

KAPPA

by Clyde Lower

The new Kappa house has finally passed inspection not only by the college, but also by the fire, health, and zoning boards of both the city and state levels. This monumental task has now been fully completed, and letters of commendation have come in from everyone that has been connected with our venture. Our off-campus housing is a pioneer movement at KSC. It proved that any fraternity that wants a house at which to center its activities can have one, if it is willing to work for one. It is an enormous task, and one can't see the problems until a venture of this type is begun.

In the future months Kappa is planning several school events to keep the spark of spirit alive at KSC. Kappa will once again present its annual Animal Auction. The proceeds for this go for the benefit of the Christmas party for underprivileged children that Kappa holds each year. And, of course, last year's successful Kappa Kapers will again be put on to the delight of the student body.

At this time Kappa would like to give a whole hearted salute to our faculty advisors Mr. Aldrich, and Mr. Haley and also to President Zorn and Dean Gendron for helping us in our housing project, and for the sincere interest that they have shown our fraternity.

THETA

By Paul Huard

Now that the soccer season has come to a close the brothers of Theta Chi Delta Fraternity would like to extend their congratulations to coach Joyce and the soccer team for a very fine season. They compiled a record of 9-4 with the high scorers being Brother Ron Dias and Brother Wally Dwinells.

This past week-end the fraternity was visited by a TEKE representative. He discussed the national fraternity with Brothers Ken Leaf, president and Ron Dias, second vice-president. He displayed a vivid interest in the house and gave us suggestions as to how to complete our requirements. The TEKE chapter at U.N.H. invited the Brothers down for a week-end in the near future and the brothers are looking forward to the trip.

Plans have been completed for our Annual Dinner Dance and the committee, headed by Brother Ed Forbush, is busy making the final arrangements. It will be held on December 2, 1967 at East Hill Farms. As in the past years the brothers are putting a great amount of work into it to make it one of the better social events of the year.

Also underway are plans for a raffle. The brothers are selling chances on the choice of Head skis or a Polaroid camera. Both have a value of over $125.00. The raffle will be held on December 14, 1967. All brothers have tickets and they are available to all.

ASIS Jobs Abroad

Grand Duchy of Luxembourg—Thousands of American students, male and female have participated over the past 10 years in the American Student Information Service program. ASIS has made this possible to students through their paying jobs in Europe program and low cost tours and flights offered. Each year students pour into Luxembourg City for a short orientation and information seminar on European customs and the European way of life, just before leaving for their jobs that ASIS has located and arranged for all over Europe, from snow-capped Scandinavia to the sunny Iberian peninsula.

For their 10th anniversary, ASIS, pioneers in jobs abroad, present even a larger and more varying range of available jobs than ever before. Some 15,000 jobs are on file, available any time during the year, waiting to be filled by American students. Most jobs do not require previous experience or foreign language ability. You have your choice of job in any of 15 European countries. Wages range to $400 a month and room and board is provided for by the employer. Available positions include lifeguarding, sales, resort work, child care, office work, hospital work, construction work, camp counseling, and many more.

Why do you hesitate? Remember, jobs are given on a first come first served basis. For a fun-filled experience of a life-time, write to American Student Information Service, 22 Avenue de la Liberté, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, Dept 111, for an illustrated 36 page booklet, giving you all the information about available jobs, special discount tours and flights. A job application form is also included. Please enclose $2 for overseas handling and air mail reply.

Computerized Scholar

A new service for freshmen, sophomores and juniors seeking financial aid to attend college is being made available through the Financial-Aid Office.

The service, offered by North American Educational Computer Services, Inc. of Princeton, New Jersey, employs a computer to match an individual student's qualifications to the requirements of over 700,000 items of scholarships and grants contained in the computer's memory bank.

Until the advent of computer technology, the task of locating more than a small fraction of the financial aid for which he was eligible was physically impossible for an individual student. There was no central source for information relating to scholarships, and if there was, it would occupy over 600 feet of bookshelves.

Employing the ECS Computerized Scholarship-Search Service, the student fills out a very detailed questionnaire about himself. This is returned to ECS, and in seconds the computer matches his qualifications against the requirements for financial aid totalling over $500 million from colleges, universities, foundations, corporation, and civic, professional, charitable, business, social and fraternal organizations, and trade and labor organizations and religious and philanthropic groups all over the United States.

The computer then types out an individualized report to the student listing the sources of financial aid for which he qualifies and to which he should apply.

The computer then types out an individualized report to the student listing the sources of financial aid for which he qualifies and to which he should apply.

The entire one-time cost of this service is $15.

Further information on the ECS Computerized Scholarship-Search Service is available from the Financial-Aid Office.

Keene State College was represented by Jeanne Guertin, Judy Purdy, Craig Collier, and Robert S. Campbell, director of student activities, at the Region I Conference of the Association of College Unions—International, November 3-4. The Conference was held at M.I.T. in Cambridge, Mass., and included approximately 250 students and union staff members from institutions in New England.

The sessions at the Conference included (1) advertising, publicity, and the graphic arts, (2) problem solving, and (3) attitudes and creativity, the thinking process.

Dissenters

Referring to the protesters, the letter said, "It is to be hoped that misguided registrants will recognize the long-range significance of accepting their obligations now, rather than here after regretting their actions performed under unfortunate influences or misdirected emotions, or possibly honest but wholly illegal advice, or even completely vicious efforts to cripple, if not to destroy, the unity vital to the existence of a nation and the preservation of the liberties of each of our citizens."

Hershey also encouraged local boards to provide evidence of any efforts by non-registrants "to prevent induction or in any way interfere illegally" with the Selective Service Act to the national headquarters so that it may be made available to U. S. attorneys.

He also stressed that prosecution in the courts must follow for Selective Service registrants who fail to report as ordered, or refuse to be inducted.

Yale Goes Pass-Fail

NEW HAVEN (CPS)—The Yale University faculty has voted to replace numerical grading with a system under which students will be given one of four designations for their work—fail, pass, high pass or honors.

The new system will begin next year and continue on an experimental basis for at least five years.

Yale's present system makes use of a grading scale from 40 to 100, with 60 as the lowest passing grade. The university at present compiles cumulative averages for each student, but it will no longer do so when the new system goes into effect.

The change at Yale is largely the result of recommendations made by the faculty's Course of Study Committee, according to Strobe Talbott, chairman of the Yale Daily News. Some student organizations have been working to end the numerical system, however.

Derek Shearer, head of the Student Advisory Board, said the new system "moves away from the pseudo-scientific claims of the numbers system." He added that "It should make for an improved class atmosphere, for there will be no more quibbling about numbers. There would, I hope, be more concern for the quality of a student's work in terms of his ability."

Still undecided is the question whether or not the university's two academic honor lists—the dean's list and ranking scholar designation—are to be continued. Talbott is hopeful they will be abolished, but indicated that the new grading system will have important consequences for students regardless of what is done about the honor lists.

When students apply to graduate school in the future, according to Talbott, "recommendations are going to be much more important than they have been. Graduate schools are going to have to look much more closely at what faculty members say about a student's work."

Campus Dialogue

A Campus Dialogue Session has been scheduled for Wednesday, November 29, at 3:00 p.m. in Room #11 of the Student Union. Students again are invited to stop and have conversation and coffee with President Zorn, Dean Pierce, and Dean Campbell. The Campus Dialogue is an opportunity for students to voice their concerns and questions about the College directly to the President. It is hoped that you will avail yourself of this opportunity.

Draft Order Sought

By Jim Hicks

By WALTER GRANT
College Press Service

WASHINGTON (CPS)—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey is recommending that President Johnson issue an executive order making it standard procedure for disruptive antiwar protestors to lose their draft deferments.

Although the proposed executive order has not been made public, its intent reportedly is to "tighten up" sections of the draft law which outline when a Selective Service registrant should be declared a "delinquent." Delinquents are reclassified and placed first in the order of call.

The proposal follows a letter which Hershey sent to local draft boards in late October recommending that those who block entrances to army induction centers or obstruct military recruitment on campuses be drafted first. If the executive order is signed by the President, this plan, which now is only a suggestion by Hershey to local boards, will be clearly spelled out as standard procedure.

An official at Selective Service headquarters said the Hershey proposal has been turned over to the Bureau of the Budget—where all proposed executive orders are initially sent—and is now in the processing stages. The proposal is now being reviewed by the Department of Justice prior to being sent to the White House, he said.

The Justice Department could quickly end consideration of the proposal by declaring it unconstitutional. Since Hershey's letter to draft boards has been made public, there have been numerous charges that reclassifying protestors is a violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

A Selective Service spokesman said: "This office has received no formal notice from the Attorney General that this document (the letter) is unconstitutional. Unless we receive such a notice from the Justice Department, we will have no further comment."

Hershey said his letter to local boards contains no new policies, but is rather a recommendation that the present draft law be strictly enforced. The relevant section of the Selective Service Act says those who "knowingly hinder or interfere or attempt to do so in any way by force or violence or otherwise" with the Selective Service system should be declared delinquents and face penalties or reclassification. The proposed executive order presumably would explain this section of the law in more specific terms and order local draft boards to declare registrants delinquent accordingly.

Hershey emphasizes that the existing draft law says deferments should be given to individuals who are acting in the national interest. He says those who interfere with military recruitment are not acting in the national interest.

The Selective Service director's views have been sharply criticized by scores of college newspapers, clergymen, several Congressmen, and numerous organizations, including the American Association of University Professors and the American Civil Liberties Union. The Washington Post suggested in a recent editorial that Hershey should retire.

The fate of Hershey's proposed executive order may well be determined by what the Justice Department decides. The Department ruled on a similar question in January, 1966.

At that time, Assistant Attorney General Fred M. Vinson, Jr. said that "as a matter of both law and policy, sanctions of the Universal Military Training and Service Act cannot be used in any way to stifle constitutionally protected expression of views." He said reclassification

Sixteen members of the class of 1968 at Keene State College have been selected to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. Those selected were: Robert Baines, Craig Bohanan, Dean Bushey, John Carton, Richard Conway, Patrick Corbin, Halbrythe Davis, Susan Desrochers, Richard Grant, Ernest Hebert, Kathleen Kinsella, Mary Ellen Maloney, Elaine Simpson, Norman Tardiff, Gene Thibault, and Marcia Walker.

The selections were made in October by a student committee composed of representatives of student organizations and the sophomore and junior members of the Student Senate. John Cheney served as chairman of the selection committee.

The following criteria were considered in making the nominations:

1. Only students in the Class of 1968 were nominated. The list of eligible students was supplied by the Registrar's Office.
2. Student's excellence and sincerity in scholarship. The selection committee considered only those students with a 2.5 or better cumulative average.
3. Leadership and participation in co-curricular and academic activities.
4. Citizenship and service to the school.
5. Promise of future usefulness to society.

Robert Alan Baines activities include: Alpha Pi Tau Fraternity (President), M.E.N.C. (President, Vice-President), Kappa Delta Pi, Concert Band (President), and Chamber Singers and Concert Choir.

Dean Paul Bushey has held membership in Newman Club (President), Keene State College Choir, Madrigal Singers, Chamber Singers, Drama Club, S.N.E.A., M.E.N.C., Eastern Convention of Newman Apostolates, K.S.C. Pageant (Musical Director), and in addition Dean is the college Music Librarian.

John Michael Carton has been a member of the Student Council for two years and is a brother in Theta Chi Delta.

Richard David Conway's activities include: Alpha Pi Tau (Vice-President), Residence Counselor (Monadnock Hall, Huntress Hall, Duffy House), and Newman Club.

Richard Patrick Corbin is a member of Theta Chi Delta (President), Student Senate (President), Social Council, and I.F.C. (President). Holly M. Davis has been a member of the Student Senate (Secretary), Newman Club, Special Ed. Club, Social Council, and has served on the Kronicle staff. Miss Davis was also co-chairman of the Freshmen Orientation Committee, and first runner-up at K.S.C. Homecoming.

Richard Arthur Grant has participated in Beta Beta Beta Biology (Con't on Page Four)

Jorge Bolet, pianist, will open the 1967-68 concert series of the Keene Community Concert Association on Tuesday, December 5. The program will begin at 8:30 p.m. and will be held at the Keene Junior High School. Twenty-five student season tickets have been purchased by the Student Union for the use of K.S.C. students. The twenty-five tickets for the Jorge Bolet concert will be distributed at the Union Desk on a first come basis on Tuesday, December 5, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Each student must show his identification card in order to get a ticket.

Hawkish KSC Owl

By Roger Goldsmith

"Basketball is not a sissy's game, it's a rough, contact sport—rougher than football—and I intend to play it that way!"

This is one of the first statements uttered by "Sergeant" coach Ken Jones, a dynamic innovation in Keene State's sports program. Jones comes to KSC via McQuad Prep. of Rochester, New York, and State University of Brockport where he coached a freshman team.

Coach Jones has earned an admirable 102-50 win-loss record in his coaching career. He runs a basketball drill like a boot camp and feels inadequate if no one bleeds after practice, but off the basketball court he's an amiable gentleman who talks of his players with admiration.

His biggest concern is the poor facilities we have to work with in our gym, affectionately referred to as the KSC bandbox. "Anyone who goes through my practice deserves the best," he said, "and this gym is just a shame." He's been bugging the administration about obtaining the Keene High Gym for games and practices but they evidently don't remember the player from Lyndon College who, last year,

Sigma Pi Epsilon

By Carol W. Johnson

A meeting of Sigma Pi Epsilon was held on Tuesday, November 14th in Parker 1 at 7:00 P.M. It was decided that a request of $1200.00 will be submitted to the finance committee. The money allotted the group will be used for the publication of two issues of the Journal. There was a discussion concerning the sending of acceptance and rejection slips to those submitting material to the literary magazine. It was decided, finally, that only those whose material has been chosen will notices be sent. Editor of the Journal, Jim Barnes, passed out material which had been submitted to be read and evaluated by the "readers". The material will eventually be returned to him for his final decision. The first issue of the Journal should be completed shortly after the Christmas vacation. Anyone wishing to submit artwork (specifically line drawings), may see Jim Barnes in Huntress Hall.

In the near future, letters will be written to several of the neighboring colleges, asking them if they would be interested in participating in one of a series of poetry readings to be held here, in the next few months.

This editorial is based on Jack Newfield's study of the new left in A Prophetic Minority.

There is an element present in American society that is as radical in its rate of growth as it is in its concepts. This element is the "New Left." It has its nucleus in student groups, such as the Students for a Democratic Society, (SDS) the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee, (SNCC) and the Free Speech Movement. (FSM)

The New Left exists on three levels, which are the crux of the movement itself. When the movement is viewed in the context of these levels, a true picture can be seen. The first level is political. The beliefs are quite simple. Members of the New Left believe Negroes should vote, that America should follow a peaceful non-interventionist policy, and that poverty should be abolished. Though these beliefs qualify as being essentially political, the radicals shun politics (as politics exist) as a means of achieving their goals. They are disgusted with the estrangement of morality from the contemporary political scene.

They question the moral implications of all political issues. This is their second level. They are preoccupied with moral alternatives, (freedom, justice, and equality) rather than trying to achieve the power and success available in the political medium. They realize that their goals exist in conflict with the status quo, the practical and pragmatic American Dream.

This realization leads to the third, or existential level. The New Left remains alienated from and opposed to the bureaucratic para-military nature of American institutions. They resent the fact that corporations such as General Motors have become American institutions. They know they face the threat of arbitrary extinction, having been manipulated to that position by the political engine. They quote Rumpelstiltskin on the matter: "I weep because for my very life, I cannot spin gold from straw."

In spite of the realistic pessimism, they have a few alternatives. They offer Participatory Democracy, a system that ordinary people should be that control their lives, as opposed to making. They are humanists in this belief is the individuality ethic, which has taught members to choose what is morally right rather than what is politically dictated. The System's ethic of execution.

There are, or were, three streams of radical thought to participation should be extended, noble, 3) that a new society be created.

The first two ideals exist peacefully renovated. In 1966 for example "trust" in favor of the Black Power out justification. Of all the student active and consequently was most martyrs. SNCC members ornament the unpaved streets the riddled corpses of fellow workers.

Today, through some misadventure, number of these men have been killed. It is not enough, though, they are ing the civil rights of others rather than raising platforms. The effect of this has been chaotic and widespread.

As a political movement, they are criticized for lacking responsibility. However, author Michael Harrington, the radical possibilities, today, thought or an intellectual trend. Obviously, there is a move

LETTERS to the Editor

Something Special

To the Editors:

This may be another of those "verbal 'pumpkin-patrols'" manifesting a "lack of confidence" that "goes well with (my) lack of cooperation" (although I doubt that the latter necessarily implies the former; or vice versa. The reasons for non-cooperation are mine. The reasons for lack of confidence are yours.)

But no matter. You did, I think, imply in your editorial of November 16 that you would appreciate some constructive criticism. That is what I intend to offer. Here goes.

Put all those College Press Service (CPS) releases where they belong—in the waste basket. Rewrite the handouts from college organizations and administrative departments into something resembling news articles. Put a little action into your headlines. Make sure of your facts; apologies make you look stupid. Add more and better photographs. Eliminate editorializing in news stories. Make sure every name is correct.

All the above can and should be accomplished by an assiduous editor. But these are only surface problems. What is needed most, I believe, is a complete re-vamping of your whole organization. I suggest the following:

1. A group of paid officials as follows, with suggested annual salaries: editor-in-chief, $600; associate editor, $400; news editor, $400; business manager, $500; advertising manager, $400; and circulation manager, $300. (I realize, of course, that these salaries are low, but at least this would be a start in the right direction.)

2. A photography department with an annual budget (including salaries) of at least $600.

3. Newstand and subscription sales (at 10 cents per copy).

4. Increased local advertising to supplement revenues from student activity fees. Advertising could cover as much as 40-50 per cent of the space in each issue, even possibly allowing for expansion to six or eight pages.

5. An editorial board consisting of the editor-in-chief, associate editor, business manager, a Student Senate representative but not a member of that body, a faculty advisor nominated by the college president and approved by a majority of the remainder of the board, and a professional newsman selected by the college president from one of this state's newspapers. This board would be completely independent of the college administration and other student organizations. It would meet annually (in the Spring) to elect the editor-in-chief, approve an annual budget for submission to the Student Senate, and outline and set guidelines for general editorial policy and conduct. The editor-in-chief would be completely free to nominate his own assistants, subject only to the approval of the editorial board.

6. A constitution (and by-laws) specifying the preceding as well as the specific duties, obligations and qualifications of all paid officials.

These, then, are a few suggestions which I believe would result in a high quality student newspaper because they would, if implemented, attract high quality people to the paper. For any cynics in the audience, I wish to say that I am not now, nor do I intend to be, in any official way connected with The Monadnock. My only interest is the improvement of the student news paper.

David H. Jackson

Plan Ahead

To the editor:

In accordance with the Faculty Manual and the Student Handbook, I wish to remind all faculty members, administrative staff, and students that this office will schedule the use of college classrooms, meeting rooms, or the gymnasium only if the reservation is placed with the office 48 hours in advance of the scheduled event. For student organizations, this notice means that the Scheduling Office Form with your adviser's signature must be given to Mrs. Wagner 48 hours in advance of the scheduled event.

The principal reason for this advanced period of 48 hours is to allow time for the custodial personnel to be informed by campus mail of the scheduled uses of our facilities.

In addition, please notify this office immediately if there is any cancellation of your scheduled meetings or events.

Your cooperation in planning any meetings in advance will be appreciated by your committee and organization members, by faculty advisers to student organizations, by this office and by anyone else who would be grateful for reasonable notification of requests on their time.

The College Judiciary Board shall be composed of both student and faculty justices, who sit as equals and jointly make decisions, on appeal, concerning disciplinary problems related to the student code of conduct. It shall also clarify issues concerning the constitutionality and functioning of student government.

The Judiciary Board is made up of seven members: three faculty justices, three student justices, and a chief justice. The chief justice is a faculty member in an academic offense and a student in a non-academic offense.

All appeals to the College Judiciary Board must be made within five days of protested decision and must have factual cause.

The student justices are chosen from the seven by the President of the Student Senate. The faculty justices are chosen by the President of the College.

Anti-Blackball

Lancaster, Pa.—(I.P.)—Beginning this fall, all fraternities at Franklin and Marshall College are required to eliminate the blackball procedure in which a prospective member may be dismissed by one, or in some cases several, vote against him during his pledge period.

The dismissal instead requires a two-thirds vote of a chapter's membership by secret ballot. This, according to a recommendation by a Committee To Study Student Life, should be done only "when there is sufficient sentiment on the part of the membership that the conduct of any one of its members is contrary to their standards of group living," and not automatically at the end of the pledge period.

The Committee described the "social unacceptability blackball" as "humiliating and unnecessary," noting that it found "distasteful a practice by which young men who are considered acceptable members of the College community are considered unacceptable to a self-appointed organization subordinate to that community." The Committee declared that "students should have the right to choose their friends and associates, so long as no prejudice or bigotry are not reasons for rejection," but pointed out that "so long as a blackball procedure exists, members of fraternities do not in fact have full right to choose their fellow members."

Republican Presidential Candidate To Speak

William W. Evans, Jr., a Pater-son, N. J., attorney and the first declared Republican candidate for President, will speak at Keene State

FACULTY-STUDENT SEMINARS

BURLINGTON, Vt.—(I.P.)—President Lynn S. Rowell of the University of Vermont recently told an opening Convocation audience that he advised the University's Dean of Students he would be "delighted to help devise and participate" in a series of faculty-student seminars to explore the topics "which emerged most clearly" from the August meetings of the National Student Association.

President Rowell said these included student interest in "the need for curricular innovations to respond to what students want to study; 'The rights of students to influence administrative decisions on educational policies; The validity of change, even if only for the sake of change; and The Moral decay of American society.'"

Addressing his remarks primarily to students, offering what amounted to a statement of University position on communications with students: "You the members of the entering class, belong to a generation which is said to be asking for the privilege of great participation in decision making."

He said he was not sure "you are asking any more than any previous generation, but . . . you have been heard to a greater extent, and more attention has been paid to what you have said."

"Too frequently," President Rowell added, "it has been the spectacular, the unusual, the violent protest that has been given the widest publicity," and he suggested that "more thoughtful requests, more deliberate actions, have not always received the same attention."

"On the campus of the University of Vermont, you will have the privilege of free speech and discussion for yourself and we expect that you will help to maintain it for others. This kind of freedom also demands responsibility for we can only put our faith in equality, individual freedom and the democratic process for as long as we remain committed to these principles."

President Rowell took the occasion to defend again the necessity of maintaining "an atmosphere of freedom of thought and action!" saying the principle of academic freedom for the professor in the classroom is recognized and understood by most people, "but this principle does not seem to many to extend to the invited speaker."

He quoted extensively from an address by the Attorney General of Wisconsin defending a free campus forum at the University of Wisconsin: "No matter how irritating and inconvenient it may be at a given point in time, society needs dissent—and the university needs new and disturbing ideas in order to adequately fulfill its role."

"Occasionally we need to have the status quo challenged—if only to reinforce our convictions. We would do a gross disservice to ourselves and our society were we to ban the expression of unpopular ideas and beliefs."

Keddy

New Dean of Women

In an interview Monday, new Dean of Women, Mrs. Ruth Keddy, stated that she is enjoying her position because, "It is rewarding to see people's accomplishments," yet one problem is presently inhibiting her work. She expressed her wish to get acquainted with more of the female members of the student body. She knows some of the upperclassmen from her previous years on the teaching staff but most of the female population at Keene State, especially the freshmen, are still unfamiliar to her. She added that, along with it essentially being her job, she enjoys helping women students with both their personal and academic problems. She feels that her office should be considered a place to go for advice, information, or, if she could not help, a place to go to be redirected to the proper source of information.

Mrs. Keddy took the opportunity to extend an open invitation to all girls to come and talk. She also added that she would be most happy to accept any invitation to get acquainted from a chat in the dorms to coffee at the union.

Mrs. Keddy holds a master's degree from Columbia University and before becoming Dean of Women, was a full time member of the physical education staff. She is very interested in women's basketball and volleyball. She has planned a workshop for teachers in volleyball and in 1965 was the New Hampshire representative to the National Institute for the Development of Volleyball.

As a final note, Mrs. Keddy recalled the afternoon of November seventh, when, while she was in the faculty dining room, the snow began to fall and all the students in the Commons broke into applause. She hurried out to join in the excitement because as she said, "I love to ski and am looking forward to running into (over?) many students on the slopes this winter."

If there is no transgression, then no sanction can be invoked. If there is a transgression, then the sanctions which attach to it are all that should be applied."

Vinson's opinion was handed down after several draft boards attempted to reclassify University of Michigan students who staged a sit-in at the Ann Arbor draft office. The action by the draft boards was also ruled illegal by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. The judges held in a unanimous opinion that "it is not the function of local boards in the Selective Service System to punish registrants by reclassifying them 1-A because they protested as they did over the Government's involvement in Vietnam."

The Court also held that "it is the free expression of views on issues of critical current national importance that is jeopardized. On such topics perhaps more than any other, it is imperative that the public debate be full and that each segment of our society be permitted freely to express its views. Thus the allegations of the complaint in this case that the draft boards have unlawfully suppressed criticism must take precedence over a policy of nonintervention in the affairs of the Selective Service."

Since Hershey's letter to draft boards was sent out, at least two students have said they were reclassified 1-A as a result of their involvement in protests against the war and the draft.

A University of Utah student, Henry Lowell Huey, lost his student deferment after participating in an anti-draft protest in October. Huey and five other students were arrested as they attempted to block the doorway of the Armed Services and Entrance Examining Station in Salt Lake City. Utah State Draft Board Director Col. Evan Clay said Huey's 2-S deferment was discontinued in accordance with Hershey's letter.

In Tulsa, Oklahoma, John Ratliss, a student at the University of Oklahoma, was reclassified 1-A for alleged involvement in Students for a Democratic Society, a group that regularly protests the war and the draft. He has been involved in anti-war demonstrations, but has never been arrested.

CONCORD, N.H.—November 13, 1967. College students who are pursuing a full-time course of study leading to a baccalaureate degree must file with their local board a written request for deferment if they wish to be classified II-S by their local board.

Mr. Oscar N. Grandmaison, State Director of Selective Service, stated today that the request for deferment is required under the Military Selective Service Act of 1967. Registrants who fail to request deferment may be classified I-A by their local board.

It was mentioned that Thomas Williams of the University of New Hampshire, and author of Town Burning and other novels, has accepted our invitation for him to come to speak. A date has not yet been decided upon, but when he does come, all are invited to attend.

WAY OUT OF VIETNAM

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (CPS)—In a recent speech at Yale University Gilbert Harrison, editor of the New Republic magazine, proposed a simple solution for the Vietnam problem, all the while keeping his tongue-in-check.

He said that as a first step, the U.S. should allow the NLF to take over the government of South Vietnam. If it did so, according to Harrison, our present allies in that country would be forced to take to the jungles and swamps.

When Ky and his supporters were forced into the wilds, Harrison hypothesized, they would become guerrillas while the NLF was turning into an ordinary, infrequent military force like the present South Vietnamese army.

Since most experts agree that conventional forces need a 10-1 advantage over guerrillas to defeat them, the NLF would probably find itself undermanned, Harrison suggested, and would eventually be overcome. Then Ky and company could take over for good.

fractured his ankle so bad he still walks with a limp.

Looking forward to this season Coach Jones said: "We'll be outmanned by every team we play, and at a big height disadvantage also. No team, however, will be in better shape than we are. You can learn from winning and we hope to learn more each game."

Asked about the advantage of the home court, Jones said: "Overlooking the safety factor here, the home court is definitely a big advantage. Mental alertness relates to physical alertness and a high spirited home crowd is a big psychological advantage."

The Owls have had four pre-season scrimmages and have improved each time. I attended the scrimmage with Salem State over the holiday and noticed aggressive team spirit and desire not characteristic of other Keene athletic teams. The Owls are inexperienced at playing "real" basketball, but playing is their desire. Seeming at times like a football squad, the team exhibits a drive and desire you'll want to watch.

Keene's first three games are away, beginning on December 1, at Fitchburg. The first home game is December 8, against Lyndon.

The team has worked phenomenally hard and deserves our support. Presenting Sergeant Jones and his Killer Owls—laugh now, cheer later!

ALPHA

Sunday, December 10, marks the day of Alpha Pi Tau's Christmas Party for underprivileged children. This is an annual event for the fraternity and will include a visit from "Old Saint Nick" who will distribute such items as shoes, jackets, shirts, and toys to those who otherwise might not benefit from the holiday season. The Keene Salvation Army has been working closely with the brothers this year in providing the names of children from needy families.

In previous years the brothers have solicited gifts from the merchants in the greater Keene area. However, this year the fraternity has taken the entire responsibility of purchasing gifts that the fourteen underprivileged boys themselves have requested. The brothers want to make sure these boys are given a Christmas that they will never forget.

With every day the Christmas spirit is growing at Alpha House, and everyone is participating in decorating the house, searching for a tree for the porch roof, and making final arrangements for a successful Christmas Party.

The brothers want Alpha House to look its greatest this year, for come this June—Alpha House will be no more.

War For Bird Island

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (CPS)—The independent republic of Bird Island, situated in the middle of a city lake here, has declared total war on the United States, according to the British news service reporters.

The newly proclaimed republic has a population of six. It would have been seven, but one of the founding fathers fell overboard from the landing craft—a dinghy—and had to swim back to shore.

Danish police on the Banks of Lake Sortedsøen were making invasion plans today because the Bird Islanders—students from an organization called Zenith—refused to give up their 1200-square-yard country.

The group has sent a telegram to the United Nations seeking membership and a cable to the U.S. Embassy here declaring total war.

Kappa's Annual Animal Auction will be held Wednesday evening, December 6th, at the Lloyd P. Young Student Union. The program will start at 7 o'clock. The brothers will appear in outlandish attire and perform numerous antics to delight the audience. The proceeds will be used for the support of the underprivileged children's Christmas party, so come out and bid for one of our cuddly teddy bears, and he'll do your bidding for you.

The main attraction will be the appearance of that famous personable twosome, straight from the wine and dine capital of the world, the fastidious Nate and Ginny. So make sure you don't miss the gala occasion.

Beta chapter of Kappa Delta Phi fraternity at Salem State College invited Gamma to its pledge week activities. Gamma chapter's representatives for the festivities at Salem were Brothers Andy Plastiras, Marty Kadel, Frank Butterworth, Gary Prevost, rowdy Dave Anderson and Gary Howard. In charge of the ceremonies, and putting the pledges through their paces were Beta's degree master Brother Paul Haesey, and his capable assistants Brother's Kevin Cassidy and Bob Perrault. All the brothers who attended the occasion reported that they had a wonderful time, and credited Beta for having a stupendous initiation week for their pledges.

The drawing for the raffle held by Kappa will take place Saturday afternoon, December 2nd, at Randall Hall. The lucky person who wins will receive a case of good cheer or the money equivalent. There's still time to get raffle tickets, but this should be done as soon as possible. They can be purchased from any Kappa Brother.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT

Curricular Affairs Committee Meets

By Carol W. Johnson

Although there were only seven people present (which is approximately one percent of the student body) at the first Curricular Affairs Committee Meeting which was opened to the student body, much was to be gained for all who attended. Members of the committee who were present to answer questions were: Dr. Peters, Dean Pierce, Mr. Keddy, Mr. Congdon. Many questions were asked, all were well received, and attempts were made through discussion to come to a satisfactory answer.

One of the principal questions posed was that of allowing each student one or more courses which he could take on a pass-fail basis. This would allow, and in fact, encourage students to take as their electives, courses which they might not choose, normally, because of their difficulty. Dr. Pierce mentioned that the question of pass-fail grades will be sent on to either the Admissions and Standards Committee or the Faculty Senate for further consideration. A second question concerned the future availability of the basement of the Butterfield Building for a course in Ceramics. It was answered that it is the one place which it would be the easiest to convert because it was originally equipped with proper drainage, etc. However there are many problems: (1) to find enough interested students; (2) to find a qualified person to instruct the course; and (3) to appropriate the necessary funds. These are problems which exist with any course of limited appeal.

An Industrial Arts student posed a question concerning the problem that many students in his program would prefer to be able to begin their major in the last two years so that they would be better prepared in their chosen field. It was suggested that the student refer his question to the Industrial Education Department and that a revision in the present plan could begin there. One innovation in the I.E.D. department is that a two year program is to open up in the near future which will be called Industrial Electronics Technology.

One student stated that the college catalog often lists courses which are no longer offered, and lists all courses appearing to be offered all semesters. Each of these is deceiving, especially to the freshman-to-be for whom it is important to know which courses are offered and when so that he can choose among various colleges with discretion, and then not be disillusioned when he arrives there. Dr. Pierce listed several reasons why there are occasionally courses listed which aren't offered: for example, whenever a faculty member leaves on short notice, as two in the science department did this past August, gaps are left which can't be filled immediately because the Administration wishes to hire only qualified instructors. A second reason that it is difficult to state beside each course offering in the catalog exactly when it will be offered is that it is not usually feasible to pay an instructor to teach a course with fewer than ten students enrolled—if fewer than this number register for this course at the last minute, the listing is no longer valid and yet it is too late for it to be changed. However, from a general study, it has been found that often the courses that are even-numbered will be offered in the fall semester, and the odd-numbered courses will be offered in the fall semester, although this is not always the case. In further discussion of the college catalog, it was suggested that course description be reworded giving more detail such that the student has a clearer picture of the contents of a course before he takes it.

A question was made concerning the lack of a minor in Dramatic Arts for the Liberal Arts students while apparently there is one for education majors. The answer to this is that the Liberal Arts department is fairly new, here, and when it was born, the immediate need had not been anticipated. However now that there are two hundred and twenty Liberal Arts students enrolled, perhaps a few changes will be made to accommodate the wider interests of a continually expanding area of the college.

A final question involved the problem of the awkward period following the Christmas Vacation during which there are few final exams. Students have found it less successful to have to study for finals during the vacation for obvious reasons, and some believe it might be easier to do well if there wasn't such a large gap between the time the material was covered and tested at the end of the semester.

Dr. Pierce mentioned that other systems such as the Quarter System or the Trimester have been considered, and that it is possible that one of these might help to solve the problem. Of course with a change in the system many other problems arise, such as the revaluation of credit hours, etc.

It was suggested that if a student has a problem which he has not been able to solve on his own, or has not been solved at one of these open discussions, he should be referred to the office of the Dean of Instruction. It was also stated that if enough students continue to be interested and have helpful suggestions, it would be possible to hold another open meeting in the future.

Queen City Visited by Demonstrators

Sentinel Staff

MANCHESTER—Riot-helmeted police scuffled Monday with nearly two dozen anti-war demonstrators protesting the draft system and the war in Vietnam.

Police seized 18 demonstrators who were taken away in police vans. The melee broke out while authorities were trying to lead 30 would-be inductees into the Armed Forces Entrance and Examination Center.

Police formed two columns on the steps of the building. The scuffle occurred while the inductees were walking into the building between the two police columns.

200 Pickets

About 200 demonstrators had been picketing the building, despite word that the center, on Silver Street, does not normally process inductees on Mondays.

Police and 10 U.S. marshals were in a nearby building, watching the protestors as they picketed the building. When the inductees arrived, the authorities formed the columns, dispersing most of the demonstrators.

About 20 pickets, however, ran toward the entrance of the building, screaming "Don't swear the oath... don't swear the oath" as the inductees went inside.

Fighting Erupts

As police tried to march the demonstrators away from the building, fighting broke out. Several pickets fell to the ground.

The brief hassle erupted shortly after the protestors had been expected to disperse because it appeared there would be no inductees at the center. The demonstrators, bundled against sub-freezing temperatures, had been outside the building for about four hours.

Kenneth Schuler of Bethlehem, N.H., one of the organizers of the demonstration, told the pickets to leave. A short time later, however, the inductees arrived.

Russell Neufeld of New York, a student at Goddard College in Plainfield, Vt., who had predicted 700 to 1,000 students from 12 colleges would attend the demonstration, blamed the cold and poor driving conditions Sunday night for the less-than-expected turnout.

Aim of Pickets

He said they wanted to create "an Experiment in Education

An experiment in education will be held at 8 p.m. December 12th, in room 101 of the Science and Arts building.

Students of Edward Ingram, Lecturer in Political Science and Government at Keene State College will participate in a question and answer panel. In this case, however, all the questions will be submitted by the students themselves. This panel is an experiment in student education, growth, and thought, and is believed to be the first such experiment in the state of New Hampshire.

The Moderator will be Dr. Lloyd F. Hayne, Head of the Social Science Department at Keene State College.

The participant judges will be: The Honorable Richard E. Bean, Mayor of Keene.

Dr. Robert B. Dishman, Head of the Political Science Department at the University of New Hampshire.

Honorable George R. Hanna, Attorney and member of the Board of Trustees of the New Hampshire University system.

Honorable Robert F. Babcock, President of the Mason Insurance Co.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

On Sunday evening, December 10 the combined forces of both the instrumental and vocal divisions of the Keene State College Department of Music will present this year's "Concert for Christmastime, 1967". The larger performing musical organizations within the Music Department, the Chamber Singers, the Wind Ensemble and the K.S.C. Concert Chorus, will present a varied program of Christmas music. This Sunday's concert will mark the first concert appearance this season of the Wind Ensemble, and the second appearance of the Chorus and Chamber Singers. This concert, which is open to the general public as well as to the students of Keene State College, will be presented in Spaulding Gymnasium and the time of the performance has been set at 8:00 p.m. The Wind Ensemble is conducted by Mr. William Pardus and the Chamber Singers and the Chorus are conducted by Mr. Hugh Bird.

The program which is to be presented will consist of music which covers the entire range of Christmas music from folk carols to Christmas Spirituals, from popular carols to major works from Christmas concert literature, from the well-known to the unfamiliar. Among the works to be presented by the Chamber Singers are two chorales by J. S. Bach, "Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light" and "Beside Thy Cradle Here I Stand" (from the Christmas Oratorio), plus Christmas Carols from many different countries, including England, Spain, France, Germany, Poland and the United States. The second section of the concert program will be presented by the Wind Ensemble. Among the selections to be performed by this organization are "Greensleeves" (arr. Reed), "The Coventry Carol" (arr. Conley), "A Christmas Festival" (Anderson) and others. The third portion of the performance will be presented by the K. S. C. Concert Chorus, which will present two Appalachian folk-carols, "I Wonder as I Wander" and "Jesus, Jesus, Rest Your Head" (both arr. Niles), the Christmas Spirituals "Mary Had a Baby" and "Go Tell It On the Mountain", plus several other works. The program will be brought to a close by the performance of two famous choruses, "For Unto Us a Child is Born" and "Hallelujah!", from G. F. Handel's great masterwork, Messiah. The third section of the concert program will also include the singing of some familiar carols, at which time the audience will be asked to join in and sing with the chorus.

Several student soloists from the Music Department also will be featured on the program. They are Kathy Rysnick, Diane Gormly, Pat Lawson and Kingsley Locke.

This year's "Concert for Christmastime, 1967" holds every promise of being one of the most outstanding musical evenings of the year on the K. S. C. campus. All students of K. S. C. are encouraged to attend and to help make our many expected guests from this community and the surrounding area feel welcome to our campus. Make your plans now for this Sunday evening, December 10 to attend the outstanding "Concert for Christmastime, 1967".
