction of Harry W. Davis, general director of the festival, with Edward H. Holbrook, as accompanist. Assisting were the Keene Maennerchor, a group of local German singers, who sang unaccompanied under the baton of Ludwig Werniger, Miss Frances Hendrickson, violinist, and the Keene Orchestral society, with Carl R. Beedle, conductor.

The well-arranged program was thoroughly appreciated by a large audience, and was a fitting introduction to the festival.

One of the social events of the school year is the annual reception and dance given to the Senior class of the Keene High school by the Keene club of the Normal school. The event occurred during the late spring recess on April 22, at the Spaulding gymnasium.

Following an informal reception and welcoming address by Arthur Giovannangeli, president of the host club, there was a varied program, including dancing, readings, vocal selections, motion pictures of campus activities at the Normal school and in addition the guests were given the use of the bowling alleys, swimming pool and other facilities at the gymnasium.

The Forum
A few weeks ago the Forum engaged in a new type of activity. Several members of both the Women's and Men's Varsity teams were invited by the Bates College Debating League to judge three high school debates held in Hopkinton, Henniker, and Warner. Unanimous decisions were rendered in favor of Hopkinton and Warner, while Hopkinton won by a 2-1 decision at Henniker. The judges were the Misses Doris Delaware, Natalie Haddock, Phyllis O'Brien, and Jean Taylor, and Laurence Goss, Kenneth Creighton, Robert Edmunds, Sherman Joslin, and Lewis Montrone.

International Relations Club
In the past few months, the International Relations Club has been made a member of the Carnegie World Foundation for Peace. Through this medium the club has received several books and pamphlets which proved to be of value to those members representing Keene Normal school at the Williams college meeting. This affiliation also entitles the club to a dozen subscriptions of the Fortnightly Summary of International Events. The material is, at present, in the art room of the school library in charge of their arrangement.

Miss Mary Dearborn is acting secretary in the absence of Miss Helen Pratt who is at present teaching in Hampstead, and Miss Jean Taylor is now treasurer pro-tem in place of Amilcare Scarponi.

STATE DRAMA GUILD CONDUCTS TRIALS HERE

The Dramatic club of K.N.S., Sprague W. Drenan, sponsor, acted as host for the trials of the New Hampshire Drama Guild, on April 11. Five High schools of the state entered the contest with one-act plays, which was held in Parker hall.

Manchester, West, presenting "Wild Hobby Horses," by John Kirkpatrick, and Nashua with "A Wedding" by the same author, won the contest and will take part in the New England finals at Manchester late in May, in competition with teams from other states. Other schools which were represented in the contest here included Hanover, Franklin, and Robinson seminary, Exeter.

The judges were Carlton E. Brett, '33, Henry D. Nadig, of the Keene Sentinel staff and Harry B. Preston, of the faculty. Miss Marion Sawyer of Manchester was elected president of the Drama Guild of the state.

The drama day program was well patronized and the evening performance saw Parker hall filled to capacity with local as well as out-of-town guests. The plays revealed exceptional talent among high school students.

De La Salle Club
The last regular meeting of the Catholic club was held in Armstrong Hall with Father Collins as chaplain of the club. Music, games, entertainment, and refreshments were enjoyed by all.

At the last meeting in May the Nominating Committee will be appointed for the nomination of officers and at the first meeting in June election of officers for the following year will take place.

An extensive program of activities is being planned for next year.

SCHOLARSHIP DAY

The annual Scholarship day, "Battle of Brains", conducted by the representatives of the State Board of Education, was held at Keene and Plymouth on Sat., May 2. More than 500 High school seniors were entered in the various contests.

Here the visitors registered and were shown about the campus. An assembly was held in Parker hall, in which addresses of welcome were given by Fred L. Barry, Charlestown, and E. Lucille Plante, Fitzwilliam. Music was presented by the school band, and by the Kappa Male quartette. The examinations followed at 11 o'clock.

After lunch the group met in Spaulding gym, for a program of entertainment, prepared by a committee of faculty and students. This consisted of dances by student groups, music by the chapel choir under the direction of Harry W. Davis, and a vocal solos by Jesse F. Davis of Hampstead, and instrumental music by the brass quartette. There was also a swimming demonstration in the pool. At the close announcement was made of the winning schools, after the results from Plymouth had been received. Among those who stood high in the 12 contests were the following:

Students representing Peterborough High placed first in the algebra and spelling examinations while the Franklin High group scored first places in chemistry and home economics.

Laconia and Keene each took a first and second place and Plymouth High students won the Latin test and tied with Milford for a second place.

Clarence H. DeMar as usual entered the B.A.A. Marathon on April 20 and was enthusiastically received all along the line. He crossed the tape in 16th place. He is now engaged in training for walking events covering long distances in and around Keene.

KAPPA NEWS

The third and final degree was given to the new members on the evening of May 4 at the house. At the same time Laverne Bushnell of the faculty was received formerly as an honorary member. It is now planned to hold the annual banquet on June 6, on the evening of the date of the triennial reunion.

We were glad to welcome several of our alumni members back on campus in the occasion of Scholarship day. Louis Ramsey, '32, headmaster at Errol, visited here during the late spring recess.

Shrubs have been set out on the lawn at the house on Appian Way, which add much to the appearance of the grounds. Thanks Pres. Mason and Mr. Beers!

The Kappa Quartette is still going strong. Their work on Scholarship day met with high favor. Another recent engagement was at a church entertainment at Fitzwilliam, May 8.

KEENE CLUB

The Keene club is to be congratulated on the great success of its reception and entertainment for the 1936 class of Keene High. The young guests had a fine time and appreciated the hospitality.

Dean H. Dwight Carle spoke at a recent assembly at the High school in an effort to interest students of high scholarship to enter K.N.S. next fall.

Another project of the club has been the distribution of advertising for the three-day music festival and the selling of tickets.

Congratulations to Newell Paire, a member of the English degree course on being the first of the class of 1936 to receive a contract to teach next year. He will be principal of a graded school at North Hampton, under Supt. Roy W. Gillmore. Paire has been active in the Keene club during his course.

ALPHA PI TAU

After much intensive rehearsing the operatta "Incident in Italy" was given for the Alpha social in Spaulding gym, May 23. There was a good audience of faculty and students, and everyone enjoyed himself.

Congratulations to Brother David Armstrong, '36, on receiving a position for next year.

SIGMA PI EPSILON

Continuing our custom of reading and discussing current plays, at the last regular meeting of Sigma Pi Epsilon, March 10. "Distoff Side" was read by Miss Lucille Craggy, and then discussed by the club. This play by John Van Drouten shows a similarity to the play "Design for Living." It was found to be rather stiff.

Several short business meetings have been held since, which were given to discussion about the poetry contest, and the purchase of new books by the club.

The club furnished a judge for the annual Fairbanks prize speaking at Towle High school, Newport, in the person of Miss Dorothy Plaisted, of Sanford, Me. Miss Lucille Craggy made the trip with the judges.

The organization has enjoyed its club subscription of the Book-of-the-month club this year.

THE CLOSING OF THE LID

The close of the school year is approaching and for those who are to graduate there is a sense of finality. Some of them feel that the graduation ceremony will be the closing of the lid to a box containing a past phase of their lives, and that this box can be opened only by the key of memory. But this is not wholly true. There is nothing in our past lives which has not in some way contributed to the sum total of what we are today and to what we will be in the future; and the type of personality that we have thus built up has a strong bearing upon the development of our lives.

We may, for example, be taking leave of a friend whom we do not expect to meet again. That friend has, however, affected a number of our ideas and attitudes, so that in our relationships with new friends we are influenced by those that we have made in the past.

Then, if our yesterdays are so vital to our todays and our tomorrows, let us concentrate not upon the closing of the box, but upon what we can do to add to its contents, and to make use of them in a manner that will enrich our lives in the days to come.

INSTRUCTION IN SAFE DRIVING

Local students who are members of the K.N.S. course in automobile driving will be interested in the following item from the "Journal of Education":

"Safe driving—New Jersey has fifty schools giving instruction and allowing credit for lessons in safe motor driving. New Hampshire has courses in good driving in more than seventy schools. Pennsylvania has issued a new safety syllabus. Minnesota has a statewide program. Delaware and the district of Columbia have approved courses. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Michigan, and Wisconsin are now organizing this work. In New York City 140 high school teachers are taking a teacher-training course in preparation for giving instruction in the schools."

EDUCATION NOTES

Beginning with the opening of the year 1936-1937 a boys' junior college is to be established at Tilton School, at Tilton, according to an announcement made by headmaster James E. Coons. Dr. Coons will be the new president. It is the first junior college for men to be opened in the state.

In Tilton there are especially good reasons for expecting success. The fine record of Tilton school during more than 90 years as a boarding school gives an excellent foundation to build on. The excellent plant and its location are also important assets.

The annual summer session of New Hampshire Normal schools will this year be held at Plymouth, July 6 to Aug. 14. Members of the summer faculty will be well-known educators, drawn from the faculties of the two Normal schools, Supt. Dana S. Jordon, Littleton; Dr. Lloyd P. Young, Berlin; Dr. Margaret Kiely, Bridgeport, Conn.; City Normal school; Miss Florence G. Perry, Salem, Mass.; State Teachers college; Headmaster, Clifton H. Dustin, Dover; and Mrs. Edith Murray Peck, Hanover.

A special three-week's course for actual and prospective teachers of arts and crafts will be given by the New Hampshire League of Arts and Crafts cooperating. This work will be in charge of Howard E. Swain, of the State Board of Education.

The University of Alaska has 180 students, every one of whom is assured a job upon graduation.

Jersey City has voted partial restoration of teacher pay cuts, effective July 1. Other Jersey communities that have recently taken similar action include Vineland, Rahway, Westfield, Harrison and Teaneck.

Harry L. Moore, Superintendent of Schools at Portsmouth, was elected president of New

OVER-PARTICIPATION

It is with a certain amount of relief that the men and women of Keene Normal school welcome the new plan of the Student council to limit extra-curricular membership. The demands made upon certain students by the clubs to which they belong have oftentimes been too numerous. Under the proposed system it is felt that each person might give more of his time to fewer organizations to which he would belong.

However, my one criticism is that there has been no allowance made for the possible wide range of individual capacity and interests. Whereas one student may be an efficient, worthwhile member of several organizations, another student may be merely a passive member of one only. Should one's interests be limited? The versatile student might like to expand his interests in several directions. Shouldn't he be allowed to do so, if he is seeking true education in so doing? If provision could be made to eliminate the impositions made upon the certain few, would not the problem of "over-participation" be solved? —E.L.P.

England Association of School Superintendents at its annual meeting at the State House, Boston, last November.

Following a custom that originated in Germany, the American Youth Hostel Association was founded in Northfield, Mass., and last December opened there the Richard Schirman Youth Hostel. Today, more than 13,000 youths are enrolled in the association. In New England there are already thirty-three hostels a day's hike from one another.

Pupils of Concord schools are to be given an opportunity to study the history of their own city. A course has been worked out to cover a six week's period, and the course will be entitled, "Building a Capital for New Hampshire."

The visiting team was from New Britain Normal, New Britain, Ct. and they were able to pile up points to win 67 to 40. Captain Joe Baines, '36, of Manchester was the individual star, winning four first places, which accounted for over one-half of Keene's score.

Baines won the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the 120 high hurdles and the broad jump, and his team mate, Wilmer Carle of Orford, a freshman, took first places in the mile and half-mile events. Keene took five third places, but failed to secure a second position.

Keene 6 - B.U. Freshmen 4

On Saturday, May 9, the local team came through to win 6 to 4 from Boston University Freshmen on Hyde street grounds. The game was "heads-up" base ball from the start and furnished the large grandstand with plenty of thrills.

Giovannangeli struck out 15 of the visiting batsmen while allowing nine hits. With a two-run rally in the eighth, Keene took the lead but lost it again in the first of the ninth when B.U. pushed across three runs. Keene filled the bases in their half and after striking out two men, Lahey permitted Dominick to hit with two runs coming in and the winning run came in on an error by the shortstop.

MEN'S SPORT NOTES

The tennis match with New Britain Normal planned for the afternoon of May 13, was called off on account of rain, although the visitors arrived in Keene ahead of the showers.

The Hyde street grounds have been put in excellent condition and the damage from the spring flood has been repaired. The courts are also in good condition and in almost daily use. Badminton is also played on the campus, as is soft ball.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE

By H. B. P.

The Wilcox house, on Winchester street, recently purchased by the state was occupied late in March as a dormitory for men. Mr. and Mrs. Conrad A. Adams and family occupy the first floor, and six students, formerly living at Bruder house, have rooms on the second floor. On April 16, Mr. and Mrs. Adams and the students held "open house" for members of the faculty and other friends. The visitors were shown over the building and refreshments were served. It is planned to make further alterations during the coming summer so that there will be accommodations for 14 students and the instructor's family.

The local International Relations club was represented at the Model League assembly held at Williams college, on Mar. 13 and 14, by four members and Miss Elizabeth E. Gregory, one of the club sponsors. The students taking the trip were Misses Katherine Gage, Manchester, and Dorothy F. Plaisted, Sanford, Me., Richard O. Trufant, Peterboro, and Amileare Scarponi, Portsmouth.

James A. Keech instructor in science gave an address on a recent Sunday morning, at the Court Street church, in connection with the observance of Father and Son week. Mr. Keech spoke on the topic: "A Father's Hope."

VERSE POETRY CONTEST

Annually the Sigma Pi Epsilon sponsors a Poetry Contest open to all Normal School students.

This year 20 poems were submitted to the judges: Mrs. Dorothy Randall, Mrs. Philip Daniels, and Judge Chester B. Jordan, all of Keene.

The following poems have been selected as the three prize poems:

1st AWARD Desiderum

I held a star within my hands
And wondered at the cold and luminous toy
And was in awe-reverent to God
For giving such a perfect gift—
But long days passed and I grew tired
Of such cold unfeeling loveliness
And when I found a midnight pool
Deep hidden in a lonely wood
And peered into unlighted depths
I dropped my star therein and watched it fall
And down—and down—and on and on
A Silver comet through the crystal miles —And when at last it passes from view,
I turned to gaze up at the moon—
Ruth McVeigh.

2nd AWARD The First Arbutus

Five petals of pearl in the dead dry leaves,
And a fragrance so sweet on the chill March breeze
That I gasped with delight and dropped to my knees—
'Twas the first arbutus!
Bravely defying the frost's sharp bite,
Not heeding tree buds still wrapped so tight,
It shyly peeped forth. Spring had come in the night,
With the first arbutus,
Nature thus challenges him of faint heart,
Who lacks the courage to make a fresh start.
The success of a man lies in doing his part.
As the first arbutus.
Lucille Plante.

3rd AWARD To Mother

You struggled blindly for my soul,
And wept for me such bitter tears,
That through your faith my faith grew whole,
And fearless of the coming years.
For in the path of doubt and dread
You would not let me walk alone,
But prayed the prayers I left unsaid,
And sought the God I did disown.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

Miss Gregory: What would you do with 24 hours on crossing the international date line?

Student with a deep sigh of longing: Sleep.

Heard in general science class: Congress is good and so is the Senate. What has happened to the House?

Vel. Pierce, correcting Classics test: Mr. Preston, didn't you give us a book by Pierce?

Mr. Preston: No.
Vel.: But I'm sure you mentioned a Pierce in class.

Ma. Preston: Well I must have been calling on you.

Dean Carle, in chapel: There're four things necessary for a full life: a happy domestic life, an active church life, a vital civic life, and - - - and - - - now let me see— Never mind we'll do well if we get those three.

A friend seeing Ruth Hussey laughing over a letter remarked: That must be a sweet letter, Ruth. Oh, no! was the reply, It's only from my mother.

Wanted: An answer to Mr. Simmon's problem: "Would he be safer with a class of Normal School girls or a group of African cannibals?"

Miss Thyng has solved the problem of which came first the hen or the egg. "A hen is the egg's way of producing another."

Heard around campus: It is not easy to classify the girls, but the boys all come under one class beginning with D.

A new phrase originated by Mr. Carle, "a bunch of water."

A new word coined by the faculty to describe the Raspberry whip: "Ph-t-t-t."

You gave to me no word of blame.
But wrap me in your love's belief.
Dear love that burnt my sin like flame,
And left me worthy of your grief,
D. Wilder Goodale.

BOOK REVIEW

"I WAS HITLER'S PRISONER"—A DIARY

BY STEFAN LORANT

A record of the actual facts, written in German prison cells, this book is startling in its revelations of what was, and is taking place behind the scenes of the Nazi government.

Stefan Lorant, a native of Hungary, who was editor of the "Munchner Illustrate Presse," a non-political illustrated paper, was for six and one half months (March to Sept., 1933) shut up in Hitler's prison, in "protective custody." He was classed among thousands of others as a political offender, but to this day he does not know the real reason for his imprisonment.

He has never been informed of it. His case never came up for a hearing, nor were legal proceedings ever instituted against him. His wife, because of her continued and persistent efforts to make some of the National-Socialist leaders see the injustice of his arrest was imprisoned for six and one-half weeks; she too, was refused a hearing.

While the Lorants were imprisoned and helpless, unscrupulous Nazi leaders seized the paper and after arresting all the old employees, filled the positions with National-Socialists, using the paper as an instrument for Nazi propagand. During this time also, his house was searched for weapons or incriminating papers, and his car was confiscated for the use of the Nazi officials.

At last, mainly through the efforts of the Hungarian government, Lorant was released (his wife having been released previously).

This diary, noted down on odd scraps of paper, on pocket handkerchiefs, and the backs of letter and envelopes, was smuggled out of the prison. It is a typical story of thousands of people in Germany who are living behind prison walls. As students of contemporary affairs we should not fail to take note of contents of this book.

MUSIC FESTIVAL

evening, two popular choral clubs shared honors with Doric Alviani, of Boston university, talented young baritone. The MacDowell club of men singers led by Arthur T. Coogan, and the Keene Woman's club chorus, directed by Mrs. William A. Newton, each gave groups of numbers. Mr. Alviani pleased his audience with two groups and generously responded to encores. He is a real dramatic baritone, and has a voice of great promise. Mrs. Hope Mason Guild was the accompanist of the evening.

Faust Given

The climax of the program was the concert of Tuesday evening when Gounod's opera Faust was given by the community chorus of 150 voices, the orchestra and soloists. A second part consisted of a group of numbers by the artists. Mr. Davis led the chorus in the opera and in two other numbers: Chadwick's "Land of Our Hearts," and the Hallelujah chorus from "The Mount of Olives" by Beethoven. Laurence J. Bucher, '36, and Miss Dorothy McLenmore, music instructor, acted as accompanists.

Besides Mr. Alviani, the soloists were Miss Grace Leslie, of New York, contralto; Mrs. Elizabeth Beaman, Boston, soprano; Mrs. J. Mildred Strout, Keene, contralto; George H. Boynton, Boston, tenor; and Jesse F. Davis, '37, bass. Miss Leslie, Mrs. Beaman, Mr. Boynton, and Mr. Alviani combined to give the quartette number from Rigoletto. Each of the soloists was enjoyed in their parts of the opera as well as in the solo numbers.

Throughout the concerts the audiences were most enthusiastic, and the large number of cooperating organizations made the festival a real community project. Much credit is due those in charge for the success of the undertaking, especially Pres. Mason, and the director, Mr. Davis, head of the music department of the school.

Other Students Chosen on Staff

Work has already begun on the taking of the group pictures for the 1937 Year Book of the school. Many of the successful features of the 1936 book will be continued and new features added.

Gordon Tate, Belmont, is in charge of making of the groups. These will be made, as in past years, by the Granite State studio, but in order to give more of a school "atmosphere," they will be taken on campus instead of in the studio.

Wesley F. Brett of Keene, editor-in-chief, announces that there will be a literary competition, open to the entire school, for which two prizes and honorable mention will be given. Competition may be in the form of a short story, poem, short play or novelty. The three articles selected will be used in yearbook and those receiving honorable mention will be printed in the monthly KRONICLE.

Leonard O. Morrison of the faculty will act as faculty sponsor, and Roy A. Sullivan will again be editorial consultant. Assisting Mr. Brett, aside from Mr. Tate, are the following: Carl G. Bartlett, Concord; James H. Leh, Keene; Miss Phyllis O'Brien, Nashua; Miss Geneva E. Smith, Andover; Miss Helen Tsiotas, Manchester; and Miss Edna A. Wolti, Lebanon.
