

SUMMER SCHOOL LIFE AT HARVARD IS VIVIDLY DESCRIBED BY MISS BLAKE

Pleasant indeed are the surroundings of the student at Harvard Summer School. The dormitories by the river are cool, spacious, and have oak-panelled common rooms where the students may receive their guests. Also in these rooms various social and musical gatherings may be held. The atmosphere is very conducive to study. As a casual acquaintance remarked to the writer during the luncheon hour, "At Harvard we all seem to plunge into our work so deeply that we do not realize that there is anyone around. But three times a day we come up for air."

To the student of history the older buildings and the campus on the hill-top have meaningful associations. The Widener Library offers unequal facilities for reference reading. Many persons spend a few days or a few weeks in Cambridge in summer for the sole purpose of consulting this splendid reference library. Such persons often do not register at the summer school. On the other hand, one may register for a research course and may perhaps be the only student taking the course. In such a case the student will have conferences with his professor as soon as he gets a unit of work ready for presentation and criticism.

Research courses are always intensive and one is advised to take only one such course. In Harvard Summer School no student is allowed to take more than two courses without special permission. To cover these, regular and definite assignments are made and presented for criticism. Extensive reading is required in any course but they must be intensively pursued.

The courses in Vocational Guidance at Harvard are still ranked the best in country, Harvard having been a pioneer in this line. An acquaintance of the writer was working on two Vocational Guidance courses. The assignments made were most interesting. They covered several practical surveys of industries and problems in the vicinity of Boston, thus giving much practice in organized original research. Many summer school students were preparing special curricula under the guidance of University instructors to be put into execution in some high school or jun-back and penetrated at will. The game was full of long runs by our backfield, which was due to the clever broken field running of Bailey, Hobson and Knox.

The large score gave Coach Webb the opportunity to use his whole squad and the substitutes added to the score while holding the K.U.A. team in check.

This game officially closed Keene's football season and as was predicted in an earlier issue, a very successful one.

K. N. S. O.—Keene High Alumni O

In its last "Turkey Day" football game the Keene Normal team held the much heavier, all-star cast, Keene High Alumni, to a scoreless tie.

The Keene Normal line was without question the high light of the game; showing once again its stonewall characteristics. It held the Alumni for four consecutive downs on the one-yard line, after they had recovered a blocked punt.

With the backfield made up, with one exception, of freshmen, the Normalites played a splendid game defensively, but due to frozen, snow-covered ground, were unable to do much offensively.

WE BOW DOWN TO NOBODY!

With our new cheer still in our ears we look over the gridiron record of 1930. Three victories, three scoreless ties, one 7 to 7 tie and only one defeat. Considering the equipment, actual practise time and our most worthy opponents, Coach Webb should be congratulated on his teams' success.

Coach Webb, a tall, broad-shouldered individual, is a man the entire squad has the greatest respect for. Many nights when half the men had late classes, Coach Webb would don a headior college during this coming year.

Such an environment of purposeful activity could not fail to inspire the summer school student. In the solution of definite and vital problems of education, the instructors give the most sympathetic and stimulating assistance. It is a great school, not in the numerical sense, but rather in the serious purposes that seem to be worked out therein.

gear and participate in scrimmage. Ever after sustaining an injured knee he was often seen in the fray.

Coach Webb: "We appreciate your effort, your personality has made us the scrapping team we have been." —(THE SQUAD).

Summary of the Games

The first game with Lawrence was a fast hard-fought contest which resulted in a victory for the visitors. Coach Grant of Lawrence said: "It was the cleanest I've ever witnessed."

On our visit to New Hampton we were well received. The game was a see-saw affair with both teams lacking the punch to score.

Traditions were held intact when we trounced the New Hampshire Kittens 7 to 0. Those who spent the week-end home missed a great game!

Williams Freshmen then proved a hard nut to crack. We gave them all we had, but found it impossible to penetrate their line for a counter.

Revenge is sweet! Dartmouth Frosh had to take the short end of a 6 to 0 score. That was another acme game.

Mass. Aggies two-year varsity brought up its usual heavy squad. Both teams were able to score but once, the game ending in a 7 to 7 deadlock.

With one of the best teams they have yet had, K.U.A. had to take off their hat to the tune of 40 to 0.

Keene High brought forward an all-star alumni caste with more college players than ever before. They might have run wild during the early season, but not in that game!

BASKETBALL

The basketball season began in earnest December 4th with the football men reporting for their first practice and a team of great promise is rounding into shape under the supervision of Coach Webb.

It is expected that there will be both a varsity and a freshman team with a hard schedule for each. The varsity team, this year, is captained by Gordon "Jingle" Peavey of Manchester and a successful season is predicted.

The schedules are to be out soon after our Christmas vacation. Be sure to get one and plan to show your school spirit by attending every home game.

THE WHITTIER — TOWN SENTINEL

Amesbury, Mass.

A well planned paper with interesting departments. "Blue Monday" under the features department was a most interesting and vivid discourse. No doubt "Memorandum Column" is very much appreciated at Amesbury High.

W. S. N. S. TIP-TOP

Washington State Normal, Metchin, Maine

This is a neat little paper full of school news. Washington State must be an active Normal School.

THE SPAULDING SENTINEL

Barre, Vermont

A most attractive school paper with many clever features. "Let's Go Classy!" afforded both news and humor. Your advertisers surely do their bit for your paper with their fine illustrations.

A truly fine paper is "THE DIAL" from Brattleboro High school. Your department heads are unusually clever and appropriate. We like the orderly arrangement of various features. Continued success throughout another twenty-five years!

"Many nice things come in small packages" can surely be applied to the "BROWN AND GOLD" from Haverhill High school. Would not definite departments improve the plan of your paper?

Away to Glenmora, Louisiana, we send our congratulations. "Smile-A-While" is a "chatty" little paper whose joke columns make it worthy of its name. Might we suggest a literary department for your stories and essays? Visit us again!

DEAN HITCHCOCK TELLS ABOUT LABRADOR TRIP

K.N.S. Talent Gives Fine Program at Weekly Assembly

The Monday morning assemblies of the whole school, held in the Spaulding gymnasium, are featured by speakers from out of town, musical selections and other interesting numbers. Members of the faculty and of the student body often furnish the program, and the school orchestra under the direction of a member of the music course, leads the singing.

On Monday, January 12, the program was entirely by members of the school and was one of the most interesting so far this season. After the devotions lead by President Wallace E. Mason, Harold E. Morrill, of the four-year seniors read a humorous, but worthwhile essay "In Defense of Shyness." The usual notices followed. The featured item of the day was a talk by Paul E. Hitchcock, dean of men and head of the department of education, on his summer trip to Labrador on a sailing vessel. Following the talk, Lloyd T. Olmstead, '32, Concord, sang three sailors' chanteys, with Robert L. C. Tinkham, '33, at the piano.

Two Month's Cruise

Mr. Hitchcock told of leaving New London, Conn., on June 23, last, in a stout little German pilot boat with a crew of seven, including college men, teachers, writers and adventurers.

The entire journey was made under sail, and everyone had a part in sailing the ship and in keeping it in trim. After 11 days at sea, the party found themselves in the ice fields off the coast of Labrador where whales were seen in great numbers.

STUDENT TEACHERS FIND MANY ACTIVITIES AT JUNIOR HIGH

Assembly Programs and Clubs Give Everyone Well-Balanced Practice

EDWIN S. HUSE
Principal Junior High School

The end of the first semester will soon be here and another corps of practice teachers at the Central Junior High will soon return to their classes.

The second quarter of this semester has proved to be a very busy and profitable one for both students and teachers in spite of the fact that it has been broken up by the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

Among the most instructive and interesting work at the Junior High are the assembly programs and the club meetings.

Assembly Programs

At each assembly a program is given by students from the different home rooms. These have proved very worthwhile.

A successful minstrel show was presented by pupils from room two at one assembly under the direction of Miss Annette A. Collins, Miss Carol L. Reed, Francis B. McGrath and Miss Laura Fitzgerald who is the teacher in charge of room 2.

At another assembly a little playlet entitled "The Toyshop" was given by the pupils from room 3. This was coached by Miss Dorothea N. Vanni, Miss Alice H. Healy, George T. Mahar and Miss Lillian Brownlee, the home room teacher.

On Dec. 18 a delightful Christmas play was given by room 4 which is in charge of Miss Amy Tenney. The play was under the direction of Miss Leah Torri, Miss Helen M. Butterworth, Miss Dorothy Brooks and Edward J. Hickey.

Clubs Active

The clubs at Junior High are many and varied. The latest club to be organized is one called the Latin Club. This club is under the leadership of Ralph W. Creedon and its purpose is to stimulate interest in Latin for those who are planning to take it in the high school next year.

Student Teachers

Following is a list of those Keene Normal students who have been practice teaching under Mr. Edwin S. Huse, principal of the Central Junior High, for the second quarter: the Misses Mary P. Bain, Walpole; Dorothy Brooks, Needham Heights, Mass.; Helen M. Butterworth, Athol, Mass.; Antoinette Carbone, Milford; Annette A. Collins, Laconia; Theresa R. Gilbo, Keene; Alice H. Healy, Portsmouth; Dorothy Lindahl, Keene; Dorothy L. Maxim, Leominster, Mass.; Marjorie Record, East Jaffrey; Carol L. Reed, Amherst; Hope

BIG SOCIAL EVENTS COMING FOR K. N. S.

Mid-Year Ball and Tea Dance on February 6 and 7

There will be intriguing dance music, and the shaded lights in the Spaulding gymnasium will illumine a scene of exotic loveliness; strange young men in becoming "tuxes" will walk over our campus in the evening of February sixth, for that is the date that has been set for the annual Mid-year Ball. This dance is decidedly the social event of the school year. Indeed, the whole week-end may be an oasis of activity and gaiety in the grey winter weeks of study, for on Saturday afternoon, February 7, comes another delightful annual function. The Nu Beta Upsilon Sorority and Alpha Pi Tau Fraternity are sponsors of the tea dance which is also held in the gymnasium. In the evening will be a basketball game, probably between the alumni and the varsity.

Madeline Sargent, Keene, is general chairman of the mid-year ball committee and the following seniors have been elected chairmen of the necessary sub-committees: Ralph Potter, Westminster, Vt., ticket and programs; Miss Olive Ayer, Warner, decorations; Miss Evelyn Messer, New London, refreshments; Earl Hes, Manchester, music.

Tea Dance Committee

The sorority and fraternity have chosen the committees for the tea dance. The home economics girls have named Miss Corinne Soderstrom, Penacook, chairman; the Misses Laura King, Somersworth, tickets and programs; Edna Fitch, Claremont, chaperon; and Betty Aiken, Benson, Vt., refreshments. The Alpha boys chose as their committee: Earl Hes, Manchester, chairman; Everand Young, Franklin and Alfred Mannix, Portsmouth.

RURAL CADETS TELL OF VIVID EXPERIENCES IN N.H. FARM COMMUNITIES

Normal Students Contribute Towards Hot Lunches For Needy Pupils

MISS IDELLA K. FARNUM
Adviser of Rural Club

Although we have not heard so much about the Rural Club this year, nevertheless it has been working quietly and helpfully. On December 10th the club held a meeting in Hale building. The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Miss Doris E. Dent of Newport.

After a short business meeting, Miss Marjorie L. Cleveland, West Lebanon, gave a report on Dole School at Washington; Miss Catherine E. Curran, Franklin, reported on the school at Dyer's Crossing, East Andover; and Miss Gladys Holt, Antrim, spoke on West Hill school, in Surry. Each girl described her experiences as a cadet teacher in the rural community where she had passed nine weeks. Many of these experiences were very amusing and cleverly set forth.

The upper classmen probably remember hearing one of these cadet teachers give a current event on this subject in a recent assembly period. To others, let us say she told of children in some of our cadet schools who were not having enough to eat. The children from one family brought no lunches and were many pounds under weight. The speaker then told us that we would be allowed to contribute toward a project of the Rural club for helping these and other children.

VARIED CLUB ACTIVITIES

DEBATING CLUB

K. N. S. debaters met the varsity team from Middlebury in a well attended debate on the evening of Dec. 17, in Spaulding Gym. The home team defended the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, That Mechanical and Scientific Progress Do not Necessarily Mean an Advance in Civilization". The decision of the judges was 2 to 1 for the negative.

The K. N. S. team composed of Norman H. Davis of Portsmouth, and E. Reed Hardy and D. Leonard Harwood, both of Manchester, admitted past progress, but pointed out the many evils of the present mechanical civilization. The Vermont team, composed of Reamer Kline of Middlebury; Thomas J. Duffield, White Plains, N. Y., and Edward Yarrow, Webster, Mass., based their strong argument on the present high state of man's estate and stressed accomplishments in the medical and surgical field. Both teams excelled in rebuttal.

The judges were Rev. Patrick J. Scott, pastor of St. Bernard's church; Hon. Windsor H. Goodnow, and Miss Dorothy Feaster, instructor in public speaking at the Keene High school. Dean Paul E. Hitchcock, of the Normal school, presided.

The plan was started before the Christmas recess. Collections were made in each dormitory, and, to date, has amounted to ten dollars. This money will be used to purchase materials for hot lunches in those schools where pupils do not bring sufficient food from their homes. We congratulate the club for helping so worthy a cause, and we know the children will be benefited and will be better able to do their school work.

Miss Idella K. Farnum, supervisor of rural training, is the faculty member of the Rural club, and meetings are held in the rural department on the second floor of Hale building.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. welcomed new members into the club at a meeting held on Nov. 25.

The initiation took the form of a candle light service under the leadership of the president, Miss Edna L. Johnson, Hillsboro, and the vice-president, Miss Marion L. Pike of Concord.

After the ceremony club membership cards were given out by Miss Johnson and Miss Mary E. Colby, Suncook.

The Y. W. C. A. now has about 75 members and prospects for a profitable year are anticipated. The club has voted to have pins again this year.

DE LA SALLE

Plans are underway for the producing of the play "Pa's New Housekeeper" for a Saturday night program. The play sounds as though it has plenty of humor, especially when it is backed by a cast consisting of people such as these: the Misses Sarah Mullen and Gene McGirr, Martin Hefferman, George Donovan and Harold Dewyea. We are looking forward to a good entertainment.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Although you have heard but little from this club it has been hard at work. Probably the outstanding project during the last month has been the raising of money to help purchase the radio for the Practice House. This money was raised by selling "Hot-Dogs" at the football games and we here wish to thank the "K" club for this privilege.

Other than this we have held our regular meetings the first and third Monday nights of each month. We have had many interesting discussions and talks, one of which Miss Fitzgerald gave on her trip abroad. Our meetings have not been merely of the social type either, for the N.B.U. and Home Economics Club voted to consolidate, which of course made it necessary to rewrite our constitution. This has almost been completed and we feel that the one club, which now includes the functions of both, will be alive and a great benefit to the department.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA BY GIRLS' GLEE CLUB PROVES ARTISTIC PRODUCTION

Musical Program in Parker Hall Pleases Large Audience

A large number of Keene people joined with the students in sharing the fine musical program held in Parker Hall, Sunday afternoon, December 14.

Miss Elaine Ellis of Berlin, President of the Glee Club, served very competently as director, to take the place of Miss Evangeline S. Tubbs, who was ill. Miss Tubbs' absence was the only event that marred the success of the cantata. The girls thought their sympathy could best be shown by co-operating to make the production the best possible and they certainly succeeded.

The Christmas program opened with selections by an instrumental trio: the Misses Mildred Moore of Greenfield, Mass., pianist; Theresa Vereauteren of Manchester, violinist; and Dorothy Barnes of Haverhill, Mass., cellist. Their selections were: "Serenade", Gounod; and "He Shall Feed His Flock" from "The Messiah", Handel.

Two Christmas carols were sung by the congregation and Robert Tinkham of Manchester played a trumpet solo, "Largo", by Handel. The reading parts were well given by two members of our faculty, Miss Edna M. McGlynn and Merton T. Goodrich. The solos were given by the Misses Deborah Wilcox of South Lyndeboro, Antoinette M. Carbone of Milford, Laura Pelkey of Derry and Edna L. Johnson of Hillsboro. Each girl sang her solo excellently. There were also special choruses in addition to the entire group selections.

The splendid picture of the Madonna and the Child was drawn and colored by Miss Lucy M. Doane, and added a great deal to the stage setting. The four small pages carrying Christian flags and the members of the club carrying lighted candles, made an impressive sight.

Decorations were in charge of Miss Blanche Bailey of Sunapee; the costumes committee was headed by Miss Cinda LaClair, Saxtons River, Vt. and the chairman of the publicity committee was Miss Edna L. Johnson, Hillsboro.

May another cantata be as successful as "Bethlehem, The Age Old Christmas Story"!

AROUND THE CAMPUS

Robert Tinkham: "I do hope you'll pardon my dancing on your feet—I'm a little out of practice."

Lois Huntington: "I don't mind your dancing on them. It's the continued jumping on and off that aggravates me."

One can't swim in a poolroom—but the girls in Huntress are casting lines for a pool table in Huntress.

Clerk at Douglas Shoe Store: "Do those shoes hurt?"

G. Jaastad: "No, but my feet do!"

A great way to keep one jump ahead of the weather is to watch the barometric chart kept by the Academy of Science on the bulletin board in Parker hall.

M. Perkins: "What's wrong with this school?"

B. Macy: "The masculine population."

We are still looking on Fiske bulletin board for a list of assigned seats in the dining room.

Dad: "I hear you're a big gun over at school."

"Gil" Tuson: "Sure, Dad."

Dad: "Well, then why don't I hear better reports?"

We wonder—

When the "Home Eekers" will invite "Us" to tea!

Who took the backs of benches on campus for souvenirs!

When the Christmas decorations on Fiske and Huntress will be taken down!

If the Christmas tree in front of Hale building has become a permanent fixture!

Who was in a hurry and plowed the short cut across campus! (We see many following in his foot-steps.)

Who will win the girls' basketball tournament!

Mahar was telling Betty about the members of his basket-ball team.

"Now, there's McGrath", he said, "in a few weeks he'll be our best man."

APLHA PI TAU

The third degree of the initiation ritual was carried to a successful conclusion Friday night, January 9. Fifteen men thus became full-fledged members.

They were the following: Russel Heath, Bristol; Norman Hartfield, Farmington; John Whitehead, Manchester; Homer Young, Ashland; Paul Rizzi, Milford; Earl Harris, Franklin; Raymond Luxford, Landaff; Norman Foster, Manchester; Philip Bailey, Rochester; Alfred Barney, Whitefield; Wilfred Poirier, Lincoln; George Chickering, Westmoreland Depot; Maurice Kalloch, Concord; Clyde Ramsey, Lincoln; George Knox, Concord.

This event was followed by the fraternity banquet at Bradford Inn, Saturday night, January 17, at which many of the Alumni were present. Special guests were: Merton T. Goodrich, Sprague W. Drenan, and Charles W. Cutts of the faculty.

ART DEPT.

Everyone will be interested to know that decorations for the mid-years ball are already being planned. Those on the committee are Olive E. Ayer, Warner, Helen L. Tyrell, Claremont, Albert Brown, Manchester, and John Day, Antrim. It has been decided to carry the decorations out in Japanese effect.

It may be of interest to some to know that the Artcraft club sold Japanese prints amounting to nearly $100.

During the Christmas holidays,

Miss Jean Baird, head of the Art department, with a friend, visited in Salem, Mass., where Miss Baird spent six years teaching previous to coming to Keene. They made visits to the Essex Institute, the Peabody museum, the famous Chestnut and Federal Street houses, and to a prototype of an early Salem village.

Miss Lucy Doane gave an interesting talk to the Y.W.C.A., on Tuesday evening, Jan. 14. She told of some of her experiences doing mural painting.

KAPPA NEWS

The third degree was given to nineteen pledges on Thursday evening, Jan. 15. The charge was impressively given by Edwin S. Huse, headmaster of the Central Junior High school.

During the Christmas vacation the halls of the house were made attractive with new wall paper and a coat of paint. We appreciate President Mason's co-operation in making our "home" attractive and up-to-date.

Ralph "Duke" Potter was substituting at the Charlestown High school for several weeks immediately following the recess.

The fraternity orchestra is rehearsing under the direction of Hector Donald. Another project for the late winter or early spring is a minstrel show to be given at a Saturday night entertainment.

Arthur Gray, principal of the Junior High school at Errol, and Franklin Fortune, now teaching in Connecticut, spent a night at the house recently.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Senior Home Economics girls held a very successful Christmas sale of attractive candies, fruit cake and marmalade at the Blake house.

An exhibit of one hundred and thirty articles, illustrating various applications of stitches and gift suggestions taught in the freshman clothing class was displayed in the clothing laboratory. Each of the articles was made as an outside project, apart from class work.

The junior girls as a part of their work in foods and nutrition recently visited Goodnow's Bakery, where they watched the making of bread and cake for commercial use.

President Wallace E. Mason was the speaker at the meeting of the P. F. A. of the Wheelock school, Jan. 6. His topic was "Character Education" and in his address he stressed many ways in which the modern school builds character.

MECHANIC ARTS

Two of the Mechanic Art students, who were supposed to go out on projects this nine, were unable to secure positions. They are John S. Hobson, Concord, and Clayton Perrault, Keene. They are engaged at the school shop very profitably in duplicating the bleachers which were purchased for the athletic field last fall. All the work in making these bleachers, such as drilling, riveting and cutting the steel is being done in the Butterfield Building. This will save the school a large expense. They will provide seats for two hundred, the same as the others. This work gives the students engaged in it valuable, practical experience.

Those who have secured positions are Harold D. Bridge, Keene, with the Public Service company of the city, and James "Pat" Connelly, Gonic, with the Gonic Manufacturing company, and Elwin "Skip" Avery with a contractor in his home town, Kingston.

MUSIC NOTES

The date, February 3, has been set for the trip to Boston for those students wishing to see the opera. The opera which has been chosen this year is "Aida".

Glee Club and Orchestra rehearsals are held regularly in the absence of Miss Evangeline Tubbs. Miss Elaine Ellis of Berlin is conducting the glee club rehearsals and Harry W. Davis is conducting the orchestra.

A group of students entertained at the Men's Club social recently. The group was as follows: the Misses Lucile Thompson, melophone; Cecile Proulx, piano; Elaine Ellis, trumpet; Charlotte Davison and Dorothy Kane, violins.

The brass quartette gave an interesting program at the Winchester High school in Winchester before the Christmas recess. The quartette was: Harold Edgerly, leader; Miss Lucile Thompson, Miss Eleanor Buzzell and Robert Tinkham.

This same group also entertained at Four Corners recently.

"SINCE THIS IS A NEW YEAR"

From the annual raising of hands and solemn promises of virtue and industry we have always refrained. We have wondered sometimes, however, if the people around us would not be improved by a few carefully kept resolutions. Since the individual is so nearly powerless in a society thick with temptation we have arranged a few social resolutions that apply directly to Keene Normal School.

In the first group is that problem of school spirit. The old grads come back and say, "The school is not the same, the spirit is gone. When we were here—why, once—and they proceed to tell of the time they nailed the overalls to the top of the flag pole, or crept to the corner store at ten-thirty to buy dill pickles. They have probably confused the excitement of their lawless escapades with the feeling of good fellowship they felt at the time—a spirit that must have pervaded the school in those days when it was smaller. The school is not yet so large, however, that it can afford to be anything but friendly. Loyalty to an institution after one has left it can be decided by the individual, but loyalty to the school while we are here is necessary. Therefore our first resolution is this: we will be friendly.

We will be responsible—responsible as a group and for the group. This is one of the most unexciting and difficult of virtues. We know well the duties, burdens and attitudes that it requires. This resolution is only a recognition of a fact that has become, thru repetition, a part of our being.

We resolve to see more widely, more clearly and understandingly, the world around us. As a far-sighted man holds his book at arm's length from his eyes so we must get our minds farther away from the blurred page of our daily life. Next year perhaps we'll resolve to make great changes, to do great deeds because of what we've seen. For this year we'll focus our minds until we see more clearly and more truly.

But suggestions and sermons are only words while a wish may be blessed by a fairy. This is our wish—may everyone be happy.

STICK TO YOUR GUNS

A profession rests upon the ideals and standards of those within it. Medicine enjoys its present rating as a profession because of the standards and ethics subscribed to by its members. Law attains the same heights purely by means of ethics and ideals. Both professions have their "weak sisters", the "pillrollers" and the "shysters", but above them there towers a turret of ideal professional standards. The public respect accorded a profession is due largely to the attitude of the individual practitioner.

Now, we are interested in Education. Our own futures and the future of Education are bound together inextricably. We have the privilege of raising or lowering the standards of that profession. We are the ones who are going to determine public opinion in regard to Education. There are some of us who will be successful regardless of the rest, and there are some who will fail. On the whole, however, our standing in our community will depend upon the amount of respect paid our profession. That respect, in turn, is dependent upon us as individuals. There is an exchange of benefits. Boost your profession, and it will in turn boost you. Knock your profession, and you will receive the recoil of that knock as an individual.

Let us bear in mind that we are no longer on the "outside". We have chosen our calling; a profession with the highest aims of service, and the best of ideals. We must build into that vocation the best we have to give. We must fling aside petty individual fault-finding, and swing into the spirit of the thing. Let our criticisms come later, when our eyes encompass a fuller view. For the present, stick to your guns! Education is your game! Play it well!

FACULTY DOINGS

By H. B. P.

In Charles H. L. Johnson's recently published book "Famous American Athletes of Today," Clarence H. DeMar, of the faculty, and internationally known marathoner, is given a prominent place. His picture is also included in the publication.

Sprague W. Drenan, head of the English department, and Harry B. Preston, also of that department, attended the 30th annual meeting of the New England Association of Teachers of English, held at Hotel Kimball, Springfield, Mass., Dec. 12 and 13. The theme of the conference was "What English does for young people's thinking."

Members of the department of Mechanic Arts participated in a conference of the New Hampshire Society for Vocational Education held at the Keene High school on December 11. "Why mechanic arts and what we can do to justify it in the schools," was the topic for discussion. Speakers included Clifton A. Dustin, Concord, a member of the Normal school faculty, and supervisor of trades and industries for the State Department of Education, and Supt. Walter E. Hammond, of the Keene schools. Conrad A. Adams, of the faculty, was chairman of the group.

The December number of the "Bulletin of the New Hampshire Public Libraries," official publication of the State Library Commission contains an interesting article describing the new Wallace E. Mason Library at K.N.S., named in honor of President Mason and dedicated last June. The article was prepared by a member of the Normal English department.

With the new term following the holidays, members of the school were much pleased to welcome Miss Martha E. Randall of the English department back to her class room work after several weeks' absence due to illness. Miss Evangeline S. Tubbs, instructor in music, was detained at her home after the recess and her work was carried on partly by a substitute and partly by Harry W. Davis, head of the department.

MARRIAGES

SADD-BARKER

A church wedding of the late fall season occurred at Nashua when Miss Lucille Barker of that city was married to Roswell Sadd, K.N.S. (1926-'27) of the same city. Rev. Earl F. Nauss, minister of the first Congregational church performed the ceremony, using the double ring service. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Sadd will make their home at Belford, Ohio, where Mr. Sadd is located.

CLARK-HUTCHINSON

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Hutchinson, Keene, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Marion E. Hutchinson, to Clifford H. Clark of Hanover, son of William D. Clark of Williamsburg, Va., on Nov. 27 at Lebanon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Hansen. The double ring service was used. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Turner, the latter a sister of the bride.

Mrs. Clark is a graduate of Keene Normal school, 1925, and has taught in the Lincoln schools for the past four years. Mr. Clark is a graduate of the University of Virginia and is a well known business man in Hanover. Upon return from their wedding trip they will reside in Hanover.

ELDRIDGE-SYKES

Another wedding of the summer was that of Miss Claudia Irene Sykes, a graduate of the two-year course, 1927, to Donald M. Eldridge. Both young people are residents of Keene. Mr. Eldridge is a graduate of Wentworth Institute, Boston, and is a salesman for a firm of motor car dealers. Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge plan to make their home in Keene.

BLACK-WILLIAMS

A marriage not previously noted in "THE KRONICLE," which occurred during the summer of 1930 was that of Miss Vivian Doris Williams of Keene to Lewis H. Black of Williamsburg, Mass. The bride graduated from the music supervisory course at K.N.S. in 1928 and taught last year in Buckland, Mass. Mr. Black is a graduate of M.A.C. and is now employed as teacher and coach at Sander son Academy, Ashfield, Mass., in which town the couple are making their home.

NOTES

A son, Norman, was born in New York City, Dec. 7, to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Leon. Mrs. Leon was formerly Miss Marie Antoinette Bergeron of Hinsdale. She was the first student to register in Keene Normal school.

1915

Miss Mildred P. Murphy, for several years in charge of the home economics department of Keene Normal school and now assistant state leader in connection with the New Jersey state college in New Brunswick, N.J., is giving a series of radio talks from Station WOR, each Tuesday at 12:20.

1930

Miss Eunice Williams, Haverhill, Mass., was one of the two directors responsible for the staging of a Christmas pageant, "The Christmas Mystery" held in that city during the holiday season just past, and sponsored by the Haverhill Y.W.C.A.

Miss Irene Blatchford, teacher of music in the schools of Farmington, recently staged an opera in the town hall of that town. Proceeds were used for new uniforms for the girls' basketball team.

EDW. J. MULCAHY ATTAINS SUCCESS WITH MOVIES IN TEACHING PROFESSION

Edward J. Mulcahy, '26, teacher of the history of civilization at the Manchester Central High school, has introduced the use of motion pictures for the pupils in his classes. Recently the reels "Queen of the Waves" and "King of the Rails," showing the progress of transportation on land and sea, were used to help the classes in precise writing.

Mr. Mulcahy, who arranged the program, used motion pictures extensively while teaching at Hinsdale High school during the three years he was there and found that better results were obtained by the use of motion pictures. He plans to use pictures regularly in his classes. The picture is shown once, then the teacher explains how to take notes and the picture is rerun while the class makes notes.

WINTER SPORTS PROGRAM IN FULL SWING AT K. N. S.

BASKETBALL BASKET BALL SEASON OPENS

On December 12, Keene Normal's basketball season started off with a bang, when Coach Webb's inexperienced five downed the veteran Keene High tournament team by a score of 21 to 14.

The team this year consists almost entirely of freshmen. Captain Gordon Peavey and Charles Beaudette, being the only members of last year's squad, although Verne Quimby, Andover, a transfer student from Springfield, last mid-years, helps to strengthen the quintet.

With such a successful start Keene Normal School should end its season with no defeats.

Keene Normal vs. Fitchburg Normal

On December 19, Keene Normal continued its winning stride by taking their second game of the season from Fitchburg Normal on the latter's home floor.

This game found Captain "Jingle" Peavey, out of the line-up, and although his loss was greatly felt, the Normal hoopers scored 31 points to Fitchburg's 26.

The game was fast and cleanly played with the score tied at 13 at the half. Quimby and Young were the high scorers for Keene, while Sauter's floor work helped Fitchburg to keep our scoring down.

JAMES "PAT" CONNELLY MADE GRIDIRON CAPTAIN FOR THE SEASON OF 1931

Iron Man of Past Three Years is Popular Leader, Chosen by Letter Men

James "Pat" Connelly of Gonville, a graduate of Rochester high school has been unanimously elected to the captaincy of the 1931 football squad. "Pat" has held down a regular berth for three seasons and was proclaimed by many the most valuable asset of the 1930 team. He gets the name of "iron man" from his rugged physique, and the fact that he played the entire past season without a replacement.

Captain Connelly's leadership ability is without question. He had charge of intermural sports last year, is a member of the Alpha fraternity, has participated in numerous amateur boxing and wrestling exhibitions, swims excellently, performs well on the gym apparatus, and is a base ball player of no little note. He may easily be called a self made athlete as all his pre-normal training was done under difficulty; between school and working hours. We are looking for a successful season under his leadership.

Keene Normal 1933 vs. Walpole High School

Upholding the example set by the varsity, the freshmen, playing Keene Normal's first yearling basketball game, easily defeated Walpole High by a score of 25-14 in Spaulding Gym, Friday night, January 9, 1931.

The first half found neither team doing much scoring but the third and fourth quarters saw Coach Webb's men steadily pull away from the secondary boys and pile up the score.

The Walpole team is coached by Bill Ladieu, one of our four year practice students, and much credit should be given him, for out of six games already played they have won three.

HAMPSTEAD SCHOOLS PROUD OF NEW COMMUNITY GYMNASIUM

Teachers, Boys and Citizens Work Hard Remodelling Abandoned School Building

Last September the elementary schools of Hampstead abandoned the old one room district schools. This was made possible by the completion of a new building designed to replace an inadequate structure of the past. The centralization of those elementary schools has made possible another project of great value to the community.

Some one conceived the idea of making a gym out of the old Hampstead Center school, which was adjacent to both the high and the new central building. The sub-master of the high school, Mr. Albert Gauthier, a graduate of K.N.S. and the teacher of Manual Arts, a cadet from Keene, John H. Frye, and the boys of the high and junior high schools said they would do the work.

Handicapped by lack of time, lack of money, and lack of almost everything except enthusiasm and courage, they set at the task. Interested citizens of the town were eager to co-operate. Encouragement came from all sources; time, money, and services were willingly contributed. Fixtures, partitions, stairways, ceilings and even steel beams, were soon removed.

When the tearing out was completed a gift was made that the young people of Hampstead will always be thankful for. Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Emerson, a family who have always been interested in the welfare of the community, said they would finish the job. As a result the old building has new floors, ceilings, walls, lights and heating fixtures. It is now ready for its purpose.

The value of this truly school-community project will be determined by its use. May the future cadets from Keene and Plymouth Normal see that this

GIRLS' SPORTS

The girls of Keene Normal are still hard at work on basketball and much interest is being shown by the various classes. There are really three different schedules in this sport for girls this year. The first could be called the "Division Tournament," the second the "Class Tournament" and last the Varsity schedule.

The varsity will not be chosen to start practice until after these tournaments are played off. It will then be chosen and have about two weeks of hard practice before its first game. The captain of this year's varsity team is Katherine D. Parks of Montpelier, Vt.; she is at present acting manager, too. The regular varsity manager will be chosen from the group when the varsity team is chosen.

An interesting season is in store. See the games and enjoy them!

The schedules are as follows:

DIVISION TOURNAMENT

Jan. 13, 2 HR vs. 2 HE and 2 HF vs. 2 HM.

Jan. 15, A vs. B and 1 HE & M vs. C.

Jan. 21, the two winning teams of Jan. 13 and the two winning teams of Jan. 15.

Jan. 22, the winning teams of Jan. 21.

CLASS TOURNAMENT

Jan. 27, divisions A, B, and C vs. 1 HR, 1 HF, etc.

Jan. 28, Sophomores vs. Seniors.

Jan. 29, Sophomores vs. Divisions A, B, and C.

Feb. 3, Seniors vs. Divisions A, B, and C.

Feb. 4, Sophomores vs. Divisions 1 HR, 1 HF, etc.

Feb. 5, Seniors vs. Divisions 1 HR, F, etc.

Feb. 10, two highest teams.

project is used to the utmost in developing the co-ordination of strong minds and bodies which can be effected by such facilities for training.

EXCHANGES

THE JOURNAL
School of Education, Western Reserve University,
Cleveland, Ohio

This paper speaks for itself. Pick it up with the intention of only glancing through it and you'll finish by having read every word. Interest plus!

A regular newspaper is "The Echo" from Greenville, N.C. No doubt your "Alumnae Department" is a great factor in lengthening your subscription list. It surely is both complete and interesting.

A most interesting and unusual paper comes to us from Oberlin College at Ohio. All the campus activities are pictured in the movements of the sonata: "Oberlin Regina." We might call it a union of music, news, and art.

A fine number was the Dec. issue of the "Spaulding Sentinel" from Barre, Vermont. This issue was dedicated to the alumni. We were particularly impressed by your unusual cover design.

A newsy little paper is the bi-weekly "Profile" from Manchester. This publication covers school news very thoroughly and interestingly. Graduates from Manchester Central should "take a look" at this.

An enjoyable school paper is "The Blue and White" from Methuen, Mass. This booklet emphasized the spirit of the season in its "Christmassy" department headings. Your humor is fine.

A most attractive High School publication is the "Record" from Montpelier, Vermont. Your organization and content continue the finess of your cover. Come again.

FORTUNATE

"I never thought I'd pull through! First, I got angina pectoris, followed by arteriosclerosis. Just as I was recovering from these, I got tuberculosis and aphasia."

"Good heavens, you don't look much the worse for it!"

"I wasn't ill you idiot! I was in a spelling contest."—Tit-Bits.

STATE NORMAL PRESIDENTS CHAMPION PROFESSIONAL SCHOOL STANDARDS

K.N.S. to be Represented at Supts. Convention at Detroit in February

President Wallace E. Mason returned on Dec. 19 from a three-day's conference of executives of teacher training institutions of the East, held in New York, at Hotel Pennsylvania. President Mason reports that there was a good attendance of heads of schools and colleges of New England, New York, New Jersey and other states on the Atlantic seaboard. The subject of the conference was the important one of "Standards".

In the west, according to President Mason, the teachers' colleges are more nearly in their program of studies like our liberal arts institutions, and in some cases less professional. Eastern executives are anxious that the revised standards take this professional viewpoint into account. Dr. Mason and Dr. Ernest L. Silver of Plymouth are leaders putting this matter before the national committee on the subject.

It is Doctor Mason's plan now to attend the Superintendents' section meeting of the N.E.A. at Detroit, which will be held Feb. 21 to 25. At the teacher training conference on the three days previous to the superintendents' meeting he with others will carry on the activity for higher professional standards in Teachers' colleges and Normal schools. Other members of the K.N.S. faculty are planning to take in the Detroit meeting next February.

FORMER FACULTY

Charles E. Huntington, former instructor in psychology, and Mrs. Huntington, were guests for a few days during the Christmas vacation, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sprague W. Drenan, 33 Marlboro Street. Mr. Huntington is studying at Columbia University this year.

Mrs. William W. Wallace (Marjorie P. Masters), formerly a member of the physical education department, is now living at 66 Fort Pleasant Ave., Springfield, Mass. She is substituting in the McDuffee school, Springfield, a private school for girls.

TEACHERS, STUDENTS AND ALUMNI PARTICIPATE IN COMMUNITY PROJECT

"Pages of the Past" Given in City Hall, Depicts Early Keene History

For "The Pages of the Past" an elaborate pageant presented by the Keene Woman's club at City hall on Dec. 9, the research work and the dialogue was done by students of the Normal school under the direction of Miss Isabel M. Blake, instructor in history. Those who took part in the pageant and helped in the preparation of the dialogue were the Misses Dorothy Perkins '32, Manchester, Eleanor Williamson, '32, Lancaster, Emma Newton '31 Windsor, Vt., and Ann Tankard '31, Berlin. The pageant was produced under the direction of Mrs. Ralph W. Newell, (Margaret Mann), chairman of the Woman's club dramatic committee. Mrs. Newell is a graduate of K. N.S., and was formerly instructor in public speaking and a substitute for Mrs. Dawn Nelson Wallace in that department, during the second semester of last year.

MRS. EVELYN CAMP KING

In the November number of "THE KRONICLE", we noted the marriage of Miss Evelyn Camp, '27, to Henry E. King of Claremont. It now becomes our sad duty to record her death which took place December 16. She had not been well for some months, and death followed an operation from which she failed to rally.

Evelyn J. Camp was born in Meriden, May 27, 1907, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Camp. She was graduated from Kimball Union academy with honors and from Keene Normal in 1927. For three years she was a successful teacher of household arts in the schools of Hillsboro. The survivors, besides the widower and parents, include a sister and a brother.

The funeral was held from her parents' home, Meriden, with Rev. George C. Junkins, pastor of the Baptist church, officiating. The sympathy of classmates and faculty members are hereby extended to the members of the sorrowing family.

EDUCATION NOTES

A modern $15,000 roof garden chemistry laboratory opened at Boston University's Sargent School of Physical Education is believed to be the only one of its kind in this country. It is built on top of the college gymnasium.

The sixty-first annual convention of the Department of Superintendence of the N.E.A. will be held at Detroit, Mich., February 21-26. Commander Richard E. Byrd has accepted President Norman Crozier's invitation to speak at one of the general sessions of the morning.

Radeliffe started its fifty-second year this fall with a new landmark, a lecture building, the first of this sort to be erected in the history of the college. The building contains three large lecture halls, nineteen lecture rooms, seating from twenty to twenty-five students; seven conference rooms, eleven offices and seven special rooms.

Development of the social instinct among rural students is being attempted in Illinois country schools this year through a series of plans devised by Dr. Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction. A definite program has been worked out whereby the rural pupils will have physical education the year round. A better understanding of teamwork, a spirit of co-operation and friendliness are to be taught in this way.

Plans have been laid by four undergraduates of Amherst College for the first intercollegiate newspaper to be produced in that vicinity. Smith, Mt. Holyoke, Massachusetts State College, and Amherst are to be covered on an equal basis by the paper. A temporary delay has been caused by the administration at Amherst, which withheld its approval on the grounds that there is no need for a daily paper in that college and that, if successful, it will kill the present undergraduate bi-weekly publication.

DEAN HITCHCOCK'S TRIP

Mr. Hitchcock then related many interesting things about the Labrador folk and their habits of life. He told of meeting Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, and of his wonderful work for the people of the region. They have few advantages of education, and with the extreme climate and limited resources, have a low standard of living.

DEAN PAUL E. HITCHCOCK

The speaker mentioned the excellent fishing off the Labrador coast, especially salmon fishing. The past summer was better than average for this variety of fish.

Outrode Three Storms

The party returned by way of Cape Sable and Mt. Desert Island, after going through nearly all the experiences that colored the life of old-time mariners before motor power robbed the sea of its romance.

During the cruise, the 85-foot sailing boat outrode three heavy storms. One raged with such force that two jibs were blown out and the crew was forced to release oil on the waters to quiet a sea that washed the decks.

Dean Hitchcock conveyed very vividly to his audience the feeling of a sailor on watch in the midst of dangers and under the stars. "It was a never-to-be forgotten experience," said the speaker, in closing his talk. He was given a hearty round of applause at the close of the address.

BASKETBALL

Fitchburg vs. K. N. S.

On January 10, Keene Normal opened its home season with Fitchburg Normal.

At the end of the first quarter the score was 0-0. At the half the score was 8-6 in favor of the home team and from then on they retained the lead.

The game from the spectator's standpoint was uninteresting due to the excessive number of fouls called. In all, there were thirty-eight personal and two technical fouls.

With three minutes to go a Keene man was taken from the game on fouls and as all the substitutes were ineligible to play due to having played previously in the same quarter, Keene was forced to finish the game with four men. During this time Fitchburg scored three times.

The final score was Keene 24, Fitchburg 22.

COACH DISLIKES CROOKS!

It was the early fall training season for Siwash College's football squad, and the coach was giving them a dressing down in the locker room of the mammoth gymnasium.

"Furthermore," he added, after he had told them how generally punk they were, "there's a dirty crook somewhere in this outfit. Somebody got into my locker last week and swiped a washcloth from the De Soto in Savannah, two Turkish towels from the Henry Clay in Ashland, Virginia, a Y. M. C. A. blanket from Cincinnati, and a couple of Pullman car pillow cases."

Dot Vanni, (learning to drive) "Dad, that little mirror up there isn't set right."

Mr. Vanni:—"Isn't it?"

Dot:—"No, I can't see anything but the car behind."

D. Wilson (to Marion after a tea party):

"What's the matter? You look mournful."

M. Pike: "That's what is the matter. I'm more'n full."

CLUBS

ORPHEUS CLUB

A meeting of the Orpheus Club was held January 5. The program of this meeting was outstanding to the members as Harry B. Preston, of the English department, was the speaker. The topic on which he spoke was "How to Listen to Music". Miss Ruth Ellingwood of Littleton sang a selection, and Miss Blanche Bailey, Sunapee, played a piano solo. The committee in charge was Miss Ruth Ellingwood, chairman, and Miss Emma Newton, Windsor, Vt.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The last of the Saturday evening socials for the year 1930 took the form of a Christmas party on Dec. 13 in the Spaulding gymnasium. This party for the second consecutive year was sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. girls. A very jolly time was had and various and sundry gifts were distributed to all present by Santa Claus in the person of Merton T. Goodrich of the faculty.

A very interesting program was given by the girls who reside in Brick house and Cheshire house under the direction of Miss Alice L. Gage of Pelham.

NOTES

Former Governor Huntley N. Spaulding, donor to K. N. S. of the Spaulding gymnasium, and with his brother, former Governor Rolland H. Spaulding, have given to their native town of Townsend, Mass., a new school building to be built during 1931.

Pictures by two Smith College girls, one of whom comes from Portsmouth, have been accepted by the College Art Association of N. Y. which is sponsoring the first exhibition of students' work.

Clarence H. DeMar was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Manchester Rotary club, Monday, Jan. 5, at Hotel Carpenter.

The celebration in 1932 of the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington is an opportunity to fix in the minds of both children and adults the higher and finer values of citizenship. It is a time to arouse admiration for traits of courage, foresight, endurance, and public service which are exemplified in the lives of the pioneer founders. It is time to magnify personal character and fitness through biographical study of the lives of Washington and other makers of American history. —JOY ELMER MORGAN.

At the foundation of a more intelligent rural community must be schools which are something more than drill shops in charge of temporary instructors. The rural school of tomorrow will be a service institution which will contribute new vitality to practically every phase of rural life... —JOY ELMER MORGAN, Editorial in THE JOURNAL OF THE N.E.A., January, 1931.

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE CLUB
APPEAR IN FINE CONCERT

Varied Program Rendered by Prize
Winning Musical Group

Under the direction of the Academy of Science a most delightful program was given by the Middlebury College Glee Club in the Spaulding Gym, Saturday, January 31, 1931.

The program was varied and held the attention of the audience for one hour and a half.

The Glee Club displayed a very pleasing quality of tone, distinct enunciation, and unusual shading and interpretation.

The first number on the program, a Latin Hymn of the 15th century immediately caught the attention of the audience and in this number the club showed particularly fine shading and tone color.

Solos and Quartette

Mention should be made of the evening's soloist and the quartet. The soloist was Mr. Fear, a tenor, with a very rich tenor voice. His interpretation and diction were particularly fine. Mr. J. C. Thomson was the violin soloist and much could be said of his technique and the ease with which he played. "Nobody Knows the Trouble I Seen" was well played and received by the audience.

The quartet was very well balanced and won the approval of the audience with the negro spiritual "I Got Shoes."

The Glee Club sang songs of their own college for encores and this also gave a freshness to the program.

After the concert the boys were introduced and a social time was enjoyed for an hour.

BRILLIANT MID-YEAR BALL
FEATURES ORIENTAL SETTING

Students, Alumni, and Visitors Enjoy
Formal Social Functions

"Mid-years" has come and gone. The lanterns and the panels and the leather chairs have been taken from the gymnasium. No longer is the air filled with such questions as these: "Going to Mid-years?" "Have you the eighth or the third extra?" "Has your dress come?" "Have you heard from him yet?" "Aren't there ANY long gloves in Keene?" The gym floor is slippery still, and many "mem" books are richer by the addition of a red, dragon-decked dance program and a yellow-flowered paper napkin, but that first week-end in February is history.

On Friday night, February sixth the Spaulding gymnasium had become beautifully oriental. There were huge Japanese lanterns hanging from above, lovely things painted in soft colors and characteristic designs. Boughs of cherry blossoms and evergreen hid the windows and framed the stage. Gorgeous panels covered the walls, painted with Japanese patterns and pictures and executed with skillful care and attention to detail. Strips of characters hung from the balcony and added their bit to the truly oriental atmosphere. The whole art department and especially the committee headed by Miss Olive Ayer, Warner, deserve praise for the effective and charming appearance of the hall.

At each end of the hall was a special attraction. On the stage was the orchestra, the Connor-Whitney orchestra of Keene, which also played for the tea dance Saturday afternoon. At the other end of the room was a booth where girls in dainty dresses presided over the punch bowl and served ice cream. The refreshments were arranged and prepared by a committee of home economics girls under Miss Evelyn Messer, New London.

The gracious beauty of the longer dresses is no where shown more effectively than in evening clothes. The girls were dressed in satin, in taffeta and lace and chiffon, in gleaming white, in sophisticated black, in lovely pastel tints and glowing jewel colors.

Faculty Receive

In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Cutts, Miss Inez M. Vaughan, Miss Mabel R. Brown, Miss Isabelle U. Esten and Miss Ida E. Fernald of the faculty, Miss Madeline Sargent, vice-president of the senior class and chairman of the ball committee, Mr. Arthur O'Brien, Miss Sylvia Moulson and Mr. Harry Arnold, president of the senior class.

Miss Helen Deal, Portsmouth and Allen Charter, Manchester, were head ushers and were assisted by Misses Gene McGirr, Concord, Betty Aiken, Benson, Vt., Ruth Isherwood, Berlin, Gertrude Cossar, North Sudbury, Mass., Dorothy Angwin of Concord, and Wilfred Poirier, Lincoln, Homer Young, Ashland, Frederic Beechman, Manchester, Harold Edgerly, Rochester, and Kenneth Taylor, Concord.

Lectures, Recital

The student body was favored by a lecture by William Webster Ellsworth, former managing editor of the Century Publishing Company, on Monday, January 26.

No subject was announced for the lecture but two things stood out in the listeners' mind when Mr. Ellsworth had finished: what a rich and varied acquaintance he had made among the writers of his day and the more definite advice that to acquire the art of writing, one must write.

It was absorbing to listen to Mr. Ellsworth as he related personal anecdotes from the lives of Kipling, Stevenson, Mark Twain and Tarkington.

Monday evening, the 26th, we had the pleasure of listening again to Mr. Ellsworth give an illustrated lecture on "The Times of Queen Elizabeth".

Fine Pictures

The pictures were unusually clear and a propos of the talk. Many phases of the times were taken up with illustrations of Elizabeth's courtiers, man or houses, and a few scenes of the battle between the Spanish Armada and the English fleet.

Queen Elizabeth was ill most of her life as has been definitely proven by a complicated chart made out by modern investigators of the subject. The prevalent impression is that she was always well.

She was a patroness of the arts and encouraged all forms of literary achievement.
