President's Message

New and Old Together Should Bring Maturity

By DR. ROMAN J. ZORN

It is a pleasure to extend greetings and a cordial welcome to all new and returning students and faculty. After weeks of planning and preparation, the campus is ready for 1964-65 academic year. We have again set a new enrollment record, and we are moving ahead with new programs. Let us join together, therefore, to ensure that all will have a truly rewarding experience.

Keene State College is now on the threshold of a new era - a period to be characterized by physical expansion, diversification in program and activities, and broadening academic horizons. Already the signs of transformation are apparent: the Bachelor of Arts degree program, the new W. E. Mason Library and the L. P. Young Student Union, the enlarged and increasingly specialized faculty, the crowded dormitories and auxiliary campus housing, etc.

At the same time the college hopes to retain the best of its goodly heritage. It will cling to excellence in teacher, education, to traditions of friendly and cooperative faculty-student-staff relationships, and to its reputation as a pleasant and stimulating seat of learning. The combination of the new and the old should bring to maturity an institution of higher learning of which we can all be proud.

Significant growth is not likely to come without accompanying stresses and strains, and there will be problems of adjustment in the years ahead. However, the educational potentialities of the immediate future - and the rewards of identification with a college of increasing stature - should enable us to rise above short-range difficulties.

In this context 1964-65 presents major opportunities and challenges to all who are affiliated with KSC. With these prospects ahead, we welcome you to the campus and urge your personal commitment to an ever-improving college.

KSC Faculty Adds Eight New Profs

With the enrollment increase this year comes a substantial rise in the number of faculty members. Seven new professors and a new librarian have been added and it is expected that another professor and librarian will be added soon, according to David S. Sarnier, dean of instruction.

Former KSC Dean of Instruction Dr. Lloyd F. Hayn returns to the campus as a professor of economics. Dr. Hayn, who has just completed three years as dean of Olivet College in Michigan, received his B.A. degree from Wesleyan University, his M.A. from Boston University and his Ph.D. from the University of Massachusetts. Dr. Hayn is married and the father of three sons.

Also joining the faculty are two associate professors and an assistant professor.

Dr. Benjamin J. Lucow, formerly on the staff of the University of Colorado, has been appointed associate professor of English at KSC. He will teach courses in Renaissance literature, modern drama and neo-classical literature.

He earned his B.A. and M.A. degrees at the University of California and his Ph.D. at the University of Washington.

Dr. William S. Felton Jr., appointed associate professor of sociology, taught at the University of Maryland, Florida State University and Rollins College before coming to Keene. He earned his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Colorado and did his under-graduate work at Williams, Harvard and Marietta Colleges.

Mr. Frank Evans, a former Fulbright scholar, has joined the faculty as assistant professor of history.

He received his B.A. degree from the University of Virginia and his M.A. from the University of Pennsylvania and has completed course work and examinations for his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago and is currently completing his doctoral dissertation.

Enrollment Record Is Set: 400 Frosh

Orientation Program Held For Freshmen

Over 400 freshmen appeared on the Keene State College Campus Sunday to start off the 1964-65 school year and where immediately put to work following the orientation program.

The activities started at 3:30 with an informal reception on the campus for the students and their parents.

On Sunday night the new students ate their first meal in the college dining room and at 7:30 p.m. a Vesper Service was held in Spaulding Gymnasium.

Monday morning saw the students in Spaulding Gymnasium where a convocation was held at which the new President of Keene State College, Dr. Roman Zorn, was the chief speaker. Meetings with their respective curricular groups were held on Monday afternoon. At 4:30 p.m. they found themselves back in the gymnasium for a rally which was sponsored by the Class of 1967.

An all college open-house was held on Monday night where it was possible for the new students to meet upper-classmen and become more familiar with the college.

Conferences with the advisors were held on Tuesday morning and in the afternoon the students set up their academic programs.

At 5:30 p.m. the freshmen met at the Athletic field for a supper which was followed by a sports program.

The KSC Student Council held a convocation for the freshmen on Wednesday morning in the gymnasium. At 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday a supper al fresco was held on the campus and later that evening a sock dance was held.

Over 500 new students arrived on the campus Sunday, to bring the total enrollment of Keene State College to an all-time record of over 1,150. Last year's enrollment, which also set a record, stood at 1,019.

Out of the 500 new students approximately 400 are freshmen, also setting a record as the largest Freshman Class ever to enter the school.

With the increase in enrollment, came the problem of where to house the additional students a problem which was partially solved by the college's signing of a two-year lease for the Eagle Hotel on Main Street in Keene.

The hotel, owned by Isadore Borofsky of Keene, is serving as dormitory facilities for 62 college women. It has been taken completely out of the hotel business, and is set up under the same rules as the regular college dormitories. The name of the building has been changed from the Eagle Hotel to Eagle House.

Students housed in the former hotel will be eating in the college dining room, and make all payments directly to the college bursar. There are a house mother and four proctors in the new dormitory.

Changes Made

In converting the building from a hotel to a dormitory, certain changes had to be made to meet building and fire regulations set by the state and by the city.

Keene Public Works Director Robert G. Shaw, along with State Fire Marshall Aubrey G. Robinson of Manchester and Keene Fire Chief Walter R. Messer, inspected the building and made a number of recommendations which had to be complied to before the college or the Board of Trustees of the University of New Hampshire could authorize its use as a dormitory.

Also to provide housing for the increased number of women students, rearranging has taken place in Huntress Hall and Fiske Hall to allow for an additional 30 residents. Several single rooms were converted to doubles, some doubles will now room three, and in two instances large rooms have been remodeled to house four girls.

New Furniture

In re-arranging these facilities, new furniture has been added, and in some cases bunk beds are being used.

Blake House, Duffy House, Caruthers House and Blake House will also, once again this year, house women students.

In addition to buildings mentioned a larger number of girls have been placed in residential homes in the community which have been approved for off-campus boarding.

A housing problem has also developed in regards to men students. Approximately 60 male students were accepted by the college this year beyond the amount for which housing was available in Monadnock Hall and the three fraternity houses.

To help out on this problem several other college houses were converted into men's dorm facilities. Among these is Proctor House, located on the corner of Proctor Court and Main Street, which last year served as a residence for faculty members. Dummell House, located on Apian Way, is also housing men students this year. This served as a house for

After 2 Years Of Planning Union Opens

After two years of planning, scrapping of plans, replanning and fund raising the Lloyd P. Young Student Union is finally off the ground. On Monday night the first cup of coffee was served from the snack bar.

The actual work on the union was started by the MacMillan Company Builders on August 26, and completion is expected by sometime in late October according to Alton Chandler, manager of the Union and the Campus Book Store.

Alterations to the old Library could not be started until all the books were removed and brought to the new library. This was not completed until August 24.

The cost of the renovation and refurbishing comes to $8,344.00 and includes alterations to windows, rails, stair openings and stairs, new men's and women's toilets, new partitions, enlarged door openings from lobby to snack bar, finished hardware, mill-work, plumbing, heating revisions and electric work. Also included in the cost was the moving of present snack bar equipment from the Campus Club to the Union.

GROWING PAINS

Keene State College has made a marked increase in enrollment this year and along with this increase comes the responsibility of the student body to adjust itself. Several small problems have arisen out of this influx and it is to these that students must make a temporary adjustment.

Housing, which has proven to be the greatest problem at the present time, has brought with it a few inconveniences to the students. But rest assured that the Administration realizes this and is working to alleviate it. Maybe you don't have a bureau, or a chair, or a desk in your room but the Administration has reported that these items are ordered and will be made available soon. Maybe the rooms at the Eagle need a good scrubbing down and possibly a coat of paint but fear not, it will be done.

Another problem which the Administration finds itself facing is parking. During the summer two new parking lots were built but the Administration realizes that this will probably still not accommodate the rise in number of automobiles. At the same time parking permits have not been issued because the actual number of students with cars is not yet known and until it is the spaces cannot be marked off. Until this is done, which the Administration hopes will be within the next week, it will be necessary to follow the rule of first come, first served.

It is also noticeable that the new parking lot in back of Theta House is a little dusty. Here again, this is to be alleviated shortly by having it oiled.

If one of these inconveniences is bothering you just stop and realize that if it were not present it would probably mean that we were not growing. These are just growing pains which will subside eventually.

HELP WANTED

Beginning today, and every Thursday that college is in session for the remainder of the school year, you will receive a copy of the Monadnock.

The newspaper is financed partially through the activities fee which you paid upon entering Keene State College; however, it takes more than your money to publish this weekly.

In order to continue putting the Monadnock out on a weekly basis, your cooperation and help is needed. By help we mean the active participation and work of more students directly on the staff.

We are at this time in need of several reporters, at least two photographers, as well as people interested in working on advertising, circulation, and make-up.

We don't expect experts in any area. We are more than willing to show you the ropes, and get you started on what we feel is a worthwhile project.

In the past, the Monadnock has been in the position of having too much work for too few people; however, every year the students became a little more interested in what's going on around them, and in seeing things done. The newspaper, we feel, is one of the student's tools on campus. Support it, and work for it.

With more students on campus than ever before, there is no reason for your college weekly to be under staffed.

President Addresses New Pupils

"The real essence of a college is people - a partnership of teachers and students who are learning together and striving to develop better understanding of themselves, their society, and the universe."

This is one of several points made by Dr. Roman Zorn, President of Keene State College, before a convocation for entering students on Monday morning.

Dr. Zorn, in his speech "Partnership in Learning," told his audience of freshmen and transfer students, "these years are the major threshold for your adult career."

"On this campus you will find opportunities to broaden your knowledge and professional skills, to sharpen and deepen your insights, to explore the techniques of leadership, and to develop maturity for your ultimate involvement in the world of practical affairs."

The president went on to explain that this partnership of professors and students has two basic roles:

"The faculty must provide experience and knowledge derived from scholarly pursuit of wisdom. . . . In short, you have a right to expect that the faculty will stimulate your learning by demonstrating that scholarship is not isolated from the exciting times in which we live," he said.

"It is the task of the student to become an educated and responsible human being. Let us not assume that every person that holds a college degree is an educated person - nor indeed that every adult is wholly civilized," he added.

Dr. Zorn went on to explain this second point.

"First to be educated, we need a sense of perspective. . . . The person of one dimension, in learning interest, is obsolescent in today's world."

"The frontiers of knowledge are being expanded at a tremendous rate. . . . indeed, it is estimated that the entire sum of human knowledge is being increased by 100% every ten years."

After reviewing the increased numbers of students, the broadened program, the inconvenience of some, and the added facilities of the college, President Zorn reminded the students that Sept. 17 is Citizenship Day, and he urged them to be examples of good campus citizenship.

He said, "We want to treat you as adults and therefore we ask maturity in your performance. If you can rise to this level of citizenship, your growth in character will surely be such that your proud of you."

In concluding his speech Dr. Zorn said, "My concluding observation is that, in the long run, the student cannot assume that the faculty will educate him. The college will provide the laboratories and libraries, the professors, and the classrooms, but the process of learning is an individual matter. We can make it possible for education to take place here, and the deans and professors will certainly give every assistance to the student, but each individual can learn only by himself, and in facing this educational challenge we wish you success."

During the summer months, Paul Olson re-wrote the fraternity constitution, to bring it up to date in several areas. This will come up for acceptance sometime this month at a fraternity meeting.

Some of the members held reunions this summer at the Barn—a gathering and partying place in Sunapee, N. H. One unforgettable get-together brought Hank Dutton from Connecticut, Jim McGovern from Hillsboro, Fred Gardner from Sunapee, and Paul Olson and Tom Clow from Keene. Mighty fine rally.

The brothers of Theta Chi Delta would like to take this opportunity to welcome this year's enormous Freshman Class, especially the 300 or so girls. We think we'll like you here.

Ex-Professor Dies At Age Seventy-One

Thirty-six years of devoted service to Keene State College ended late this summer with the death of Sprague W. Drenan, Mr. Drenan, 71, died of a heart attack while shopping on Aug. 14, 1964.

Mr. Drenan was head of the English Department for 33 years and executive secretary of the Keene Alumni Association for the last three years. Besides his faculty positions, Mr. Drenan was also instrumental in developing theatricals on the campus, and for several years was coach of the college tennis team. He was an honorary member of Alpha Pi Tau Fraternity and had served as house father.

He was born in Sprague, Wash., on May 9, 1893 and later attended Dartmouth College where he was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in 1916. He taught in Middletown, N. Y., and at Lafayette College in Penn.

Mr. Drenan did graduate work at the University of Vermont and Columbia and received his masters degree in English from Middlebury (Vt.) College in 1927.

On Sept. 1, 1928, he joined the faculty of Keene State College, where he served until his retirement in 1961.

Two members will be practicing teaching this semester - Gary Wood and Fred "Aroostook County" Gardner.

With the exit of Terrill Watson, Theta will have new house parents this semester. J. N. Batra, who last year taught a course in the history and culture of India, and his family will be the occupants of the apartment in Theta House.

Scott Lane and Warren Lee will have their hands full this year as editors of the college newspaper, the Monadnock. Richard Swasey will be business manager of that publication, along with his duties as president of the Junior Class.

Another busy boy in the frat this semester will be Danny Lein as president of the Student Council. Bill Haggerty will be this year's president of the Newman Club.

Richard Wallace is this year's president of Theta Chi Delta, with Gary Wood as vice-president, Randy Locke as treasurer, and Bill Haggerty as secretary.

During the summer months, Paul Olson re-wrote the fraternity constitution, to bring it up to date in several areas. This will come up for acceptance sometime this month at a fraternity meeting.

Wallace Mason Library Adds New Facilities

Replacement Sought

Dean Fred L. Barry, president of the Keene State College Alumni Association, has announced that a special Alumni Council meeting will be held Sept. 23, to consider a replacement for the late Sprague W. Drenan. Mr. Drenan had served as executive secretary for the past several years.

At the present, Mr. Drenan's work is being carried on by the officers of the association.

Commissioner Says Big Job is Done

Paul E. Farnum, Commissioner of the State Department of Education, announced Sept. 3 that a tremendous job of recruiting, certifying and hiring 908 replacement teachers and 317 new teachers to staff our public schools for the coming year has been accomplished by the 46 Superintendents of Schools throughout the State. Mr. Farnum added, "New school construction, increased enrollments and the establishment of special classes in many cities and towns have created the many new positions."

School superintendents were conducting interviews early in the year with teacher-candidates at colleges in New England and some outside the region. Many have continued interviewing, selecting and referring applicants to school boards for approval, throughout the summer months. Slow board action, in some instances, has resulted in desirable applicants accepting contracts outside the area where superintendents have hiring authority and can act without delay.

Benjamin C. Adams, Commissioner of the N.H. Department of Employment Security stated that, "The exceptionally fine cooperation of the school superintendents in listing their vacancies on a regular weekly schedule with the ten local Employment Security Offices, has made it possible to compile current accurate information on teacher openings. Each week the list of unfilled positions, as reported by the Superintendents, has been published and distributed by the Employment Service to all eastern college placement offices, regional news media, and to State Employment Service Agencies throughout the Nation. This has resulted in inquiries and applications arriving from all sections of the country and many new teachers for New Hampshire schools."

The new Wallace E. Mason Library was opened to the students of Keene State College for the first time this week. The opening of the building followed a hasty job of moving books and furnishings from the old structure on Main Street. Moving operations were just completed last week.

The ground floor in this building contains a number of accommodations not available in the old library. There is a lecture room in the front of the building, a lounge, offices for the library staff, a group study room, and an expanded stack area.

Fiction and reference materials will be located on the ground floor, so will periodical racks. Also on this floor are microfilm readers and new books.

The second floor contains a reference section for social studies, fiction and non-fiction children's books. A curriculum library is available on this floor. The upper story offers several rooms off the main area. These include a smoking and study room, three rooms to house the audio-visual department (including a dark room for photo work) and men's and women's rest rooms.

A wing on the ground floor will house an art gallery, which will be open to townspeople as well as students.

A book deposit chute is located near the front door for use when the library is not open.

Miss Marion Goodwin, head librarian, has announced that with the addition of a new librarian, the library will stay open an extra six hours each week. The building will be open between 5 and 6:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday instead of closing for supper as it has in the past.

The new hours will be: Monday thru Thursday, 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.; Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 12 noon; and Sunday, 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

These hours may be increased, if another librarian is added as planned, according to Miss Goodwin.

Student Union

Student Union Steering Committee said, "At this point we should consider an early meeting of the Student-faculty steering to hear reports on finances (income and expenditures), from Mrs. Croteau's furnishings committee and to plan further for the development of the Student Union Building."

Much of the minor work will be done by students and it is hoped that all students will pitch in and help in some way, reported Dr. Peters.

Keene State College Has Region's First Art Gallery

The new Keene State College Library contains a wing which will be this region's first and only formal art gallery.

The gallery is scheduled to open in October with its first exhibition being the works of artists from the Monadnock area.

Money for this gallery was donated to the college in 1955 by Mrs. Robb Sagendorph of Dublin in honor of her mother, Mrs. George Arthur Thorne of Chicago, Ill. Mrs. Thorne had a summer home in Dublin previous to her death in 1955.

The Thorne Art Gallery was originally planned to be a separate building; however because of a question of the building's location, construction was delayed until the start of the new library last fall. Mrs. Sagendorph at that time agreed to have the gallery added as a wing to the library.

Through membership in the American Federation of Arts, the Thorne Art Gallery will be showing exhibitions which are circulated by museums in New York City and Washington. There will also be showings of works by New Hampshire and New England artists.

One of the gifts donated to the gallery is a "Miniature Room" given by Mrs. Sagendorph's aunt, Mrs. James Ward Thorne. Her displays of miniature rooms at the Art Institute of Chicago have been acclaimed and publicized throughout the country.

When asked why she had decided to have the memorial to her mother constructed at Keene State College rather than on private property either in Dublin or Keene, Mrs. Sagendorph explained by telling of an incident that took place at the college. She said that she was asked to teach art in the elementary schools in Fitzwilliam.

Since she had never taught before, she decided to take a course at Keene State on teaching art to elementary school children. She said that the classes were held on the third floor of the administration building, and that the paintings were displayed in the same room.

Professor George Lloyd, she said, who was teaching here at the time, mentioned rather apologetically that he hoped some day there would be better facilities at the school.

"This," she said, "is when I decided to have the gallery built at the college."

The Sagendorphs have lived in Dublin since 1930. Robb Sagendorph has been publishing the "Yankee Magazine" since 1935, and the "Old Farmers Almanac" since 1945. Mrs. Sagendorph has done a number of the covers for the "Yankee."

The Thorne Art Gallery will be open to the citizens of Keene and the entire Monadnock region as well as to the students of Keene State College. Dedication ceremonies will be held in October upon completion of the building.

The gallery is about 28 feet long and 22 feet wide. It was designed by Stephen Tracy, an architect from Boston, and is being constructed by MacMillan Construction Co. of Keene.

Mrs. Sagendorph said, "I hope that that the students of the college as well as citizens of the area will gain cultural benefit as well as increased understanding of others, by seeing expressions of art that are being created, not only in this country, but also in foreign countries."

Island Leased To College

As a new addition to Keene State this year, the students will have the use of the island at Lake Umbagog in Nelson, known as the Louis Cabot Preserve. The site will serve as a natural laboratory for the study and research of botanical and biological projects.

The site will be under the directorship of Dr. Harold Goder, professor of biological sciences at Keene. The addition, through a six year license, was made available by negotiations between the Nature Conservancy of America and the UNH Board of Trustees.

The college has a research and study program consisting of 25 projects which are specifically permitted by the license. Also included in the permit are provisions for field trips by classes in Zoology, Botany and Geology.

The license became effective July 1 and will not interfere with reasonable recreational use of the shore and trails. The rules of the preserve committee prohibit fires, overnight camping, trash or disturbing of plants and wildlife.

The owner of the land, the Nature Conservancy of America, is a privately supported conservationist organization, whose headquarters are in Washington, D. C. Its purpose is the preservation of typical wilderness areas throughout the United States. Although the Conservancy is active in other states, the Louis Cabot Preserve is the first New Hampshire project.

Yale University Combines BA and MA

New Haven, Conn. - (I.P.) - Believed to be the first university in the country to adopt the combined Bachelor's and Master's degree program as part of the regular four-year college, Yale University's new program will provide for both the Bachelor of Arts-Master of Arts and Bachelor of Science-Master of Science combinations.

Both Dean George May of Yale College and Dean John Perry Miller of the Yale Graduate School have in their explanatory announcements emphasized that while the double degree program will cover a shorter time, the academic requirements for both the Bachelor's and Master's degrees will remain unchanged as far as content is concerned.

The achievements required will be identical with those of the regular students who normally receive these degrees after five years—four undergraduate years for the Bachelor's and one graduate year for the Master's. A major stimulus for the new program came from the report of the faculty committee appointed by the late President A. Whitney Griswold to study the Freshman Year. Their report submitted in April, 1962, presented several recommendations for advanced study opportunities in light of increasing academic achievement of entering Freshman classes.

One of the recommendations stated: "Without question the experience of a liberal arts education at the undergraduate stage should be carefully preserved . . . At the same time we can improve undergraduate education by the careful introduction of more graduate training, in all its seriousness and rigor, into the undergraduate curriculum."

Workshop Held Free to Teachers

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration held a one-week aerospace workshop and teacher institute at Keene State College from July 27-31, during this year's summer school session.

The entire five-day program was open to all teachers in the area free of charge, and was broken down into workshops for teachers in different curriculums.

The purpose of the workshops, according to the instructor in the program, was to acquaint teachers in the over-all space program, and to show how that it might be tied into the teaching of almost any subject.

Monday was set aside as a general session which all participants in the workshops were urged to attend. The week got underway with a space-mobile presentation in which teachers were allowed to inspect model space crafts and to formulate questions.

For 45 minutes before lunch on Monday, the NASA Educational Programs Office from Cambridge, Mass., and Washington, D. C., presented a history of that organization, and informed teachers of services, publications and films that could be obtained.

Two films were shown in the afternoon, along with a lecture set up to point out the concepts and ideas that have changed with the advent of space exploration.

The remainder of the week was divided up according to teaching curriculums with Tuesday being devoted to English and social studies teachers, Wednesday for earth and general science teachers, Thursday for biology, physics, chemistry, and math teachers, and Friday for teachers in the elementary schools.

During the course of the week,

According to KSC president Dr. Roman J. Zorn, University of New Hampshire officials are working with architects on the design of two new dormitories and a common building. It is hoped that plans will be ready for bid in January, with ground breaking for the new buildings about the first of April, 1965.

These facilities were approved by the 1963 legislature.

Applications for admission to the college this year totaled 1,1028, compared with a total of 874 in 1963.

Today saw the beginning of classes for all students. Tonight the freshmen will assemble at 7:00 p.m. for the annual march down the main street of Keene and following this will be the lawn rally.

On Friday evening at 8:00 p.m. the Class of 1968 will present the campus with the burning of the traditional bon fire at the Athletic Field.

Saturday night will mark the end of "Frosh Week" with the President's Reception and Dance to be held from 8-11:15 p.m. in Spaulding Gymnasium. The dance is sponsored by the Class of 1966.

seven films were shown depicting different phases of space exploration and a total of nine different lectures were delivered.

Social Comm. Plans Calendar

A full student social calendar will be the aim of this year's social committee. At a meeting, Monday evening, Sept. 21, the KSC social committee met to start work on filling such a calendar.

Bill Haggerty, acting president, told the committee that Dean Fred L. Barry had informed him that it would be good if they could plan a student activity for each weekend during the school year. Bill said that this would include both Friday and Saturday of each weekend.

The committee began by asking the Student National Education Association if they intended to carry on the "College Bowl" this year. The S.N.E.A. representative said that they had not met yet to decide the fate of the "Bowl" but that it is very likely that it will be carried on this year.

It was decided that on Friday night, Sept. 25, there will be an all-college open house in the gymnasium. This will include use of the pool, game room, and bowling alleys, plus there will be a dance.

The weekend of Oct. 2 and 3 was found to be free of social activities and it was decided that a hootenanny would be held on the campus in front of Fiske on Oct. 2. This will not be a contest but rather certain people or groups will be asked to lead the audience in song. It was emphasized that all persons who sing and play a guitar are invited to come and join in.

The committee decided that on Fri. Oct. 9 a social mixer will be held at The Knights of Columbus Camp with music being supplied by the "Acoustics". This is the same group which entertained at a similar party last spring at the K. of C. Camp.

Bill Haggerty stated that any person or group who plans to put on a social function during the year should come to the Social Committee and set up a date.

College Gains 1214 Students

The first class at Keene Normal School (Keene State College) in 1909 had an enrollment of 27 students (all female) and now 55 years later we set an all time record of 1,221.

Dean David S. Sarner's office has announced that included in this total are 407 freshmen, 253 sophomores, 246 juniors, 125 seniors, 93 student teachers, 15 post graduates, 53 special students and 29 student nurses from Elliot Community Hospital.

This year's freshmen class is almost as large as the entire student body in 1948 and it is expected that next year's will be larger announced Dean Sarner.

Steering Committee Discusses Union Plans

With the addition of the Student Union Building to the campus this year comes the work of getting it completely ready for student use. At a meeting of the Student Union Steering Committee on Tuesday of last week the final plans for the outfitting of the Union were discussed.

One of the first necessities was to start a drive to collect the remaining pledges which had not been paid and at that time amounted to $5,063.05. Leo Cotter, Assistant Financial Director for the Steering Committee said that he was putting a booth in the Bursar's Office for this purpose.

Mrs. Pauline Croteau reported that during the summer the Furniture Committee, which she heads, met and decided upon some of the decor for the building. She reported that they have already spent $1,000.00 for furniture, which is being bought through Sprague and Carleton. Included in the purchase are four sofas, two love seats, four chairs, and two tables. This maple furniture will be used for the Main Lounge.

Dr. Roman J. Zorn, President of Keene State College, was asked to comment on his work with the UNH Board of Trustees on the approval of the building project. He stated that he was quite surprised to learn this summer that no one had approached the Trustees and asked for permission to do alterations on a state building, which is required by state law. He further stated that this matter has been fully straightened out and that work can continue as planned.

Dr. Peters, advisor to the Steering Committee, explained to the members the conditions for payment to the MacMillan Company Builders, who are doing the work on the building. He stated that a deferred payment basis had been set up by which 60% of the cost could be paid within thirty days after completion of the work with the remaining 40% coming due in February 1965.

The Committee was then asked by Dr. Peters to consider the possibility of organizing a Board of Control for the Student Union until it was possible to hire a director. It was decided that this board would be made up of two students chosen by the Student Council President; two faculty members, chosen by President Zorn; and Alton Chandler, manager of the book store.

This board will be in charge of the personnel in the Union and the control of the activities.

It was announced by Dr. Peters that the Melody Shop of Keene has donated the use of a color TV which

Inquiries Are Invited For '65 Danforth Aid

Inquiries about the Danforth Graduate Fellowships, to be awarded in March, 1965, are invited, according to Fred L. Barry Dean of Men the local campus representative.

The Fellowships, offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, are open to men and women who are seniors or recent graduates of accredited colleges in the United States, who have serious interest in college teaching as a career, and who plan to study for a Ph.D. in a field common to the undergraduate college. Applicants may be single or married must be less than thirty years of age at the time of application, and may not have undertaken any graduate or professional study beyond the baccalaureate.

Approximately 120 Fellowships will be awarded in March, 1965. Candidates must be nominated by Liaison Officers of their undergraduate institutions. The Foundation does not accept direct applications for the Fellowships. Nominations are to be submitted by November 1, 1964.

Danforth Graduate Fellows are eligible for four years of financial assistance, with a maximum annual living stipend of $1800 for single Fellows and $2200 for married Fellows, plus tuition and fees. Dependancy allowances are available. Financial need is not a condition for consideration.

Danforth Fellows may hold other fellowships such as Ford, Fulbright, National Science, Rhodes, Woodrow Wilson etc., concurrently, and will be Danforth Fellows without stipend until the other awards lapse.

The Danforth Foundation, one of the nation's 10 largest educational Foundations, was founded in 1927 by the late William H. Danforth, St. Louis businessman and philanthropist. The Foundation's primary aim is to strengthen higher education through programs of fellowships and workshops, and through grants to colleges, universities and other educational agencies.

Spaulding Gymnasium will be the site of the Forum Lectures '64. Keene State College is now the administrator and chief sponsor of the 1964 series of lectures beginning on Oct. 1 at 8:30 p.m.

Members of the committee representing K.S.C. include: Dean Dorothy A. Randall, Prof. Fredrick Durham, Mrs. Harold Goder, and Mr. Robert L. Mallat, Jr., with Dr. Roman Zorn and Dean David S. Sarner as ex-officio members.

The Keene Regional Forum series was begun in 1956 as a non-profit institution. The first speaker for the first of the 1964 series will be Mr. Malcolm Muggeridge.

Mr. Muggeridge is a British journalist and a frequent guest on television programs both here and in England. (He has often appeared on the Jack Paar show.) For five years, he was editor of Punch, the famous British humor magazine, and since his resignation, he has continued his writing.

An ardent believer in non-conformity, Mr. Muggeridge had a fairly conformist early life and schooling. He was born in 1903, just outside London, the son of a self-educated lawyer's clerk, who became a Labor Member of Parliament. After studying at the Selhurst Grammar School, he went on to Cambridge University, where he took an honors degree at the age of twenty.

His first job was as a teacher in the Egyptian University in Cairo, where he used his free time to send news stories back to England's famed newspaper, The Manchester Guardian.

Marcott Works As Disc Jockey

Every morning at 6:30 A.M., Lenny Marcotte, a junior at Keene State can be heard starting WKBK's day of broadcasting with the news roundup.

Lenny's broadcasting career started when he was a sophomore in high school. He was a volunteer at the radio station in the Veterans' Hospital in Manchester. This was a "Learn by Doing" project sponsored by the hospital. This endeavor helped Lenny to perform a public service for his community and at the same time gave him the experience which provided a background for his first job at WFEA in Manchester.

He remained at WFEA for two years and has worked since at WTR in Manchester, WKVT in Brattleboro, and WKBK in Keene as Santa Claus.

"Working at a radio station," says Lenny, "is full of experiences." One such interesting incident happened at WKVT in Brattleboro. Lenny had been working all weekend and had only gotten a few hours sleep. He had to be on the air at 6:00 A.M. Monday morning to broadcast the commercials between shows. While waiting for his cue, Lenny closed his eyes for "a minute" and fell asleep! A few minutes later Lenny was awakened for his commercial by the manager's wife!

Even though radio is one of Lenny's main interests, he plans on finishing college, entering the teaching field, and continuing his part time radio career.

WEEKENDS

It was announced at this week's Social Committee meeting that the Administration would like to see a student activity planned for each weekend of the school year. The Social Committee has agreed to work out a calendar of events that will comply with this long needed request.

For many years now the students of Keene State have been complaining about the lack of social functions but now let's hope that this can be eliminated. At the same time let's also hope that we realize that it takes more than just a memorandum from an administrator's desk but that it also takes a great deal of student co-operation and support.

We have been fighting the "suitcase college" battle for quite awhile but it is now possible to make a major advance and maybe get one step ahead of it. Let's work for it.

STUDENT'S UNION

For several years the students of this institution have existed socially under adverse conditions.

Dances have been held in Spaulding Gymnasium and Monadnock Hall. These locations are not ideal for all-campus social events.

Coffee has been drunk in an over-crowded campus club with a small seating capacity.

A change has been made. This campus now has a Student Union. But remember one thing—this is a STUDENT Union.

The Union cannot get started without help from the students. When renovation is completed this October, help will be needed. Help in painting, help in decoration and help in future management. This must come from the students.

ASSESSMENT

To all students at Keene State College: This is to inform you that at the beginning of next semester a five dollar ($5) assess ment will be put on your bill to cover the cost of the Student Union.

The July meeting of the Board of Trustees approved the $5.00 Student Union fee in a new student context. It was understood that returning students would be exempt for this fall because most of them had voluntarily contributed to the Union fund-raising drive last spring and this is now equalized by the current semester's assessment upon new students. Beginning in February, therefore, all are on approximately an equal footing. That is why the $5.00 per semester charge will thenceforth cover all full time students.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

This is to inform the students, especially the presidents of each class, that before any election is held on this campus, all class constitutions must be passed into the Student Council. This excludes Mayoralty and the Freshman Class election. It does not exclude Who's Who or the class elections in the spring.

The reason for this is the Student Council would like to know the requirements of each individual class concerning the eligibility of its members who wish to run for office within their respective classes. THE STUDENT COUNCIL DOES NOT PLAN TO HAVE A REPEAT PERFORMANCE OF LAST YEAR!

When elections are held, the names of the nominees will be posted so that any questions on the eligibility of the candidates may be brought to the Council for clarification. These precautions are to insure the names on the ballots are final.

If this is done the elections at KSC will run more smoothly.

Muggeridge

Returned for a two-year stint in the home office, he was assigned to the Editorial Page, where he displayed enthusiasm for what was then (in 1932) known as the Russian Experiment. The Guardian made him their Moscow correspondent. Once in Russia, he quickly suffered a rude disillusionment: nothing about the Communist regime or way of life was pleasing to him.

He returned to England, and wrote a savagely critical book, entitled "Winter in Moscow", which was published here. "Outspoken and decisive in its destructive criticism," said the Saturday Review of Literature. The Times Literary Supplement wrote that Muggeridge "apparently regards the whole Russian thing as a fantastic show, equally monstrous and ridiculous."

After a brief fling on an Indian newspaper, Muggeridge returned to write a column for the London Evening Standard. But war intervened. He joined the Intelligence Corps in 1939, as a private, and emerged six years later as a Major, complete with numerous decorations, including the Legion of Honor.

The war over, he immediately went to Washington, as correspondent for the Daily Telegraph, and so began his warm friendship with America and Americans.

In 1953, he was invited to become Editor-in-Chief of Punch, the first editor the magazine had ever employed from outside its own staff. Punch had fallen on rather sorry days; once waspish, it had become sentimental; once terse, it was garrulous; once sharply amusing, it had gone flat. But in a few months, under Muggeridge's editorial hand, it was trimmed and tightened: the reviews became tartly satiric devastating parodies of other publications began to appear regularly, writers of reputation (Joyce Cary, Noel Coward, J. B. Priestley, et al) began to reappear in Punch's pages, and praises poured in from all over the world.

will be replaced at the beginning of each school year with a new one. Also a gift from the class of 1964 in the amount of $300.00 has been made, continued Dr. Peters.

It was also noted that Mr. Fuller, librarian at the Mason Library, has donated an upright piano for the Main Lounge.

Appropriation of space in the basement was discussed and it was decided that the entire area except for the office of The Monadnock would be used for a game room. This game room will include pool tables, ping-pong and card tables.

To close the meeting Dr. Zorn addressed the Committee on the needs for a student Union. He stated that Student Centers have become a very important part of campuses through out the country.

The next lecture will be held on Oct. 15. The speaker at that time will be Willem Oltman.

Mr. Oltman will have as his topic "Trouble Spot (s) in Focus." He is a Dutch Newspaper correspondent and one of the few journalists Red China has let in.

"Parapsychology—Frontier Science of the Mind" will close the series. Dr. J. Gaither Pratt will relate some of the knowledge he has accumulated as chief reassarcher at Duke University School of Parapsychology.

THETA PAYOLA

Theta men were well represented at the President's Reception with Dick Swasey in the receiving line and J. Bennett, H. Boynton, B. Haggerty, and T. Menswar as ushers. Incidentally, Swasey's birthday party was a success this year. No walkouts.

Odde and ends from about the house finds that J. Bennett was omitted from the summer school list due to the fact that he spent most of his time in Pelham. Thud, thumps and grunts are heard daily from Mr. Charles Gus and Larrabee Atlas. Proctor has taken on extra chores at a local gas station. Have you noticed the athlete's stride? Cole had a little trouble on the 19th hole last Saturday evening. Lein has been roaring through the house with the executive look. For all those status seekers, Ted has a "new" MG. Howie started the year off right, rising well after the sun . . . set. Stevens is chasing the blond bomber at the Heagle Hall. Jim McGovern will hit the matrimonial circuit this weekend.

Hank will join Donut in the ranks of the kitchen men. Randy proved that chivalry was not dead at Theta as he came to the aid of a young damsel i distress in repairing the engine of her car.

Reade has joined Ollie, "the bearded wonder" in Goder's Construction Company while Carlton is back on the Bandwagon.

Congratulations to Alpha on their clothing design.

A greek tragedy befell Theta in the form of the recent defeat of the N.Y. Giants. Send all flowers to Tony H. Due to the recent illness of Dick Wallace, he has been seeking help from a local nurse. Instead of going home on weekends, Coughlin has brought his weekends here. This week, we nominate for stardom Bruce Marsette in a remake of "The Hustler". Bart's chariot has returned unscratched.

Theta wishes to meet with the student union committee to discuss the possible construction of a tunnel from Theta house to the student union. As for Scotty and Warren, refer to the masthead.

The main attraction for the boys at Theta last weekend, was the auction held on Appian Way. Among the many treasures carried away by the brothers' was a $9 Victoria love seat which is now housed in the back social room. This reclining monstrosity, has ends which fold down for comfort and usability. Howie Boynton and Bruce Marsette made the purchase.

Swasey's scoff for the day was three hot water bags and a hose for $50. He also purchased a dresser and mirror.

Randy Locke bought a lawn mower. It saves time cutting hair.

The men have been busy fixing up the house since their return. The cellar has been re-arranged with several additions. There are now carpets on the floor in the center, and in the TV section.

Complaints come from Scott Lane and Tom Larrabee, who keep getting their heads tangled in a fish net which hangs from the ceiling.

Bruce Marsette was busy last week painting the back porch. He and Larrabee also removed the old sign from the front of the house. We will have a new one shortly.

The stereo phonograph in the front social room has been repaired, after going quite a while without use. The set was won two years ago with Marlboro cigarette packages.

There is a slight correction which should be made in last week's Payola. Gary Wood and Kathy Shea also attended the party at the Barn in Sunapee during the summer.

New occupants in the house this year, are Scott Lane, Howie Boynton, William Haggarty, John Bennett and Ted Menswar.

And above all objections to this payola we salute Don L. 10-4.

SNEA Membership Drive Will Start on Sept. 28

Beginning on Monday, September 28, the Student National Education Association will commence its annual membership drive.

The Student National Education Association is the only professional organization on the Keene State College campus. It is connected with the state and National Education Association and attempts to provide its members with information through the NEA Journal, The New Hampshire Educator, and The Granite State as well as practical experience which might prove beneficial to the future educator and teacher.

This year the state organization has made arrangements for an insurance plan to benefit the student teacher. By becoming a member of the Student National Education Association, you will automatically become insured up to $10,000.00 during your student teacher training period. This insurance will provide the student teacher with ample protection in case of a liability suit because John Doe was injured in the school playground while the student teacher was on duty.

The SNEA not only provides a professional outlook but it also sponsors a variety of social activities. It is responsible for the KSC College Bowl which was originated last year and proved very successful, as well as the annual Christmas party for the children of the faculty.

Plans for this year include a high school day and several lecturers in the field of education.

A program that will benefit the campus as well as preparing the individual for the teaching profession is the aim of the SNEA.

During the next week, a membership booth will be operating in Morrison Hall. If you would like to improve yourself in the teaching profession, step up and sign up. Membership in a professional organization will speak for itself when a school superintendent examines your college record.

Student Council Amendment Allows For New Committee Choice

A quick change in the bylaws of the Student Council Constitution, made it possible to appoint non-members to the standing committees of the Council in Tuesday's meeting.

After discovering a ruling in the bylaws which made it impossible to fill the committees legally without a change, the Council passed a motion allowing outside appointments.

The ruling read that only council members could be on these five committees, and that no person could serve on more than one committee. There were 23 positions to be filled, and only 21 members to fill them.

Edward Brookshire made the motion to revise the ruling concerning committee appointments.

Appointed to this year's Student Affairs Committee were John Bennett, Dorothy Covatis, and Edward Brookshire. The president and vice president of the Council are also members of this committee.

Judy Mitchell, Janis Coates, Richard Swazey, and Sue Tacy are members of this year's Student Activities Committee. There is one position left open for a freshman Council member.

The Athletic Committee is made up of Ray Trombly John Putney, Carol Holbrook, and two positions left open to freshmen.

On the Finance Committee are David Sletner, Edward Brown, John Clouthier, and Douglas McDonald.

In other business a motion by Brookshire, which was passed by the Council, took the money earned by student use of Coke and other concession machines out of the Council hands.

The motion stated that any money earned on these machines would go into a fund for student services.

Brookshire said that he had talked with the president of the college, Dr. Roman J. Zorn, about the matter, and that Zorn had presented the idea of using these funds to buy extra furnishings for student housing facilities.

Council president Daniel Lien said that in a talk with Zorn, the president stated, "If people live in places like barns, they can be expected to act like people in barns."

McDonald spoke in opposition to the motion saying that if this money were turned over to the college administration, the next thing they knew it would be used to buy equipment for a biology laboratory or something along that line.

Lien said that in preparing the school budget, Zorn had contacted the University of New Hampshire and Plymouth State College and found that the money from these machines was included in both of their budgets, and was asked where these funds went at Keene.

The college president traced the earnings to the Student Council.

The Council agreed when passing Brookshire's motion, that they should try to keep tabs on where the money is spent.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, $75.23 was appropriated from Council funds for payment to the Argus Film Co. for movies ordered for showing last year. The bill included rental on the films plus overdue charges.

KAPPA KUTES

Here we are back at the animal zoo again. Most of the brothers are back and still single with only two known casualties. Congratulations to brother Manning on his wedding at the close of last semester and Big Pete in August. We understand that on Big Pete's honeymoon he left his wife and went fishing for the day. True or False, Pete?

The summer was pretty active on our off-campus home. Many brothers worked in Keene along with a few independents. Inspection time came a few weeks before school started and it took the brothers about three days and two truckloads to clean up. We are finally spic and span and hope to stay that way.

We understand that a certain faculty member thought that we were starting a new annex on Hyde St.

Now then, back to the eligibles. Brother Ron set a new record and took the same girl out two nights in a row. Big T. was seen with his last year's flame at the President's Reception. Paul J. is still tied down, but has been getting a roving eye. Brother Walt doesn't appear to be tied down but this eye still looks in the same direction.

We wish to send our congratulations to Brother Jeff who has set a new record. He is the only bachelor living in the married couples dorm. He's not a status seeker however. He falls at the altar with Rosy Oct. 10.

If any good cooks on campus wish to feed a group of starved undernourished brothers, in their beautiful kitchen, simply contact the brothers. We'll gladly supply the food.

We would like to welcome our new house father, Mr. Evans, to our group.

To all you home-sick Frosh, we advise you to attend the church of your choice. It may not help you, but the ministry will be happy.

Sincerely,
Bud Wizer

JOHNSON VISITS STATE

By William Haggerty

President Lyndon Baines Johnson spoke of "strength and firmness matched with restraint and patience" in his first major foreign policy address in the presidential campaign. The speech was delivered to the Weekly Newspaper Editors Association of New Hampshire at the Carpenter Motor Hotel in Manchester, New Hampshire on Monday evening.

Speaking to a capacity crowd in the small ballroom, President Johnson stressed that we have always kept our guard up and that we would continue to do so. He pointed out that his administration had worked to build the four great pillars of policy on which the house of peace must rest.

Senior Women's Rules Enforced

Senior women now have definite hours and later. At a meeting last Monday, Dean Randall and on-campus girls agreed on 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday, with one "floating" 12 p.m. late, and 1 a.m. on weekends.

Regulations governing conduct in senior houses have been on the books right along, but without enforcement, the rules encountered wholesale disregard. To eliminate problems of both the administration and the students, measures have been taken to foster compliance with the new policy. Senior women have been asked to sign out when leaving their house or campus residence. Proctors have been assigned to check the books and enforce quiet hours. Overnight visiting of underclassmen has been prohibited.

The regulations went into effect immediately, and after the first week under the new system, Seniors were asked for their reactions.

"In the first place, we picked our own hours," one girl stated. "We accepted the fact that hours were necessary, but we felt that seniors deserved some privileges. The results are pretty liberal; we have a full hour later than other upperclassmen."

"The guys are the ones who don't like it," another observed. "But the houses are quieter, and, after all, we have to study too."

"I like the idea of signing out. Sure, it's a nuisance, but it means somebody might be able to locate me in case of emergency or an important phone call. We've been signing out for three years, so it's nothing new," stated another.

Dean Randall said, "Let's face it! The only reason underclassmen stay at senior houses is to get out of dorm hours. We don't have any place to put them. We're overcrowded as it is."

The policy is in operation, with general agreement on its merit and enforcement. Its success depends upon individual acceptance of responsibility.

Loughrie Speaks To Drama Club

By Daniel Pelletier

The Drama Club met for the first time this year on Wednesday, September 23, at 7 p.m. in the "Little Theatre", Parker Hall. The meeting was opened to all students interested in drama.

The meeting was called to order by acting President, Robert Jones who described the purposes of the club to prospective members. He told his audience that there would be a meeting at least once a month. There was also the possibility of a Buffet Supper for members only.

The acting-President then called for the election of new officers. Roger Perkins and Fred Place were elected President and Vice-president respectively, both by acclamation.

'Blithe Spirit' Tryouts Held

The KSC "64-65" Theatre Season opened, September 29, with the start of tryouts for the November production of Noel Coward's hit comedy "Blithe Spirit." In this unusual play one of the chief characters is a ghost (later there are two) who makes life miserable for the hero.

Mr. Donald Loughrie, Director of Theatre, expects "a very busy year." In addition to "Blithe Spirit," a second major production is planned for the spring. It will be Agatha Christie's famous murder mystery, "The Mousetrap." The setting for this play is a snow-bound boarding house. "Murder will out," but before it does (with a very strange twist) it nearly wrecks the lives of several people.

At present the prospects look good for two series of student directed one-act plays. They probably will be held around Christmas time. It is also possible that the members of the Acting class will produce, near the end of the term, a series of "cuts" from major contemporary dramatic works, as stated by Mr. Loughrie.

This year all campus activity connected with the Department of English, the Department of Drama and the Director of Theatre. There are four main areas of activity. The academic program includes courses in Play Production, Acting, Directing, Problems in Theatre, Modern Drama and Shakespeare.

The KSC Theatre produces all plays on campus, and seeks to create, for English majors and other students, an understanding and appreciation of production methods.

The Alpha Psi Omega, national honors fraternity in dramatics, provides an honor fraternity for students, obtaining high standards of work in the theatre area. Membership is by invitation only, after the earning of 150 points, working in the various plays produced on campus. The fraternity will sponsor an Awards Desert and hold monthly meetings.

The Drama Club is a social dramatic organization, whose membership is open to all students of KSC upon payment of dues. It will sponsor dances, theatre tours and an annual picnic. The meetings are held bi-monthly.

JOHNSON IN STATE — On Monday, September 28, President Lyndon B. Johnson spoke in Manchester's Carpenter Hotel. A party of Young Democrats for Johnson made a trip from KSC to see Pres. Johnson. The students traveled in a motorcade to Manchester airport, where they greeted the president's plane, which arrived 3 hours late.

Hello, Lyndon! Keene Students Join Johnson Motorcade

By William Haggerty

Settling down to a routine can often be difficult after a summer with no routine at all, but often things come about which upset the entire settling process.

Everything, and we mean everything, began with a call on Monday to Mr. Richard Congdon from the State Co-ordinator for "Youth for Johnson." He was attempting to get a contingent of Keene State College students to travel to Manchester and ride in President Johnson's motorcade.

About fifteen minutes after the call, we had two cars filled to capacity, not all Johnson supporters, but still eager for the experience. After collecting regalia including the KSC banner and several pennants, as well as some home made political banners for LBJ, we met in front of Hale Building for the trip to the Queen City.

We arrived at the Carpenter Motor Hotel about 3:15 p.m. and one of the girls in our group was ushered to room 700 and not for what you might think for. She was tossed a typewriter and given a copy of "Hello Lyndon," the Johnson campaign song to copy. Everything went fine until it came off the press and the first line turned out to be "Hell Lyndon" every available pen went to work and in a matter of moments the "O's" were being printed faster than they had been run off.

Security was getting tighter also, but two of our group managed to secure press passes as they represented the "Monadnock." Another in the (Cont. on Page Four) DIFFERENT!?

Each year a sizable amount of your activity fee goes into the publication of the college year book, "The Kronicle". This book represents the college, it's life, students, faculty, and administration. This representation should be complete, unbiased, and in good taste. If the year book fails in all or one of these areas then it is not representing the college as it should.

The 1964 Kronicle has been presented to the students as the book which "Dares To Be Different" and the difference lies in many failure in one or all of the above areas.

To be complete in its coverage of the life on the campus the year book should include all major social activities. This year's book has several omissions which are in the category of major social activities. For example; Alpha Opera, which played for two nights and was attended by large crowds both nights, is a major social activity yet it was not covered in the year book. In the same light is Theta's Club Blue Gardenia which also received no coverage. The school as a whole set up the foundation for an annual spring week end, but the first one did not find room in the Kronicle.

But more important than just being complete, it is the duty of the staff of a year book to use material which is in good taste and at least follows some basic rule of decency. True, the year book is depicting the life of the campus but there are times when it is necessary to use a little bit of "better judgement".

Probably the year book belongs to the graduated class more than it does to anyone else. It is really a tribute to them and in this light it should recognize them for what they have accomplished. This year's Kronicle has left out these accomplishments and they also have found it fitting to put the Seniors at the back of the book instead of up front which is the usual policy of a year book.

It must be remembered, though, that there are two sides to every story and that there are compliments as well as criticisms. The Kronicle does deserve a compliment for the fine work which was done on the inside front and back covers, for the appropriate memoriam, and for the dedication.

PARKING

Effective Thursday, September 24th, there will be NO STUDENT PARKING in the New Library Parking Lot, The Fiske Hall Parking Lot, Hale Building Parking Lot.

Any student who has not secured a parking permit will not park in any lot or parking space owned by the college. Students are especially reminded that there will be NO ALL NIGHT PARKING in the new library parking lot. This lot will be vacant most of the evening and will seem like a good place to park, however cars found in this lot will be towed away and the owner assessed the towing charges.

If you have any questions relative to parking please contact Mr. Mallat's office.

All are reminded that the City of Keene has posted the North Side of Appian Way from Main Street to Morrison Hall as No Parking. Violators will be subject to city fines.

A NEW NOTE THE SPIRIT OF '64

Editor's Note: The following is a campaign song written for Barry M. Goldwater by Edward A. Lewis of Durham, N. H. Mr.

The fair Welfare State
With its federal grants
Is picking the pockets
Of the taxpayers' pants.
This vote-buying racket
We refuse to ignore —
We're voting for Goldwater
in '64!

We have doled out a billion
In lush foreign aid,
And what have we got
But fond hopes betrayed?
Who is the man
To have tending the store?
Barry M. Goldwater,
in '64!

While the eggheaded "liberals"
Raise particular Cain,
Constitutional government
Goes down the drain!
To put in a saving
Conservative oar
We're voting for Goldwater,
in '64!

It is time, once again,
To "Let Freedom Ring,"
As it did in the days
When we broke with the king.
We can do it again
Like we did it before,
If we VOTE FOR GOLDWATER,
in '64!

The government's nose
Is getting too long!
It's being poked in
Where it doesn't belong!
We're fed up to here,
And we're pretty darn sore —
We're voting for Goldwater
in '64!

The annual budget
Again has us set
Adrift on the ocean
Of billowing debt.
Oh, pull for the shore, sailors!
Pull for the shore —
With Barry M. Goldwater
in '64!

When Nikita Khrushchev
Has nothing to eat,
And comes begging to us
For American wheat,
Who would hand him his hat
And show him the door?
Barry M. Goldwater
in '64!

We are not afraid
Of the Big Black Beard —
Turn on the heat
Until Cuba is cleared!
Don't give us that jazz
About nuclear war:
Vote for Barry Goldwater
in '64!

Drama Club

It was then moved and seconded that the same man should be elected to the two separate offices of Secretary and Treasurer. The motion passed, and Michael Carbone was elected to the office of Secretary by secret ballot. He was then elected treasurer by acclamation.

President Perkins then introduced the speaker, Mr. Donald Loughrie. Mr. Loughrie told his audience that two major productions and a series of one-act plays were being planned for the season.

Four areas of theatre on campus were outlined by Mr. Loughrie in his talk. The academic area was the first mentioned. It has been (and will be) strengthened by the addition to the curriculum of courses in Dramatic arts. The KSC Theatre, itself, is another area. All plays are produced by it, with funds coming from the Student Council. A third area is the national honor drama fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega. This organization honors students who have been especially active in the theatre. Last, is the Drama Club itself which Mr. Loughrie said was "important in building the theatre area." He had only one suggestion to offer and that was that the Drama Club might like to consider changing its name to something more expressive of its function.

Soph Wins Scholarship In National Contest

Ruth Ann Marchegiani, a sophomore at Keene State College, has been awarded a $250 College Scholarship Tobacco Distributors because of a winning essay she submitted in a nationwide competition among the sons and daughters of retailer-customers of the association's member-firms. Her father, Claude Marchegiani, a Gardner, Massachusetts merchant, is served by one of these member-firms.

Students at colleges and universities all over the nation took part in the competition, by submitting essays on the subject: "Does the American foreign aid program justify the huge expense entailed?"

Harden E. Goldstein, NATD Associate Director and Chairman of the organization's College Scholarship Awards Committee, stated, in announcing the winners of the competition, "These students have produced outstanding essays on a most timely subject, in competition with a great number of their 'peers' from institutions of higher learning, large and small, in every part of the nation."

This is the first time that an association of wholesalers has ever sponsored a program of assistance toward the higher education of children of their retailer customers, and it has received nationwide acclaim from more than a million and a half retail firms that are the customers of wholesalers of tobacco, confectionery and a wide range of other products.

NOTICE

Leo Collier will be in the Student Council Office in the Student Union each day from Monday through Friday of this week from 7 to 9 p.m. He will receive payment on Student Union pledges.

Other hours will be posted on the door of the office. Dr. Lloyd Heyn, chairman of the Student Union Committee said today.

ALPHA ANECDOTES

Tuesday night the Fraternity held its first meeting. Things were done in a fine way. Hope there can be a few improvements in our singing.

Congratulations to Alpha "A" for their smashing victory this week. The 38 to 0 romp was sparked by the golden arm of Brother Makela, who fired to hit Malsbenden and Nalley continually. Late in the game, Brother Bazoukas unleashed a fifty yard bomb to find Brother Chandler, who gathered it in from amidst three would be defenders. This win would not have been quite as one sided if it were not for the valuable efforts of "Sam" Skora, "Crazy Legs" Shea, Roosevelt Deans, and last but not least "Big Daddy" Williams.

Also from the world of sports, the young Alpha "B" team was barely held to a scoreless tie. It would not have been so if their passing, blocking, running, and kicking had clicked.

Turning to the social world we find that on Friday night last, the Brothers and their dates enjoyed a highly successful party. All the Brothers danced and "monkeyed" with their dates while Brother Musgrove showed us his version of the stroll and later the crawl. In fact, Stalwart Brother Ed Brown was the only Brother adhering to the old tradition. Even Brother Stetson was dancing; fast, too!!

Thanks to all the brothers who worked hard in preparing the cellar and special thanks to Brother Johnson who acquired a new stock of furniture for the house.

Well folks, once again the schen-aiguns of Brother Malsbenden reached the public. This time for his impersonation of the jolly, B.V.D. clad, green giant.

Get well wishes are extended to Brother Thompson who laughed so hard when he heard that Brother Donovan blew up is car that he has been unable to straighten up for almost a week.

Turning back to the social world we understand that Casonova was out-casted by both Brother Cloutier, and Brother Donovan. Someone, it seems is losing his touch.

Brother Stetson was elected to the post of Captain of the house and is taking names for turns at Brother Donegans Teddy Bear.

Although the jackets appear similar, we certainly conceived the bearers differently. In short words "Vive la Difference."

'Beatlemania' Prof. Style

"May I take a few minutes of your time to express my sincere gratitude to you for writing the article about the Beatles in the Sept. 6 issue of the Boston Globe. I'm glad that some grownups are sympathetic with us teenagers."

This is an example of the letters which Charles Haggood Professor of History at Keene State has been receiving lately. These letters are in response to a letter to the editor which Mr. Haggood wrote to the Boston Globe on Sept. 6, 1964. In this letter Prof. Haggood defended the Beatles and today's teen-agers.

His defense springs from an article, written by psychologist Dr. Bernard Saibel, about 'Beatlemania', which had appeared earlier in the Globe. In his article Dr. Saibel had denounced the Beatles and the teenagers reaction to them, according to Prof. Haggood.

Prof. Haggood responding to Dr. Saibel's article wrote:

"If I have ever seen clear evidence of incompetence on the part of a psychologist, it is the lucubration of Dr. Bernard Saibel about 'Beatlemania.'"

"We all know that teen-agers have more emotion than they know what to do with . . . The important thing is to give this emotion a harmless outlet."

"If teen-agers do not have such innocent outlets for their lively emotions they may find more dangerous ones."

Prof. Haggood went on to say that he hoped the readers would not blame psychologists as a group. "There are bad lawyers, bad doctors, bad teachers etc. There are fools in every profession."

The letters which Prof. Haggood has been receiving are from teen-ager girls about the age of fifteen he said. All of them have been very sincere and warm and one girl actually cried while she wrote, according to Prof. Haggood.

This girl's letter follows: "After reading your article about the Beatles in the Boston Sunday Globe I was very much relieved to know that at least one adult understands the Beatle Fans and does not hate the BBettes. Dr. Bernard Saibel should not have been allowed to print such an article in the papers as he had done for none of it is true. I was very much upset by it."

"My parents do not like the Beatles at all and are always criticizing them or saying that Ringo has a big nose or that Paul, John and George are ugly which is not very nice to say about anybody."

"Before the Beatles became popular in America I was a nervous wreck. I couldn't hold a piece of paper without dropping it or having my hand shake like a leaf. Then when the Beatles came out everything changed. I knew that when anybody left me, ignored me or hurt me I could always love the Beatles and know that they would always love me."

"When I see them in Boston Sept. 12 (just can't wait) I will scream, cry and yell all that my lungs permit me because I love them more than anyone in this world."

"You will find my tears mixed with my writing on this paper; tears of love and desire for the Beatles. I know that any other true Beatle fan would have written the same thing I have written about the Beatles."

There was a P.S. attached to the letter which said, "Don't worry I love God and can depend on him too."

LONG WAIT — Last year THE MONADNOCK printed this photograph of Jeff Stephens, patiently waiting for the New Library building to be built. All around him are signs of activity.

COMFORT PLUS — Sitting in a less drafty spot, our subject finds his studying easier and more comfortable. The general consensus is it was well worth the wait. The time elapsed between the two photos was one year.

KAPPA KUOTES

The animal Kingdom has settled down to conventional matters after an educational and structural week-end. Thursday and Friday nights saw Kappa in action as the house aided Mayor Mallat in his campaign for a seat on the governors council by distributing bumper stickers. Best wishes to Brother Bob.

The real weekend highlight occurred Friday night in the Kappa bull-room as the brothers and guests participated in the first organized social function of the year. Careful planning and organization paid big dividends as we are sure that all outsiders were impressed by the gentlemanly conduct of the brothers.

Brother Walt's astronomy course left little impression on him last Saturday night. While following the north star, he was knocked onto an eastward course and found that the course of his journey left moonbeams in his eyes.

We have a new acknowledged heavyweight of the house. Bull headed, bowlegged, and last years ugly man, he weighs in at 243 lbs. That's a lot of tiger in one bull. His beef was sorely needed in Monday's football game against the ducks as they waddled their way to a 38-0 victory.

We won't mention any names though — Rayyy!! "Just carry a big stitch."

Brother Fred has taken up studying the Bible lately as Kappa's newly elected chaplain. However, at the last meeting, he took up a collection instead of leading the brothers to higher grounds. We all give him a big fat "E" for effort as his net gains consisted of 53 church keys, 170 bottle caps, one dog plate, 15 slim jim wrappers, 6 firecrackers and a button.

We will now fade out of the picture as the week ends in quiet solitude.

Sincerely

THETA PAYOLA

Our first order of business this week is to clarify the rather shoddy image given us in the Kronicle. It's not that bad . . . really.

For those of you who missed Hank and Swaze this weekend, they were in New York. They returned Saturday night missing half of a suitcase, informed sources say the other half is serving as a hood ornament on a '64 Chev.

Manchester was indeed honored Tuesday night, not only with the presence of President Johnson but with a contingent from Theta. There was some pretty fast maneuvering and some of the Brothers came out on top. Enough said.

Attention all football fans! Theta "B" opens its football schedule tonight. Starring for this year's squad will be tall, rangy end Bungling Buckwheat Boynton, of softball fame. Theta "A" opens its schedule next week in an attempt to complete another undefeated season.

One final note, Stevens is closing in on the blonde bomber from Beagle Hall.

Keene State's Soccer season started off in great style this year with an impressive victory over Salem Teacher's College on Wednesday, September 23rd here at the 'A' field.

Keene started the game with offensive play in the first period. Keene missed nine tries and kept the Salem defense really hopping.

A few times in the first period Salem managed to get the ball into Keene territory, but with power driving fullbacks Stephens and Carr and a good Goalie the Salem team couldn't score. In the second half of the first period Rodriguez scored on a direct kick.

In the first half of the second period Keene started out with offensive playing but Salem stole the ball several times and got it into Keene territory.

John Knowles scored in the second half of the second period for Keene to make the 2 to 0.

After some more work Salem received two free kicks for our goal but missed both of them.

The next goal was scored by Ron Diaz of Keene. Ron is a freshman and it looks as if he might be an asset to the team in the four years he will be here.

Tim Brown, goalie for Keene, stopped Salem's next valiant effort for the net. In the last few minutes of the game Keene came through again for one more goal which made the final score: Keene 4 - Salem 0.

With one win already under their belt the Keene State Soccer Team worked for its second on Friday against Johnson (Vt.) State Teachers College.

The first period started off with Keene showing a good offensive but after a full quarter there was no score. In the second half of the first period Keene began having a bad time and if it wasn't for some hard down-to-earth playing, Johnson would have scored.

Keene then went back on the offensive for a while but by the end of the first period the game was still scoreless.

Keene started the second period off with a pushing offense, and after four tries, Rodriguez finally scored a goal. Keene kept the offensive play up until the second half of the second period when Johnson received a free kick. The kick was blocked by the Keene goalie but a fast moving Johnson man kicked the loose ball back in for a goal.

Keene took up the offensive again and before the game ended Rodriguez scored on a free kick. The final score was: Keene 2 - Johnson 1.

Johnson

He further continued to elaborate that force could not rebuild Europe after the war and it will not bring democratic progress to Latin America nor bring an end to the arms race.

Referring to the second illusion that the United States can demand resolutions of all the world's problems, Mr. Johnson advised that although we have a concern for the affairs of every continent, it does not give us the right or responsibility to order the affairs of all other nations.

In regards to the third and final illusion that if we tried hard enough, we would put an end to difficulty and danger and then retire from the world,

President Johnson expressed his feelings in these words: "As long as this nation endures, it will be engaged in the affairs of the world. I welcome this involvement. I believe the American people welcome it. It may bring added danger, but it also brings an added dimension to the prospects of freedom in this world, as in life itself, there is no escape from peril or problems.

Previous to his speech, President Johnson introduced his "sweetheart" Lady Byrd Johnson who spoke briefly of the unbelievably wonderful day she had had touring the New England states and meeting all the wonderful people her husband works for.

Sororities Are Urged at KSC

In past years, the idea of having sororities on this campus has been presented to the administration. The students were told that the administration did not oppose the idea provided the majority of women students voted in favor of it.

There are many thoughts in relation to this problem, which would have to be looked into before a vote could be taken.

Outside speakers would have to be brought in to speak about the pros and cons of having sororities on campus. These speakers would be people who themselves were in a sorority, as well as those who were not, and those who had gone to universities where sororities were present and where they were not present.

After the speakers have presented their opinions to the women on campus, discussions can then be held amongst the women, after which a vote is taken.

In the past it was found that the majority of women did not want sororities.

A cross section of women on campus were asked their opinion of the proposed idea. It was found that the major portions were against it for the following reasons: girls are too catty, a sorority would cost too much money for numerous reasons, there doesn't seem to be enough school spirit or enthusiasm amongst the girls, and above all it would detract from their studies.

But a few women were in favor of the idea. Mainly because of the size of the campus and the number of girls here. Also because it provides an aim for the girls in that they might study harder if they think it will help get them into a sorority.

The list of those against the idea or sororities on campus outweighs those who are in favor of it; but it is up to the majority of women on campus to decide.

They returned to the car, got out the typewriter and composed a letter of identification from NHEA Executive Secretary who had retired three months earlier it was later discovered. Into the Press Room and through secret service and press officials went the unique letter of identification and out came two more official press passes.

Soon the news was passed from Room 700 that we were to be in the motorcade so out to the parking lot went the entire delegation to fasten on the LBJ posters. KEENE ROMPS TO VICTORY — details of Keene State College's win over Salem State Teacher's College on last Wednesday. The Owls fought well throughout the game, finally winning the match 4 - 0. Goals were evenly distributed among KSC teammates, with Rodriguez, Knowles and Diaz each scoring points.

McNamara sign to our car.

The remainder of the trip to the air field was fine except that a "OXA says Hello Lyndon" poster on the back of one of the cars was covering the air vent and the car overheated and gave the occupants such a start that one leaped out the door and through a "Keene State for LBJ" poster.

Once we arrived at the terminal, we found no motorcade formation so one of our cars joined a well decorated "Huot for Congress", station wagon and returned to Manchester. The other car returned to the hotel minus two of the members who chose to ride the official bus back to the hotel.

The President didn't arrive until 9:40, several secret service checks, nine hamburgers, two french fries, and several thick shakes later. We jumped from the car and headed to the street edge to see the President ride by. Up went the Keene State banner and LBJ flashed by with secret service men hanging from the cars by their toes.

The policeman stopped the motorcade and we joined it for two blocks and then took a side street to secure a parking place so that we could make it to the hotel in order to see Johnson. The group met at the edge of the crowd and the two members with press passes proceeded to pass through the "crowd" and into the street where they were approached by a policeman who promptly pushed them back into line. The average spectator would have gotten the impression that an assassination attempt had been foiled.

Soon LBJ arrived upon the scene and the crowd broke through the lines. The two with press passes now pushed up to the door and after yelling and screaming at arrogant and smirking police, they were ushered into the ballroom and LBJ's presence.

After the speech was given, not much more could be said. All four persons with press passes in the group were locked in the ballroom until LBJ and Lady Bird could get into their white Lincoln Continental. After the secret service released the group from the musty ballroom, we headed home.

$3,000 Set For Winter Carnival

The sum of $3,000 has been allotted by the Social Committee for Winter Carnival this year. Another $1,500 will be divided equally between camp parties and emergencies. On Oct. 5, the Social Committee met and decided how to spend its $5,000 allotment from the Student Council this year. One of the main topics discussed was the social budget for the year. There was a discussion of what entertainment to have at the concert on the Sunday night of Winter Carnival. Names suggested were the Serendipity Singers, The Four Seasons, Bob Dylan, Rusty Warren, the New Christy Minstrels and the Chad Mitchell Trio. The Social Committee will accept suggestions from students.

Some of the club representatives did not attend last week's committee meeting. Bill Haggerty, Social Committee chairman, said that it's the responsibility of each organization on campus to send someone. If they don't it will be impossible to set up a complete social calendar for the year.

The different organizations on campus must reserve dates, he said, at least one month in advance, or they will not be included in the scheduling of events.

Flying Dutchman to Speak Audubon Series Sponsored by Biology Club

The second lecture in a series presented by the Forum Lectures/64 will be held tonight in Spaulding Gymnasium at Keene State College. The speaker for tonight's lecture is the internationally famous Dutch journalist, Willem L. Oltmans. Mr. Oltmans, who is known as the "Flying Dutchman" will speak on "Trouble Spots in Focus."

Mr. Oltmans, in his extensive world travels, has reported from behind the Bamboo Curtain and from Castro's Cuba. He has recently completed a tour of southeast Asian countries, where he was working on a biography of Indonesian President Sukarno.

Of Dutch birth, yet Yale educated, numerous Dutch and Asian news periodicals, and has had his news analysis broadcast here and abroad. The Forum Lectures, which was started in 1956 and was called the Keene Regional Forum, is a non-profit organization which is partially sponsored by Keene State College.

The next lecture will be "Parapsychology - Frontier Science of the Mind" and will be given by Dr. J. Gaither Pratt, chief researcher at Duke University School of Parapsychology.

'Blithe Spirit' Cast Chosen

The cast for the Keene State College Theatre's first major production of the season ("Blithe Spirit") has been selected. Eight students won roles in the play. There were two men's and five women's parts awarded. The characters and the students playing them include: Charles Condomine, a writer, who will be played by Roger Perkins; Elvira, his first wife, played by Cynthia Fraser; Ruth, his second wife, portrayed by Sharyn Edwards; Nancy Coutts playing the role of a medium, Madame Arcati; Patricia Miles as a maid named Edith; Michael Rumburg as Dr. Bradman and Roberta Luce as Mrs. Bradman. Understudies for various parts in the play will be Susan Chalour, Riki Nelson, Jean Sanders, Howard Boynton and Daniel Lein.

The list of cast members was released by Mr. Donald Loughrie, director of Theatre at KSC on Friday (October 2), after three days of try-outs. Mr. Loughrie said that only two members of the cast had any previous acting experience on campus.

Barbara Loughlin To Head SNEA

Barbara Loughlin was elected president at the Student National Education Ass'n. meeting, Oct. 7. William Haggerty was chosen vice-president and the other officers are: Carolyn Garner, secretary; Maryellen Winslow, treasurer; and Ann McCooly, historian. Carol Lanza and Leo Cotter were selected to represent Keene at the SNEA convention which will be held in Peterborough.

Other highlights discussed were the Mock Election and the SNEA's Mayor Candidate. The Mock Election will take place on Oct. 27 from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Students and faculty members may vote downstairs in Morrison Hall.

The club chose Fred Perkins as their candidate for mayor. It was also suggested that SNEA should have a High School Day. A committee was appointed to arrange the details for this day. The club also decided to continue the College Bowl this year.

Regular meetings of SNEA will be held on the first Tuesday of every month.

The Keene State College Biology Club has announced that it will bring five nationally known naturalists and conservationists to Keene to show full color Audubon Wildlife Films at the Spaulding Gymnasium.

The first speaker will be Chester P. Lyons of British Columbia, Canada who will present his film "The Right to Live" on Thursday, October 29, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Lyons graduated from the University of British Columbia in Forest Engineering. In later years, his work with the Parks division of the British Columbia Forest Service took him to many of the areas of the province. His work led him to write several books. His books include works on the historic Fraser Canyon, the Okanagan Valley, and Vancouver Island.

Audubon films deal with all aspects of nature, including wild animals in their natural environment, undersea life, plant life, and magnificent scenery. These lectures are scheduled each year by the National Audubon Society in 276 communities throughout the United States and Canada.

The schedule in Keene for this season follows:

C. P. Lyons, Thursday, October 29, 1964, "The Right to Live".

C. T. Hotchkiss, Monday, November 16, 1964, "Wilderness Trails".

W. J. Jahoda, Friday, January 29, 1965, "Nature's Ways".

B. Cadbury, Saturday, February 20, 1965, "Futures of the Sea".

E. McMillan, Wednesday, March 3, 1965, "The Shandon Hills".

The National Audubon Society is the oldest and largest of the conservation organizations in the United States dedicated to the preservation of our wilderness areas and wild animals.

The speakers who represent the Society will be:

Paul Malsbenden, the candidate from Alpha Pi Tau, is running as "Paul Bunyon". Paul is a sophomore at Keene and is a social studies major.

Mike Carbone, who is running as the "Swinging Al Capone", is the candidate from Kappa Delta Phi. Mike is a sophomore and was chairman of this year's Freshman Orientation Program.

Tom Clow, who is representing Theta Chi Delta, is running as "Tom Paine - Common Sense". Tom is a Senior and has been the president of his class as well as a Student Council representative. He was editor of the Monadnock for two years of his three years on its staff.

Although work can be started, in the form of poster parties on Friday night, the actual campaigning will not begin until 6:00 Monday morning.

Group campaigning will begin on Wednesday October 21 with parades and speeches in front of Fiske Hall. Thursday night skits will be held in Spaulding Gym.

Voting begins at 9:00 Friday and will close at 4:00. The winner will be announced at the Mayoralty dance on Saturday, October 24.

KSC Chemistry Prof Receives $8,000 Grant

By John Carton

Paul Nickas, professor of chemistry at Keene State College, said Wednesday that he has been awarded an $8,000 grant by the Atomic Energy Commission. He will use the grant to buy more equipment for the detection of radiation.

One of the pieces of equipment Prof. Nickas will order is a gas flow unit used for the detection of soft alpha particles. This unit is much more sensitive than the ordinary Geiger counter. The alpha particles actually contact the gas in this unit. In the Geiger counter the particles must first pass through a glass tube.

Prof. Nickas has also ordered a proportional type counter. This device measures the amounts of gamma alpha and beta particles. It gives these amounts in proportion. The operator can then figure out how many particles are in a large wave without actually measuring it. Prof. Nickas also said he will order additional equipment to fill out the remainder of the grant.

He will use these instruments in teaching his course on radio isotopes. This is the first such class to be offered.

OUR UNION

In the spring of last year, the students started a drive to raise $10,000; the purpose of this drive was to make a Student Union available for the student body. To this date, $3,200 has been raised. The rest of the money is still in the pockets of us, the students, who at the beginning of the drive pledged $10.00.

Much has been done to make this Student Union available to you. Much more needs to be done! Before the work can be carried any further, it is necessary that we, the students, fulfill our pledges.

In addition to this, our help is needed in another way: at the beginning we were told that some of the work would be done by the students; very few people have volunteered a little of their free time for the completion of the Union.

The painting of the main lounge began Tuesday, and should be completed within the next week. Although this painting is being done by the college, the cleaning up afterwards should be done by students.

In the past weeks, much discussion has been heard on the placement of the snack bar, but it must be remembered that it was put there because of certain regulations which make it impossible to put it in the main lounge, where some of the students think that it should be. No matter where the snack bar was, we still would have congestion in the morning between classes.

If you have any interest in seeing a Student Union which we can use, and if you have any interest in putting in a little time for the completion of the Student Union, contact Alton Chandler, Dr. Peters, Dr. Hayne, Gray Pearson, Leo Cotter, Pete Bixby, or Kass Ball.

Loughrie Names Production Staff

The heads of production have been picked for "Blithe Spirit," KSC Theatre's first major production of the year, Donald Loughrie, director, said last week.

They are:
Daniel M. Lein, production assistant; Richard E. Doyle, scene designer; Daniel L. Pelletier, technical director; Frederick P. Place, stage manager and special effects director; Albert Saboski Jr., property crew head; James W. Huntly, head electrician; Ruth A. Nelson, make-up crew head; Martha Farrell, wardrobe mistress; Milton I. Sutor, business manager; Leo F. Cotter, house manager; Lenore E. Buchanan, co-publicity head with Dawn C. Foster, and Patricia J. Faris, publicity crew and program.

THETA PAYOLA

Our man on campus Bill Hagerty once again invaded the realms of the political world with his attendance at Governor John W. King's banquet at the Tardy Motel in Keene.

Both Theta football teams succumbed to defeat this week but the season is far from over. Watch for a couple of big upsets.

Speaking of football, Tony H. is again requesting flowers as a result of the crushing defeat handed the N. Y. Giants last weekend.

The blonde bomber at Beagle Hall tells us that Theta Payola is her favorite column concluding that there is more truth than fiction.

Theta came up with another first this week. Dick Wallace became the first casualty with a broken collarbone. Wanted - one sympathizer, not necessarily qualified nurse.

The Gremlin

Portress System Now in Effect

Residents of Fiske, Huntress, and Eagle Halls began a new Portress system this week. From nine o'clock each morning until the dormitories are closed for the night, someone is on duty in the social room to answer the telephone, give directions, deliver messages, and aid visitors. Regular "desk girls" are employed by the college during the afternoon and evening hours, when dormitory traffic is heaviest. However, many times in the past, the telephone has gone unanswered or a visitor has been subjected to prolonged delay during the daytime, when the social rooms are usually deserted.

To remedy the situation, Dean Randall and the Council of Women Students suggested complete coverage on a seven-day basis. Each girl living in a dorm has been asked to volunteer one hour of her free time for desk duty, since the new hours are to the advantage of the residents as well as a courtesy to their visitors.

KAPPA KUOTES

One of the biggest crowds to-date turned out to watch Kappa's A team meet its first defeat of the season in its first football game of the season to the independent A team on Sept. 30th.

The evenly matched teams moved back and forth across the field like a herd of turtles. "Bungling Bernies," "Nasty Nickie" and "Raving Ron" all sustained minor injuries.

Brothers Pete and Stacey were seen tramping up and down the streets of Keene carrying signs for the United Fund. As usual, Kappa always comes to the aid of any worthwhile, non-profit organization.

Brother Kluis is playing the roll of Desk Sergeant at the YMCA this year. Brother Bill Thomas is getting a little goofy living in the house. It seems as though he is looking for a 27 year old rat that weighs 6 pounds.

No names mentioned, but it is said that "Big Z" hit 3 home runs in 5 times at bat - - - Playing Tennis? Brother Jeff Smithers finally took that Bachelor sign off his apartment door in the married couples dorm.

Sincerely
Bud Weitzer

Mr. Nickas has been a professor at Keene State College since 1960. Before he came here, he attended classes at the University of New York and the University of Massachusetts.

Last fall, he received a grant of $2,000. This money was also used to purchase a device for the detection of radiation.

Kappa Delta Pi Hears Dr. Lucow

Dr. Benjamin J. Lucow spoke to the members of Kappa Delta Pi Thursday on "Recent Trends in the Theater". These trends include the appearance of British satirical plays on Broadway and experimental attempts in production, he said. They also effect staging and methods of acting. He explained the movement in some of the large cities to have community supported theaters. And he said that these would be valuable because of decentralization and the opportunities they allow would-be actors.

The difference between earlier theater and theater today he said, is in technological advances and ease of transportation.

Dr. Lucow mentioned that the favorite plays today are musicals and situation comedies. The living theater is "still alive and kicking" although not healthy, he said.

This is the first year the Audubon Films have been presented in Keene, according to Dr. Harold Goder. Proceeds from the series are to be used in a project to landscape and beautify the Keene State College campus.

All students will be given a series ticket, which must be presented at the door for each performance.

Tickets and information for the entire series may be obtained at the College Administration Building (Hale Building) (352-1310) or Dr. Harold Goder, Keene State College (352-2194).

Science Program Starts Monday

An intensive program providing training in techniques and applications of radioisotopes will be held at KSC beginning on Monday, Oct. 19. All students and faculty of KSC are invited to attend the lecture series, administered by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies and supported by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The program will consist of daily lecture and laboratory sessions held from 4:5-3:30 p.m. in Butterfield building, room 215. The lectures cover such subjects as radiation detection, instrumentation, nuclear theory, radiological safety, and principles and practice of a wide variety of radioisotope applications to chemistry, physics and biology. Laboratory work and demonstrations deal with Geiger counters, scintillation counters and spectrometers, isotope dilution and biological studies.

Physicist Jerry Minter will be in charge of the first week of lectures, beginning on Oct. 19. Dr. Edward Ibert, a chemist, will complete the series final week beginning Oct. 24.

Democrats Club Busy - Congdon

By Warren Lee

"Some people think I'm a big wheel in the Democratic Party in this town, but actually I'm just a registered voter like anyone else," said Richard Congdon. Mr. Congdon is associate professor of social studies at Keene State College and advisor to the Young Democrats of Keene State.

The Young Democrats Club had its beginnings in a Political Science course which Mr. Congdon taught in 1958. He had divided his class into two factions, one representing the Republican Party and the other the Democratic, and let them work as if in a campaign.

When the assignment was over, Mr. Congdon said the students who had been working on the Democratic side decided to stick together. So they formed the first Young Democrats Club on this campus.

"Since the beginning this organization has had its ups and downs," Mr. Congdon said, "but this year it looks as if they might get something done". They have organized so that they are now doing work at the Democratic Headquarters in the Old Medical Hall Building in Keene.

Mr. Congdon, who came to Keene State in 1953, is a graduate of Williams Teachers College, Williamstown, Conn. He received his masters degree from Columbia Teachers College and has done graduate study there.

Mr. Congdon said that he would like to see a Young Republican Club get started at KSC. He said that at times he has actually "got down on his knees" and begged for someone to start one here. This way the two Clubs could hold debates with each other and with other colleges. Unfortunately, he said that he could not be the advisor to the Republicans.

"After all," he said, "I am a registered Democrat."

Awards Offered to Colleges For International Work

Beginning in 1965, the Institute of International Education (IIE) and the Reader's Digest Foundation will give five annual awards for distinguished service in international education. Grants of $1,000 each will be given to a selected college or university, a private organization, a community and an individual who have made outstanding contributions in the development of international understanding. A business corporation will also be cited but will not receive a cash award.

The announcement was made jointly today by Kenneth Holland, president of the Institute, and Sterling W. Fisher, executive director of the Foundation. The Institute is a leading nonprofit private agency in the field of international educational exchange. The Reader's Digest Foundation is the philanthropic arm of the world's most widely circulated magazine, which is published in 14 languages.

New Chance

In announcing the new awards program, Mr. Holland said: "By establishing the awards on an annual basis, we shall be able to give recognition to many more institutions, organizations, and individuals who are participating actively in educational and cultural exchange."

"Heretofore, it was possible to accord this recognition only at our large national conferences held in 1956, 1959 and 1960. This year, 1964, the Reader's Digest Foundation assisted us in granting cash awards to five colleges and universities at our Fifth

International friendship in action is the subject of a nationwide college photo contest just announced by People-to-People according to Alfred Ilroce, chairman of the Keene State chapter.

Only students enrolled in colleges and universities that have People-to-People chapters are eligible to enter the contest, the chairman said.

A Rollei Honeywell Rolleiflex camera and an award certificate will be presented to the photographers who submit the photograph that, in the opinion of the judges, best depicts international friendship. Photos, also will be judged on print quality, ingenuity, emotional content and photographic excellence. Other prizes will include two Honeywell Pentax H1A cameras and a Honeywell Stroboflash 65C electronic flash unit in addition to award certificates.

Judges

Miss Betty Leavitt, picture editor to Look magazine; Yoichi R. Okamoto, chief of the Pictures branch of the Press and Publications service, USIA; and Clifton C. Edom, professor of photojournalism, University of Missouri School of Journalism, and founder and adviser of Kappa Alpha Mu, photojournalism honor fraternity, will judge the entries.

Deadline for mailing entries is December 15, 1964; winners will be notified during February, 1965. In addition to the four top prizes, 25 honorable mention certificates also will be awarded.

Rule sheets and entry forms are available from People-to-People chapter members on campus.

Conference on International Education in February. By increasing and extending their grant, they have made it possible to establish an annual awards program and to call attention to the depth of interest in this country in constructive exchange-of-persons programs."

Criteria for evaluating the contribution of candidates for the awards were established by the Institute in 1956 when the first IIE awards were made. The quality of a program rather than its size has become the determining factor for the selection of awardees.

The college or university selected for the IIE-Reader's Digest Foundation Award will designate an individual affiliated with its program to use the grant for travel in a foreign country, thereby broadening his or her international experience. This individual may be a foreign student advisor, an admissions officer, a professor or a community member who participates in hospitality programs for foreign visitors.

OWLS BEAT PANTHERS, 4-1

Keene Defeats Warriors, 3-2 Sixth Victory

The Owls of Keene State College invaded Willimantic, Conn., Friday to tangle with the Warriors. Keene won 3-2.

Keene made it's sixth straight victory on the strength of freshman Ron "Pancho" Diaz's fourth period goal. In the first period it was all Willimantic. They pressed and continually outran the travel-weary Owls who were having trouble loosening up. Each time the Warriors got in close enough to score, Goalie Tim Brown responded by shutting off every shot kicked at him.

In the second period the game changed considerably as the Keene defense led by fullback Pete Stephens stole numerous Warrior passes and kept the Owls on the offensive. Willimantic Goalie John Sverkin, outstanding player for the losers, kicked at Pete Stephens. At half-time the Owls were near frustration because they were unable to score.

In the third quarter, both defenses played well. The ball changed fields continually and the score remained tied at 0-0.

At the start of the fourth period, Keene scored. The Owls drove down the right side where Tony Alexander crossed the ball to the middle and it was promptly kicked out. Billy Case, the right halfback, picked up the loose ball and kicked it back. Diaz promptly lifted a slow, high shot that slid past Goalie Sverkin for the sole tally of the game.

The Keene defense, spurred on with a renewed enthusiasm, held on to send Willimantic to the showers with its first defeat.

ALPHA ANECDOTES

Brother Knowles and Brother Johnson went bird hunting Saturday. It seems they have a new method called shooting from the car. We do admit it saves on shoe leather but the cost for those quick get aways is nearly as expensive.

Brother Marquette was serenaded recently. It seems we are hot the only ones on the ball as far as singing goes this year.

Alpha is boasting what we call a fine collection of furniture. It seems Brothers Stetson, Nally, Gatchell, Johnson, and Makarawicz have fine taste but no money. Hope someone comes to their rescue.

Brother Angwin has promised us that he will again be active in the dating circuit. He hasn't anything lined up yet probably due to those sun glasses.

Brother Thomas has the perfect psychology experiment. He is throwing empty Colt 45 cans in a basket. His results just do not match. Should try it with full cans.

We understand we will have singing practice. Many Alpha pins seem to have been ordered. One was given by Brother Guyer. Congratulations Dick. Brother Brown bought his girl a suitcase. We wonder exactly what he has on his mind.

It seems that the Brothers from Maine are getting dumped on by the Brothers from Vermont. We wonder if Brothers Dean and Ramsdell would be involved.

We understand Brother Dean finally met the relatives while Brother Stetson has gained permanent residence in the parking lot behind the house. Brother Bazoukas seems to be having troubles with those Vt. girls.

Keene Edges Gorham State 3-2

By Winky Basoukas

Coach Sumner Joyce's Keene State Soccer Owls ran their consecutive-win streak to five Monday. They edged Gorham, (Me.) State Teachers College, 3-2, in an action-packed game. The rampaging Owls remain undefeated and tied for first place in the league with Castleton, Vt.

Richie "Chico" Rodrigues with 2 goals and John "The Head" Knowles with 1 goal led the inspired red and white to victory. Gorham's Lennie Emmons played a fine game and figured in both Gorham scores by booting home one goal and assisting on the second.

Keene looked a bit sluggish at the start of the game and could mount an offensive. At 9:35 minutes of the first period a fired-up Gorham squad scored the initial goal on a Keene miscue. Gorham was given a penalty shot as Keene halfback Richie Messer was charged with hitting a Gorham cross with his hand allowing the kick. Lennie Emmons then proceeded to whistle the kick past the helpless Keene goalie Tim Brown to put Gorham in the lead, 1-0.

This seemed to be the spark that Keene needed. The offensive machine of Dick Booth, "Pancho" Diaz, John Knowles, "Chico" Rodrigues, and Tony Alexander rolled into high gear.

The Keene State College Owls marched to their seventh straight victory Tuesday by beating Plymouth State College 4 to 1 at the A field. This victory finds Keene undefeated and with a good chance to take the championship of their league. The game also ended with Keene minus Rich Rodrigues, who broke a bone in his right foot late in the fourth quarter.

The Owls started the game off slowly and the Panthers were able to get a goal in the first half of the first quarter. Their goal came on a kick by Don Foote.

The beginning of the second quarter found the Panthers in the lead 1 to 0 but the Owls were starting to put on the pressure. Late in the second quarter Tony Alexander kicked from the corner and Rodrigues picked-up the ball and drove it in for a goal. The second quarter ended with the score 1 to 1.

Early in the third quarter Tony Alexander crossed the ball into the middle where (Panch) Diaz stopped it and drove it in for the second Keene goal. The third period ended with the Owls in the lead 2 to 1.

Keene continued to put on the pressure in the fourth period and very early in the period Tony Alexander marched 70 yds. down the field to kick a cross into the middle. John Knowles stopped Tony's cross and sent the ball home to make the score 3 to 1.

Half way through the last period Mike Emond kicked a straight pass to John Knowles who then dropped the ball into the net for the final goal.

The final score of the game was Keene 4 and Plymouth 1.

GROWING UP

Editors Note: The following editorial was written for the benefit of the Alumni of Keene State College. This weeks paper will appear at the State Teachers Convention.

To the Alumni of Keene State College: In the past few years Keene State has begun to show definite signs of growth and expansion. These signs are in evidence not only in the increased numbers of students and faculty but also in building construction and ties with the University. As most of you know in 1963 the college became part of the University of New Hampshire and because of this its name was changed from Keene Teachers to Keene State.

In December of last year the college opened the new Married Students Dormitory which replaced the Barracks, and at the beginning of this school year the students came back to a new 80,000 volume library. It has been announced recently by the administration, that work has already begun on the plans for a dormitory complex and a Dining Commons.

In June of this year Dr. Lloyd P. Young retired from the Presidency of Keene State and was replaced by Dr. Roman J. Zorn. Dr. Zorn, who was Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Rhode Island, took over the Presidency on July 1.

With the enrollment increasing at a very fast rate it was decided by the students that it was necessary for the college to have a student union. So in the spring of this year a fund raising drive was started. The money which was raised in this drive was earmarked for the renovation of the old Mason library into a student center. This work is still in progress but it is at least possible for the students to get a cup of coffee and watch television.

This year eight new faculty members were added to the staff and several new courses have been made available.

With the advances that have been made and with the ones which are planned in the near future, we like to feel that this college will become an outstanding center of learning.

Donated Blood 140 Pints Faculty Office Prepares Inventory of Linguists

The new Student Union housed the bloodmobile that was on campus Monday, Oct. 19. The program was sponsored by KSC, the Elliot Community Hospital and the Keene Clinic, in cooperation with the Cheshire County Red Cross.

From an enrollment of 1200 students 58 students and faculty gave blood. This figure was an increase of three pints over last year's campus donations. The donations totaled 140 pints of blood, well over last year's donations of 108 pints.

Monday's blood will be sent to Burlington, Vt. for processing and distribution. Most will be sent to Manchester, N. H. for regional distribution.

If you speak Urdu or Tagalog, Mrs. Doris Stewart in the faculty office would like to know it. Even if you speak fluently something as usual as Italian, she's still interested.

On Wednesday, Oct. 7, Northeast Airlines called KSC asking if there was anyone on campus who could speak Icelandic. The call was referred to the faculty office to see if there was a faculty member who spoke the language.

A gentleman had disembarked from a plane at the airport, a spokesman explained. They didn't know if he was in the right city. He spoke no English.

Via sign language, airport officials found out that the man spoke Icelandic and that someone was to meet him at a later hour.

Faculty members were approached with the question, "Do you know of anyone who speaks Icelandic?" — but that wasn't one of the languages spoken by our faculty. Danish, Mrs. Stewart was told was the closest thing to Icelandic.

Through other channels Mrs. Stewart found a police officer who spoke seven languages, so he was referred to the airport. Later in the day she found out the problem had been settled.

To prevent the scramble happening again, Mrs. Stewart has started a faculty log of languages. One instructor speaks Anglo-saxon, Gothic, French and German. Almost all of them have a working knowledge of French. KSC language teachers speak French, Russian, Spanish, German, Latin and Polish. Another speaks Welsh and Chinese, another speaks Japanese, Dutch and some Norwegian, still another speaks Japanese, and there are two who are fluent in the Greek tongue. The office has a listing of languages so that the next request may be answered more quickly.

There is a sign-up sheet on the bulletin board of Morrison Hall so that a language log of the students can be made.

New Budget For 65-67 Prepared

"Keene State College plans to spend one and a half million dollars per year," Gray W. Pearson, KSC business administrator, said last week. The needs and expenses of the college for the '65 - '67 school years are being worked out now, as the administration prepares the new KSC budget.

The budget calls for more faculty members and better educational facilities. It also contains provisions for a science classroom building, a new gymnasium, renovation of Fiske and Huntress Hall bathrooms, and modernization of dormitory furniture. Plans for two new dormitories off Winchester Street and a cafeteria where Dummell House is located are already in the present budget, Mr. Pearson said.

Mr. Pearson emphasized, however, that running the business end of a college was no different from operating on a home budget.

Whether the amount is $50 a week or $1,500,000 a year, ends still have to meet.

"If your handbag breaks or somebody steals your raincoat, you don't go out and buy new shoes. You take care of first things first," he said.

From the budget, the costs of maintenance, supplies, salaries, and construction must be met. If additional requests are made or expenses increased after the budget has been approved, Mr. Pearson said he has to cut corners somewhere else, meeting demands according to necessity and available funds.

The new budget is based on both past experience and estimated future needs, Mr. Pearson said. After all department heads have submitted their requests for evaluation. The budget goes to the Board of Trustees. In turn, the Board will take it to the General Court of the State for final approval early next year.

"Joining the University and the making of Tri-Verity enables us to gain more understanding in the overall approach to higher education," Mr. Pearson said.

Mayor Campaign As Posters Are

At 6:00 a.m. on Monday morning the 1964 Mayoralty campaign started officially with the raising of campaign posters. The activity of the week actually began on Friday and Saturday night when the organizations supporting the candidates held poster parties.

Monday morning's activities were slow compared to previous years with much less enthusiasm. Two years ago the enthusiasm of this event was enough so that the police had to be brought down but this year was relatively quiet.

On Wednesday afternoon the candidates and their supporting organization entertained the students with parades around the campus. Following these parades each candidate spoke briefly to the student body in front of Fiske. Tonight the campus will be entertained by each candidate and his backing organization with the presentation of the skits. Following each of these skits the candidate will speak to the students.

Tomorrow morning the polls will open in the Student Union and will remain open until 4 p.m. and it has been stressed by the Student Council that every one should go and vote.

The end of this week of hard work and speeches will come tomorrow night with the mayoralty dance and the announcement of the winner.

Senator Visits State Capital

Senator Hubert Humphrey, Democratic candidate for Vice-President of the United States, made a brief stop in Concord on Tuesday, Oct. 13.

"Senators Everett Dirksen and Bourke B. Hickenlooper voted for their party platform three out of four times on 25 issues," Sen. Humphrey said.

"Mr. Goldwater has yet to meet the standards of the Republican Party before he can run as a candidate. Goldwater is the temporary spokesman of a fraction of a faction of the Republican Party," said Sen. Humphrey.

"The UN is one of the great hopes for peace in our world. Yet Mr. Goldwater is still undecided on whether the U. S. should withdraw from the U.N. or not," said Sen. Humphrey. Mr. Humphrey quoted the late John F. Kennedy when he said about Johnson, "He's my strong right arm." He then said, "If John F. Kennedy had faith in Lyndon Johnson, then I do too."

Towards the end of his 20-minute speech, he spoke of the assassination and said, "Mr. Johnson took up the mantle of responsibility under the hardest of circumstances." He finished by asking the people, "Will you help us to do the same for LBJ as you did for JFK?"

The mayor of Concord presented Sen. Humphrey with a silver coin in commemoration of the Concord Bicentennial. Sen. Humphrey was quick to comment on the coin. "On the coin is a fine Concord Coach and four horses are pulling it. They must be all hard-working Democrats," he said.

Humphrey was introduced by Charles Officer, Democratic candidate for U. S. representative.

There was a crowd of about 2,000 people in front of the Capitol building.

VOTE WISELY

Tomorrow many of you will be going to the Student Union; but your reason should not entirely be to get a cup of coffee. Instead, you should be there to vote for the person whom you think should be mayor of Keene State.

This election is neither a popularity contest nor a laughing matter, instead it is a chance for this campus to give itself a mayor who will work in the position. This person must be one who has enough ambition to direct the campus toward a better social organization. He should be someone who has had experience in the workings of an organization and someone who knows how to talk to people.

These are just some of the qualifications which you should be thinking about as you vote tomorrow.

In the past years the men who have held this position have become nothing more than mere figure heads who were afraid to speak their piece. Let's change this by putting the best man in the office and not the best friend.

POOR CHOICE

What happens when a representative group does not represent?

Last Monday the Social Committee decided on the entertainment for Winter Carnival weekend. The decision for a Sunday night concert seems out of step with the desires of the campus.

This year the Social Committee has chosen entertainment more suitable for a Forum Lecture than a Winter Carnival Concert. They have selected the "English Group Of That Was The Week That Was" — forerunner of the American T.V. show of the same name.

Two hours of political satire hardly seems appropriate or popular for the biggest social event of the college year.

You have an opinion — let it be known to your representative. "That Was The Week That Was" isn't the only choice — under consideration also were the Rooftop Singers, Judy Collins and others. If you want a choice, speak up — Loudly.

Be represented in the spending of your money.

Klepto-Pooch Swipes Pup

A black mongrel dog turned to crime to solve his loneliness.

The dog appeared at the door of Champ's Discount Store in Keene, N. H. and calmly "cased" the store. Ignoring everyone around him, he strolled down an aisle and stopped before a rack containing stuffed animals.

He picked up a small black dog in his mouth and retreated toward the exit, walking by the clerks and customers who were too astonished to stop the four legged shoplifter. Seemingly satisfied with his choice, the dog went out the door and across the parking lot.

The stuffed animal was later returned by an alert passer-by, leaving the poor black pup alone again.

Subsoil is Tested For Commons

That machine which has been drilling down near the A-Field since last Wednesday is really taking test borings on the site of the new Commons Building. The Department of New Hampshire Public Works and Highways has been boring down to 50 feet, taking samples of the subsoil to help architects Carter and Woodruff, of Nashua, determine exactly what type of foundation will be needed for the new building.

Dr. Zorn said Monday, that the date for the groundbreaking will depend upon many things. Planning has been going on for many months. The preliminary plans have been drawn, and as soon as the architects finish with the minute details, the plans can go to bid. Dr. Zorn is hoping that this can be done by January. If so, and the contracts go out on schedule, he expects that the building can be started in late March or early April.

The building is to be a one story structure in a style a little more modern than the present Colonial architecture of some of the older buildings on campus. It will be located on Appian Way, near the corner of Hyde Street, and will occupy what is now a parking lot, Dunnell House, and the double house next to Dunnell.

The new Commons building will be built to seat about 450 students at once, and meals will be cafeteria style. Dr. Zorn said that "This should be a very effective, pleasant, and efficient dining hall."

CAMPUS BOOKSTORE

It has been announced by Mr. Alton Chandler, manager of the Campus Book Store, that the book fair which was scheduled for Oct. 20 has been cancelled due to alterations in the Student Union. Mr. Chandler said that the date has not been reset but will be announced when it is.

KSC SPEAKER — Mr. Louis Bohmrich visited KSC as part of United Nations week in Keene. Mr. Bohmrich's subject was "The UN and World Affairs". Mr. Bohmrich (right) is shown with co-sponsors Dr. David S. Sarnar and Mrs. Nettie Dunbar.

United Nations Policy Discussed by Bohmrich

By Daniel Pelletier

"Your generation will live without war because the scientist and technicians in the U.N. have declared war on war," he said. According to him, the U.N. even monitors communications and uses reconnaissance planes in an effort to discover violations of the peace.

"These students will inherit the world and they have grown up with the United Nations," he said. "Their problem will be coping with our rushing change. They are being educated to understand these changes."

"The time has come for international cooperation," said Mr. Bohmrich. "Science and technology have made us increasingly interdependent."

"Only people have divinity, nations are only administrative units. Our problems are universal," he said.

"Before 1945 no one cared and there was no international machinery that was effective. Now we have machinery to take care of international problems."

Mr. Bohmrich said that this machinery, the United Nations, was primarily concerned with educational and technical aid to many of its member nations. Its purpose in the first five years of its existence, and now, was to prevent the world from going to hell in another war.

U Conducts Civil Defense Programs

The University of New Hampshire will conduct conferences on civil defense at KSC on Oct. 26 and 28. They will be held at 6:30 p.m. in Morrison Hall. Joseph A. Basso, coordinator for the civil defense training program, will discuss the topic, "Civil Defense and You."

These conferences are to help establish instruction programs that will train personnel to assist the state director. Courses such as shelter management will be taught.

SUBSOIL SAMPLED — The Department of New Hampshire Public Works are taking samples of subsoil in preparation for the new Commons building. The building may be started by early April.

Special Ed Department Establishes New Clinic

By Daniel Pelletier

Sherman A. Lovering, chairman of the Special Education Department of Keene State College, directs a clinic for mentally and physically handicapped children on campus. His associates are Dr. Burton Blatt, chairman of the Department of Special Education at Boston University and Charles H. Cook, a local psychologist.

Mr. Lovering has at his disposal this year $37,000 in federal and state grants. Approximately two-thirds of this money will be spent on salaries for instructors. The rest of the money has been spent on supplies, equipment, library materials, construction of the clinic, and traveling expenses to provide field experience in the state.

Some of the money comes to the college from trainee and fellowship grants. The rest of it comes from a Federal Stimulation grant, Mr. Lovering said.

The clinic is for children who cannot, because of their disabilities, attend a normal public school. Mr. Lovering said these children need special classes and teachers trained to handle their special problems.

The children who take part in the clinic are given expert guidance in an attempt to solve their problem. Mr. Lovering explained. They have an opportunity to go to school in classes suited to their needs. The goal of the clinic is to prepare the child for a time when he can enter public school, he said.

"The clinic will ultimately be able to handle a maximum of eight children with a variety of handicaps," Mr. Lovering said. Children are chosen for the clinic from several sources. They are sent to him by the Cheshire Association for Retarded Children, the Keene Clinic and by their families.

U. S. S. Monadnock To Open House

Last Tuesday night the "officer of the deck", Thomas Tulgren, said that the U. S. S. Monadnock Hall will be open for inspection on Oct. 23.

All hatches must remain unbattered to enable parents and drags to examine the quarters of KSC's crewmen. Inspection will be from 7 to 9 p.m.

A dance for crewmen and their drags will follow. Punch will be served.

Applications Open For Foreign Study

Application periods for undergraduate foreign study in Paris, Madrid, Vienna, and Freiburg, West Germany, will open Monday, Oct. 24, the Institute of European Studies has announced.

All four Institute centers will offer both spring-semester, 1965 and full-year, 1965-66 programs for students in history, political science, modern languages and literatures, philosophy, and other liberal arts and social science fields. The programs are designed for college juniors, but some sophomores are admitted in Paris and Vienna.

Formal applications are due Dec. 7 for next spring's programs and May 10, 1965, for full-year programs starting next fall. Sailings are set for Feb. 1 and late August or mid-September. All programs end in late June or July.

An Institute spokesman said the programs aim at "immersing the student as deeply as his background permits" in a European university. Total immersion is rarely practical, he said, because European university courses are so highly specialized that U. S. undergraduates can usually profit from foreign university courses only in their major or minor fields.

"On the other hand," he said, "we don't want to place the student in a 'ghetto' where he is exposed only to American-style courses taught by American professors, and must live and study only with other Americans. Whether you look at it academically or culturally, the European experience should be both excellent and different. Our aim is to maximize the student's confrontation with Europe and European education; within the practical limits set by U. S. college requirements."

Students in all the centers live in private European homes or in European student dormitories. Before regular classes begin, they are given from four to seven weeks of intensive language training. The programs also include orientation, meals, and two field trips under European university lecturers.

Descriptive literature is obtainable from the Institute of European Studies, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill.

Forum Date Reset

Last Thursday's Forum has been re-scheduled for Dec. 8. William L. Ottmans, who was to speak on "Trouble Spots in Focus," was unable to come to the K.S.C. campus because of an illness.

Since his talk was anticipated by the city and students, the later date was set. The nature of his illness is not known.

Oak Ridge Opens Two Week Series

The first in a two week series of lectures on radioactivity and isotopes was held Monday, Oct. 19, in Butterfield Building, Room 215. Physicist, Jerry Minter lectured on the history and study of radioactivity. He not only discussed the components of, but also the relation of the atom to radioactivity.

This two week lecture and laboratory course which is administered by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, is open to all interested students. The purpose of the course is to familiarize the students with the instruments which measure radioactive calculations and to familiarize the students with the character of radioactivity. Upon completion of the course, the students will receive a certificate. The lectures are given daily at 4 o'clock in Butterfield.

Dean Announces Visiting Rules

Brandeis University has announced that effective with the current academic year, visiting of the opposite sex will not be permitted in dormitory rooms.

Dean of Students Kermit C. Morrissey said that the one exception to the new rule will be for special social occasions involving groups of students. In these cases, students may request visiting privileges from the Office of the Dean of Students.

The new policy is part of the University's continuing review of existing rules and regulations. The first decision concerning the visiting of members of the opposite sex to dormitory rooms came last spring when the University revised its policy to insure that dormitory room doors were to be left open when a member of the opposite sex was present.

Social Comm. Plans Calendar

In less than a week now, the student body will elect an individual to the office of the Mayor of Keene State College. With the title of Mayor will come the responsibility of the vice-presidency of the Student Council and the presidency of the Social Committee.

The Social Committee has sponsored several campus record hops which have by no means proved successful. We feel that there is no excuse for these failures. These functions have been sponsored by the committee for the student's benefit. Therefore, it is the considered opinion of the committee that as we grow larger and better the college will suffer socially due to an apathetic student body that appears, at present, to lack all spirit and initiative necessary to make a campus success actively.

The sole success of the season thus far appears to have been the Social Mixer held several weeks ago and I don't think it is necessary to elaborate on the reason for the success of this function.

In the future, many weekends are being planned by the committee. The largest is yet over three months away and yet preliminary planning has already commenced. The 1965 Winter Carnival is scheduled for February 11 - 14. In regards to this weekend, the Social Committee, a representative body, has selected the English group of "THAT WAS THE WEEK THAT WAS" in a 16 - 7 vote for the highlight concert of the weekend on Sunday evening. The TV show has been accorded the title of "The Best

Keene Beats Fitchburg Wins & Losses Now 8-1

On Thursday, Oct. 15 the Keene State College Owls brought their winning streak to eight wins and no losses by defeating Fitchburg State College 4 to 1.

Continuing on the same pattern as most of the previous games Keene was a little slow in getting started and because of this Fitchburg scored the first goal early in the first quarter. About half way through the first period Dias kicked the ball for Keene but it bounced off the top of the net and John Knowles picked-up the rebound, setting it in the net for the point. This made the score at the end of the first quarter 1 - 1.

The Owls did not rally again until late in the second period when John Knowles crossed the ball over to Tony Alexander, who went in for the second Keene goal making the score 2 - 1.

Very early in the third period Dias got an unassisted goal and brought the score up to 3 - 1 in favor of Keene. In the last minutes of the game Keene came down the field again with Tony Alexander crossing the ball over to John Knowles, who drove it in with his chest for the goal. This made the 4 - 1 final score.

Pearson said. A Liberal Arts program, to give regional students more educational opportunity, is underway. New instructors have been hired. A new library and a married students' dormitory have been built, and a Student Union begun.

Mr. Pearson has been business administrator at KSC since 1957. He was graduated from Yale, and attended Harvard and Princeton business schools. Through his office all requisitions pass, all bills are processed, salaries paid, student fees and loans handled, and non-academic personnel hired.

Mr. Pearson finds the procedure exactly the same as any other business enterprise. Before coming to KSC he was manager of a department store. "The only difference is here I don't have to worry about women's styles!" he said.

Social Comm. Will Elect Own Pres.

Next years campus mayor will not automatically take over the position of President of the Social Committee. It was decided at the regular committee meeting held Monday night. Instead the Social Committee shall elect its own president in the spring as does the Student Council.

The move came because it was found that the Student Council Constitution made no provisions for the mayor of Keene State to be president of the Social Committee. Many of the members of the Committee agreed that it was better for the Social Committee to elect its own president and in that way they could be sure of putting a qualified man in the position.

The mayor will, however, assume the position of Vice-President of the Social Committee.

It was also decided at the meeting that the Committee will sponsor a dance on Friday, Nov. 6, in Spaulding Gym, from 8-12. The main reason for the dance will be to announce the Young Dancers Present Varied Ballet Program

By Augustino Domrath

"Ballet '64" presented a program evenly divided between traditional and experimental jazz dance at the Keene Junior High School Auditorium Thursday. It was the first in this year's Keene Concert Association series, which is co-sponsored by the college.

The touring group included 12 young dancers, all of whom are members of the San Francisco Ballet Company. There were no sets and mood was established by recorded music, lighting and the ability of the dancers themselves.

A group of Prokofiev waltzes, which opened the program, were danced in the traditional manner. This was the weakest piece in the repertoire, because as the tour manager put it, "it is only danced occasionally, when certain members of the troupe are unable to perform."

The weakness showed in groping by dancers for others whom they needed to touch, and a resultant hopping by ballerinas seeking to maintain balance on their points. The unfamiliar stage probably contributed to the difficulty.

The second number, "Counterparts," a modern ballet, gave the dancers a chance to prove themselves. They proceeded surely through a group of humorous and serious numbers, which the audience enthusiastically applauded.

High point of the evening was a pas de deux featuring Eloise Timos-lamb and Frank Ordway. They built the audience to a peak of emotional tension, resulting in a breathless instant before the applause began. Music for the "Counterparts" number was provided by Saul Goodman and his percussion ensemble.

The third portion of the program returned the dancers to traditional ballet. Entitled "Sonnet," it featured the music of Rossini. Six dancers performed together and in various combinations. By this time the troupe had become familiar with the limitations of the stage and the number was danced with smooth precision.

The final offering, "The Set," was danced to the jazz of Dave Brubeck. Described as "experimental" by a member of the company, it restored the life to the program.

Throughout the evening, the liveliness of the young people dancing showed at its best in the more modern numbers. The audience also seemed more appreciative of these than the traditional set pieces, no matter how well done.

The freer movements of modern dance, delivered with the precision of traditional ballet training, seem more in keeping with our time than the undoubtedly graceful, but somewhat cold, exercises of the "Les Sylphides" period, which reached its peak before World War I.

Paperback Exhibit

The combined paperback exhibit in schools will be on display at the Lloyd P. Young Memorial Union in the social room. It will be open to teachers, librarians, supervisors, students and others in the Keene area beginning Wednesday, Nov. 11 and running to Friday Nov. 13 from the hours of 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. On Friday afternoon the books will go on sale between the hours of 3:30 to 5 p.m.

There are nearly 800 paperbacks suitable for junior and senior high schools.

results of the freshman elections. The music will be provided for by "Ronny and the Hornets" and a donation of 50¢ a person and 75¢ a couple will be taken to defray expenses.

At a meeting which was held last week it was decided that the popular folk group, Ian and Sylvia, would be the entertainment for the Sunday evening Winter Carnival concert.

It was also decided at that meeting that the Concert will be held in Spaulding Gym instead of at the Junior High Auditorium as it was last year. The seating arrangement for the concert will be in the true hootenanny style with the audience sitting on the floor.

New Dormitory Complex Plans To Divide Rooms Into Study, Living Areas For Better Use

IN THE FUTURE — Shown above is a model of the proposed women's dormitory complex which is to be erected behind Monadnock Hall, and on the site of Winchester House. The administration hopes that construction will begin in the spring.

Zoning is the key word in the arrangement of the proposed dormitory complex to accommodate 250 students, probably women.

The buildings are designed to combine the idea of a residence hall with an atmosphere of study, Dr. Roman J. Zorn, KSC president, said Monday. Rooms are designed with built-in furniture and room dividers which separate the sleeping area from the study area.

The two buildings are connected by a large common lounge which, Dr. Zorn said, "will provide for the social amenities." This lounge will offer a T.V. room, recreation area and storage for the two dormitories. It will also provide space for receptions and teas.

"Student housing is important," Dr. Zorn said, "and we hope to do a better job . . . We hope to have dormitories that will be modern years from now."

The architects, Guy Wilson of Concord and Holbrook Associates of Keene, are working together on the detailed plans. The sum of $1,300,000 was appropriated during the 1963 session of the Legislature for two dormitories — one for men and one for women. The actual building will cost about $1,125,000.00, the rest provided for land acquisition, architects fees, construction, and equipment. There may be some legal problems to iron out, as the dormitories now are both planned for women.

Some provisions may have to be made for equivalent housing for men. This might involve the idea of transferring men to Huntress Hall, the president said. As soon as the details have been settled, the project can proceed.

Dr. Zorn said he hopes that the plans can go to bid in January, and that construction can start by April 1. It is not likely, however, that the building will be ready before the summer of 1966.

Women's Council Elects President

Sheila Sanborn, a junior from Huntress Hall, has been elected president of the Council of Women Students. Other officers elected at last Thursday's meeting were Pat Fifield, vice-president, and Ellen Sullivan, secretary. Both girls are residents of Fiske Hall.

The chief topic of discussion at the meeting was women's hours. UNH standards were examined, and compared to the present KSC system.

Because of the seriousness of the proposed change, Dean Dandall suggested that during the next two weeks, council members hold small group discussions in the dorms. At this time, every girl would be aware of the advantages and disadvantages of both systems.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 12, at 4 p.m., in Room 71 of Morrison Hall. At this time, women's hours will be voted upon. The meeting is open to the student body. The Council hopes that all interested persons will attend.

Young Dancers Make Comments On Touring

What are some of the problems that plague a ballet dancer when he goes on tour?

After last Thursday's ballet, a reception was held for the performers in Fiske Hall. The dancers commented on some of their difficulties.

During an eight-week concert tour, the troupe presents forty-eight "one-nighters." A dancer must remain in top physical condition at all times. It is difficult to do when he rides on a bus for two or more hours daily. To lose the cramps acquired from travel, the dancers hold a ninety minute class daily. They must conduct these classes and practice periods on their own. They do not have a dance master there to make schedules or teach them.

Most of the time the dancers are unable to "walk-out" the dances on strange stages. They begin most of their performances "cold." A stage

Literary Mag. Receives $200

The literary magazine "Insight", which was published for the first time last year, will be able to publish again this year because of the Student Council. At the Council meeting Monday, Mary Lou Clough, on behalf of "Insight" asked the council for a loan of two hundred dollars to finance this year's publication. The Council voted to loan them the money with the stipulation that they shall receive back two-thirds of the cost of each magazine sold.

At the same meeting freshman election voting was set-up. Voting will be held the same as for Mayoralty with the polls being in the Student Union. The results of the election will be announced at the dance, to be held at Spaulding Gym on Friday night.

The President of the Student Council, Daniel Lein, wished to express to the students the thanks of the Council for the manner in which Mayoralty voting was handled and for the large turn out at the polls.

He also expressed the feeling that those students who have not paid their student union pledges should do so. There is still approximately $3,000 in unpaid pledges.

Goder Expects Many Changes In KSC Science

Keene State College has the facilities to teach twelve advanced courses in biology without an increased expenditure of money, Dr. Harold A. Goder said Wednesday. While the facilities are available, the teachers are not, he added.

The biology courses are included in the Science Department. Unless biology is made a separate section, it might not be possible to get the qualified teachers necessary for expansion, Dr. Goder said.

Plans for a science building will be presented to the New Hampshire Legislature, but nothing definite has been established. If the funds are appropriated for the building, he said, biology will then be given a separate berth in the sciences.

It is difficult to revamp KSC's facilities because nothing has been done for such a long time, Dr. Goder said. The laboratory does have twenty-five new microscopes, about 2,000 new slides, and a dozen new binoculars for use in studying birds. The $5.00 lab fee has provided this equipment.

Education is not changed over night, but strong progress is being made, Dr. Goder said. New courses are being added each year, and the future of biology at KSC looks promising.

Lyons To Narrate Film For Bio Club

As part of their Audubon Wildlife Series, the Keene State College Biology Club and the National Audubon Society will sponsor Chester P. Lyons, on Oct. 29.

Mr. Lyons will narrate a film "The Right to Live" on the colorful plants and animals of the west coast of Canada. Into the film is woven the story of how man should manage his domain for the benefit of all.

Mountain lions, moose, caribou, and mountain goats vie with unusual close-ups of flowers, insects, and small mammals in this kaleidoscope of Nature's wonders in British Columbia.

Flag Staff Not For Candidates

It was the dawn's early light but the flag did not wave. Two supporters for one of the mayoralty candidates watched the flagpole in front of Fiske Hall throughout the night, but to no avail. They thought the flagpole was a perfect place to hang a banner for a candidate, so it was guarded Sunday night and throughout the cold hours of Monday morning.

Finally at six a.m. the time came to raise the flag, but it was torn up instead.

President Zorn had said he didn't want anything on the pole. The two supporters found this out from the "college cop" five minutes before the dawn's early light.

Council Sets Election Rules

Mayoralty elections will be held on Friday, Oct. 23, 9 - 4 in the Student Council office of the Student Union. Voting to be held as follows:

1. Writing of the attendant's name on the enrollment sheet next to each voting student's name.

2. The voting student must show some type of identification. A receipt or student ID is permissible.

3. People manning polls will double check attendance sheets as students leave.

4. Four Student Council chosen persons to be at polls at all times.

5. Advisors of Student Council to be present at the counting of ballots.

7. There is to be no campaigning within the room where voting is taking place.

8. All class constitutions must be passed in before elections. This refers to class elections.

Ballot counting will be held in Dean Barry's office. There will be a representative present for each mayoralty candidate, a Student Council advisor and the I.F.C. president.

At a meeting of the Student Council held October 20 in the Student Union building a motion was passed to allow all students who would be off campus on election days to vote. In the case of the mayoralty election absentee ballots may be cast on October 22 in the Student Union from 5 - 7 p.m.

Voting for freshman class officers and Student Council members will be held October 30 in the Student Council office in the Student Union. Petitions for officers must be in the Student Council mailbox by Monday, October 26, 12:00 p.m. They will not be accepted if late.

UNCOUTH!

Keene State College has just finished Mayoralty for 1964. So has the University of New Hampshire.

This year UNH has run a campaign to elect the "Mayor of Durham". The position carried little responsibility, and was originally seen, according to the student newspaper as "a way of having a good time and getting student unity through a common interest. This purpose apparently was destroyed by student conduct at the speeches and parades connected with Mayoralty.

The campaign was off to a bad start with candidates running under such names as "Peter the Toole".

The entire campaign appears to be carried on in all fronts in the same manner. At the speeches on Monday "onlookers were both annoyed and disgusted with the profane language and gross actions shown by several candidates and their followers." One student, "drunk and uncontrollable," had to be strapped to a stretcher and carried off.

Dean of Students Robert Keesey stated that "... the reputation and consequently the appeal for members in both fraternities and sororities has been hurt by some evidently poor taste, poor judgment and poor conduct on the part of some fraternity and sorority members."

As a consequence Mayoralty was in danger of being stopped. A meeting of the leaders of Mayoralty was called by the Dean of Students to discuss this possibility. The decision was to organize the campaign, and see that it was properly handled.

Fortunately for this campus Mayoralty has never become such a disgrace to the school. This is partially due to the fact that the Mayor has held a position of some responsibility in the student government. However, as it stands now, he has lost one important post - that of president of the Social Committee. There is a good and valid reason for this move, but it does remove one tempering factor from Mayoralty - the necessity of running a responsible campaign.

In light of the events at UNH, the students of this college have a responsibility to see that Mayoralty is run sensibly. Without discretion the campus mayor will be a thing of the past at KSC.

SMALL PERCENTAGE

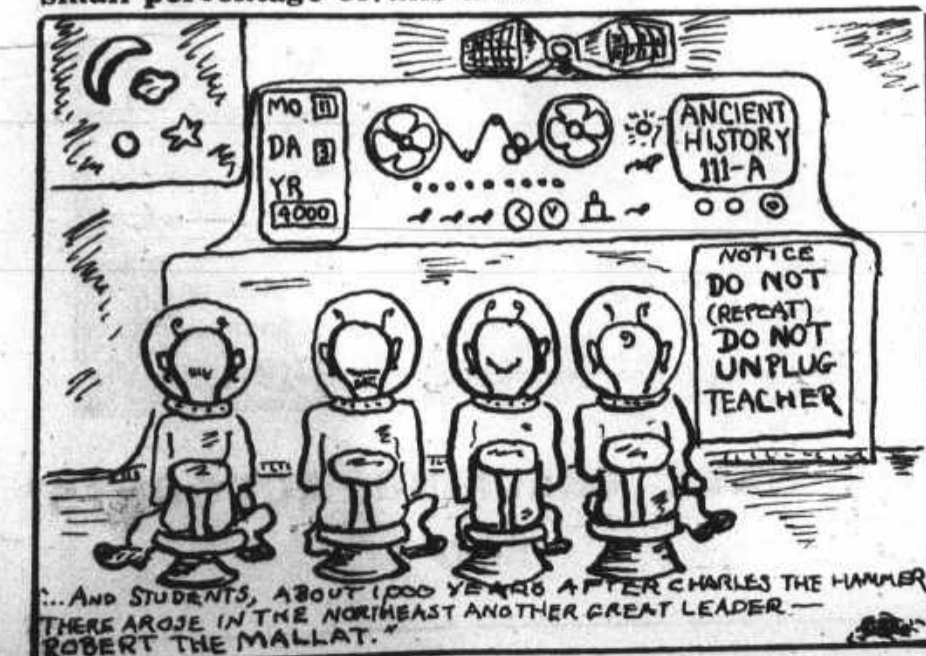

This seems to be a campus of small percentages. A small percentage of the campus turns out for our home soccer games. A small percentage of our campus stay on campus weekends. A small percentage of this campus has paid their Student Union pledges, and a smaller percentage of the campus has turned out to work on the Union itself.

Last Saturday students were asked to put in some time cleaning and painting the inside of the Student Union. Roughly, less than one percent of the 1,223 students in this college turned out for this task.

Congratulations should be extended to the handful of students that did the work that was meant for many hands. Few hands make heavy work, these students can testify.

There will be another painting and clean-up day this Saturday. The more students working on this project, the faster the Student Union can be opened.

It seems that more than one percent of the students have spare time on Saturdays. Why not give a small percentage of this time?

LETTERS

'Donation!'

To The Students of Keene State College:

I am writing to you concerning the "donation" that each student will be expected to give at the dance this weekend. The donation will be fifty cents per person or seventy-five cents per couple. This is a direct result of a ruling by the Social Committee that met Monday night Nov. 2, 1964.

The money will be used to pay for a "rock n' roll" band for the dance. Now some of you may be saying so what? What's 50¢ or 75¢? But the fact is - you pay a $38.00 activity fee in the fall. This allows you to be admitted to all social functions on this campus - absolutely free, without being put to the social pressure of being asked to give a "donation" as you enter Spaulding Gymnasium for a dance this weekend.

But again - you may still be saying - "So what - I'll pay it. It's worth it." But to this I answered "NO!" You should not have to pay. Why? Because the Social Committee has been given $5,000.00 of your money - collected from this activity fee. Of the $38.00 collected from each student - $25.00 of this is given to the Student Council, to budget to the various organizations on campus, of which the Social Committee received the aforementioned sum. Now with this money, the Social Committee plans mainly two big weekends - Winter Carnival and Homecoming. This amounts to approximately $4,200.00 for both weekends. This leaves about $800.00, give or take a couple of hundred, to plan other social functions during the school year. This includes dances at the Gym on weekends with "live" entertainment.

Simply, the Social Committee must live within its budget. It has the money to put on this dance and others like it. You as students, shouldn't have to "donate" to your weekends that you have already paid for. The amount is small but the principle is great.

surface which is slippery could cause an accident. For this reason, the dancers prefer a rough or gritty texture when they perform.

Now do you wonder what causes mental and physical "wear and tear" when a dancer decides to go on tour?

Dear Sir,

By the time this paper is published our country will have indicated its choice of a leader. This letter was written on Monday before the election. I do not know who has "won" this important contest. It really doesn't matter as far as the point of my letter is concerned.

I wish to remind both the candidates and their supporters that no matter who wins, that man will be the President of all the people. The losers must realize that a decision, a final decision, has been made. Argument after the event is usually useless. It need not cease but it should be muted. The losers should accept their position gracefully and quietly for the moment.

This campaign has been in some respects disgraceful. Neither candidate can claim to have come unspotted from the rain of mud and filth that came from both sides. Charges that a candidate is "morally corrupt" or that a man is "trigger happy" do not sit well with me.

I hope these and like accusations will halt at the water's edge, the actual voter decision. I sincerely hope that the loser of this extremely bitter campaign does not throw around indiscriminate charges of corruption and voter fraud.

Remember, every litter bit hurts! Let's keep America beautiful.

Yours truly,
Daniel Pelletier

Nadon House May Be Men's Dorm

"Nadon House, located on Appian Way, might be used as a future boys' residence," Robert L. Mallat, KSC housing administrator, said last week.

The college purchased the house years ago, he said. In September it was painted to add to the attractiveness of the college. The capacity of the house has been surveyed in case the boys from Dummel House have to move in the second semester. To date, however, no alterations have been made.

Mayor Mallat said that the house would have to be renovated to make it suitable for living quarters.

If construction begins in the spring for the new Dining Commons, Dummel House, which is the site of the new building, will have to be removed. The boys will then move into Nadon House.

Mayor's Voice

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many people who have showed up at the Social Committee meetings and helped to plan the future of this college.

At the meeting held last Wed. we elected "Ian and Sylvia" to be the main feature at the 1965 Winter Carnival. I feel that the choosing of "Ian and Sylvia" is going to better our Winter Carnival.

At the meeting held Nov. 2, the Social Committee decided to have a dance in the gym Fri. night with a rock and roll group playing. The Social Committee would not appropriate any money to hire a group, so there will have to be a slight donation.

I feel that this campus needs more social life, but seeing that the Social Committee would not appropriate the needed amount, the students themselves will have to show that they want more social life by backing me (and this dance Fri. night). "See you at the dance."

Semiformal Set By Newman Club

The Newman Club has set the date for their semiformal as Nov. 21. A committee will be chosen at the next meeting, Nov. 5, at 7 p.m. in Morrison Hall, officers will be elected at the same meeting.

At the last meeting, plans were made for a weekly column to appear in the Monadnock. Each nominee gave a short speech on why he would like to be elected.

Wheelock Collects Pottery Bowdoin Freshmen Use Unusual Honor System

Howard E. Wheelock, of Keene State College has a collection of Bennington ware pottery that is larger than the one in the Bennington Museum.

One of rarer pieces in his collection, he said Thursday, is a hound-handle pitcher. The body of a hound makes up the handle of the piece, and on the authentic pottery, the handles are not connected at the bottom.

Among his collection of pottery are two Japanese Satsuma vases. The vases, which he estimates are about 400 years old, were brought from the orient by a ship captain on the early trading vessels in the 1600's. They

Ministry Helps Develop KSC Christian Life

At Keene State College, Rev. Fay L. Gemmell said Friday, the campus ministry works toward the development of Christian life at the college in the following ways.

Through worship, as an essential aspect of the Christian experience, through study as a means to understand the relevance of the Christian religion in our times, and through service, as an expression of faith on campus and in the larger world.

All members of the campus community, he added are welcome to participate in the program of the Ecumenics, a club devoted to the study of the ecumenical movement.

At present the Ecumenics meet from 7-8 p.m. Tuesdays, upstairs in the Student Union. Monday and Wednesday are also available for meetings if so desired, Mr. Gemmell said.

Ski Team Plans Three Clinics

Clinic is the word for the week with the ski team. In addition to the New England Intercollegiate Ski Conference (NEISC) racing clinic which Keene State runs every year, we are tentatively planning a High School Clinic and another racing clinic for the Women's Intercollegiate Ski Council (WISC).

Prof. Perkins Resigns From Keene State College Staff

On Sunday, Nov. 1 the resignation of Prof. Paul C. Perkins of Keene State College was officially received by the school's administration. Mr. Perkins' resignation ends 7 years as an instructor in Machine Shop.

Mr. Perkins graduated from Keene Teachers College in 1939 and went on to get his Masters Degree in Education from Pennsylvania State University. In 1947 he became an instructor and assistant director of the Manchester Technical Institute and in 1957 he joined the staff of Keene State College.

It was announced Monday by the office of the Dean of Instruction that steps have already been taken to correct the course situation which resulted due to Mr. Perkins' resignation. The students who were taking Machine Shop, which is a four credit course, will receive one credit for this semester and will have to take the course next semester to pick up the remaining three credits. To alleviate any slack time, which will result from the loss of the course, the students will take English and Math as replacements. Also special tutoring ser-were kept in Maine until Mr. Wheelock bought them, when an estate was broken up.

Mr. Wheelock's interest started more than 15 years ago when he saw a collection in Hancock belonging to Mrs. Foster Stearns, wife of the late congressman. Some of his pieces were given to him, others he bought himself.

He said that, 10 to 18 years ago, the pottery could be bought for as little as $1 to $4 a piece. Now it is rare to find an authentic jug for under $15. The pottery is becoming hard to find, and a popular item for collectors of early American pottery.

Retards Tied For First In Intramurals

Football Season is over, and we've had many surprises. The Retards are tied for first place with the Rough Riders and the Bookworms are in second place. Alpha "A" is in third place and the Independents and Theta "A" are tied for fourth.

The rest of the teams had a rather poor year with no wins or ties. The game this Thursday between the Retards and the Rough Riders will settle first place and make one of the teams tied for second place with the Bookworms.

Here is a rundown of the teams as of now.

Retards ... tied for 1st place ... 3-0

Rough Riders ... winner takes over 1st place ... 3-0

Bookworms ... 2nd place ... 3-1

Alpha "A" ... 3rd place ... 4-2

Independents ... 4th place ... 2-2

Theta "A" ... 4th place ... 2-2

Alpha "B" ... 1-2

Theta "B" ... 0-2

Nads ... 0-3

Knicks ... 0-5

Karlings ... 0-3

The team also plans to race men's and a women's team this year.

Anyone who is interested in racing at all this year, should pick up USEASA applications backstage at the gym.

Ski conditioning will be held every day of the week, now, and if you plan to be "on the boards" at all this winter, pre-season conditioning is important.

Mr. Perkins presented his film "The Right to Live," as the first in a series of Audubon Screen Tours, sponsored by the KSC Biology Club.

"You don't have to be a bird-watcher to appreciate the Audubon Society," Mr. Lyons said.

He said that the prime interest of the Audubon Society is the promotion of conservation. Mr. Lyons quoted what he considered to be the best definition for conservation. A young boy once said "Conservation is what we eat, what we wear and where we live — and if you don't — we won't."

"Basically everything comes from the soil," said Mr. Lyons.

"In this age of steel, concrete, and super markets, many people overlook vices will be set up for those students who think they will need it.

After his resignation, Mr. Perkins stated, "I am confident that any difference of opinion which may exist will be clarified within the framework of the college and university system."

Peace Corps Tests Decide Assignments

Brunswick, Me.—(I.P.)—Incoming freshmen at Bowdoin College are about to help inaugurate a unique Honor System that will give all undergraduates complete responsibility for integrity in their academic work.

Approved by the Faculty, the plan is similar in many ways to systems at some other colleges and universities, but differs in one respect: while students at many other institutions are pledged to report violations to a specific authority, the Constitution of Bowdoin's system provides that any member of the College who witnesses a violation "shall take such action as he believes is consistent with his own sense of honor."

Under the Constitution that was finally approved, all exams and quizzes will be unproctored, although "An instructor may, if he wishes, remain in the exam room." In addition, each student is pledged not to give or receive aid in any form or manner.

"Intellectual honesty is expected on all written, laboratory, and other academic work," and unauthorized removal or mutilation of Library books will be considered a violation of the Honor System—for which a student is responsible to his peers. During registration at the start of each academic year every undergraduate will sign this pledge: "I understand and agree to abide by the Honor System."

The college elections gave Robert Mallat a large margin of victory in his bid for election to the Executive Council. Mallat defeated Fred Fletcher in the fourth district. He received 61.1 percent of the schools votes and 56.8 percent of the district votes.

On a national scope both KSC and the nation gave President Johnson an overwhelming victory over Senator Barry Goldwater. Johnson got a 71.7 percent vote at the college, 67.6 percent in the state, and 61.3 percent in the nation.

Dr. Lyons Says Audubon Not Just Birdwatching

"When a person hears the word 'Audubon' he immediately thinks of bird watching," said Chester P. Lyons of British Columbia, in his lecture, Thursday Oct. 29, in the Spaulding Gymnasium.

Mock Election By SNEA Shows National Trend

A state and nation-wide trend of Nov. 3 was predicted two weeks ahead by the S.N.E.A. elections held at Keene State College. These mock elections, sponsored by the Student National Education Association, were open to all students and showed a surprising similarity to the state's election returns.

The trend was predicted, at the college, in an overwhelming victory for Governor John King. Of the 457 votes cast, King received 313 votes or 68.2 percent. This almost paralleled the later state-wide percentage of 66.8 per cent.

A difference of less than two percent was registered in the congressional contest in the second district. Charles Officer won the college election with a 1.8 per cent plurality. He received 231 votes to James Cleveland's 224 votes. In the state results the trend was reversed. As shown by the KSC returns, the victory for Cleveland was a close one, the incumbent winning by two percent.

The college elections gave Robert Mallat a large margin of victory in his bid for election to the Executive Council. Mallat defeated Fred Fletcher in the fourth district. He received 61.1 percent of the schools votes and 56.8 percent of the district votes.

On a national scope both KSC and the nation gave President Johnson an overwhelming victory over Senator Barry Goldwater. Johnson got a 71.7 percent vote at the college, 67.6 percent in the state, and 61.3 percent in the nation.

The French and Spanish tests give the mastery of grammar, vocabulary, and reading comprehension. "They should be taken by those having some knowledge of the language," Dean Barry said.

The spatial questions require an estimate of the number in a pictured pile of blocks.

"The Modern Language Aptitude Test is designed to provide an indication of the probable degree of the success in learning a foreign language," Dean Barry said. "The score on this test will depend to some extent on a knowledge of the English vocabulary, but it also measures the symbol association ability and the memory aspect of the learning of foreign languages," Dean Barry said.

Mock Election By SNEA Shows National Trend

A state and nation-wide trend of Nov. 3 was predicted two weeks ahead by the S.N.E.A. elections held at Keene State College. These mock elections, sponsored by the Student National Education Association, were open to all students and showed a surprising similarity to the state's election returns.

The trend was predicted, at the college, in an overwhelming victory for Governor John King. Of the 457 votes cast, King received 313 votes or 68.2 percent. This almost paralleled the later state-wide percentage of 66.8 per cent.

A difference of less than two percent was registered in the congressional contest in the second district. Charles Officer won the college election with a 1.8 per cent plurality. He received 231 votes to James Cleveland's 224 votes. In the state results the trend was reversed. As shown by the KSC returns, the victory for Cleveland was a close one, the incumbent winning by two percent.

The college elections gave Robert Mallat a large margin of victory in his bid for election to the Executive Council. Mallat defeated Fred Fletcher in the fourth district. He received 61.1 percent of the schools votes and 56.8 percent of the district votes.

On a national scope both KSC and the nation gave President Johnson an overwhelming victory over Senator Barry Goldwater. Johnson got a 71.7 percent vote at the college, 67.6 percent in the state, and 61.3 percent in the nation.

New Club Holds First Meeting

KSC's newly formed Young Republicans Club held its first meeting Thursday in Morrison Hall to pick up the pieces of Tuesday's Presidential election.

The main question discussed was "What caused the crushing defeat of the Republican ticket in N. H. and in the rest of the country?"

It is expected that the young Republicans and the Young Democrats will soon be having debates on current political issues, philosophies, and principles of the respective parties.

The YR's also plan to present some form of social activity later in the year, other than the meetings themselves. The next meeting, Thursday, Nov. 19, will include the election of officers, plus the formulation of specific objectives, and the discussion of the issues.

Tickets Available For Season Play

Student tickets for this season's play, "Blithe Spirit", will be available Nov. 16, 17, 18, at the student box office in the Student Union. Each student may have one reserved seat ticket. Performances for the students will be Nov. 19 and 20. To obtain a ticket a student must have some means of proving he is enrolled at KSC.

Charles Tyler Hotchkiss will show his film "Wilderness Trails," Mogday, Nov. 16, in the Spaulding Gymnasium. This is the second in a series of Audubon Screen Tours sponsored by the KSC Biology Club.

Mr. Hotchkiss studied Forestry and Wildlife management at the University of Connecticut. In 1948, he graduated from the University of Illinois with a Master's Degree in Physical Education. He later attended Colorado Agricultural and Mechanical College to take additional courses in Park Recreation. His interest in recreation and wildlife management finally led him into the National Park Service.

Editor Explains '65 Insight'

The groundwork was done Wednesday, Nov. 4, for the second edition of KSC's literary magazine, In Sight. In an organizational meeting, Editor Bill Buckler explained the make-up of the magazine to interested students.

In Sight is comprised entirely of creative writing in the form of poetry, prose fiction and essay by the students and alumni of KSC.

The staff of the magazine includes Buckler, Associate Editors Patricia Schulte and Mary Lou Cloud, Business Manager Nancy Coutts, Publicity Chairmen Andrea Chase and Bob Stevens, and an editorial board. Prof. Malcolm H. Keddy is the faculty advisor.

In Sight began last year as an outgrowth of a creative writing class that felt the need for such a magazine on campus. The first edition was put on sale at the end of last term.

Material will be accepted for the second edition of In Sight until the deadline of November 24. Articles should be left in the faculty office addressed to In Sight in care of Mr. Keddy.

Anyone interested in working on the magazine should contact any of the editors or Mr. Keddy.

THE RIGHT TO LISTEN

The elections are over in New Hampshire for two more years and we again find the image of John W. King before us as our governor. With his re-election we find the reincarnation of a thorn-bush.

It was reported, Tuesday, in The Keene Sentinel that Governor King said he will support and sign legislation banning communist speakers at State supported institutions, especially the University of New Hampshire.

King said his position was "not one of balking freedom of speech. This issue involves license, not freedom. Anyone is free to go down to the University of New Hampshire and speak, providing he doesn't advocate the overthrow of the United States."

In April of this year a controversy arose over whether or not the students at the University of New Hampshire could have a communist speaker at an assembly. At that time direct pressure was brought to bear on University President John W. McConnell and the Board of Trustees by Governor King and William Loeb, President and Publisher of the Manchester Union Leader. King spoke out against communist speakers at the University by saying, "I very strongly resent your using my tax dollars to provide the forum for these vermin." Loeb came out with a front page tirade against the action. President McConnell and the Trustees went on to act in their own accord and disregarded the governor's protest and re-affirmed a policy set up in 1950, which allowed complete liberty of assembly at UNH.

Now the question seems to arise as to whether or not the State should have the right to legislate against any form of speaker at an institution of higher learning. These institutions are set-up for the purpose of educating people. Part of education comes from knowing how people of other ideologies feel about subjects such as government, economics, society, and religion.

How can we as a nation continue to fight a common enemy if our state governments make it impossible for use to even see what he looks like.

It must also be remembered here that an action such as this is in defiance of both the Federal and State Constitutions; which state that people have the freedom of speech.

J. Howard Schultz, professor of English at the University, revealed his viewpoint of the principles he considered at stake: "If Mr. Loeb and Governor King think they are defending something, what ever they think they are defending cannot be 1/1000 part as important as the principle they are attacking."

Mr. Schultz is right. There definitely is a principle at stake here. The principle on which this country was founded.

What are we supposed to do, sit around and stagnate in our own stupidity because we can't hear what the rest of the world has to say? The answer is: NO!

In a world which moves ahead as rapidly as ours, we must live with an open, liberal and free-thinking mind. We must look ahead; and yet uphold the principles of democracy set in the past. No individual has the right to override these constitutional privileges.

If these constitutional privileges are overridden it might lead one to believe that maybe there should have been another section added to the Bill of Rights.

Catholic Church Changes Worship, Not Doctrine

Does the Catholic Church change? The Catholic Church never changes. Yet, it does change. Here we are faced with a dilemma. We say that the church changes and at the same time we say that the church does not change. Is there a contradiction in the Catholic Church? It seems that the church is so logical in everything that she does, but yet this seems so illogical.

The Catholic Church has never changed, and will not in times to come, in her beliefs, in her doctrines, and in her teachings. The summary of the church's doctrines is found in her creed: the Apostle's Creed, the "I believe." This is a prayer which Catholics recite often from memory. All the truths contained in this creed are eternal truths and they will never change. The Vatican Council in Rome is going to explain these beliefs, these tenets of the Catholic faith but they will always remain the same. They may be presented in a different way, with different wording, but they will always be the same. These are the truths that set men free.

But on the other hand, we said that the church changes. Before explaining this, let us first of all see what the word "church" means. The church is first of all a people. The church is an assembly, a community, a group of people. It is an assembly of baptized people. The church is not an edifice. We know that it is a society composed of many individuals. As a matter of fact, the church, this people, is made up of some 500 million Catholics all over the world.

When we say that the church changes, we mean that the people of God, this baptized people we were

LETTERS

To the Editors:

I am in complete agreement with the members of the Social Committee in that they should be allowed to choose their own President, but I am in disagreement with the way it was presented in the front page article of last week's Monadnock to the K.S.C. students.

Taken from context one sentence reads "Many of the members of the Committee agreed that it was better for the Social Committee to elect its own president and in that way they could be sure of putting a qualified man in the position." To me, this statement is an insult to the present mayor of K.S.C., Mike Carbone.

I attended the meeting during which the new amendment was made to the Social Committee constitution concerning the mayor and therefore understand the reasons for this action. The S. C. has been lucky in having competent mayors placed at its head during the past two years, but luck can run out and an incompetent person could be elected to the office of mayor. This is why the S. C. decided to choose their own president. But to those who did not attend the meeting, the quoted sentence could possibly be taken as a statement to mean that our present mayor is incompetent.

True, Mr. Carbone has not had S. C. experience, but in the short time that he has been President, he has progressed quite well in the conduct of his meetings. It must also be noted that this decision of the S. C. will not go in effect until next year and therefore will not displace Mr. Carbone from his present office as President.

As for the decision to place the next mayor in the office of V. P., this is certainly no disgrace. The V. P. is allowed to vote and discuss problems during the meeting. The President is not allowed to vote except during a roll-call vote and his opinions are not recognized until he hands the gavel to the next officer in line and steps down from the chair.

It is my belief that V. P. of the Student Council and V. P. of the Social Committee are by no means "back-seat" positions.

Ted Menswar

Fr. Gerald J. Valle speaking of, have a certain way of worshipping God. These changes have changed and will change again as time marches on. What we are referring to are liturgical celebrations. In other words, the way in which a Catholic practices his faith, receives the sacraments, and prays.

Let us take the Mass, for example. Christ instituted the Mass and for some 150 years it was offered in a set pattern. In about the third century this way of offering the holy sacrifice of the Mass changed. The incidentals changed but not the essentials: that is, it will always take the form of the Last Supper, the very first Mass that was said. It will include the Offertory, the Consecration, and the Communion. This is what Christ instituted and this will never change. It is the same Mass but done in a different way. For the past 400 years the Mass has been offered in the same rigid way. In a few weeks this form will change.

Why? Because the fathers of the church wish the people to participate actively in the holy sacrifice. The fathers of the church want to bring the Mass up-to-date. The first change is in the mother tongue. Whereas the Mass was celebrated in Latin for 400 years, now it will be celebrated in the vernacular. This example is one of many which shows that the church changes.

Therefore, let us say that the church never changes in its doctrines, but it is subject to change in the institutions which are capable of change. The Mass was one example. Are there others? Yes, many. Next week the difference in the meaning of Ecumenical and ecumens will be discussed.

What's A Republican?

To the Editor:

"What caused the crushing defeat of the Republican ticket in New Hampshire and the rest of the nation," Republicans ask.

The answer, simply, is lack of education. If the average American voter would take the time to sit down and read books (not just newspapers) about all the candidates for political office, and then analyze them intelligently, they could make a more honest selection.

Unfortunately, most people do not make this effort. What they do not realize is that they are the ones who will have to pay for the results (the debt).

Another reason was the complete lack of party unity on the part of the Republicans. An individual, in declaring himself a member of a political party, whether Republican or Democrat, is accepting the principles and philosophies of that party.

This year, the so-called "leaders" of the Republican party (such as Romney and Rockefeller) pledged no support at all to the national ticket. Instead, they criticized the candidates, despite the fact that these candidates received the strongest endorsement ever received by any nominees of either the Republican or the Democratic National Convention. These men, in the past, have guided many, many voters to the polls, but this year, because of personal grudges, they allowed the Republican Party to split.

Are these the type of people we want to re-unity our party?

Here are some questions for you to ponder:
What is a Republican?
What is a Conservative?
What is a Liberal?
What is a Democrat?
Which are you?

Mayor's Voice

Fellow Students:

A vote of thanks is due the talent show put on by the freshman Sunday Nov. 8. This show was put on for our benefit. A lot of time and effort went into its production by the few students who decided to put it on with what they had.

I feel the students that attended should review their actions and ask themselves if they were very considerate of other people's feelings.

I don't think very many people there were considerate, including myself at times. I would here like to apologize for the uncouth actions shown by the audience at this show.

The dance held last Friday was a huge success, and it makes me feel good that the students of this college have finally decided that the "high school atmosphere" around here has got to go. It's about time!

This Friday something new will be tried. Five colleges in this area have been invited to attend an inter-college dance with a rock and roll group at Spaulding Gym.

I will need all your support. I think the whole student body wants to show these other colleges who have been quoted as saying they are better than that "hick school in Keene."

I think we should show these sophisticates how us "hicks" have a good time.

Let's all have a great time and please don't have any trouble or there might not be any more functions, and we return to stagnation. Let's stick together other schools how we stick together and how good we can be as hosts.

Remember that old saying: "It's nice to be important, but more important to be nice."

LEVITATION (?) — In keeping with the fad at Keene for psychical research a group of Monadnock dorm residents tried (apparently successfully) some levitation experiments. The boys performed the alleged feat through their powers of concentration.

Parapsychology Lecture Presented By Dr. Pratt

Have the outer boundaries of human nature been completely surveyed? This was the question asked by Dr. J. Gaither Pratt at the Keene Forum last Wednesday night in Spaulding Gymnasium. Dr. Pratt spoke on "Parapsychology — The Frontier Science of the Mind."

Dr. Pratt, chief researcher at Duke University's Parapsychology Laboratory, said parapsychology is a parallel to psychology, and a part of man's never ending struggle to understand himself. If attempts to explain the unexplainable in relation to human nature.

There are many puzzles in human experience Dr. Pratt said, and the chief among these are extra sensory perception (ESP), precognitive dreams, and P.K. (mind over matter). ESP is the ability some people have of knowing when something has happened, or what someone is thinking. Precognitive dreams are those that re-occur but have no consequence until the person has moved from the place where the dream took place. Or they are dreams by one person which happen to another. P.K. is the ability to move objects without actually touching them.

Dr. Pratt gave three examples of actual ESP experiences.

During WWII a mother dreamt that her son's plane had been shot down. In the dream she saw him grab his foot, and then safely escape from the aircraft when it crashed in a narrow gully. She wrote of this dream to her son, and it was found that the event had occurred at the time, and in the manner she had dreamed it.

The same mother had another son in the Navy. He injured his shoulder and it had to be placed in a cast. He didn't write home about it, because he wanted to avoid needless worry for his mother. Shortly afterwards, however, he received a letter from his mother telling him to take good care of his shoulder.

A woman awoke from a dream feeling like she had been struck in the face. She noticed her husband was already up, apparently he had gone sailing. When he returned, his mouth was cut and bleeding where the rudder had hit him.

Dr. Pratt said experiences of this sort are very common. A Gallup Poll reported that 10% of the persons tested could sense when something had happened to a relative, he said.

The first attempt to study ESP was started in 1882, Dr. Pratt said.

A group of English scholars set up situations where one person could try and tell what the other was thinking. This was done with cards using designations such as a plus sign or square. When one person could tell what card the other was holding, it was called telepathy. The findings of this group came under great criticism.

Scientific resistance was high, and university affiliation was needed.

By 1932 investigations held at Harvard and Stanford ruled out the possibility of chance in ESP. To continue research, Dr. Rhine established the first parapsychology lab at Duke University. Using students as subjects, he tried to distinguish between telepathy and clairvoyance. Telepathy is the ability to know something that has happened, or something that is being thought, while clairvoyance is being able to predict something that will happen, Dr. Pratt said.

The English studies did not distinguish between the two, but the Duke experiments showed they both existed, the speaker said. During the tests the subjects were able to tell what card another person had selected as much as 40% of the time. Dr. B. F. Rice questioned these results, and using himself as a subject, scored a high 70%. Dr. Rice said he only recognized these results with great reluctance, but he could find no other explanation other than ESP.

Neither language, distance, nor physical conditions seem to have had effects on ESP. Poor attitude of the subject will lower the percentage of achievement, however, Dr. Pratt said. ESP is a part of everyone, and it must be studied if the mind is to reach into the future, Dr. Pratt said. ESP is essential for man to increase his knowledge of man.

After the forum, there was a reception for Dr. Pratt in Fiske Hall.

Elects Moylan Newman Club

Sheila Moylan was chosen president of the Newman Club Thursday.

Other officers are: Vice-president, Maureen Beaulieu; corresponding secretary, Sheila Pevine; recording secretary, Kathy O'Neil; treasurer, Dean Bushie; financial chairman, Norm Tardiff; religious committee, Peter Hall; library committee, Nancy Sylvia; and publicity committee, Audrey Stockbridge.

At the last meeting, plans were made to have a weekly Mass for the Catholic students at KSC at St. Bernard's Church. Also, Peter Hall, head of the social committee is planning to have a Catholic film series for the members.

Entrance Exams Taken Saturday

On Saturday, 105 high-school seniors took the American College Testing entrance exam here for the '65-'66 academic year.

Not all of those taking the test have applied to KSC; some have applied to Plymouth State College and other colleges throughout the country.

The test was given at the same time at PSC and at St. Anselm's College.

Nally Speaks: No One Answer In Teaching

"There are no single right answers (in teaching), only suggested pathways which lead to solutions," said Dr. Thomas Nally Tuesday as he spoke to the faculty and students of Keene State College on the professional aspects of teaching.

Dr. Nally went on to say that youngsters are complex individuals and teaching them is a complex process. He said that it is important for the teacher to concentrate on the individual pupil.

Dr. Nally said that teaching is an intellectual process that commands a body of specialized information.

He said that teaching requires extended preparation and the use of new ideas. At present, 33.2% of the teachers in the United States have completed five or more years of college.

While speaking about the benefits of teaching, Dr. Nally said that teaching affords a lifetime career and, as a profession, it sets its own standards. He also said that teaching has a close-knit professional organization.

While commenting on the teacher strikes in Kentucky, Dr. Nally said, "The image of strikers turns me very sad. The objectives of these teachers are worthy but there means are unprofessional." He said that teachers must hold service above personal gain.

Dr. Nally was sponsored by the KSC chapter of Kappa Delta Phi, a national honor society of which he is a member. Dr. Nally, graduated from Amherst in 1947. He received his M.A. from Brown University and his Ph.D. from Michigan State College. He was introduced by KSC President Dr. Roman J. Zorn.

Four KSC students were recognized by Kappa Delta Phi for their outstanding scholastic achievements. They were: John Litvich, Darlene White, Richard Doble and William E. Thomas.

Dr. Nally spoke to a crowd of about 400 people in Spaulding Gymnasium. A Coffee hour was held in Fiske Hall after the assembly.

McBride Joins KSC Staff As Art Teacher

Mr. Alexander T. McBride is a new member of the Keene State College faculty. He is teaching a course in Industrial Design.

Mr. McBride was awarded a B.F.A. degree from Rhode Island School of Design in 1962 and an M.F.A. degree from Cornell University in 1964.

Merp Program Set For Nov. 20-22

Men's Economic Recovery Program (MERP) officially begins on Friday, Nov. 20, and continues until Sunday, Nov. 22.

The weekend is designed to relieve the male population of the necessity of paying for a date. In MERP the girl asks the boy, and pays for everything.

The weekend will begin with a costume dance on Friday night at 8:00 p.m. Saturday night's schedule includes a semi-formal dance with the "Run-aways", an instrumental group.

The week will wind up with a "MERP Spaghetti Supper" on Sunday evening.

'Stimulate Students,' Francon Jones Says

Francon Jones, of the Keene State College English Department, would do away with all "Word Wealth" books.

He said Monday, that learning long, isolated lists of words does the student no good. Students learn new words best by seeing them used in context and by employing them in their writing.

Mr. Jones commented that a student should not be forced to memorize what he doesn't want to. He said that it is up to the teachers to arouse enough interest in the student to make him want to memorize. The best way for a teacher to stir interest is to relate the interests of the student to class discussion.

"Respect the student's ideas and opinions", Mr. Jones said. He added that creating this interest takes a lot of maneuvering on the part of the teacher.

"Enthusiasm too, is an important asset to the teacher in arousing student interest," Mr. Jones said. He said that even if a teacher does not care for the author or book about which he is teaching, he should show enthusiasm for the class's benefit.

Mr. Jones advocates giving students a "guided freedom".

"Present them with a variety of material from which they can choose," he said, "for students should be tactfully directed, not pushed."

Freshman Present Talent Exhibition

On Sunday, November 8, 1964, the KSC Frosh presented their annual talent show in Spaulding Gymnasium. Nine musical acts were the extent of the performance. They were as follows: The "Retards," a singing group, with Den Bosse, Marty Mahoney, Ron Cabaniol, Al Hoddson, Tagg Tardiff and Jim Nelson on drums; Joyce Freese, singer; Bobbi Carter, Joyce Howe, and Sue Farington in a dance act; Dick Grant, violin; Nancy Schouler, singer with guitar; Larry Stone, Greg Hackney, Bryant Anderson, and Jim Nelson, instrumental quartet; Jim Nelson, drum solo; Joyce Freese, Nancy Schouler, duet.

The "Retards" sang a final song, with the entire cast of performers participating as the curtain came down.

After being off campus at 85 Winter St. for two semesters, Kappa brothers are now making plans to acquire the house next to Theta on Main Street, Trombly said.

Rev. Fay Gemmell Attends UCYM

Rev. Fay L. Gemmell, KSC chaplain, attended a planning conference in Springfield, Mass., Friday and Saturday, for the United Christian Youth Movement (UCYM) Ecumenical Leadership Training Conference. The UCYM conference is scheduled for August 1965 at Geneva Point Camp, Lake Winnepesaukee.

The Ecumenics, formerly known as the Student Christian Association, is an organization for the development of Christian Life on campus. This small interdenominational group meets weekly for retreats and service projects on campus and in the community.

Committee of Ten Studies Liberal Arts Revolution

A committee of ten prominent educators, including President J. Ralph Murray of Elmira College, has released a report titled "The College and World Affairs" which calls for a "revolution" in liberal arts education. The report warns that cultures "other than the familiar ones of Western Europe and North America" must become an integral part of the undergraduate liberal arts curriculum if American education is to meet the need for "sensitive leadership" in this "ever more complex and swiftly changing world."

The committee was brought together and financed by a grant from the Edward W. Hazen Foundation. Cost of distributing the report was met by the Hazen Foundation in cooperation with Education and World Affairs, Inc.

On the committee are: John W. Nason, president of Carleton College, chairman; Hugh Borton, president of Haverford College; Robert F. Byrnes, professor of history, Indiana University; John S. Dickey, president of Dartmouth College; John B. Howard, director, International Training and Research Program, The Ford Foundation; Douglas M. Knight, president of Duke University; William W. Marvel, president, Education and World Affairs; John W. Masland, provost, Dartmouth College; C. Easton Rothwell, president of Mills College, and Dr. Murray.

Because of the multiplication of knowledge today, the new liberal learning cannot aspire to all-inclusiveness, according to the report. The student must discover how to adduce from selected samples the principles involved, and learn to think in terms of those principles.

To implement the program, says the report, "what is most needed is a clear and unequivocal institutional commitment to the international studies dimension of liberal education." Faculty competence must be strengthened by broadening existing faculty interest and through the recruitment of new faculty with special talents. Library resources and new teaching aids must be used. Students must be encouraged to supplement on-campus study with experience abroad.

Students Perform Musical Program

A program of instrumental solos was presented by KSC students at the Keene Unitarian Church Friday. The program was for the benefit of the Invalids Home on Court Street and was sponsored by the Unitarian Women's Alliance.

This commendable group performance was under the direction of Mrs. Goder who organized a melodious succession of recitals that successfully captured the interest of the audience.

The students performing were: Sharon Driscoll (piano), Laurene Burbank (piano), Bob Simonds (trumpet) and Mike Carbone (accordion).

Episcopalians Plan Services At KSC

The Rev. William Hazlett, Episcopal Church's representative on campus, announced that there are Holy Communion services each Thursday morning at 7 a.m. on the second floor of the Lloyd P. Young Student Union.

The Rev. John D. Swanson, rector of Christ Church in Portsmouth, N. H., was the speaker on Nov. 3. He presented a lecture on the origin and nature of communism and capitalism. A discussion period followed.

Holy Communion was celebrated on Thursday morning by the Rev. John D. Swanson.

Santa Comes To Appian Way

Saint Nick arrived rather prematurely at Dannel House (Applachia) this year. No, he didn't arrive in his usual, red, white, and black attire. He appeared in the guise of a female, Paula Whipple, dressed in slacks and a K.T.C. sweatshirt.

She was shocked at the deplorable living conditions and immediately began her own "war on poverty."

Paula, or "Dear One" as the men at Dannel House prefer to call her, washed and waxed floors, hung curtains and drapes, shaped up the kitchen, laid fancy lacework pieces everywhere, and flew into action with a paint brush.

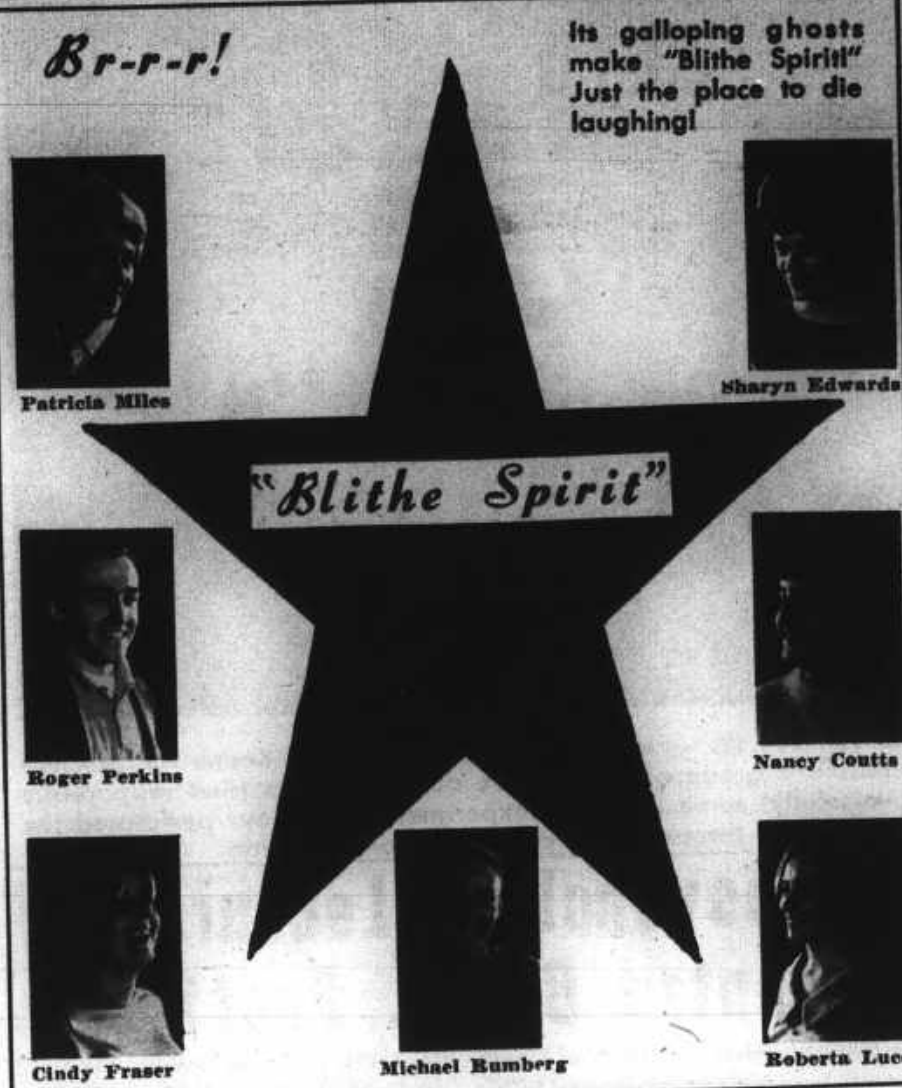

The men at Dannel House can now call the flat "home" and relax in an atmosphere that is much more conducive, than before, to learning.

Oltmans To Speak About Red China

William L. Oltmans will speak on "Trouble Spots in Focus" December 8 at KSC. Mr. Oltmans will tell what he learned about Red China or some other place or places which are becoming more explosive, said Dorothy A. Randall, Dean of Student Personnel and Admissions.

Netherlands-born, Yale-educated, correspondent for 12 Dutch papers, Mr. Oltmans is one of the few journalists Red China has let in.

The second speaker to appear in a series of forum lectures, on October 15, Mr. Oltmans had to cancel his engagement due to illness.

Basketball Squad Hopes To Improve Its Record

With nine returning veterans and the addition of some players with height, Sumner Joyce KSC's basketball coach, is hopeful of improving on last year's record.

The basketball team opened practice for the '64-'65 season on Monday, Nov. 2. Reporting to practice were nine veterans: George Bachi, George Bazoukas, Tim Brown, Kern Claflin, Roger Cloutier, Joe Giovannangeli, Wally Markham, Hardy Nalley, and Jack Putney.

Ken Cody, who stands 6'6", Paul Stagner, 6'4", and Sam Hicks, 6'3", are newcomers, who will be counted on heavily by Coach Joyce to give the Owls some badly-needed height. Stagner and Hicks, however, will not be eligible until the second semester. The squad will be filled out by freshmen Dennis Bosse, Mike Clemmons, Renall Desmarais, and Tom Sumner.

There will be no JV basketball team at KSC this year. Because a number of other teams in the league have dropped their JV teams, Coach Joyce says he has discontinued KSC's team this year.

College Now Has Policy On Speakers

"Since the matter of speakers seems to be attracting attention, as in last week's editorial," said Prof. Eldwin A. Wixson, secretary of the Keene State College Senate, "I think it should be brought to light that the College Senate adopted a temporary policy last spring about outside speakers."

All meetings involving outside speakers must be cleared with the dean of men, if these meetings are to be of a general assembly nature and are open to all students said Mr. Wixson.

The dean of men will be guided in his decision by the university policy governing political activity.

"There is no intent to restrict," said Mr. Wixson, "but the administration must know what is going on, in case any controversy boils up."

"This has nothing to do with an individual instructor bringing in a classroom speaker, and does not infringe on academic freedom," Mr. Wixson said.

The College Senate is made up of 15 faculty members, and is headed by President Roman J. Zorn, Dean David S. Sarner, Dean Dorothy A. Randall, and Dr. Ann C. Peters, president of the Faculty Association.

Dance is Host To 400 Students

More than 400 students from four different colleges danced to the music of "Romney and the Hornets" Friday night at Spaulding Gym.

The dance, sponsored by the Social Committee, in an effort to improve relations between colleges in this area, included students from New England College at Henniker, Franklin Pierce College at Rindge, and Nathaniel Hawthorne College at Andover.

The dance was financed by donations from those who attended. Some of the posters which were placed at the neighboring colleges failed to convey the idea, and all students who did not wish to donate were admitted free. In spite of this, the Social Committee president, Mike Carbone, reported that the evening realized enough to pay the band and have $3 left over.

The music of the Hornets was loud and concentrated on a powerful beat, Carbone said.

High School Day To Be Replaced

SNEA members will act as guides to high school students who come to visit the campus. It was decided at the monthly meeting, held Nov. 10, that this will replace the annual high school day.

Mr. Frederick Durham was introduced as this year's advisor. Members heard a brief report on the Peterboro Convention and also decided to visit local nursing homes and the hospital during the holiday season instead of holding the annual Christmas party for faculty and married students.

The bulletin of free speakers was passed around in hopes of having a speaker at the next meeting. It was announced that there will be a fall convention held on December 5, at Notre Dame. Anyone interested may sign up on the bulletin board in Morrison Hall.

The meeting was followed by a Mr. Novak movie. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, December 8, at 6:45 in Morrison Hall.

Michael O'Neil Elected Ward 1 Representative

C. Michael "Mike" O'Neil, 24, a second semester junior at Keene State College, has been elected representative to the state legislature because he believes (1) that Keene and Cheshire County need more attention from Concord on highway projects, (2) that there should be expanded facilities for KSC, (3) that there should be a two year vocational school built in this area, (4) that there should be recreational development within Cheshire county, and (5) that state employees need an increase in salary.

He will probably be on either the Education Committee or the Ways and Means committee.

Mike, who became interested in politics by working on the 1960 campaign of Mayor Robert L. Mallat Jr., is a member of the Young Democrats Club and the State Democratic Club. He is a selectman from ward one, and is a charter member of The Keene Kiwanis Club.

Mike was also a delegate to the 1964 State Democratic Convention. He is a social studies major, studying government and economics.

'Blithe Spirit'

Milton I. Sutor, business manager for "Blithe Spirit," said on Tuesday that any one who has paid his activity fee to the college can come to the play on Thursday and Friday without charge.

If a student has not received his ticket from the student box office before it closes he may have a seat if he comes to the door. He must have a receipt from the college. Seats will be distributed on a first come first served basis as long as the unreserved seats last. Students may stand in the back of the auditorium when these seats are gone.

KSC Needs New Ambassador

During the summer of '63 two students of Keene State were a part of the ambassador program sponsored by the city of Keene. These students, John Emmett Murray and Anthony Alexander, spent their summer in Pakistan and Africa.

After realizing the beneficial effect of the program, Tony and John wished there were a way for more people to enjoy such an experience.

The College Ambassador Program now at Keene State is the result of the zeal generated by the above experience.

This past summer Keene State had its first official College Ambassador, Miss Joyce Rogers, who is now student teaching, represented the college in India.

Again this year, the students of Keene State have an opportunity to make their contribution to the creation of peace in our time through international understanding; and by realizing and making others realize that, everywhere, people are people. There are other benefits to the program; extensive travel, new acquaintances, dysentery, self-confidence, more new knowledge than could be obtained from any summer school.

If anyone is interested in obtaining further information, or perhaps an application, contact John Emmett Murray at apt. 101, 61 Hyde Street. (After p.m.)

Floor Committee Set For Future Dances, Parties

All future dances and parties sponsored by the social committee will be supervised by a floor committee. This was decided at the meeting held on Monday, Nov. 16, after C. R. Lyle, one of the social committee advisors, put forth the idea. These floor committees will discourage any trouble that could come about.

Meg Gheraty, Union Leader Women's Editor, will speak to the Winter Carnival committee this week. She is going to advise them as to how we can coordinate our Winter Carnival with the Miss New Hampshire Pageant, the outcome to be a "Miss Keene State," representing the college at the pageant.

All campus organizations are urged to reserve dates for their social functions with the social committee. There will be a special meeting on Monday, Nov. 23.

"Wilderness Trails," the second film in a series presented by the The National Audubon Society, was shown in Spaulding Gymnasium last Monday night by Mr. Charles T. Hotchkiss. The theme of the series is the conservation and preservation of our wilderness areas.

Mr. Hotchkiss said wilderness means different things to different people. For some, it is a place of solitude. For others, a place to study wildlife in its natural habitat. He said, and we must be careful that pressures from people and government do not take it away from us.

The first half of the film dealt with Everglades National Park in Florida. The park was established in 1947, Mr. Hotchkiss said, when 2,000 acres were set aside for it. There is not other place like it in the world, and its loss would cause the extinction of many unique species of wildfowl.

The striking photography of the film displayed birds from the spoon-bill to the kite in their natural surroundings. It also showed the dependency these creature have upon water. Many of the birds rely on snails for their food, Mr. Hotchkiss said. When there is a drought the snails burrow into the mud and cannot be reached by the birds. No food, no birds.

Not only does drought enter into water shortage, the speaker added, but also the work of man. Four years ago, park engineers built dams that have cut off some of the water coming into the everglades.

The second half of the film dealt with other national parks in America. Mr. Hotchkiss photographed not only the usual tourist attractions, but the scenes and animals not seen by the casual observer as well.

As an example of the effect of conservation, he used the Bison. In 1893 there were only 15 Bison reported in the Yellowstone area, but today they number in the thousands.

Mr. Hotchkiss first started as a park ranger in 1950 and has produced several 1/2 hour TV films. His wife accompanies him on his trips, and assists him in his lecture tours.

A reception was held in Morrison Hall after the lecture.

The Monadnock JUMBLE

"Why didn't someone tell me there was a meeting last night?"

How many times have you heard or spoken this sentence? If you're like the majority of students on and off campus you hear it said often.

One of the most important jobs on this campus is to inform the students of meetings and functions happening here. It is a difficult job to do, and the newspaper can only do part of it. The rest of the task is up to individuals and organizations.

The main information centers on campus are the twenty or so bulletin board hanging and sitting in various places around campus. These boards are necessary to the functioning of campus organizations. They're a mess!

Generally a notice will be posted, and will hang in the same spot until it rots off the thumbtack. The person who posted it will never return to remove it, and no-one else knows when it should be taken down. The result is a jumbled up snowstorm of new and old notices, making the bulletin board difficult to read.

"What is the answer? The club, organization or individual posting the notice must be responsible for its removal, or mark the date when it can be removed. Some size limit should be established on the size of notices on the smaller bulletin boards. Without some order the bulletin boards will remain unreadable and useless.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

"Big" Ed Sutherland, a very likeable guy, in trying to assess the results of the recent elections, seems to be acting in the same capacity as his party's nominee for the presidency, i.e., as a temporary spokesman.

Ed, in his recent diatribe in the Monadnock, accused the American public of being uneducated or to quote him, they "lack education." He seems to believe that the panacea for the nation's voting populace is a program that involves the reading of books in addition to newspapers. Then according to Ed, the voting public could analyze the candidates in their proper perspective and supposedly make an intelligent decision.

Ed, what kind of books would you like the voting public to read? Do you believe that the reading of books such as "A Texan Looks at L.B.J." and "None Dare Call It Treason" will enable the people to better comprehend the issues at stake in the national and local elections? (mud slinging seemed to be the only major issue in this campaign)

Ed also seems to believe, and he has the right to do so in this great land of America, that because Mr. Johnson became president the national debt will attain all time highs. He could be correct. But a situation such as this could also arise if Mr. Goldwater ascended to the presidency. Ed further states that the voting public will pay for the results (debts). This is true. We Americans have always paid the debts incurred by our forefathers in the national government. And as America continues her socio-economic expansion so will her annual federal budget increase.

Is the continual expansion of all frontiers of our great nation a crime to believe that the panacea for the nation's voting populace is a program that involves the reading of books in addition to newspapers. Then according to Ed, the voting public could analyze the candidates in their proper perspective and supposedly make an intelligent decision.

We Democrats honestly hope that the numerous factions of splinter groups within the Republican ranks will unite under a strong and competent leader and thereby insure the two party system that is an integral part of the American democratic system.

We Democrats hope that the newly chosen American leader will lead this great nation to higher plateaus of prosperity and peace. We hope that he will continue the journey started by the late John F. Kennedy and take the second step in the journey of a thousand miles.

Ed, if you truly believe that reading will further the cause of the American voter why don't you accept the post mortem statement of the pro-Goldwater, Richmond, Va. News Leader? It reads, "There is nothing to be gained from sugar coating the pill. We got clobbered."

Catholic And Protestant Movements Discussed

By Fr. Gerald J. Vallee

This week we will discuss the differences between the Ecumenical Council and the Ecumenical Movement.

What is the Ecumenical Council?

The Ecumenical Council equals the Vatican Council II presently going on in Rome. Ecumenical, modifying the word Council, means a world-wide, general meeting of all the Catholic bishops of the world in Rome with the Holy Father. This council is an internal affair of the Catholic Church. Basically, it has nothing to do with other beliefs, other doctrines, and other principles. It is primarily Catholic. The purpose of this Ecumenical Council, called by Pope John XXIII, is to rejuvenate and bring up-to-date the Catholic Church, that is, change what is capable of being changed.

What is the Ecumenical Movement?

The word Ecumenical, used to modify the word Movement, applies to something basically Protestant. It is, fundamentally, a Protestant affair. It is a movement which has nothing to do with Judaism or Orthodoxy. It's origin is Protestant and, I believe, the purpose of this Ecumenical Movement is to seek a certain unity among the various beliefs within Protestantism itself. As such, it has nothing to do with the Catholic Church.

What is Ecumenism?

This is the work of the Ecumenical Movement. It is the very search for unity on certain matters of doctrines.

What is meant by being Ecumenically minded?

Does this mean interfaith worship? Does this mean interfaith dialogue? Or does this mean interfaith action? I firmly believe that one is Ecumenically minded when he prays in his own heart for an understanding of the beliefs of the other. One is Ecumenically minded if he does not seek to proselytize. Finally, Ecumenically minded means to me that all together we seek to destroy prejudice, bring down the unreasonable walls that for 400 years have separated us, and to come to a genuine understanding of one another. It is an attempt at a better understanding and tolerance of the others beliefs. This is the essence, to my mind, of religious freedom. Perhaps this could be a misunderstanding. What do you think?

Mayor's Voice

Fellow Students:

There was a regular meeting of the social committee Monday, Nov. 16, 1964.

Last week numerous students from the college inquired if they could have a party at the K. of C. Hall. I brought this up at the meeting and it was decided by the social committee:

1. That a party at the K. of C. Hall would involve liquor.
2. That people under 21 would be drinking.
3. That there would possibly be riots or accidents.
4. That under the laws of New Hampshire people under 21 are not allowed to drink.

Therefore the social committee should not sponsor a party at the K. of C. Hall.

This topic proved to be most interesting, but it was decided to table all discussion on this subject until a special meeting, next Monday.

Blithe Spirit Emerges 200 Proof

Elvira Bah!

Audience Is Sent Out of This World

By Richard Fletcher

Some Spirit!

Chinese Tea?

Crystal Ball?

Where Is She?

Her Bicycle!

My Bicycle!

My Slip Shows?

Yes!

A variety of multi-colored books, flowers, and whiskey bottles serve as a background for reserved, befuddled, lunatic, nervous, and eerie English countryside folk and "otherwise".

Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," as presented by the KSC Theater, is intricate, yet it has that appeal which leaves the audience's sides cross-stitched with laughter. No line, no movement, no pause is expendable. Unlike many farces, or even dramas, "Blithe Spirit" makes you sit on the edge of your seat. Expect the unexpected.

The technical triumphs are unsurpassable. The lighting and scenery will project the viewers into the play, not leave them looking in through a nose-smeared window.

Roger Perkins, as "Charles", is the typical reserved and arrogant English author conducting "research" for a new novel. Sharyn Edwards, playing "Ruth", enlivens the character with her overflowing vitality.

Nancy Coutts will have to change her name to "Madame Arcadi", for her interpretation of the over zealous medium is mystically enthralling. Ghosts are supposed to be full of air, and so is Cindy Fraser, as "Elvira", but her air is only of movement, for this spirit is two hundred proof in purpose.

Roberta Luce portrays "Mrs. Bradman" with enough shocking stupidity to be typically English. "Michael Rumberg, as "Dr. Bradman", would be a fine British physician - completely incredulous of anything unscientific.

Ah! the English maid! The Commonwealth would be better fixed for china without her. So to Patricia Miles, as "Edith," bravo!

"Blithe Spirit" is an excellent play made better by a superb production.

Coach Joyce Hosts Team

We of the Monadnock wish to congratulate Coach Sumner Joyce and his squad for the tremendous job they did this year in compiling a 9-2 record. This is the finest squad Coach Joyce has ever assembled and is the best record accumulated by any soccer team Mr. Joyce has coached since coming to Keene.

We would like to extend congratulations to the team for the wonderful job they did and to commend them for the good sportsmanship they displayed all season.

We would also like to pay tribute to Mike Emond and Pete Stevens for the fine job they did in spearheading the defense of the Owls, and to Tony Alexander, John Knowles, and Rick Rodriguez for their display of desire, determination and hustle in leading the Owls' offensive machine to the nine wins recorded by this years squad.

We would especially like to thank you the team, for providing us, the student body, with many thrills and the excitement that evolves from watching good soccer, and for the job you did in getting the campus to unite and rally behind you.

Coach Sumner Joyce hosted his Keene State College soccer team at a party in their honor at his home Thursday night.

SOCCER TEAM — The Keene State Soccer team was the guest of their coach, Sumner Joyce, at an informal party held at his home last Thursday night.

Mr. Joyce praised his squad for the fine job they did in compiling a commendable nine win, two loss season. Then he passed out the varsity letters and refreshments were served. They closed out the evening in an extremely appropriate manner — by watching a soccer game on television.

An opportunity for archaeological study and research in England is now offered to college students wanting to spend next summer in Europe. This program is being offered by The Association for Cultural Exchange, an independent, non-political and non-profit organization, in Haverhill, England.

The program will be divided into two parts consisting of a three-week seminar for training in British archaeology and excavation techniques at Westminster College, Oxford, England and three or more weeks of digging at an archaeological site.

The total cost of the program to the student is $75, including round-trip air transportation from New York, excursions and accommodations at Westminster College and in the field.

Further information may be acquired by writing to Dr. John H. Slocum, United States Representative, Association for Cultural Exchange, 202 West 10th Street, New York, N. Y.

The closing date for applications is January 8, 1965.

King Speaks To Kappa Delta Pi

Following the regular business meeting of Kappa Delta Pi, National Honor Fraternity, K. V. King spoke to the group on the subject 3 x 1 = Δ. Mr. King explained that the triangle is an equivalent one with interdependent sides. The triangle represents the triad of life, living, and good life. One side of the triangle is the body, the second side the mind, and the third side the spirit.

According to Mr. King the base of your triangle depends on your environment, interest, ability and skill. If you let the base become more important than the sides, your triangle will be lopsided. Mr. King gave some suggestions to intellectuals as an outsider. As he put it, there are other ways to measure intelligence besides the IQ tests. There is also physical, social and creative intelligence.

B + Rating Received By KSC Kronicle

By RICHARD DOYLE

The 1964 Kronicle has been awarded a B+ rating by the National School Yearbook Association (NSYA). The Kronicle was competing with all other college yearbooks having a fall publication date.

A B+ rating means "very good to excellent" and entitles the Kronicle to a certificate of merit given only to books that receive a B rating or higher. This is the highest rating the Kronicle has received in recent years.

All color in the '64 Kronicle was rated excellent, as were the dividers. The special dedication to Dr. Young was recognized for its thorough research and effective design. The faculty section was judged good although the judges recommended less light-streaked pictures and the use of professor's educational backgrounds next to their names.

The "Keene Life" section was especially praised because it showed student life at KSC, but the NSYA recommended the use of headlines, not labels, for Mayoralty, MERP, and Plays.

The organizations Section was judged very good, although the NSYA recommended less group shots and more pictures of clubs in session. The candid pictures in the Fraternity Section were judged good.

"A complete report" was the rating the Sports Section received, and the picture on page 100 received special praise as an excellent action shot.

The senior section received an excellent rating because of the block layout of the portraits and candid.

Recommendations of the '65 staff are trying to follow are: more headlines, less labels when introducing pages; effective use of white space and inclusion of a curriculum section showing classes in session.

The staff of the '65 Kronicle is essentially the same as last year. Dick Doyle and Bill Arnott are in their second year as Editors. Annamaria Richter is associate editor. Bill Perron replaces Sue Ladeau as business manager; Barbara Loughlin is the Keene Life editor; Pat Perrin is graduate editor, assisted by Arlene Pirozzi; Glenna Mize is organizations editor.

The photography staff has a new addition, Ralph Granger. Walt Gobin and Bob Kenney are back from last year. Daylene White is art designer; Dave Parkinson, sports editor; Beverly Kovacs is in charge of fraternities; and Mary Ellen French is copy editor. Mr. Jones and Mr. Taylor are advisors for the second year.

NEW ART GALLERY — Thorne Art Gallery, donated by Mrs. Robb Sargendorph, is scheduled for completion in May, 1965. The gallery will house exhibitions from the Smithsonian Institute and other institutions and galleries, as well as donated art from local painters and sculptors.

New Thorne Art Gallery Will Open In May, 1965

By Ernest Hebert

The unfinished Keene State College Art Gallery will open formally in May of 1965, Mrs. Robb Sargendorph of Dublin, N. H., said Monday.

The money for the gallery was donated by Mrs. Sargendorph in honor of her deceased mother, Mrs. George Thorne. Mrs. Thorne of Chicago Ill. and Dublin was a patron of the Arts and interested in helping artists.

The art gallery which is a wing of the library was originally to have opened in October, however, construction problems on the building have delayed its completion until Spring. If it is finished ahead of the present schedule, there is the possibility that it may open before its official dedication date in May.

'The Flying Dutchman'

Known as "the Flying Dutchman," Mr. Oltmans is Netherlands-born and Yale-educated. For the past decade he has covered the major world news events for United Press International and various Dutch, European and Asian news periodicals. Via his Dutch passport, he is able to visit many areas normally out of bounds to American reporters — such as Cuba where, in early 1964, he made his sixth trip since Castro took over. In recent months he has covered Asia, Africa, the Near East and Latin America and has plans to visit Africa, Indonesia, India and Communist China this summer.

Previously scheduled to speak here on October 15, Mr. Oltmans had to cancel his engagement due to illness. His appearance here is part of the Forum Lecture '64 program which is jointly sponsored by Keene State College and the Keene Regional Forum.

Gallery Plans

Membership in the American Federation of Arts will enable the Gallery to show traveling exhibits by the Museum of Modern Art, in New York, the Smithsonian Institute, in Washington, and many other museums throughout the country. Also, plans for showings by New Hampshire and New England Artists are under way.

Thanks to donations, the gallery has already accumulated many important permanent pieces, which it intends to exhibit, said Mrs. Sargendorph. The first painting acquired by the Thorne Gallery was done in Egypt by the late Joseph Lindon Smith. It was donated by his widow. Mr. Smith was formerly connected with the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

Barry Faulkner of Keene, well-known for his murals, has donated one of his drawings to the college. Mrs. Alexander James is giving a painting by her late husband. Many of Mr. James' paintings are owned by museums all over the United States.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne, aunt of Mrs. Sargendorph, and renowned throughout the country for her displays of Miniature Rooms at the Art Institute in Chicago, has donated one of these miniature rooms to the gallery. A small piece of Scrimshaw, similar to some in the collection of the late President Kennedy, has been acquired. And Mrs. Hermon Dunlap Smith has presented a design of stained glass.

Outside The Gallery

Outside the gallery will be a metal sculpture by David Lee Brown of the Worcester Arts Center, and some kinetic sculpture by George Rieky. (Cont. on Page Two)

Plans Are Made For KSC Queen Pageant

A fifty dollar scholarship and wardrobe are just some of the prizes that will be awarded to the winner of the Miss Keene State College Pageant which will be held on February 11, 1965 in Spaulding Gymnasium.

The official announcement of Miss KSC will not take place until Saturday evening at the Carnival Ball. At approximately 10:00 p.m., Miss Keene State College 1965 will be revealed along with the runners-up.

Competition

The pageant itself will be held on Thursday, Feb. 11, 1965. The competition will entail bathing suit, evening gown, talent, and intellectual contests. It is franchised as a legal Miss America Preliminary Contest by the Miss New Hampshire Pageant through the ty, and the Union Leader Fund, Inc. State Pageant Director, Meg, Geraghty.

The pageant will commence at approximately four in the afternoon with the bathing suit competition. This phase of the pageant will be closed to all students with only the judges in attendance. A banquet will be held at the Thoreau Room of the Crystal Restaurant at 5:30 p.m., where the judges and candidates will meet informally. The evening program will begin at 8:00 p.m. with evening gown competition. This will be followed by the talent and intellect competition.

The winner of the title of Miss Keene State College will represent Keene State College at the Miss New Hampshire Pageant on May 14, 1965, where she may become the state titlist and earn the right to compete in the Miss America Pageant in September of 1965. Margaret Wass, a freshman in 1961-62 won the state title in 1962 and in national competition won the title of Miss Congeniality, and a scholarship of $1000.00.

Six Types Of Women

Lenora S. Slaughter, Miss America Pageant Director, has stated that six types of young women enter into Miss America Pageants. She mentions the ambitious girl who is interested in furthering her chosen career through higher education and special training as well as the girl who wishes to be a leader in her community. There is also the girl who recognizes the pageant as an educational program which can benefit future generations and wishes to encourage its continuance. The fourth type of young woman recognizes the merit of representing her community (or college) as an ideal American girl who would be proud to represent her state of her nation in the same capacity. There is likewise the young lady who appreciates the value of a scholarship to help the family budget, even though college has not been denied her and the young woman who is willing to share her talents with her community, thus gaining recognition of her ambition for a specialized career. Miss Slaughter further stated that a girl may gain much from the experience that she will receive from competing in local, state, and national pageants.

Class Representative

During the next week, each of the four classes will hold class meetings. At this time, a representative of the KSC Pageant Committee will discuss the pageant with them and then nominations and the election of four girls from each class will follow.

"Bill Haggerty, Miss Keene State College Pageant Director, urges all girls not to turn down the nomination if they are asked to represent their class. If talent competition makes you hesitant, the Miss KSC Pageant Committee will meet with all candidates upon their selection and assist the candidates in developing a talent suitable to each girl, Haggerty said. (Cont. on Page Four)

Rare Disease

A disease is reported to be spreading among the members of Theta Chi Delta Fraternity. Symptoms were first detected about two weeks ago when sufferers began to miss classes and neglect homework. The epidemic is expected to rage for the next two weeks, especially during the weekends. Medical science is no help. The cause of this disease is lurking in the woods.

The brothers of Theta have been stricken by "buck fever" - Hunting season began in New Hampshire November 15 and will last until December 10.

All Intercollegiate Music Competition

The Fourth Annual Intercollegiate Music Competition, sponsored by the Student Union of Lycoming College, will be held at Lycoming in Williamsport, Pennsylvania, on March 25 and 26, 1965. This annual affair provides an opportunity for college vocal and instrumental groups to compete for cash awards totaling 6800.00, as well as trophies, and other prizes.

The Grand Prize winner for 1964 was The Only Two, a folk group from Dartmouth College. Other winners were The Rum Runners from Lehigh University and The City Folk from Bucknell University. These winners in previous years will not be eligible to compete in the 1965 I.M.C.

Instrumental groups of less than full orchestra size will compete on one evening. Prizes of $250.00, $100.00, and $50.00 will be awarded for these winning groups. Any style of music is permitted, except "rock and roll".

Vocal groups, both folk and popular, will compete on the second night for identical prizes.

Two previous winners in the I.M.C. are now professional groups. The Tradewinds were the grand prize winners of the First I.M.C. in 1962. The City Folk won in the 1963 and 1964 I.M.C. and have been seen on television this past summer.

For further information on the 1965 I.M.C., groups may write to I.M.C., Box 39, Lycoming College, Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

'Hat Dance' To Open Union

"Hat Dance" will be sponsored by the Social Committee on Saturday Dec. 5. The dance will be the first to be held in the Student Union, Carbone said.

The hats were suggested by Pat Perrin at a recent meeting, and after a brief discussion it was decided that no one will be admitted without a hat of some type. There will be a $5 prize for the most original hat.

Ronnie and the Hornets will provide the dance music.

The Monadnock

POINT OF ORDER

Several matters have arisen recently concerning the Student Union which need to be brought to your attention.

First, it is very noticable that a great deal of work has been done on this building and that a great deal more is needed before it can be completed. To accomplish this it is necessary to have money. Many of the students have managed to pay the $10 which they pledged but there is still $3,899 left in unpaid pledges.

It was brought to your attention earlier this semester that at the beginning of next semester a five dollar ($5) assessment will be put on your college bill to cover some of the costs of the Student Union. This assessment will be made on all students.

With the money which has already been spent some extremely nice furniture has been bought, more is needed; it might be wise if a few more people would give this furniture proper use. In less than one month it is already being abused. Students, who evidently were brought up to walk on furniture, have been putting their feet on the couches and tables.

The Union Board of Control has made the stipulation that any group which wishes to use the facilities of the Union building for a dance or program must get permission from the Board.

The art contest, for the walls of the snack bar, has been extended until Jan. 7, 1965. The suggestions and designs should be placed in the Student Union Committee mail box in Hale building or can be given to Patricia Perrin.

Tufts Elected New President

William Tufts, a Keene State College senior, was elected president of the newly-formed Young Republican Club. Also elected to office at the Nov. 19 meeting were Edward Sutherland, vice-president and Harriet Babcock, secretary. Donald Loughrie, a faculty member at the college, was named as the advisor.

"The elections are temporary," said Tufts, a transfer student. "A regular election will be held around the first of the year, when the club members have become better acquainted."

"The club will hold a brief meeting once a week," Tufts said. Tufts started a successful Young Republican Club in Florida, while attending St. Petersburg Junior College.

The Young Republican Club at Keene State College, originated by Sutherland, held its first meeting Nov. 5.

Democrats Are Still Active

Even though the election is over, Keene State's Young Democrats are still quite active. They are planning debates with neighboring colleges and intend to have prominent public officials as speakers at their future meetings.

Now that the election is over, meetings will be held on Wednesday of the second week of each month, the time and place to be announced beforehand.

This year's activities include the adoption of a constitution and establishment of a bulletin board. So far, the club has had three speakers, Gerard Russell, county Democratic chairman, Devoit, New Hampshire Youth for Johnson coordinator, and Charles B. Officer, Democratic candidate for congress.

The club members also actively participated in the local, state, and national Democratic campaigns.

Mayer's Voice

The Social Committee held a special meeting Monday, November 23, to plan some activity for this coming weekend.

At this meeting it was decided to have a dance in the Student Union Saturday night, December 5th with "Ronnie and the Hornets." There will be no admission, but in order to be admitted you will have to wear some sort of a hat to the dance.

There will be a $5.00 door prize for the person wearing the most original hat.

There was a regular meeting of the Social Committee held Monday, November 30. At this meeting the social committee decided unanimously to accept the franchise concerning our winter carnival week.

Next week is a busy week on the Social Calendar:

Thursday, Dec. 10: Open House Girls dorms.

Friday, Dec. 11: All college party at the K of C Hall.

Saturday, Dec. 12: Christmas Semi Formal in the Student Union.

Sunday, Dec. 13: Christmas Concert by Chorus in Spaulding Gym.

The following weekend everyone will be heading home for Christmas vacation.

So I hope that those events sponsored by different clubs and organizations are well attended because they are put on for your enjoyment.

Mr. Rickey is the sculpturer of "Land, scape" which caused much favorable comment when it was exhibited in London in 1963.

A cloisonne enamel and bronze plaque has been made for the art gallery by Mr. Joseph Trippetti, who is connected with League of N.H. Arts and Crafts.

Mrs. Sagendorph is the wife of Robb Sagendorph, publisher of the "Yankee Magazine" and the "Old Farmers Almanac" in Dublin. She, herself a painter, has done a number of covers for the "Yankee".

$10 Million Library For Northwestern

Evanston, Ill.—(I.P.)—Northwestern University will erect a boldy conceived $10 million "laboratory" library incorporating educational and architectural concepts establishing it as the intellectual capital of the University and a new 74-acre campus now under construction in Lake Michigan.

Consisting of three separate but interconnecting research pavilions, each rising four stories above a broad plaza, the new library will embrace a total area of 337,000 square feet of tailor-made space for:

Radial rather than linear arrangements of books and resources, spreading like sunbursts from central information centers.

Working collections and storage facilities capable of handling more than two million volumes.

Readers will move from the card catalogue near the main library entrance, through a single control point, to elevators which lead up to the research collections in each pavilion. Intermingled in the pavilions will be private study carrels which will enable students to work near their research material. On each floor, books will radiate from the center in every direction in order to make them more accessible to readers than they are in the traditional linear stacks.

Student-Faculty Work Space: 2,200 undergraduates, 800 graduates, and study in the library at one time, at 200 faculty members will be able to least half of them in individual carrels. The library's flexibility will also allow its undergraduate-graduate seating capacity to be altered to any percentage future enrollment increases may make necessary.

The "core" collection will be a library within a library. It will serve particularly upperclass majors, although graduate students and faculty members also will make use of these resources. The University faculty jointly with the librarians will select the 50,000 to 75,000 books which are to go into the "core" library. It will represent the distillation of the best of human knowledge, according to the eight-member Library Committee.

The original inhabitants of the island were mostly Chinese from the Fukien province. Mr. Chang said, Taiwan was occupied, however, by the Japanese, for nearly 50 years, and was liberated only after the end of World War II.

When the Chinese mainland was taken over by the Communists, in 1949, the government of the Republic of China under Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, took refuge on Taiwan. "Though fifteen years have elapsed since then" he commented, "the people on the island are still full of hope that someday they can rejoin their families and friends."

"When the people first came to the island, they encountered some resistance from the Taiwanese. Because of the long Japanese occupation, the inhabitants no longer spoke Mandarin Chinese. Today, it is generally recognized that the people are all of Chinese origin, and the problem is largely one of re-education to promote unity," Mr. Chang said. "As the people become better educated, more progress can be made."

Private telephones are still a luxury, but public phones are abundant, he said. "It only costs about two cents (American money) to make a local call on the island," he remarked, "and there's no time limit!"

New Suggestions

Dear Editors:

I would like to commend you for your recent editorial (The Monadnock, Thursday, Nov. 19) which pointed out the deplorable condition of most of the bulletin boards on campus. I am glad to observe that you offered several constructive suggestions for solving this problem. Most people who have trouble finding notices on our bulletin board simply swear at them.

I am going to put forward several suggestions for regulations that might solve the congestion on our bulletin boards. In the interest of clarity I will borrow a few suggestions from your own editorial. I do not know who is normally in charge of the bulletin boards but I hope that if enough student interest is aroused, something will be done about the situation.

1. A student or a committee of students should be responsible for keeping all the bulletin boards on campus clear of old posters and notices.

2. A maximum poster size limit should be placed on each board.

3. No poster should be allowed to cover any other poster in any manner that might obscure the meaning of the covered poster.

4. All posters should have indicated on them the following information:

A) The date the poster was put up.

B) The date on which the poster may be removed.

C) The name of the persons responsible for putting up the posters.

5. Those in charge of the boards should be empowered to remove immediately any poster which does not meet the standards set in items 2, 3, and 4.

6. The size limit on posters (item 2) should be waived only by a release granted by the entire Social Committee.

7. The decisions made by the students in charge of the bulletin boards, under item 5, i.e. to remove posters, should be reviewed only by the Student Council or Social Committee on an application by the persons who put up the poster.

I hope that these suggestions will be helpful and that other students will make comments and suggestions on the problem.

Sincerely yours,
Daniel Pelletier

LIBRARIAN — Gerald Chang, KSC librarian, comes from Taiwan (Formosa). Mr. Chang taught English in a girl's school in Taipei before coming to this country.

Librarian Chang Speaks; Taiwan Ready To Attack

By Ann Conway

Among the new faces on campus this year is that of Gerald Chang, one of Keene State's librarians. Mr. Chang comes from Taiwan (Formosa) and was formerly an instructor in English at Taipei Second Girls' High School.

Mr. Chang describes Taiwan as a leaf-shaped semi-tropical island, located about 100 miles southeast of the Chinese mainland at the closest point. It is approximately 400 miles from Okinawa and 230 miles from the Philippines. Taiwan (Its Portuguese name — Formosa — means "beautiful island") has an area of 13,832 square miles, and a population of about 12 million in 1963.

The original inhabitants of the island were mostly Chinese from the Fukien province. Mr. Chang said, Taiwan was occupied, however, by the Japanese, for nearly 50 years, and was liberated only after the end of World War II.

KSC Library Fines Lower Than UNH's

By PETER O'CONNOR

"The Keene State College Library is quite liberal in its policies," Miss Marion L. Goodwin, Chief Librarian said.

"The present library fines on reserve books consist of 25 cents for the first hour late, and then 10 cents for each additional hour," Miss Goodwin said. "Our fines on reserve books are not as great as those of the library of the University of N.H., The fine of 5 cents per day late on regular books corresponds to the policies of the UNH library."

"The fines on late books amount to about $50.00 per month," Miss Goodwin said. "This money is used to cover the cost of sending out the late notices through the mail. Many libraries wait as long as two weeks before sending their notices. The students probably don't realize that the campus library is giving them a valuable service by only waiting four or five days before sending out late notices. This saves the students money and makes these books available earlier to other people."

"Approximately 1 per cent of the libraries books are on reserve," Miss Goodwin said. "The instructor's determine the length of time a book can be taken out. The library feels that fines encourage students to bring back the books on time. We feel that this policy has been very effective."

carded by the United States, Mr. Chang said and added "the troops still plan to attack the mainland, if the U. S. Seventh Fleet, ever lets them try."

Mr. Chang received his bachelor of arts degree from Taiwan Normal University, then taught for three years in Taipei, the capital.

His field, English, is taught as a foreign language beginning at the junior high level, he said, in addition to the regular courses in Mandarin, social studies, and math.

Then, he made application for an exit permit to study abroad. After a careful screening by his government, and after passing another scholastic examination, he was allowed to come to the United States.

Mr. Chang received his master's degree in library science from Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, last August.

Respectful Students

"Classes are very different here," he said, "In Taiwan the student is very quiet. The students respect their teachers as they do their parents, because they believe what Confucius says: 'Parents give you food only, but teachers give you thought!'"

Librarian Studies

Quite a few of the Chinese who leave Taiwan to study in the United States choose library science, Mr. Chang said. This is one area in which there was no training or degree in Taiwan, until 1962, he concluded.

Problems Of Producing 'Blithe Spirit' Discussed

By DANIEL PELLETIER

What makes a play?

To produce the play "Blithe Spirit," it took the combined efforts of about 30 people to stage three nights of performance. The activity extended over a period of more than eight weeks. Only seven of the people involved in the production were the actual actors.

During the first month the actors rehearsed between seven and ten thirty on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday nights. On Saturday rehearsals were held in the morning and in the afternoon, from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 5. Rehearsals during the last three weeks of the production schedule were held every weekday night. The Saturday rehearsals were also maintained. This was only the formal schedule. Every actor was expected to work on his lines and stage movements during every free moment.

The technical crew's hours were neither as strenuous nor as well defined. A member of the production crew could be, and was, called on to work at any time.

An important part of the technical work was building the set. The set design had to be chosen before any work could begin at all. Then the crews cleared the stage and wings, painted the scenic flats, put up and braced the skeleton set, put down the rug and began the search for set and hand props. This was all done during the day to keep from interfering with the actors' rehearsal schedule.

The fireplace, paneling, molding, door and French windows had to be put up and painted. The furniture started coming in and the set was nearly ready for dress rehearsal. The sofa, chairs, and tables were placed on the stage. The curtains and pictures were put on the "walls" of the set and books were put into the bookcase. When the stage was complete except for the smaller hand props, the special effects crew began experimenting.

While the stage was being readied and the actors were learning their parts, other groups were at work. The business manager and his assistants were selling tickets for the Saturday night performance. A publicity crew designed and printed posters and programs, and prepared several press releases. The house manager set up the theatre and selected ushers. Those responsible for make-up and costume attended rehearsals to prepare for their tasks.

During the two weeks preceding the performances it became the task of the stage manager to merge the actors and the stage crew into a working whole.

Staging a successful play requires many things. Everyone must work together well. The actors do their part, and everything back stage must work smoothly, too. The curtains must be opened and closed. The lights must be worked and set on cue. Set changes must be made in the available time, a maximum of 50 seconds between the scenes. Sound cues and special effects must be run on time, and backup tapes and recorders have to be ready.

When the week of the production came, the community and student box-offices had to be staffed. Invitations were sent to student and community leaders asking them to attend the "Preview" dress rehearsal. These people were asked to make comments about the performance to help with the final polishing of the show. Many of these comments were helpful; a few pointed out the obvious, and some were hilarious.

The three performances were not routine, either for the actors or the stage crew. Several minor crises developed, but by the end of the last performance everything and everybody was working smoothly.

The last act for any play production is the "Strike Party." As soon as the play ends, the dismantling of the set begins. Both the stage crew and the actors work together at this task. The set comes down, the flats are stacked, the props put aside, the stage is swept, and the crews and actors disperse. For "Blithe Spirit," work began a little after 11:30 p.m. and ended just before 1 a.m. on Sunday.

OWLHOOTS

By Winky Basoukas

The 1964-65 version of the Keene State College Basketball Team opens its season this Friday night with a game against Johnson, Vt. at Johnson.

The Owls hope to start out on a winning note and to improve on last year's dismal 3-15 record.

Leading Keene will be three year veteran starter Jack Putney. Putney, a 6' 3", 190 lb. guard from Manchester, N. H., has for the past three seasons led Keene in scoring, and, barring the shackles of injury which have plagued him in the past, could go on to be one of the all-time scoring greats in Keene history.

The remainder of the starting quintet remains to be chosen as players continue to vie for starting berths. Two veterans, 5' 11" George Bachi, and 5' 6" Rog Cloutier, both also from Manchester, are fighting it out for the open guard spot. Cloutier is the fastest man on the squad and possesses cat-quick reflexes while Bachi has one of the finest jump-shots in the league and is a steady defensive ballplayer. At the forward slots two Keene High products, 6' 2" Joe Giovannangeli and 6' 1" Tim Brown, seem to have the inside on the starting berths. Giovannangeli, a two year starter, is one of the quickest shooting ballplayers around, and Brown, the current record holder for most points scored in a single game by a Keene player (41), came into his own at midseason last year and is constantly improving. At center Ken Cody appears to have the starting nod. At 6' 6 1/2" Cody, another Manchester ballplayer, should prove an asset to Keene's fortunes.

The remainder of the squad are returning veterans Kernal Claffin, 6' 2", Brattleboro, Vt., Hardy "Bad News" Nalley, 6' 1", Manchester, Mass., and two promising freshmen, 5' 6" Dennis Bosse, Milford, N. H., and 6' 2" Tom Sumner, Hudson, N. H.

The 1964-65 Basketball Schedule is as follows:

Ecumenics Give A Thanksgiving Party

On November 22, 11 members of the Ecumenics at KSC gave a Thanksgiving Party for handicapped children. It was held at the Cedar Crest Home for the Handicapped and Emotionally Disturbed in Westmoreland.

Rev. Gemmell said the students entertained the children and served refreshments.

The Ecumenics plan to give a Christmas Party at Cedar Crest.

The only stipulations for candidacy are that the contestant must be a student at KSC and be between the ages of 18 and 28 years of age. She must never have been married, divorced, or had a marriage annulled. The contestant may be either amateur or professional.

Other members of the Miss KSC Pageant Committee include Judith Mitchell and Patricia Miles, Assistant Pageant Directors; John Bennett, Production Manager; Carol Ann Mooney, Winter Carnival Queen 1964; Beth Prokopovitch, Dedre Ryerson, Richard Swasey, Jeffrey Stevens, and Howard Boynton.

Judges announced to the present time include Miss Elizabeth Emerson, Miss New Hampshire of 1964; and Meg Geraghty, Miss New Hampshire Pageant Director.

Sitzmark Ski Team Plans Weekend Clinic

The teaching section of the ski team plans to ski this weekend! Contrary to rumor, we are not really going to Alaska. Coach King said Wednesday noon that we would not travel any further than Killington for snow. (Don't bet on it!)

Dec. 12 and 13, unless we get a week of summer temperatures, the team will be skiing at home base—Ascutey—on man-made snow.

The Women's Intercollegiate Ski Council clinic is rapidly shaping up. Co-captain Joyce Devine said that U-Mass., Wellsley, and Simmons College have indicated a desire to participate. There are others yet to be heard from. This is the first year any such clinic has been run, and so far, the idea has been received with enthusiasm.

Sixteen men and 15 women are on the eligibility list for racing this year. In addition to last year's racers, the freshman talent looks promising, and with good snow and a fair share of the inevitable "breaks", K.S.C. should turn in a good record this season.

All we need now is the snow, and the K.S.C. ski team will be the first to head for the slopes!

JOE JUMPS — Under the basket is Joe Giovannangeli, shown in a pre-season scrimmage between the Owls and Keene High School. Giovannangeli has started on the varsity team for two years.

NOTICE

Don't forget to get your suggestions in for a theme for Winter Carnival. The deadline for submitting your theme is Dec. 15. There is a $15. prize for the theme that is selected.

$5,000. Science Grant Is Given By Foundation

By JEFF PARSONS

Keene State College received a $5,000.00 science grant, and a monument from the Gravity Research Foundation this morning at a convocation held in Spaulding Gymnasium. Soloist Robert Nute started with the Lord's Prayer, Rev. Fay L. Gemmell read the 23rd Psalm, and Dr. Arthur J. Giovannangeli introduced the guests and speakers.

After the address by Dr. H. Dwight Carle, a trustee of the foundation, Pres. Zorn was presented with the grant by Dr. George Rideout. Dr. Rideout is the president of the Babson Report's, and president of the Gravity Research Foundation. The assembly then moved to the front of Butterfield Building for the unveiling and dedication.

Dr. Carle was a professor at KSC, Chairman of the Science Department, Dean of Men, and Dean of Instruction. He is a trustee of the Mid-West Institute in Kansas. He spoke about the life of Roger W. Babson, founder of the Gravity Research Foundation.

Babson was a graduate of M.I.T., and he did his masters thesis on gravity. After graduation he speculated in stocks, and was financially successful. He founded the Babson Institute, busi-

"It is nice to be excited once in a while, but don't get nervous about things," said Willem L. Oltmans. This man is the well known journalist, the Flying Dutchman, who spoke at the third, and last lecture in the 1964 Forum Lecture series. This lecture was presented Tuesday night in Spaulding Gymnasium and was jointly sponsored by the Keene Regional Forum and Keene State College. Mr. Oltmans topic was "Trouble Spots in Focus."

He was referring to a fact that he had pointed out earlier, "The United States gets so excited about communists that they drive people to communism."

"When you support a Batista, (to keep communism out of Latin America), you unify those opposed to him," he said.

"We have been having urgent talks with the leaders of South Viet Nam for eight years, but the people are fed up. They want us to get out. The people of South Viet Nam couldn't care less whether they go communist. They are tired of war," Mr. Oltmans said.

"The communists were willing to wait," he said, "until the people were tired of war."

"Our program is inconsistent. How can we ally ourselves with right wing dictators, but condemn the left wing dictators?"

"It won't work," stated Mr. Oltmans in answer to his own question.

"I do not believe that we, (the East and West), can afford to kill each other. If you can't kill a man," he said, "you might as well talk to him."

Fraternities Plan Greek Weekend

The Inter-Fraternity Council will no longer sponsor Mayoralty at Keene State College. At a meeting held by the IFC Nov. 16 at Kappa Delta Phi a "Greek Weekend" was suggested to be sponsored by the IFC to replace Mayoralty.

The reason given for this suggestion was the lack of interest by the student body in Mayoralty and its high cost to the IFC. The suggestion was tabled to allow for discussion in the respective houses.

APATHY

Brezhnev, Kossygin, Kadar, Gomulka, Wilson, Ben Bella, Phan Khac Suu, Pearson, Branco, Frei; who are these men? What do they do? What nations do they govern today? Mali, Haiti, Burma, Cambodia, Paraguay; where are these nations? How do they affect everyday life in the U.S.?

Most of the student pseudo-intellectuals on this campus couldn't care less about the innumerable problems that swamp the government of the U.S. as it tries to deal with foreign nations and their personalities. They could care less if Cambodia were in South America or Paraguay in Africa. They don't give a hoot if Ben Bella takes millions from the U.S. and then spends a large amount of this money on the crooks that enable him to stay in power in a nation that is ravaged with famine and anarchy. And they smile when they hear that America has just lost another battle with "The General of France" over tariffs on an article such as shoes.

Because of their provincial concern with what happened on the "A" field last night and who Jane went out with last Friday night, they are slowly causing this great nation, that thousands of their ancestors have fought to preserve, to go the way of all nations that thought of nothing other than a good life, and a lot of pleasure. We may be, on the surface, a shining example of a healthy democratic nation but we are slowly rotting on the inside because of our apathy.

Tuesday a distinguished journalist who has travelled to most of the 115 nations on earth visited KSC and a shocking, fantastically small fraction of the students enrolled in this "institution of higher education" had enough concern for something other than themselves to face the ice coated sidewalks leading to the gym.

Why? Could it be because of apathy? Or wasn't the student body informed of his visit? Do the students read the campus newspaper? Do they listen to radios? Do they read the bulletin boards? If any of the students on this campus opened their eyes and ears they might be aware of such activities.

Those students that did attend had an enjoyable experience and left the forum with all sorts of questions and ideas in their minds. They were stimulated into thinking.

ness schools in Florida and Kansas, established the "open door" policy in churches, and has given much financial support to medical research.

When he attended his 50th reunion, he found that no new gravity research had been started. It was then that he thought of a foundation for gravity research.

The first members of the foundation went to Einstein to seek advice on what could be done to promote research. They wanted to set up labs and hire scientists, but Einstein said that there were enough labs available, and that they, "should get the gravity quest off the scientific shelf."

The president of M.I.T. said they should set up centers where information could be assimilated. "In 15 years of the foundation's existence, the results have been beyond expectation. Airplane companies, for example, spend millions every year trying to develop anti-gravity devices," Dr. Carle said.

Most of the discoveries concerning gravity were made by men under thirty. It is for this reason that the foundation has been trying to arouse interest at the college level. Monuments similar to the one on campus have been set up at many schools throughout the country.

Dr. Carle was personally instrumental in acquiring the grant for KSC, and the money is for scientific research not necessarily related to gravity. There is a waiting list of colleges every year for the grant, but only one grant per year is awarded.

The View from Here

By JULIAN O'ROURKE

Enroute to the local pizzeria last Saturday night I could not fail to notice the multitudes of campus dwellers heading for the Union. Perhaps the most obvious of these were those who marched along to the tune of, "My Cup Runneth Over," this you see was the gala social event of the week-end.

I may be accused of narrow mindedness or even of being satisfied with the weekends on campus, (horror to end all horrors), but this does seem to have gone a bit overboard in our attempts to reconstruct our high school days.

Next weekend we will be sponsoring a cookie sale. Anyone may attend, but all who do will have to display a red hankie to gain admittance.

Looking around for brighter bits of news, we come to Fiske Hall. Here we find that the ladies, in a frenzy of self discipline have found it necessary to refuse the later hours so graciously offered by the administration. It would seem that many of the ladies in residence there do not feel that they are mature enough to accept the responsibilities of college women.

It is not often in this age that one finds such a commendable stand on such a controversial moral issue. In these times of social leprosy we must continue to grope for a righteous deliverance from this decadence.

Lastly we come to the basketball team, it hardly seems possible that in a college the size of K.S.C. that there are only 6 people who can play basketball. Now even Normal School students can not be expected to believe that only 4%, (or 6) of the college population is made up of motor morons.

It cannot be denied that we do have a basketball team, but when the situation reaches a point at which we will no longer have a team simply because there are not enough players to go around, I must shout neigh.

This was the case Monday night when the team was given the opportunity to disband if they thought that K.S.C. should not have a varsity basketball team.

It is interesting to note that one of the reasons given at this meeting for the continuance of the team is the fact that the cheerleaders have new uniforms this year and we can not leave them without a team to cheer for. It is obvious, even to this casual observer that this approach is not typical procedure in most colleges. We do however, continue to run in the same old track that we have been in since the beginning of the year.

Somehow we have come to have more interest in the cheerleaders than we have for the team. It's a pity that the cheerleaders can't play because we might be able to have a winning season.

Many of you will recognize the retardation of this situation. Is it not then equally retarded to have a team even partially because the cheerleaders will be in style?

This is not the only reason given Monday night, it is but one of many, but even it's consideration is foolish.

Regardless of the reason we do have a team, why don't we give them a little support and interest? We can all rest assured that the interest shown will be as little as possible, and this brings us to the major maladjustment that plagues the whole college. But, my being basically an optimist brings to mind the immortal words of Angelina Popofnick, "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

LETTERS

To the Editors:

I understand that the lady who successfully banned prayers in schools has filed another suit to be tested by the Supreme Court. In this suit all Churches, Synagogues and places of worship would be required to pay taxes toward which they are now exempt. If acted upon this would undoubtedly bankrupt many churches. What a giant step in the right direction this would be toward giving us a firm base to further undermine the strength of religions, thereby leading to the eventual destruction of the stifling, retarding idea of God. Therefore let us hope and pray—I mean let us hope for its approval by the Supreme Court.

From this decision I envision that the word God could eventually be abolished from all governmental use. This ancient superstition corrupts the minds of our children, is offensive to many sensitive atheists and agnostics, reflects a government with a spiritual dependency and, furthermore, it is unconstitutional. Certainly, our founding father meant the word God to be used in a strict academic sense, not to deify coins with it, or to pollute the classroom with it. Were they alive today, our forefathers would champion a reevaluation of common expressions which have crept seditiously into our culture. "Great God, our king," (America) could be changed to "Great Gadsdy, our king." "So help me God" (congressional oath of office) to "So help me Hanna." "This nation under God" (Gettysburg Address) to "This nation unaware." Or even, "God save the United States and this honorable court" (opening day of supreme court) to "Charlie save the United States and this honorable court." These filler words are excellent in taking the place of "God," because they are familiar and absolutely meaningless.

Here is another progressive measure: the FBI should infiltrate the churches and, for that matter, all religious organizations. After all we infiltrate the Communist Party and the Klu Klux Klan. Why not — oh say — the Salvation Army? Here is an organization which has uniforms, military bearing, a band and even calls itself an Army — right under our noses. Furthermore, by its war on poverty it is in direct competition with the President's war on poverty. Is this not subversion?

And what about the physiognomy of the churches themselves: they stick up obscenely in every city, town and village in the United States, giving us a black-like plainness of surrounding stores and apartment buildings, distracting from the beauty of traffic and the coolness of neon signs, a vicious reminder to our impressionable children of the existence of these foreign, un-American cults. They should be leveled! Or at least the government ought to make them knock their spires off, quiet those damn bells, cover their gothic windows and shroud their ionic pillars, so that they may blend in harmoniously with the inoffensive background and thereby lose their identity.

I have more plans. Make the Christians, Jews, etc. wear badges revealing the name of denomination and an assigned serial number for the individual; plus make them register at city hall. This would have a two-fold effect. Our children would be able to tell at a glance whom to associate with and whom to avoid; also by careful observation of registrations, it would be easy to keep an eye on the dangerous sects and take action accordingly.

Mayor's Voice

Fellow Students:

Due to circumstances beyond the control of the sophomore class, the class party scheduled for Friday night at the K of C camp would be held in the gym.

The reason for this change is the ruling that any minor attending the party drinking alcoholic beverages will be arrested on the spot with no questions asked!

People are beginning to think that a dance is the only activity this campus can have, but it isn't. I would appreciate any ideas from students and faculty on what can be done weekends. Please put these suggestions in the Social Committee mailbox in Hale Building.

Basketball games are now under way: next month is the first home game. Let's get out and show our spirit. This college in the past has been lacking in school spirit, I think a change is in store. How about you?

There is a correction to be made: Last week it was stated that an open house would be held this Thursday. This was a mistake, a movie "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" will be shown in the Student Union. The Open House in the girls dorms will be next Thursday, December 17, and a dance will follow in the Student Union until 11.

Mike Carbone
Mayor KSC

Holy Communion Services Cancelled

The Reverend William Hazlitt, the Episcopal Church's representative on campus, has announced that the Holy Communion services usually held on Thursday mornings at seven o'clock in the Student Union have been cancelled. They are now being held at five p.m. on Thursday at the local Episcopal church.

Reverend Hazlitt hopes that the new hours will enable more Episcopal students to attend weekly services and also revive the now defunct Canterbury Club.

I can hear them screaming now about freedom of religion. This is not violating freedom of religion: these laws would simply impose certain provisions to protect our freedom of non-religion — put things on an equal plain. Of course, a little harassment on our part won't hurt.

Party Moved To KSC Gym

At a meeting of the Sophomore class Monday night, it was decided that the class party scheduled for Friday night at the K of C camp would be held in the gym.

The change was due to an announcement to KSC mayor, Mike Carbone, by the police, that the party would be patrolled, and that cars coming and going would be stopped and inspected. Anyone under 21 transporting or under the influence of alcohol would be arrested, Carbone said.

Class president Doug MacDonald said that the administration was "ticked" because they had not been notified about the plans for the party. Also on the list of current problems was an announcement by the treasurer that if the class still had to fulfill their contract for the K of C camp, the class would go in the red. Everyone was urged to pay their dues as soon as possible.

The class re-elected Mrs. Croteau and Mr. Wheelock as class advisors. Bill Haggerty spoke to the class about selecting candidates for the Miss KSC Pageant. The class elected Deirdre Ryerson, Betsy Richardson, Sandy Nott, and Paula Knox, as their representatives. Sheila Moylan and Chris Horan were elected as alternates.

Heather Tweed Suit Wins Second Prize

Eleven girls from the two local high schools and KSC entered the regional "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest held on December 5, at Blake House.

Miss Edith Flanagan, a senior at KSC, won second prize with her heather tweed suit, consisting of a tailored jacket and straight skirt.

Miss Flanagan, along with three other division winners will travel to Vermont on Saturday, December 12, for the state contest.

Judging was based on accessories, color, fabric, fashion, fit, grooming, line poise, and over all effect.

U.S. Navy Recruiter To Visit Keene State

Lt. J. A. Wollam of the U.S. Navy's Aviation Officer Program will visit KSC, Wednesday, Dec. 16 through Saturday, Dec. 19, 1964.

He will discuss the different aspects of the Navy's program. He will be in the Student Union building between the hours of ten and two.

Lt. Wollam said, "During our last visit we encountered an increased interest in the N.A.O. program. I hope I'll see you sometime during my visit."

WILLEM L. OLTMANS: The Flying Dutchman, spoke to a small crowd at the third and last Forum Lecture Tuesday night. His talk was on the "Trouble Spots" in the news today.

I believe in "dialogue." All mankind is alike. We should spend one day talking to them now."

"Anybody who has fallen into the communist trap is trying to get out," said Mr. Oltmans. "But how are our children going to live with one billion Chinese when the oldsters have messed things up?"

"In Denmark, they believe in the system, an almost completely Socialized constitutional monarchy. One of Denmark's borders is slightly more than a hundred miles from the Iron Curtain but they don't get nervous. They don't even take their domestic communists, about two per cent of the population seriously, said Mr. Oltmans.

"I believe that we now have militant communists. But they will be civilized because they will want other things."

"I worry most about the youth of America," he said. "They will have to live with the Chinese and Latin Americans. The old people start trouble but it is the young people who have to pay."

Mr. Oltmans' advice to college students: "I do not care how you do it but go abroad so that you can understand what America is up against."

Mr. Oltmans devoted most of his attention to Asia. He discussed the problems of India and commented, "all India produces is hands and they are trying to automate their factories." He also said, "the mere threat of a Chinese invasion is enough to set India simmering."

These students were first selected by a faculty-student committee, then voted on by the upperclassmen. The guiding qualities were leadership and participation in extra-curricular and academic activities, excellence and sincerity in scholarship, citizenship and service to the school and a promise of future usefulness to business and society.

The idea of creating a national basis of recognition for college students originated about 30 years ago. After several years of research and correspondence with administrators, students and under-graduate organizations, it was decided that there was a need for such an institution. In 1934 the first "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges" was published.

The broader goals of "Who's Who" are to inspire greater intellectual efforts and set high standards as well as to reward students for outstanding achievement.

Newman Club Will Sponsor First Movie

Last night the Newman Club sponsored their first movie, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," at 7:30 in the Student Union. Father Vallee said. There was a short intermission during the show, and the snack bar was open.

Saturday, Dec. 12, the Newman Club "Christmas Cotillion," a semi-formal dance, will be held in the Student Union from 8 to 11:30. James Fletcher and his band will provide the music.

The Nativity scene, located in front of Hale Building, was donated by the Newman Club, to add a touch of Christmas spirit to the campus.

Last week, a Christmas program, consisting of the blessing and lighting of candles, a Gospel recitation by the president, Sheila Moylan, and singing of hymns was presented during a short meeting.

'Be You God?'

By REV. FAY GEMMELL

There's a story about a little poor kid in Chicago. He asked a man who once gave him five dollars for Christmas, "Be you God, mister?" That's a very similar question to the one men have asked about Jesus.

There are varying ways of answering, but as the Bible says, there is only one Spirit. People do feel it or find it — or however it does come. It can still happen; it can even be caught from somebody else. It's mighty contagious at Christmas.

You'll know when you're coming down with it, because right here on the campus of dear old KSC you'll hear that song in the air. It's a song the like of which has never been written. It disappears on paper because it's angel music. It can, however, be written on the heart. Its chorus has a way of ringing in your head. You'll never forget it. You'll never tire of it like one does of a hit tune.

I told you it couldn't be written down, but it goes something like "Peace on earth to men of good will."

OWLHOOTS

It isn't often a hillbilly like me has an opportunity to talk with a man who was, and in some respects still is, a nationally prominent sports figure, but the occasion of the Keene State-Boston State basketball game Tuesday night afforded that opportunity. "Jungle" Jim Loscutt, former Boston Celtic strongman in the days of Cousy and Sharman, is now the coach of the Boston State College basketball team.

A bit reluctant at first, I stepped into his office after the game, caught his eye, and evoked a laughing response by asking him if he saw any future Celtic material that night. The ice was broken, and Jim went on to say that he of course missed being with the Celtics, but that this coaching position offered a renewed but different and exciting challenge—a challenge he certainly welcomed. When asked if he had considered going back with the Celtics, Jim laughingly replied that he was too old!

Continuing in a more serious vein Jim said that the league looked like a good one this year, with Worcester perhaps the looming threat. Jim mentioned that his squad (No seniors, seven juniors, two sophomores and the rest freshmen) played Worcester and barely lost—at the foul line.

Jim further mentioned that a new Boston State building facility will soon be taking shape, and will include a new basketball court. He felt this would be a great asset in molding some Boston State teams in years to come.

Jim's basketball prowess and savoir-fair concerning beneath-the-basket activity seems to have rubbed off on his players, as Boston clearly outmaneuvered Keene in that area en route to a 93-71 victory.

Quite satisfied and a bit more at ease now, I thanked Jim for his kindness and cooperation and wished him luck. If Jim's personable attitude and competitive spirit are any indication of Boston State's basketball success, I'm sure luck will remain a very small part of it.

Dorms Decorated Residents Billed For Christmas Damages

"Women's residence halls will hold open house next Thursday, December 17," Sheila Sanborn, president of the Council of Women Students said today. "Visitors will be allowed in the dormitories from 7 to 9 p.m."

All houses will be decorated in traditional Christmas fashion, with lighted trees in the social rooms, and gaily bedecked doors, she said.

Part of the Christmas tradition at Keene State College is the lighted candles which the girls display in their windows. This year the colors are: Huntress - red, Fiske - green, Blake - blue, Stone, Holbrook & Kerr - yellow, and Eagle - mixed colors.

Following the open house, a Christmas dance will be held in the Student Union, from 9 to 11.

Mrs. Allie "Ma" Malsch, housemother at Monadnock Hall, said Tuesday night that the residents must pay for property damage that has occurred in the dormitory this semester. Each resident will be billed for 90 cents towards the $129 total.

Since September, an emergency light, a lavatory fixture and a light in one of the stairways has been destroyed. Another emergency light required extensive repairs.

Mrs. Malsch said that this is the first year that she has been able to collect directly from the students. Previously a state rule prohibited it. Now that KSC is a part of the University of New Hampshire, however, Mrs. Malsch can bill students for property damage.

Parking Rules Are Reiterated

Due to the limited parking facilities on the campus, and to promote efficiency and fairness, the following rules are in effect:

- All college personnel must register vehicles that will be parked on campus. The Business Office provides a numbered decal for each registration, and the KSC decal must be displayed on the back of the vehicle.
- Student vehicles will be assigned to individual parking spaces upon advance payment of $5.00 per semester. Faculty and staff must also register vehicles, display decals, and park in designated places.
- Unregistered vehicles and any improperly parked vehicles are subject to campus fines of $1.00 per violation. If necessary vehicles will be towed away, and owners are liable for the $3.00 towage charge. Keene city police also supervise campus streets and will issue parking tickets for municipal fines.

Sitzmark KSC Ski Team Visits Slopes At Stratton

Sixteen eager skiers rolled out of bed early Saturday morning, and headed for Stratton Mountain on the first trip of the year with the Ski Team. The snow was good, for the first of the season, Sunday morning saw 14 skiers going to Ascutney. Every one was a little rusty, but enthusiastic, and there were a minimum of complaints about sore muscles, and aching joints — so it looks like conditioning paid off.

The men's racing team won't be competing until Jan. 30, when we have a NEISC meet at Middlebury, but two eager beavers were at the Keene Country Club Monday afternoon, and they weren't playing golf. Jeff Proctor and Eddie Olson had their own version of an Olympic slalom course set up on the fairway of the 17th hole.

This weekend some members of the team will be at Ascutney, participating in a pre-course for instructors. On Saturday, there will be a run-through of teaching techniques, and on Sunday, participants will take an exam on what they learned the previous day.

SKI TEAM: Ed Olson practices slalom at the Keene Country Club this week. He and other members of the team are getting ready for this year's competition.

Weekend

At the next meeting of the IFC which was held Nov. 30 at Theta Chi Delta the previous suggestion was put into a motion and it was passed.

Some suggestions for the "Greek Weekend" consisted of an informal dance with a rock 'n' roll group Friday night and perhaps a semi-formal dance Saturday night at which a Greek King would be crowned. The king would be chosen that afternoon at an "interfraternity olympics."

GIRLS TO HAVE UNH HOURS

State Buildings Auctioned To Make Room For New Dorm And Dining Hall

Auction signs have been erected on seven buildings in the proposed area for the new dormitory complex and commons building. These buildings will be sold at public auction, for removal or demolition.

Buildings to be auctioned in order to make room for the dorm complex include old Kappa or Winchester house, located at 27 Winchester St. and three houses on Wilson St. These houses, which were formerly privately owned, have been purchased by the state. The locations are 100 and 108 Wilson St., which also includes garages; and 104 Wilson, a single building.

The new commons building will involve the removal of three houses. Dummell house, at 72 Appian Way, which also includes a garage; and two other houses with garages at 80 Appian Way and 25 Hyde St.

There are three other state buildings involved in the construction project and they will either be moved or dismantled. They include a garage and a greenhouse on Winchester St. and the present equipment shed on the athletic field. These buildings, however, will not be auctioned.

The auction will be conducted by the State Department of Public Works and Highways beginning at one o'clock on Dec. 17, 1964. The houses will be auctioned off in the following order: 108, 104 and 100 Wilson St., 72 and 80 Appian Way, 2 Hyde St. and 27 Winchester St.

Any item bid at two hundred dollars or less must be paid for in cash. Items bid for more than this amount must have a two hundred dollar deposit with the balance to be paid within ten days. The sales will be made with the stipulation that "The buildings must be removed from state-owned land by May 1, 1966" and "shall include all combustible and/or perishable materials on the lot." The auction will be held, rain or shine, and the state reserves the right to refuse any or all bids at the time of the sale.

The residents of Winchester and Dummell houses are the only students that will be directly effected by the sales. Winchester house has 13 residents and Dummell house 14. These students will be relocated as soon as necessary, in college-owned housing.

A definite construction date for the dormitories and commons building has not been set, but it is hoped that construction will begin soon.

Senate Passes Schedule Change Next Semester

Last week the Faculty Senate voted to make some basic changes in the college calendar, to be effective next semester.

The first revision will eliminate February vacation, putting a semester break in its place. The break will begin on Jan. 23 and end on Jan. 31, with second semester classes beginning Feb. 2.

Spring vacation is scheduled for March 27 through April 24.

One further change will affect KSC students. At the end of second semester there will be a "reading

To Deliver Mail Direct to Dorm

This Christmas will be a merry one for Miss Gladys Shover, assistant registrar at Hale building.

Miss Gladys Shover is going to be the recipient of a special Christmas gift. After 17 years of sorting out the mail for the various residences on campus, Miss Shover will have this tremendous burden lightened.

Immediately after the Christmas vacation, the Keene Post Office will be delivering KSC's mail directly to most of the residences on campus.

Miss Shover said today that the only mail she will be responsible for sorting is the mail for Monadnock Hall, Eagle Hall and the mail for the faculty.

Mason Library Features Animal Book Exhibit

The Wallace E. Mason Library is currently featuring a zoo on the main floor.

The animals are quite tame, however, because they are found illustrated in a book exhibit, compiled by Mrs. Pauline Croteau's Children's Literature class.

The exhibit entitled, "The Prize Winning Zoo," features some 46 children's books, which have as their theme imaginative animals of all sorts.

Every book on display has won a first prize in Children's Literature contests.

One of the books on exhibit is "Where the Wild Things Are" by Maurice Sendak. Last year this book won the Caldecott Award for the best illustrated book in Children's Literature.

Supplementing the book display is a variety of stuffed animals which were donated by the Douglas Toy Company.

The books in the exhibit were chosen by the students in the Children's Literature class.

Two Year Plan Forseen Here

DURHAM, N.H. — A plan which could lead to the development of two-year college programs at four educational centers in New Hampshire has been offered to Gov. John W. King.

University of New Hampshire President John W. McConnell, in presenting the proposal, said:

"The long-range solution of New Hampshire's problem with respect to the two-year post-high school education may be far in the future. The University, however, submits this proposal as indication of its willingness to assist in providing a partial and immediate approach to an obvious need."

Noting that the State Board of Education is engaged in a study of two-year college programs, Dr. McConnell emphasized that UNH "is not pressing for adoption of its particular proposal."

"Our Board of Trustees has expressed itself to the State Board of Education as 'favorably disposed' toward these recommendations, but willing to consult and cooperate in any approach which the State Board may feel better meets the need," he said.

The University's outline would establish two-year, general education programs, primarily for local and commuting students, at Keene and Plymouth State Colleges. Such steps were called for in legislation which created the University system, but action has been deferred while emphasis was placed on developing genuine liberal arts programs at the two colleges, Dr. McConnell added.

Staff Members Attend Seminar

Two representatives of the Monadnock staff, Harry Scott Lane and Joan Morris, with Advisor C. R. Lyle II, attended the New England Press Seminar in Providence R.I. Saturday.

The topic of the day was local news coverage. William B. Dickenson, managing editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin, Fred Burnger, managing editor of the Trenton (N.J.) Times, and William J. Woestendick, assistant executive editor of the Houston Post, were the guest speakers at the morning session, held at the Journal building.

Following a luncheon meeting at the Sheraton Building, a general discussion of the morning's speeches was led by Michael Ogden, executive editor of the Providence Journal-Bulletin.

One hundred four newspaper men and women from the New England area attended the seminar, sponsored by the Providence Journal-Bulletin and the Professional Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi.

Keene could offer technical and general education programs leading to associate degrees in science and arts, respectively, while Plymouth could provide courses in general education, secretarial science and business administration, Dr. McConnell said.

Students completing the programs with demonstrated ability could transfer to four-year programs in the University system, subject to possible loss of credits in courses not considered fully comparable to on-campus courses.

"Keene State College women have been given UNH hours," Sheila Sanborn, president of the Council of Women Students, said today. "Dr. Roman L. Zorn approved the Council's recommendation for extended, later last week, and the new hours will go into effect second semester."

The hours are: Juniors - 11 o'clock Monday through Thursday, 12 on Friday and Saturday, and 11 on Sunday; Sophomores - 10 o'clock Monday through Thursday, with two 11 o'clock later per week, 12 on Friday and Saturday, and 11 on Sunday. In addition to these hours, Juniors have eight 1 o'clock permissions each semester, which may be used on weekends, and Sophomores have six 1 o'clocks. All upperclassmen have 15 minutes to return to their dorms after games, lectures, and other college-sponsored activities.

Freshmen hours are divided into two programs: First semester - 9 o'clock Monday through Thursday, with one 10 o'clock late every second week until Thanksgiving; and one late each week after Thanksgiving; 12 o'clock Friday and Saturday, and 10 o'clock Sunday. Second semester - 10 o'clock Monday through Thursday, with one 11 o'clock late; 12 on Friday and Saturday, and 11 on Sunday. During first semester, Freshman girls will be allowed one hour after games, lectures, and other activities, but in the end permission will be reduced to 15 minutes second semester.

"I would like to emphasize that these hours are final," Sheila said. "From now on, there will be no special permissions granted by the Council or Dean Randall. The girls will have to save their lates wisely for special occasions."

The Council has also set the hour for college formal at 1:30, she said. This includes Winter Carnival, Homecoming, and the three fraternity formal at the present time.

Before submitting its recommendation, the Council conducted a referendum to all on-campus women. Eighty-four per cent of the students voted, with these results: Juniors favor 82 to 6, hours 76 to 4; Sophomores 82 to 6. Freshmen voted to retain the old hours first semester, and accept UNH hours without 1 o'clock permissions second semester, 104 to 83.

Seniors did not vote, since their hours were set at the beginning of the year.

The data from the poll was put into recommendation form, and presented to Dr. Zorn for approval early last week.

ADULT PRIVILEGE

It would seem that there is a certain inconsistency when it comes to the management of Keene State College as part of UNH.

We are subject to the same board of trustees; thus it would seem to follow that the school should operate by the same rules as the University.

Yet there is one difference in rules apparent to every male student over 21 - no drinking in college residences. As it stands, a 21 year old student can buy an alcoholic beverage, but he has no place to drink it.

If he obeys the rules, he must confine his drinking to the local pub, parked cars, off campus parties, and the like. Does this seem more logical than allowing him to confine his drinking to campus quarters?

Allowing students over 21 to drink in the dorm is not giving the entire campus drinking privileges; it is only allowing the exercise of a privilege already granted to every adult by the state.

In this, the last issue of THE MONADNOCK for 1964, we, the Editors and staff of this paper, extend to the students and faculty of KSC best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

In view of the fact that this is the last issue of the Monadnock before the New Year, I would like to take this opportunity to present the annual O'Rourke Awards.

These awards are given annually to those people who do the most to retard the growth of KSC.

This year the Golden Bull Award for the snuggest play of the year goes to "Donald McDuck" and "Swinging Al" for their outstanding performance at a series of Student Council meetings last week.

Next is the Silver Dump Truck for the best deposit of the year, and it goes to the Student Council for their outstanding role in seeing justice done at the same series of meetings.

The last award is given to those persons who saw the need to set off the Freshman Bonfire prematurely. This award is made of lead and is called the "Arsonist of the Year" Award.

Now that we have dispensed with the ceremonial aspects of this column, let us resume our quest for little gems of news on and about the campus.

Our travels take us again to Fiske Hall where we find that the ladies there have again erected their Christmas tree and surrounded it with their beloved teddy bears. They must be commended again for their efforts to make everyone's campus life just a little more like home and high school. Looking around Monadnock Hall, we come to the "Passion Pit", (some prefer to call it a social room), where we find that most of the gentlemen there are trying to make campus life into what they wish high school had been like. This I must applaud as a step in the right direction.

As Christmas draws closer we must all strive for the Yule Spirit. The campus is all done up in its appointed colors; all the doors in Fiske and Huntress are gaily decorated for the open houses.

As we made the rounds of campus festivities this week we could not believe our eyes when we saw the pretty jackets that Santa brought to Alpha, and the lovely little lights in front of Theta.

It is certainly wonderful to see everything lit up in keeping with the custom of many members of the student body, and to see the Christmas spirit flowing so freely. The students of KSC are doubtless doing this to help the President in his war on poverty, by buying up all of the Christmas Cheer they can afford.

As we all go home for Christmas, we should not fail to remember the immortal words of George Washington's coxswain as he crossed the Delaware River on Christmas eve many years ago, "How d'ye get this thing outa second?"

general secretary of the Communist Party, U.S.A., said, "I dream of the hour when the last Congressman is strangled to death on the guts of the last preacher."

We conservative Republicans do not quiver and shake or talk of peace at any price, for it is the very kind of foreign policy that induces an enemy to attack, and causes good allies to fall by the wayside. We do not want war, for we want an honorable peace, and a moral, God-fearing government that will help set a good example for the people of this nation and the world. There is still a great cloud of scandal hanging over the White House, and there is still much talk of peace; yet in the past four years we have seen no peace. We see death and war and appeasement in the Berlin wall, the Congo, Zanzibar, Laos, Cuba, and South Vietnam. Yes, we have hope in the future; hope that President Johnson will change the bald liberal policies of President Kennedy which have never worked in the past and will never go back to those first thousand days when the Federal Government almost bankrupted our currency with an additional twenty-one billion dollars in the red. We have hope that if an honorable peace may be agreed to by the world, that before anyone does any lying down, some will first pull the claws from the lions, the fangs from the vipers, and the teeth from the bear. Even removing the weapons, though, will not solve

A regular meeting of the Social Committee was held on Monday, Dec. 14. The title of Winter Carnival '65 was chosen. The winner of the $5 prize was Theta Chi Delta Fraternity with their entry "Hearts and Rime."

The upcoming winter Carnival should be the best this college has ever seen. Instead of the usual record hop on Friday night, there will be a dance featuring "The Blue Knights". Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock we will be entertained by "The Rensselaers" a show group that has appeared at all the big New England colleges.

More information will appear in the future concerning Winter Carnival. I think this is an appropriate time and place to let the campus know that fraternities are not just for hellraising. This week all three fraternities are holding Christmas parties for the underprivileged children of Keene.

I hope every one has a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year and make it back to campus sane and sober.

Bowl to Go Again

The Student National Education Association has announced this week that they will sponsor again this year the "College Bowl" quiz program on Campus.

The "College Bowl," as it was set up last year, matches one organization on campus against another. The winner of each program goes on to defend itself against another challenger. If any organization wins five times in a row it retires as an undefeated champion. Last year Alpha Pi Tau held this title.

The whole program is set up on the basis of the television series, "G. E. College Bowl." The questions are made up and submitted by the faculty. Maureen Beaulieu, of the SNEA, said that they hope to schedule the first battle on January 7, 1965 and that they hope to hold more than five programs, as they did last year.

Senior Seminar Held Friday

A student Teaching Conference was held Friday, December 4. The program started at 9 o'clock with a coffee and social period in Fiske Hall.

Mrs. Dorothy A. Randall, Dean of Women, greeted the seniors at a general session in Morrison. She welcomed them back to the campus and told them of the changes that have been made at K. S. C.

An address was given by Dr. Richard H. Goodman, superintendent of schools in Milford, on entering the teaching profession. He cited several of his experiences in Sweden.

The elementary students heard an address by Mrs. Elizabeth Andronikos, consultant of the Houghton-Mifflin Co. of Lynnfield, Mass., on reading skills in the elementary program.

Secondary majors listened to an address by Mr. William C. Sterling, superintendent of schools in Contooscook, entitled the "Salutation to the Dawn." Another address, by Mr. Charles F. Burns, principal of Keene

KAPPA DELTA PI INITIATES - 11 new members were initiated into Epsilon Pi Chapter of the national honor society in education on Dec. 10 at candlelight ceremonies held in Morrison Hall.

Kappa Delta Pi Has 11 New Members

Eleven new members were initiated into the Epsilon Pi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi in a candle light ceremony Thursday evening. The new members include Suzette Baroody, Ann Conway, Donna Dwinells, David Hamilton, Elaine Tuttle, Barbara Toomey, Samuel Soibelman, Mary-Ann Yergeau, Pat Herdren, Joanne Houde, and Mary McDuffee.

The initiation ceremony was followed by a speech on Vermont humor by Dean Barry. The talk was filled with examples of the "pity" humor of the New England Country.

Kappa Delta Pi is the national honor society in education. It was founded March 8, 1911 at the University of Illinois. It has since grown until there are now 247 chapters on 247 college and university campuses in 46 states.

Students are eligible for membership if they are juniors or seniors with a specified number of education credits. Every candidate is rated by four faculty members and two students, and is accepted on these recommendations.

THETA'S CHRISTMAS PARTY - Was held last Sunday afternoon. Shown above are Randy Locke and three of the ten children who attended the party. This scene was duplicated many times at all of the fraternities.

Mistletoe Missing!

The girls at Eagle Hall won't be doing much cuddling under the mistletoe this year. A spray of the holiday berries mysteriously disappeared from the entranceway last week.

Mrs. Eileen Corner, Eagle Hall housemother, commented that it's a shame the boys here at Keene can't afford to buy their own mistletoe. She said she hopes that the "Last of The Big-Time Spenders" will return the sprig they "borrowed" in time for the holiday festivities.

Senior High School, dealt with teacher-administrator relationships.

The Home Economics section met at Blake House for a discussion on "Assignments" conducted by Mrs. Eugenie Eaves.

Industrial Education majors held a discussion on "Production Planning." The panel leaders were Jay Magwire, and Philip Lyster, both student teachers.

Church Conference Attended By Gemmell

Rev. Fay L. Gemmell, accompanied by Dick Mark, will attend the 8th Quadrennial Methodist Student Movement Conference, Dec. 28-Jan. 3, in Lincoln, Neb.

The theme of the conference is "Church in the World" 3,500 college and university students and campus ministers from 50 states and 40 nations are expected to attend.

The purpose of the conference is to comprehend several key issues regarded as central and suggestive. It will seek to offer clues about issues in which a relevant church must find expression; racial revolution, and life and the nature of the church.

There will also be discussions on the church achieving relevance in our time.

Sculpture Donated For Art Gallery

Mrs. Robb Sagendorph of Dublin, who donated the money for Thorne Art Gallery, has also given Keene State a sculpture for the lawn in front of the gallery, Mayor Robert L. Mallat said today.

The sculpture will stand 28 feet from the building on a six foot high granite base. A curving abstract copper figure will rest on top of the base, he said.

The base should arrive in about two weeks, Mr. Mallat said, and the sculpture should be erected by early January, 1965.

NO PARKING

Keene State College students are warned by police that there will be no all night parking on any streets in the vicinity of KSC.

Snow plows must operate at night, and any car parked on the street will be towed away.

Students Question Warnings' Value

Warnings were given out at the beginning of last week. Since then, many students have expressed ideas on the usefulness of these notices.

"Most warnings are based on one mark. The student knows his grade and the amount of work he must do to improve it. Warnings don't tell us anything," one student said.

"They do scare you into studying and encourage us to see the instructor to talk over ways that may help our marks. This is good," one boy said.

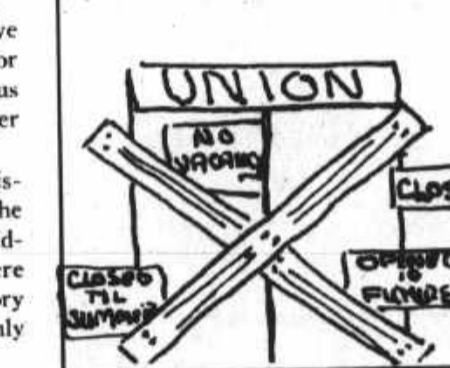

"Parents deserve to know how we are doing. Most of them are paying for us to attend college. Their talks to us may help us to study more," another student said.

The suggested ways to stop the issuance of warnings were: to have the teachers speak to the students (individually or in a group) who were receiving failing or unsatisfactory grades; and to send warnings only to the students.

One person said, "If we're old enough and mature enough to be accepted in college we should know when we're failing our courses."

THE STUDENT UNION?

NEWMAN CLUB TO HOLD SECOND MOVIE

"The Newman Club will show their second movie in January," Sheila Moylan, president of the Newman Club, said. The movie will feature Audrey Hepburn in "Breakfast at Tiffany's."

The Christmas Cotillon sponsored by the Newman Club was held last Saturday. The Student Union was decorated in Christmas fashion, and the students felt the glow and warmth of the Christmas spirit as they danced to the music of James Fletcher and his band.

All the officers wish all the students a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Horizontal Prof.

If you noticed that Rm. 1 in Parker Hall has an air slightly reminiscent of a Roman feast, the impression may be credited to KSC's "horizontal professor," Frederick Durham.

Mr. Durham, who has for the past two weeks conducted classes from a reclining position on a cot of pre-WWI vintage, announced Tuesday that today would be his last day in class for the rest of the semester. He will be entering the White River Junction V.A. Hospital for corrective surgery to his back this afternoon.

Arrangements have been made for his classes to be divided among the rest of the English Department for the remainder of the semester. Mr. Durham expects to be back on the job sometime near the beginning of the second semester.

Firms Chosen For Expansion Program Here

DURHAM, N.H.—Trustees of the University of New Hampshire have designated architectural firms who will provide construction designs for a major part of the University's proposed multi-million-dollar long-range expansion program.

Legislative proposals authorizing UNH and the state colleges at Keene and Plymouth to start the building program will be introduced in the 1965 General Court.

The construction programs will enable the University to increase its enrollment to an estimated 7,200 students by 1970, and will equip Keene and Plymouth for comparable increases in their enrollments while developing liberal arts programs.

Architects for proposed Keene campus projects:

Holbrook Associates of Keene—vocational building and remodeling of Parker Hall Auditorium; Guy K. C. Wilson of Concord—maintenance shop; Frank Grad & Sons of Newark, N.J.—Science and Arts classroom building; and Perry, Shaw, Hepburn and Dean of Boston—physical education building.

Bostate Beats Owls, 93-78

Faced by the fine two-way play of John "Beaver" Buckley, the Warriors of Boston State ran over the Owls of Keene State 93-71.

First half play was very slow as both teams looked a bit ragged passing and extremely off shooting. Both coaches, Sumner Joyce of Keene and Jim Loscutt of Boston, former Boston Celtic stringman, substituted freely after the first five minutes. With no particularly outstanding play from either team, the score stood 37-28 in favor of Boston at the half.

In the second half Boston ran up a big 20 point lead behind the outstanding play of Buckley, Freshman Steve Karll, and Charlie Hayes. For the remainder of the game the teams exchanged baskets, Keene unable to make up any of the earlier lost ground. Buckley, with a tremendous display of jump shots and driving layups had 29, while Karll with 16 and Hayes with 10 all contributed greatly for the win.

Playing a commendable game for Keene was junior Joe Giovannangeli who was high with 17 points.

Hapgood Publishes Article In Paris On Ancient Maps

Word was received today by Keene State College of the publication in Paris of an article by Professor Charles H. Hapgood of Keene State College, dealing with discoveries made by him with his students in Anthropology classes. His article was published in the Proceedings of the 10th International Congress of the History of Science, and is a revision of the paper he presented at the 1962 meeting of that Congress of World Scientists. The Congress met at Cornell, in Ithaca, New York. The Proceedings are published in two languages, and will be distributed to universities throughout the world.

Professor Hapgood has just completed a book giving complete details of his research, and describing the contributions made to it by his students. The book will be published next fall by the Chilton Company of Philadelphia, under the title Maps of the Ancient Sea Kings. It will present evidence that maps were drawn of most parts of the earth by people who lived as long ago as the ice-age.

Mr. Hapgood will be on Contact Radio discussing the maps on January 4th, from 10:05 to 11:30 p.m. over Station KYW (1100) from Cleveland. This station can be heard in Keene. Listeners may call in questions to the Station, and they will be answered over the air. The cost of a telephone call from Keene to Cleveland is $1.25 for three minutes.

Keene State Five Bows To JSC Indians, 124-101

The Keene State College Owls traveled to Johnson, Vt., Friday night for an 8 o'clock encounter with the Indians of Johnson State. Johnson won, 124-101.

Johnson, displaying fine ball control and amazing speed, jumped off to a quick 8-0 lead and never relinquished it.

With guards Woods and George stealing the ball constantly, Johnson scored almost unbelievably on a combination of fast breaks, jump shots and long set shots making it 64-48 at the half.

The second half ran the same pattern as the first as Johnson outscored Keene 60-53, hitting for a better than 70 per cent average from the floor. Leading Johnson to the win were sophomores Mike Calevo with 45 points and Jack George with 27. For Keene it was junior Tim Brown with to allow students to prepare for finals. No classes will be scheduled for this day. "We expect academic performance from our students," said President Roman Zorn, "and we hope this will provide an atmosphere for it."

These revisions will bring the college calendar more in line with other colleges throughout the country. Pres. Zorn said it is hoped the schedule will be less chopped up and will provide for better mid-year instruction.

He stated that the present schedule makes teaching and learning "almost impossible." "A student just gets warmed up when he gets a vacation," said Dr. Zorn. "When he comes back to school he has to review and get warmed up all over again."

With these revisions Dr. Zorn hopes to get more continuity to the schedule while allowing students the same vacation time.

College Space Rearranged

A few small changes have been made at Keene State over the long Christmas and New Years vacation.

The former Coke room of Monadnock Hall has been converted back into a normal dormitory room to permit two more male students to live in the dorm next semester, the house mother said. Five new vending machines have been set up in the Social Room of Monadnock and the telephone booth has been moved into the entrance hall.

In Hale building the long counter in the front office has been removed and a L-shaped counter has been put in front of the door. Mr. Pearson said that the change was made so that another secretary could work in the room. The new counter leaves more working space, he said.

The Campus Club has had a new section counter too. This has been built to hold cream, sugar, stirring sticks, mustard, ketchup, and relish. One of the waitresses also said that the Campus Club now has 145 new china cups and saucers for coffee.

Morrison Hall is to have a new coffee machine on the first floor and the pipes are already in but the machine hasn't arrived as yet. Mrs. Doris Stewart, the faculty secretary, said that it had been scheduled to arrive during the first week of vacation.

Speaker Policy

On Nov. 19, the Monadnock published an article which stated KSC's policy concerning non-college speakers. The policy was drawn up by the Keene State College Senate.

The College Senate decided that all future speakers would be cleared with the dean of men, if speakers were to speak to the entire student body. The dean of men will be guided in making his decisions by the University of New Hampshire's policy governing political activity.

The University of Washington has recently released a similar policy. Here is the policy as written by the Board of Regents and the reasons why the Board enacted the policy as reported by the Intercollegiate Press Association.

The University of Washington's Board of Regents has issued a statement concerning student invited non-university speakers.

The Board decided upon a policy which would allow students to invite speakers of their choice to the campus

Police Chief Says Much Student Unrest Caused By News Exaggeration

By Suzanne Tacy

William T. Bridgman, Keene Chief of Police, blames the news media for many of the problems that arise with modern youth.

"The students at KSC are basically a good group of kids. The only trouble they give us has to do with little sins we all commit," he said today.

Peace Corps Placement Test To Be Given

A Peace Corps Placement Test will be given at the Post Office Building in Claremont, on Saturday Jan. 29, at 8:30 a.m.

Approximately 800 other Civil Service testing centers throughout the United States will be administering the test on this same day, at 8:30 local time. It makes no difference where the Peace Corps applicants take their test and there is no need to register ahead of time.

Applicants should bring along a completed questionnaire unless one has already been sent in to Washington. The questionnaire forms are available at most post offices, from the college placement office, or they can be obtained by writing the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525.

There are two parts to the Peace Corps Placement Test: a general aptitude test and a modern language aptitude test—for which knowledge of a foreign language is not necessary. Applicants should figure on about one and a half hours at the testing center, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French achievement test. For this optional test, another hour should be added.

No passing or failing marks are given out, nor will the applicant ever learn their scores. The results are used, with the character references and questionnaires, to estimate the applicant's potential for completing the intensive training program and their ability to be effective Volunteers overseas.

Peace Corps applicants must be American citizens at least 18 years old. Married couples are eligible if they have no dependents under 18. A college degree is not necessary, but it is advantageous to complete college unless one has acquired a special skill. Many blue collar skills are now being requested by foreign countries.

Normal Raid

"Take what happened at Monadnock Hall in 1963," the chief continued. "It started as a patty raid on Fiske Hall—which was normal considering such raids had occurred at UNH and other colleges."

"The mass media, however, blew it up until it became a full scale riot." The newspapers made it seem as if the police were to blame for the affair," he said. "In this way they paved the way for hard feelings between the students and the police force. Under such conditions further 'newsworthy' problems are more likely to occur."

Bomb Scare

"The bomb scare at Monadnock Regional is another good illustration of the influence the mass media has on youth," Chief Bridgman said. "The first day one person called to tell us he planned to blow up the school. That night it was publicized. The next day we received 30 calls and the next day 50. All kids like attention and getting their names in the paper is one way of doing it."

Sees Decline

Bridgman believes America is experiencing a decline similar to that of Greece. A high economy is usually accompanied by moral decline, he commented.

"There is more juvenile delinquency today because there are more teenagers and social regulations aren't as strict as they were 50 years ago," he said. "In my opinion, the adults are responsible for much of this decline because they are the ones who should make and enforce these regulations."

Transfer Dislike

The police are too busy to be involved with personalities, he added. People who "hate cops" are simply transferring their dislike for restrictions to the person whose job it is to enforce them.

As Chief of Police, Bridgman has been responsible for handling many situations involving juveniles and for smoothing relationships between the college students and townspeople.

His own son, William Jr., was graduated from KSC in 1962.

Two Monadnocks To Clash In College Bowl Opener

"The MONADNOCK will meet Monadnock Hall in the first of a series of College Bowls on Sunday, Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in Spaulding gymnasium. Leo Cotter, chairman of the Keene State College Bowl Committee said today.

A team of four men will represent Monadnock Hall in the KSC College Bowl series this year. The team is being sponsored by SNEA.

Representing the MONADNOCK staff are Ann Conway, Howard Dozier, Harry Lane, Joan Morris, and alternate Jeff Parsons.

The College Bowl is sponsored by the SNEA to promote more educational activities on campus. The series of matches will continue every other Sunday until May 16 with Mr. Cornelius R. Lyle as moderator, Cotter added.

Any campus organization or residence may compete in the College Bowl series by submitting a list of four team members, plus one alternate, to Maureen Beaulieu. The SNEA will schedule the matches.

The questions are compiled by faculty members and a team winning four consecutive matches retires as a College Bowl champion and receives a plaque from SNEA.

The winners of the February 7th matches will meet representatives from Kappa Delta Phi on Sunday night, February 21.

KSC Students React To New Schedule

A black and white photograph showing a large, rectangular stone pillar in the foreground on the right. The pillar has a rough, textured surface. Behind it, a modern building with a series of vertical glass panels is visible. The ground is covered in snow, and bare trees are in the background. The lighting is dramatic, with strong shadows.

Drama Club

A meeting of the Drama Club will be held on Sunday, January 10, in Parker Hall at 7 p.m. All members must attend and are asked to bring their dues if they have not been paid. Roger Perkins, president, said Monday.

One thing that every fraternity man should keep in mind is that he is first a student of Keene State College and should work on projects benefiting the entire school, and only second a member of the fraternity.

Tom Clow

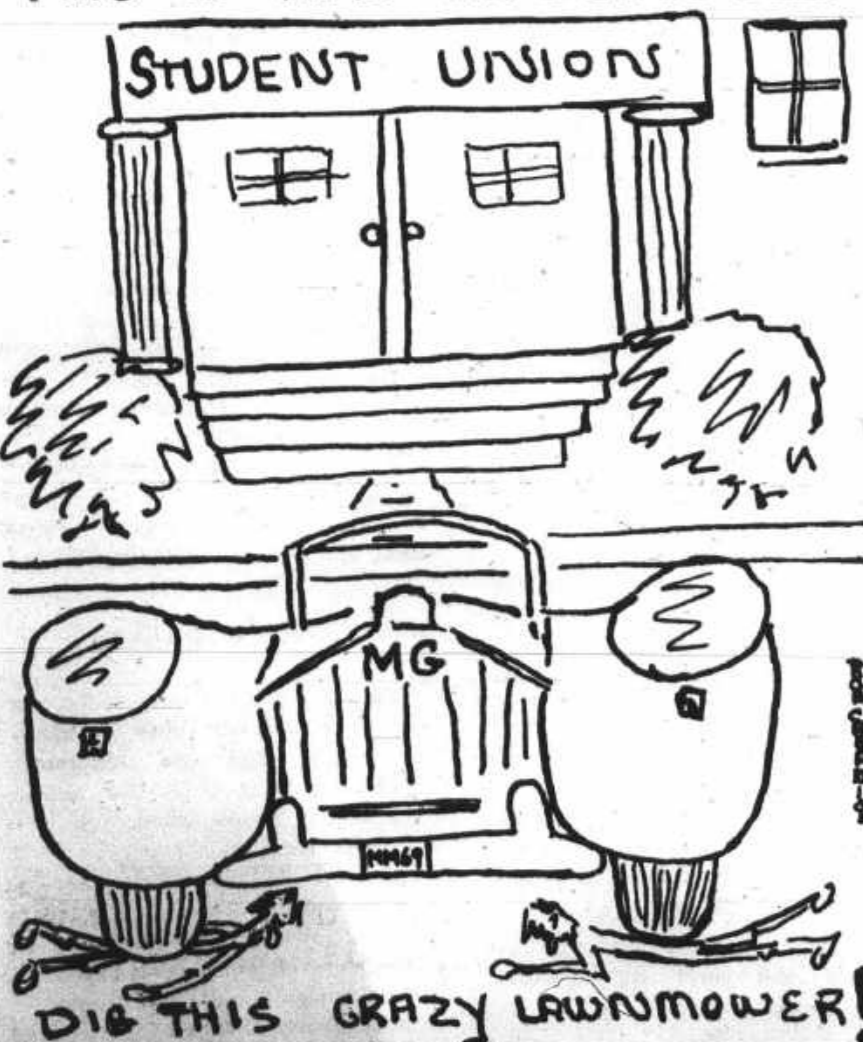

Once KSC was green, with leaves and grass all around. With the coming of winter and snow all the greenery has been forgotten. Out of sight, out of mind.

With the snow comes the salt. As the roads are salted, so also are the cars. And now the cars are being parked all over the once green, now snow covered lawns. Wherein lies the problem.

The cars parked on the lawns deposit salt on the grass, whether it's covered with snow or not. This salt will kill the grass wherever it has a chance to get to it, making a large bare spot in the spring.

So, for the benefit of the grass here at KSC, (and for the students who often find the Student Union driveway blocked) please don't park on our lawns. Help keep KSC green.

Under these conditions the Board believes that the merit or lack of merit of any speaker's views and any lack in his behavior will be more likely to emerge. The members of the Board of Regents believe that this will allow the students to become more fully informed.

The Board members also believe that the university's students will be better able to recognize the fallacious theories of some speakers and reject them by drawing their conclusions.

Journalism Class Tours Sentinel

The Keene State College Journalism class toured the Keene Evening Sentinel building Wednesday to see the actual operation of a newspaper.

Class members met at the Sentinel at 8 a.m. and were guided through the various departments by Kenneth F. Zwicker, assistant publisher of the paper.

Zwicker gave explanations and answered questions about the workings of the paper. He explained that the paper is a product of several different departments. He said that it was passed from one department to another until it finally came off the presses. Zwicker is also assistant treasurer and editorial writer for the paper.
