

In the old days,
they smacked us across the knuckles
if we read with our hands.

Today, reading with your hand is quite acceptable.

In fact, it's somewhat of a status symbol, because people who read with their hands are graduates of the Evelyn Wood Course.

The hand, however, hasn't always been the symbol of rapid reading. The old method of teaching students to increase their reading speed was to equip them with a reading machine.

The theory was that a motorized arm on the machine would extend out over the page. The arm would move down the page at a steady speed. Hopefully, your eyes would go along for the ride.

The machine, while seemingly a good idea, didn't live up to its expectations. It couldn't slow down when the reader ran into a confusing passage. And it was too awkward to use in easy chairs or beds.

In 1946, Evelyn Wood discovered the hand as a device for reading faster. Her reason for using the hand as a tool was to "give my students the ability to read groups of words at a time and to increase their concentration so they won't have to go back and re-read so often."

Her principle worked. Since 1959, 450,000 people have taken the Evelyn Wood Course and have increased their reading speed by an average of 4.7 times.

Using the hand to read faster is a very interesting experience.

If you would like to try your hand at it, why don't you come to a Mini-Lesson™? In one hour's time, we'll have you reading down the page faster than you can imagine.

In fact, you'll actually take home with you a definitely faster reading speed that can be used on newspapers, magazines, correspondence, textbooks, and technical journals.

We'll tell you about some of the other things that have made this the most popular extra-curricular course in the world. We'll also show you how we improve memories, and how we make chapter outlining an obsolete study technique.

It's a wild hour. And it's free.

Drugs Are Topic Of Panel MEDICAL RESEARCH AND LEGALIZED USE DISCUSSED

SNCC Founder To Speak Here

Julian Bond, a founder of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and a member of the Georgia House of Representatives, will speak at Keene State College next Monday night (March 30).

Bond, appearing through the Keene State College Concert and Lecture Series is scheduled to speak at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of the Lloyd P. Young Student Union.

Admission for the general public is $1 for adults and 50-cents for students. KSC students, faculty and staff members are admitted through ID cards.

Bond, a 30-year-old Negro, was born in Nashville, Tenn., was graduated from the George School, a Quaker preparatory school in Bucks County, Pa., and entered Morehouse College in Atlanta in 1957.

He left college in January 1961 to join the staff of SNCC, which he had helped found the previous year, as communications director, a position he held until 1966. His work with SNCC took him to civil rights drives and voter registration campaigns in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas.

He was first elected to a seat created by reapportionment in the Georgia House of Representatives in 1965, but was prevented from taking office in January 1966 by members of the legislature who objected to his statements about the war in Vietnam. After winning a second election in February 1966, a special House committee again voted to bar him from membership in the legislature.

Bond won a third election in November 1966, and in December the United States Supreme Court ruled unanimously that the Georgia House had erred in refusing him his seat. On January 9, 1967, he took the oath of office and became a member of the Georgia House of Representatives. In the Georgia House, Bond serves as a member of the Education, Insurance and State Institutions and Properties Committees.

He has been a research associate of the Voter Education Project, and is a visiting fellow of the Metropolitan Applied Re-

An extensive search to reach a better understanding of the drug world was the goal of a panel discussion held before about 100 interested students and townspeople on March 21.

Appearing on the panel were Mr. Howard Phillips, a script writer who has done work concerning drug addiction, Fay Gemmell, campus minister, Dennis Clark, a Junior English major at KSC, Ty Perry, former KSC student and former drug user, and Mr. Jesse Trow, director of the Alcoholics and Drug Abuse Program which is a subdivision of the Dept. of Public Health.

"The problem is one of an adult society permeated with drugs. The drug's basic use is due mostly to its availability and television influence," began Mr. Trow. "It is an area of great misunderstanding in which widespread understanding must be sought before there is any hope of solving the problem. If we recognize the value judgement then perhaps we can understand the why of drug use."

Trow went on to compare the use of alcohol with drug use, referring specifically to "marijuana as a substitute for alcohol." "Narcotic addiction, which refers to the hard core drugs, receives more attention and it only involves a few thousand. Marijuana is widely used especially within the middle class. However, newspapers tend to exaggerate the effects of marijuana. Alcohol and narcotics are the major problem," stated Mr. Trow.

In conclusion, Mr. Trow said, "An emphasis on the roots, the cause behind drug use is needed."

The discussion began with a question posed to the panel by the narrator, Wayne Helie. Mr. Phillips was asked "How would you define narcotics?" He answered, "First of all, I feel we must get down to the basic cause. No one should touch narcotics if he doesn't know what they are. No one can predict how he will react until he takes them. Narcotics are unpredictable, they can't solve problems and can do no good."

Steve Stefanik, KSC student seated in the audience, pointed out to Mr. Phillips that he was avoiding the question and should, for the benefit of everyone present, come to the point. Unfortunately, a misunderstanding resulted, and Mr. Phillips left the meeting.

The next question was, "How do you

DISSOLVE OFF-CAMPUS APPROVED HOUSING Limitations On Off-Campus Living Cut

By RON BOISVERT

The official KSC Housing Policy, effective next fall, includes the dissolving of "off-campus approved housing" as well as a relaxation of the restrictions of off-campus living.

Dr. Leo Redfern

Johnson Speaks On Black Attitudes

"Strategies for change and how they affect Black attitudes" was the main topic discussed by Dr. Arthur Johnson, head of the human relations committee, before a small group in Randall Lounge on Thurs., March 19.

Dr. Johnson began by first clarifying certain terminology, specifically "Black." "The old word 'Negro' was excluded due to its reference to all the sufferings and evils experienced by the black race in the past. Today the word is 'black', but not referring mainly to color but to black as an experience, a condition affecting and setting all attitudes," stated Johnson.

"Our society exists as a system of patterns. Black concentration rests mainly in the cities, since there lies the best competitive bet. Housing for the elderly seems to be for whites, so the black is trapped in public housing for a lifetime," continued Johnson.

Dr. Johnson discussed the problem of integration, specifically within the school system. Remarking on busing, Dr. Johnson suggested "that in a community such as Hartford, Conn., which is 62% black students, the flow of students should be either way if we are really serious about integration. The quality of the student appears to be the real reason against busing the white child to the black school. However, something must be done since separatism is a loser. Many times integration is not successful because it is tried without the sanctity of the institution itself. The whole system is wrong."

"Nixon speaks of the 'Silent Majority,' and all the time the government works to keep the poor silent," states Johnson. "It is worse dealing with the black. A patronizing attitude exists as all recognize, accepting less than the individual's best. If not dealt with, the blacks feel that that reinforces the idea that they are not significant." Therefore, unrest results. "If there is to be any progress," ended Johnson.

The housing policy, which was approved at a meeting of the Housing Advisory Committee with President Redfern Thursday, will permit the following students to live off-campus upon application.

- (1) all veterans
- (2) all student teachers
- (3) all seniors (male or female), 21 or over before Aug. 31
- (4) all seniors (male or female) under 21
- (5) all juniors (male or female), 21 or over before Aug. 31
- (6) all sophomores (male or female), 21 or over before Aug. 31

If students in the above categories apply to live off-campus, in the words of KSC Director of Physical Plant, Robert Mallat, the Housing Office "can't pull them back during 1970-71."

President Redfern stated that the changes in the policy are in accordance with the financial requirements of the college, as well as with the concept that "there are some benefits of a student residence."

Eligible students, who wish to exercise their option to live off-campus next year must fill out necessary forms at the Housing Office (3rd floor Hale Building) before April 1. Failure to do so would mean that the student would be required to live on campus next year. Those seniors who are applying and are under 21 should also, at this time, pick up additional forms so that their parents may indicate their "acknowledgement" of their son or daughter's decision to live off-campus.

May Be Extended

It was further indicated at the meeting that if, following the registration for off-campus living, the Housing Office foresaw that it still would not be able to accommodate all the students required to live on campus, the option for off-campus living may at that time be extended to male or female Juniors and Sophomores.

President Redfern also announced that the Housing Office has been instructed to contact landlords in Keene as to the new policy. The Housing Office will then maintain a list of available apartments in Keene in order to assist students who wish to live off-campus. Redfern stressed that the Housing Office would be acting only as a "clearing house" for rentals and that these apartments would in no way be "approved" by the college.

Room Draw

Room draw will be held for both male and females this year. Those who have not opted to live off-campus will participate in room draw. It will be held on Wednesday, April 1 for next year's Seniors and Juniors and on Thursday, April 2 for next year's Sophomores. Students who shall be living on campus next year should pay their $50 room deposit to the Housing office before room draw.

On campus facilities for men will include Duffy, Bass, and Kennedy houses. There was some question, however, as to whether Proctor and TKE houses would be opened for female students. Full information will be provided at room draw.

It was the consensus of the committee

THE NEED IS REAL

Presently, the Academic Council of Keene State College is considering proposals for a service which would help students with psychological disorders. Possibilities for next year include a full-time psychiatrist, a full-time clinical psychologist, or nothing at all.

The department heads that make up the Council might very well be in favor of using the College's money to add new faculty members to the staff. Keene is, and should be, a growing college. Administrative officials have said that by 1975 there will be 2500 students on campus. The amount of faculty should increase every year, as it has been doing, but the time has come for a new type of addition to the KSC staff.

Whether it be college life, the Keene community, or society in general, many students here are troubled by problems, and are in need of help. There is, at this time, no person on this campus who is qualified to deal with these problems.

The average KSC student doesn't hear about the bad trips or the attempted suicides that occur on campus, but these incidents happen, nonetheless.

The time to act is RIGHT NOW, not next year or the year after that. Those people not in favor of instituting this change will mention something about money. It is, in fact, true that a psychiatrist or a psychologist will be expensive, but we feel that a counseling service at KSC is a top priority.

DO SOMETHING!

In my naive high school days I anxiously looked forward to my matriculation. I envisioned college as a closely knit intellectual community which would let nothing stop it in its quest for a better world. This, I felt, would be a rewarding experience; this was the kind of place which I was so much looking forward to. But I came to Keene instead.

Here I find quite a different species of people. Their major habitat is the Union-Snackbar. Here, if they can drag themselves out of bed, their major activity is that of playing whist. How these same dreary-eyed ones can move so fast to get out of here on Friday afternoons still amazes me! The major conversation piece of this species is the complaining of the inadequacies of Keene State College. Surprisingly enough, however, not one member of this species ever seems to do anything about what he's complaining about.

The time for Student Senate elections has once again come to KSC. Judging from the number of people who are running for office, I can safely say that most of the people on this campus belong to the complain a lot-do nothing group. As of the March 23rd deadline, no one is running for junior class president. There is only one candidate for each of the other available positions (senior class president, sophomore class president, and 2 other senators from each of the senior, junior and sophomore classes).

Next year the students of KSC will complain again. They will complain about students' rights. They will complain of inadequate representation in the Student Senate.

Yes, you will complain again and do nothing again. If this continues, the situation at KSC can only get worse; and it will be YOUR fault.

The situation may still be remedied, however. The deadline for petitions for candidates for office has been extended until Thursday noon. DO SOMETHING.

son, "the white man must be willing to accept a new role. He must get over his missionary attitude of working programs for the black on white terms."

Although he attended all-black schools, Johnson opposes the segregation demands of the campus black leaders and said that it is their "coercive nature" that compels other black students to demand with them.

In answer to Dr. Redfern's question about the proper response to black demands on campus, Johnson said they should be treated the same as white demands. Respect and praise should be given if appropriate, or on the other extreme they should be slapped down. He commented that authority should be thrown.

As for violence in the black community, Johnson said he sees no gains in it. As an example, he cited Watts. This community, he said, is not significantly different now than prior to the riots. He suggested that instead of violence, Negroes should act out the concept of participatory democracy.

Concerning the world of economics, Johnson proposed that the Negro go outside his own community and make a larger market. Previously much Negro industry has been aimed at its own people; for example, hair straighteners and make-up.

Pot: A Rational Approach To A Social Dilemma

By DENNIS CLARK

Once man decides to unite with his fellows in common action, certain limitations must be placed upon individual freedom in order to make human interaction possible. The result is the formation of norms. Their function is primarily to define explicitly what forms of behavior shall be termed acceptable within a particular society. Norms may be defined and enforced in different ways. In primitive agricultural communities most norm definition is strictly informal, and social control is maintained most effectively by the group, with little need for separate law enforcement institutions. This is due primarily to the great importance man places upon group acceptance on an informal level, and the intrinsic and intimate nature of interaction within small groups. When larger groups of people decide to unite in common action greater difficulties arise. A modern complex nation state such as America could not possibly control the behavior of the large numbers of people within her boundaries through informal norms and sanctions. More formalized definitions of appropriate behavior are necessary due to the larger number of persons that must be controlled in order to make interaction possible. Thus as a consequence of progress and development certain norms are institutionalized into more definite and explicitly spelled out norms. The result is law.

There have been many advantages gained through the development of law. Law has allowed millions of people to pool their resources, thus accomplishing massive feats of production not possible in primitive cultures. Modern societies are characterized by a great deal of rapid change. Law provides a framework within which these changes may take place by maintaining a semblance of stability. This prevents the widespread anarchy that may result when attitudes and institutions change very rapidly without some system of maintaining order. But these advantages are not gained without the possibility of widespread malfunctions resulting from a failure to remain relevant to significant changes in peoples' attitudes concerning what is proper and improper. The attitudes of great numbers of people may change while our laws remain fixed and rigid. The result of such an attitude will be a social problem the magnitude of which will depend upon this discrepancy between attitudes and laws. This is one of the chief disadvantages of the legal system. In primitive societies social control was strictly informal and could be altered very quickly due to attitude changes, but modern societies with systems of law do not find such changes quite as easy to make. The very fact that a law has stood firm and explicit for a long period of time tends to make those in power less willing to recognize its irrelevance. This is perhaps due to the fact that many of our law makers are older men who grew up in a time when attitudes were more in agreement with a particular law. Also many of our legislators are lawyers. Lawyers are not for the most part distinguished by flexible intellects.

Many social theorists are now of the opinion that the present controversy over the marijuana issue constitutes such a conflict between law and attitudes. Our law makers, being older men who grew up in

Letters to the Editor

An Open Letter To All Sophomores

I would like to thank the many people who made the last two class activities such successes; the informal talk by Mr. Arthur Johnson of the Hartford Human Relations Commission and the combined efforts of the Classes of '72 and '73 in the Killington ski trip. The last planned class activity of the year will be held on April 11. On that date the class is sponsoring a soul dance concert in the Student Union in honor of the basketball team for their very successful season. The dance will be open to all KSC students free of charge.

I would like to thank the Council of '72 for the time and effort they have given me in helping to plan class activities during the year. The council type of class organization was a new idea in school government. Its success is due in great part to you, the Class of 1972 in supporting it. I feel the council concept of government is effective in planning a wide range of activities.

Socially, this year we have had a dance at Gamarlos, the concert with Daddy-Warbucks and the New England Congregation, the ski trip to Killington with the Class of '73 and the upcoming soul dance concert. Concerning athletics, we have donated the KP trophy, sponsored a bus to the Plymouth basketball game, as well as showing two excellent films on skiing in November. Culturally, the class has sponsored two lectures on the urban problem; Dr. Fred Wilkinson and Mr. Arthur Johnson. The Christmas party was a big success for the children in the Head Start Program at Tilden School. So far we were the only class to contribute $100 to the newly formed KSC radio station.

It is important that all the classes next year begin to work together, as the classes of 1972 and 1973 have done this year. It is essential that communications exist within a class as well as in relation to other classes, so that activities can be coordinated and inter-class functions can be planned.

For personal reasons I have decided not to run again for Class President, although I hope you will give the new president as much cooperation and enthusiastic support as you have given me. Due to the combined efforts of the class and the council this year I have learned that the Spirit of '72 does exist. Thank you very much.

STAUFFER COMMENDS CLINIC

To the Editor:

Mr. Dennis L. Clark's editorial (March 18) calling for the free availability of birth control information and devices for all students on demand is significant and timely. I wish to associate my name with the demand for such a clinic as well as express my hope that a vast improvement in Keene State College's program for physical and mental health services is eminent. I am sure that if the Trustees, administration, and faculty were aware of the magnitude of mental, drug, and sexual problems which students face, they would be shocked. I am equally aware that if the powers that be were shocked, adequate health care facilities would be made available.

Unfortunately, it will probably require the death of a student at the hands of an abortionist or with the supply of contaminated speed before the talk-endless talk-becomes-a system of decent health care for the student body.

CULTIVATES DINKS

To The Editor:

On the night of March 23 and the morning of March 24 Carle Hall had 2 fire alarms. The attitude and behavior taken by the proctors, (I use the term literally), and the Dean of Men was extremely childish, and almost approached humorous. Dean Gendron insisted on his usual peptalk after the first drill, which had become an expected bore. But after the second drill, the dean decided to punish everyone by making them stand outside for a few extra minutes. And who should be standing at the door to grin at us as we came in? Perhaps the worst part of the incident was the fact that the proctors would back Gendron up, and even seem to think the punishment proper. Thus we see that Dean Gendron has cultivated a group of loyal dinks around him, rather than trying to counsel the students.

I hope that President Redfern has made himself aware of this dean's actions and will be able to offer the men of Carle Hall a more interested Dean of Men.

a time when attitudes towards the use of the drug were different, have failed to make a necessary adjustment. Increasingly more and more Americans have come to view the drug as acceptable, thus serving to make the laws against its use impossible to enforce. The results have been disastrous. Large numbers of American citizens have been censured by their society as criminals, and branded for life as felonious for behavior of which, to true criminal nature, is highly dubious. There seems to be little justification for the maintenance of the law as several medical authorities have concluded the drug develops little or no physiological dependency. There is no basis for claims that smoking marijuana leads to self destruction. How can we possibly justify punishing people for the use of marijuana on the grounds that they are harming themselves when this has not as yet been established?

Budget Crisis

By FRANK L'HOMMIEU

Next year's Student Activity fund should swell to nearly $60,000. The Senate Finance Committee, under the leadership of Wayne Helie, is now working to finish its allocation recommendations for campus organizations and media. The budget has never been so near completion at such an early date in years.

Although we are handling a large amount of money, increased budgetary request have again put the squeeze on out resources. The difficult responsibility of setting financial priorities has led some of us to reconsider some of the expenses we have traditionally assumed.

Senate leaders have recently discussed possibilities of eliminating or cutting back allocations for the yearbook, the KSC Pageant, and the Student Ambassador program. Last year's yearbook budget amounted to $13,000. Of this $1,000-$2,000 worth of yearbooks will not be picked up, and they will join the $8,000 stack of unclaimed yearbooks gathering dust in Hale cellar. We wonder how many students would lay out $10 for a yearbook if it were not included in the Student Activity Fee? And how many students would rather see that money put toward something a little more exciting and relevant during the school year. Especially since the yearbook has been coming out, on the average, a little late.

Do you know what $13,000 spread over the rest of the budget could do. Credence Clearwater; a KSC radio station; Wm. F. Buckley? sensitivity training on campus; up to date, good films, such as Midnight Cowboy, Sundance Kid, Sterile Cuckoo, (anybody for Fall of the House of Usher for the tenth time?) or a Fellini film. Or do you want to keep GOOD drama on campus? The choice is between having a mediocre extra-curricula undergraduate life with a yearbook to remind you of it, or having a full, exciting undergraduate experience which would give you memories that would not need reinforcement by a yearbook.

When I suggested to a girl that we discontinue the KSC Pageant, she protested

Let us consider a few other significant problems attributable to our legislators' failure to realize the ineffectiveness of the second "Nobel Experiment." Consider how this unnecessary legal action has succeeded in clogging our judicial system with thousands of criminal cases serving to limit the ability of this system to deal with more important matters. The use of alcohol and tobacco to excess can be viewed as a social problem. It is not viewed as a medical problem however until it seriously inhibits the individuals ability to function in our society. WE have decided that it is not rational to view these two forms of relaxation as illegal. Perhaps we should adopt the same attitude towards marijuana. The present system has already proved its inability to deal with the situation. All we have succeeded in doing is destroying the futures of many American citizens unnecessarily, and provide the forces of organized crime a good market for their wares.

"Dramatic Protest" Set For April

BC PAPER SHUTS DOWN

[Reprinted from the Boston Herald Traveler, March 19, 1970.]

The editorial board of the Boston College campus newspaper, "The Heights," suspended its publication yesterday and said the paper would remain shut unless the college administration meets four demands.

The administration last Friday withdrew its official support of the paper, stripped it of its name and said it would continue the newspaper's budget only for the remainder of the year.

The action stemmed from a series of controversial articles printed in the newspaper.

Demands Listed

At a campus press conference, the editor-in-chief, Thomas Sheehan, said the administration must agree to the following demands if the paper is to be published:

1-A guarantee of the present office space or its equivalent on campus.

2-A definite commitment from the university on whether the newspaper will be given ownership of the present composing equipment used by the paper, or comparable equipment.

3-Agreement to subsidize plan that will assure continued operation until total fiscal autonomy can be maintained.

4-Agreement that the newspaper will be given the present or equivalent furniture and equipment, including the use of university phones and services.

The board also disclosed it had engaged legal counsel and initiated a legal defense fund drive among students.

"Breach of Contract"

The board accused the university of a "breach of contract" by withdrawal of its support.

In the official board statement, it said that the decision to drop support of the newspaper was reached "at a hastily called two-hour meeting among Father F.X. Shea, executive vice president, James McIntyre, vice president for student affairs, and Kevin Duffy, director of student activities."

The statement said: "The decision was

This is an appeal to rational men and women who support the laws continuity to reconsider their position. I ask for a realistic appraisal of the present situation. Let us dispense with our own value judgments of what is proper and improper in our judgments of others behavior. Marijuana must be legalized. There is no amount of evidence proving the drug's harmful effects. It justifies our present treatment of the user. It is my belief that even if marijuana was a problem it could be better dealt with by institutions which are by their nature medical and psychological rather than legal. I implore our legislators to allow individuals the freedom to determine their own destiny where society is not directly attacked. The use of marijuana allows our freedom to be limited by the belief of certain moralists that if something is pleasurable it must by necessity be evil.

that everyone would have to comply with the new housing policy, that there were "no loop-holes."

In outlining the next considerations of the Housing Committee, President Redfern said that the trustees are envisioning 2500 students at KSC by 1975. He said that the committee should now consider accommodating these students.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee plans what it calls a "dramatic protest" for April. A peace fast is set for April 13, 14, and 15. According to the Committee the aim of the fast is to demonstrate moral opposition to the war and to generate public pressure on the Nixon administration to bring all the troops home from Southeast Asia.

The fast will culminate on April 15. Rallies are planned across the nation which will center on the war and how it affects people at home vis-a-vis taxes, cost of living, and national priorities. The Vietnam Moratorium Committee asks that money normally spent for meals during these three days be sent to aid victims of war. "Many students are already asking their cafeterias and dormitories for reimbursements for their meals during those three days."

No plans for the April Moratorium at K.S.C. have been made public yet.

reached one day after the Herald Traveler published a column on "The Heights" by Cornelius Dalton, an editor of the Traveler and an alumnus of Boston College.

The board's statement continued: "The article (Dalton's) resulted in a flood of phone calls to high-ranking university officials from alumni and other interested individuals."

Dalton said in a March 12 solemn published in the Herald Traveler: "The recent publication of the article defaming the names of two eminent men emphasized the dilemma in which the BC authorities find themselves."

"They are publishers of a newspaper over which they have no control."

feel about the legalization of drugs?" Fay Gemmell responded, "I can't say make marijuana legal. However, many are not ready to accept the legality, but I'm willing to legalize all drugs. In reference to the legalization of marijuana, we must see what the truth is. If the medical profession won't experiment then we'll never find the truth."

Agreeing on the legalization of marijuana, Dennis Clark stated, "The nature of society causes one to search for a means to relieve distress. If a person can function better under drugs than who's to say it's wrong."

Ty Perry commented, "No one can predict how he will react under drugs. Personally, I found them very gratifying. The psychological dependency is perhaps the greatest problem."

When he was asked if he had ever seen a person psychologically dependent on marijuana, Mr. Trow answered, "There seems to be only a temporary psychological dependency on marijuana."

Dennis Clark asked for the causes of drug use. "I'd like to know the answer," replied Mr. Trough. "What is good for one person, may be poison for another. Individualism is important. Often too much is made of the whole thing."

The second part of discussion began with a few comments by Rev. Gemmell. "Many have come to see me to tell me how good it was with drugs. However, not many are willing to fight for legalization out of fear of being fingered a drug user. I have sympathy for those who say 'We have to turn on, man'. I've been turned on since the day I was born...All I can say to the drug world is let's see production. Sure I know places where drugs are used, and the productivity I see there is low. I'm waiting for writing, poetry, etc., from the drug community. If drugs are working and are really beautiful, then I say go ahead and use them."

Responding to a question asked on the restriction or the abolishment of drugs, Mr. Trow stated, "The State Police are involved in restriction and deal with this by cutting the source of drugs. In other words, by eliminating the product, the problem disappears."

Mr. Trow continued, "In the N.H. State Prison there are 31 persons on

KSC Social Council Amends Constitution

SENATE APPROVES KSC RADIO STATION

The constitution of WKSC, the proposed KSC radio station, was unanimously approved at a Student Senate meeting on Thursday, March 19. The Senate also allotted the station $4,400 for initial expenses.

The Senate meeting was called to order following one cancellation due to the lack of a quorum and another half-hour delay for the same reason. The purpose of the meeting was to act on the constitutions of various organizations on campus.

Other constitutions approved by the Senate were those of: the Young Democrats, the International Relations Club, the Inter-Fraternity Council, Kappa Delta Phi, the Student Union Board of Control, the Council of '72, the Council For Exceptional Children, Alpha Psi Omega, the Womens' Council, and the Lettermen's Club.

drugs. There is no program for them so it is really inappropriate for them to be there. The problem should be dealt with on the community level. We need to work with these people, not treat them. However, the attitude against the drug is so strong. When asked about the legalization of marijuana, Mr. Trow said, "The legislature is not about to legalize marijuana now. No law should have been passed against it in the first place. Then we wouldn't have the problem. However, now there is the law and with so much controversy any hope of legalization is non-existent."

When asked by a person in the audience if he favored the legalization of marijuana, Mr. Trow answered, after some thought, "No, I don't."

Rev. Gemmell commented, "There's a need for both sides to come together for more research. I feel marijuana will be legalized someday. Now we need research, treatment. Education is needed to find out what is the new man, the new woman, drugs and their symptoms."

Narrator Wayne Helie concluded by stating, "The legislature needs to change before there will ever be any change in drug laws. Youth must become involved in the problem and we need to be a part of the whole."

This year there is talk that a quorum of states could roll the United States into a Constitutional Congress. Its purpose would be to review, revise and reform the basic law of the country.

The KSC Social Council, by the same token, started the campus ball rolling Monday with the first of many needed and, hopefully, contagious changes in their internal organization and thought.

An amendment to the Council Constitution was voted in. The inclusion states under the title "Fines":

A-An unexcused absence from a regular meeting will incur a fine of $5.00 upon the organization represented.

B-Excuses must be turned in 24 hours before the meeting and given to the President of the Social Council or the Faculty advisor.

C-The executive Board is responsible for the acceptability of these excuses or otherwise.

A committee to study "flaws and deficiencies of the constitutions was set up with Steve Stefanik as chairman. The hope was expressed that this would lead to reform and re-organization of the Social Council which, said Stefanik, "needs more of it...if it ever had any at all."

In a later conversation with Stefanik this reporter asked him about his ideas for the "new" Social Council. Stefanik has been nominated, and is presently the only nominee, for the Presidency in the Council.

"This place is too f—ing apathetic," Stefanik retorted. He continued, saying that his first objective was to get the Social Council moving. This, he added, would spur other campus organizations into similar actions.

When asked how this would be accomplished, Stefanik pointed out that by rejuvenating the Constitution and perhaps by severing the Miss KSC Pageant from the financial domain of the Council, it could be done. "By making it an entity unto itself, the Council can spend its time on three occasions: Fall weekend, Winter weekend and Spring weekend," Stefanik said. We'll try to present folk rock groups, hard rock, folk, acid rock, psychedelic... anything the students want. I mean," he added, "if we can't be entertained together, we sure as f—k can't work together!"

With a final gusto, the Council set partial plans for the Spring Weekend festivities to be held April 24, 25 and 26. In the evening of Friday the 24, a dance will be held-music being provided by two groups: Canon and the Iron Rail. The following evening, between 8 and 12 p.m., the groups Poco, (or in case of unwarranted cancellation, the Youngbloods), Canon & the Iron Rail will present a concert of rock music to be held, most probably, in the Multi-purpose room of the Student Union.

Tickets will be sold at $3.00 for advance sales and $3.50 if bought at the door. There will be no admission fee for KSC students; authorized ID cards being sufficient.

Further nominations for Council office will be aired at next Monday's meeting when such will be followed by formal elections, and a promising new trend in campus organization.

Bond Speaks Here On Civil Rights

By RON BOISVERT

Julian Bond, a member of the Georgia House of Representatives and one of the foremost spokesmen of the black man in America today, spoke here Monday before a crowd of some 600 KSC students, faculty and interested people of the Keene area.

Formerly a member of SNCC (the Students Non-Violent Coordinating Committee,) which he helped found, and a vice-presidential nominee, Bond began his lecture by saying that, "Since the first black people came here in 1619, for us, everything has changed and nothing has changed, particularly in the South."

Conditions Getting Worse

"Statistics," he went on to say, "demonstrate that while the average black American is better off than his father was, he is actually worse off when his statistics are measured against some of the one's of white people...Economic and social conditions are getting worse, not better, in the ghetto."

In a news conference held before the lecture, Bond explained that the civil rights movement in America is "fragmented" but "still proceeding." He said that, "The movement has lost a lot of thrust" due to the recent concentration on other problems such as pollution, the war, etc.

"The gains made yesterday," he pointed out, "are gone today. The victories won in the wars of 1954 and 1960 are being negated by the winner of the battle of 1968. Today we have a national government which doesn't care about black people."

Explaining that politics is the method that the Southern blacks are using to achieve civil rights, Bond said that they believe, "who governs them does make a difference."

Changing Politics

"Politics as it has existed in the South is changing," he went on. "Its history is a sorry one. A history that only saw one bright moment—the 10 years of reconstruction. From the closing of that period of hope just before the 20th century... Black Americans have seen their political fortunes ebb and rise and now ebb again."

"They have lived through the beginning and end of one period of hope and are willing, almost incredibly, to begin another, now fully aware that their best resource is themselves."

STUDENT LEADERS PRESS FOR NEEDED COUNSELING SERVICE

Petitions Presented To Redfern; Answer On April 7

By RON BOISVERT

Twelve student leaders and three faculty members met yesterday with President Redfern to express the urgency of the need for a professional counseling service on campus.

Petition Presented

Steve Lewis began the meeting by presenting Dr. Redfern with a petition signed by 888 students expressing their desire that a counseling service be initiated at KSC. Lewis emphasized that the counseling service "should be a service provided by the college," although he said that the student would be willing to pay a minimal fee to help support it.

The main advantages of a psychiatrist on campus would be that he would be able to (1) see students with short term problems such as periods of adjustment, tensions over exams and alcoholic and drug abuse, (2) arrange medical leaves for students, (3) prescribe medication, (4) admit students as patients to the hospital, (5) consult faculty, admissions, personnel deans etc., (6) establish residence hall programs and meet with directors (7) enhance the overall education environment at KSC.

Dr. Jenkins explained that the national student-on campus psychiatrist ratio was one psychiatrist for every 732 students. Lewis continued, saying that since we are approaching 2000 students at KSC, the time has come for KSC to get a psychiatric counselor.

Redfern agreed that, "we ought to do something in this area. We should make an effort to do it by next fall," he continued. "How do you do it has always been the question in my mind."

Second Petition

Lewis then presented Redfern with a second petition signed by those in attendance at the meeting. It read: "We, as leaders of the college community do hereby request an answer to the proposal set forth today (Tuesday, March 31, 1970) concerning the matter of a professional counseling service to be established at Keene State College for the coming academic year. Let it be understood that we desire a psychiatrist to head this service. Let it be also understood that on April 2 1970 at 1:30 p.m. Steven Lewis and a representative from the Student Senate and The Monadnock, will return for a written answer from the President Leo F. Redfern. We come forth today with the support of the college community and our Student Senate both desiring an answer to this question on the preformation date."

Redfern retorted that, "the college is not going to make progress by the issuing of ultimatums."

Explaining that the petition was, "not an ultimatum in the sense of a demand," Lewis said that, "A lot of time has been

Exhibit Work By Brodsky

The Thorne Art Gallery of Keene State College will exhibit drawings and paintings by Roy Brodsky during the month of April, it was announced Thursday by gallery coordinator Samuel Azzaro.

An opening reception, hosted by members of the Friends of Thorne will be held on Sunday, April 5, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. The exhibit will extend through April 28. Viewing hours are 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is free and the gallery is open to the public.

Brodsky, a native of Dover, N.H., graduated from Keene State College in 1961 after previously attending the Manchester Institute of Arts and Sciences and the College of Fine Arts at Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh. He has taken graduate courses in printmaking at the University of New Hampshire.

His one-man shows have been held in Hanover, N.H., where he was a teacher of art and humanities at Hanover High School from 1961 to 1968, and he has exhibited in group shows at the Keene Art Exhibit at KSC, the Hanover Gallery and the Festival of the Arts in Keene. His work is currently on exhibit at the Allan Rich Galleries in New York City.

Brodsky has also been quite active in theatre work. He has been a writer and director with the Hartford Players of Hartford, Vt., and designed sets for four plays with the Omni Theatre Group in New York City last year. He is married and has two children.

ROOM, BOARD UPPED $100

Room and board charges will be increased $100 a year at Keene State College starting next fall, it was announced Thursday.

The average charge, based on a double room, will be $900 per year, effective next Sept. 1, following action by the University of New Hampshire Board of Trustees.

Room and board fees are combined at Keene State, but it was explained in announcing the new charge that the increase was attributable to a need for more housing income because of higher interest rates and a general inflationary spiral affecting residential furnishings and equipment and maintenance supplies.

College officials said no increase in board fees was needed for the 1970-1971 academic year.

SENATE APPROVES MENS' PARIETALS

By MARIANNE SEARLE

The extension of parietal hours at Carle Hall was discussed and approved at the Student Senate meeting Monday, March 30. The proposed hours were as follows: Monday-Thursday 6-9:45, Friday 6-12:45 (1:45 second semester) Saturday 2-12:45 (1:45 second semester) and Sunday 2-10:45.

The counselling service for the 1970-71 year was also discussed. The Senate agreed to support the petition of 878 names for a psychiatrist and to pressure the decision by deadline April 2.

Brass Ensemble To Perform

Works for brass ensemble from the 17th, 18th, and 20th centuries will be featured by the Keene State College Brass Ensemble in its second concert of the year to be held Wednesday (April 1) at 8 p.m. in the Waltz Lecture Hall on the KSC campus.

Composers represented in the program include: Buxtehude, Reiche, Couperin, Adson and Bonelli as well as the contemporary composers Robert King and Alan Hovhaness.

The Brass Ensemble, organized in 1966, is directed by Carlson D. Barrett, a senior music education major from Westmoreland, N.H.

The concert is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

There are four women's residence halls and one men's residence hall on the Keene State College campus. In addition, the College houses some students in college-owned campus houses, for which combined room and board charges will be increased $100 to $870 this fall. Single room charges, plus board fees, will go to $1075 from the current $975.

Dr. Leo F. Redfern, president of the teacher education and liberal arts institution, said he regretted the necessity of raising the combined charges, but that "we have done everything possible to keep the increase to this amount."

There will be an open meeting of the new Keene State College Radio Station, WKSC, Thursday night, 7:00 p.m. in the Student Union Conference Room. All interested students are urged to attend.
