Field Hockey team wins

Goalie Sue Koerber played a very good game, winning three penalty bul- lies, and keeping down the number of Springfield shots on goal, allowing only two of twenty-one by her.

Keene goals were scored by Linda Marce, and Karen Cushing with an assist by Peg Gay, making the final score 2-2.

The JV's played their most difficult game of the season against the Springfield JV's, losing 6-1. In the first half Keene played an intelligent game, thinking about where the ball should be passed, staying in position, and taking free hits.

In the last seconds of the first half, center half Kathy Moreau, was injured and had to be taken out of the game. When the second half started, Keene was psychologically down because they had to play one man short. The players were being pulled out of position and weren't thinking as they did in the first half. Springfield's basketball grapevine attack proved to be very effective against the Red defense. Trudy Peterson scored the lone goal for KSC.

McGOVERN ON HONESTY

Enrollment levels off

Keene State College enrollment is a- bout as last year's level, according to figures compiled for the fall term of the 1972-73 academic year.

The figures show at least a temporary halt to the 24 per cent increase in enroll- ment KSC has experienced over the past three years, but is in accordance with the college's desire to remain small but se- lective.

In the fall of 1969, enrollment was 1,836. The figure has risen to 2,266 this fall, although enrollment is down 22 stu- dents from the 1971-72 figure of 2,288.

The slight (less than 1 per cent) de- crease turns out to be all men, according to the figures furnished by the KSC Data Processing Center. There were 1,263 wo- men enrolled last fall, and the figure this fall is exactly the same. The men's enroll- ment is off from 1,025 a year ago to 1,003 this year.

The breakdown between teacher edu- cation students and liberal arts and sci- ence majors is roughly three-fourths to one-fourth, although the teacher percent- age has dropped from 74 per cent to 72 per cent this year. Liberal arts and science students account for 25 1/2 per cent of the enrollment - up from 23 per cent a year ago - with the remaining 1/2 per cent composed of two-year technical education students.

Women still outnumber men on the KSC campus - 1,239 to 985 - with the coeds comprising 55 per cent of the under- graduate student body. This ratio has remained unchanged over the last three years.

Education students total 1,609, a de- crease of 56 from last year's 1,665 figure. The most popular majors within the secondary education curriculum this year are physical education 233 students, in- dustrial education 136, home economics 133, music 103, English 93 and history 91.

Enrollment in physical education is up 39 from last year, an increase of 20 per cent. Industrial education is up 16 stu- dents, while there are 13 more students in home economics from a year ago. Special education, a new major, has 55 students enrolled.

The most popular liberal arts majors, according to enrollment figures, are: psy- chology 130, English 94, history 92, sociology 77, biology 60, and mathema- tics 45. Enrollment in sociology is up 40 students, or an increase of 109 per cent!

Author, screenwriter to discuss film, book

The film "One Eyed Jacks," starring Marlon Brando will be screened at KSC Thursday (Nov. 2) at 6:30 p.m. in the Brown Room. And, following the show- ing, the film's screenwriter and the author of the work that the film is based on will be present for a seminar-discussion.

Charles Neider, author of "The Authen- tic Death of Hendry Jones", and screen- writer Walter Bernstein will hold a semi- nar-discussion following the film in the Student Union Commuters Lounge.

Neider's "Authentic Death of Hendry

Jones" is a spin off on the story of Billy the Kid which has been cited as among the half-dozen best westerns ever written.

Neider became somewhat of a legend while writing the novel at the now de- funct Huntington Hartford Artist Colony in California. This was mainly because he wore everywhere a holstered handgun tied low on his leg for a fast draw to get the "feel" of what it's like.

Neider is currently working on a book about Antarctica. On one of his several trips there his plane was downed. Search- es for the author proved futile and he was thought dead for some time.

Neider has also written "The White Citadel," a novel and "The Frozen Sea," a critical study of Franz Kafka. He has also edited various critical works and anthologies.

Bernstein has been screenwriter for various films including "Molly McGuiness" which starred Sean Connery, "Fallsafe", and "Paris Blues". He is currently work- ing on an original screenplay entitled "Spookwaffe."

Both writers are currently in residence at the MacDowell Artist Colony in Peter- borough.

The MacDowell Colony, founded in 1910, is a retreat for artists, composers and writers who have shown potential in their fields. Among those who have lived in the small wooden dwellings at Mac- Dowell are Leonard Bernstein and Thom- orton Wilder, who wrote the play "Our Town" while at MacDowell.

Conrad S. Spinoz, general director of the MacDowell Colony, will also be pres- ent at the seminar-discussion.

The program is part of a series in which the Student Union Programming Board brings various artists to visit the campus. Steve Smith, assistant Union di- rector, said Monday.

We hope to be bringing more people from the MacDowell Colony in the future, Smith said.

Admission to the program is free.

Will eliminate IBM cards

Preregistration begins Monday

The two-week long preregistration for the spring semester will begin Monday. New procedures will eliminate the use of IBM cards at registration, since admission to classes will be based on class rosters compiled at preregistration, Eleanor Betz, registrar, said.

Seniors and graduate students will preregister Monday (Nov. 6) with juniors preregistering on Wednesday and Thurs- day (Nov. 8-9). Sophomores will pre- register on the following Monday and Tues- day (Nov. 13-14), followed by freshmen and special students on Thursday and Fri- day (Nov. 16-17).

There will be a number of changes in the advisement and registration procedures in an effort to make registration day (January 15) as simple as possible, Betz said.

All students must confer with their advisors on the scheduled days. (Faculty advisors will post their free hours during the advisement days on their doors or on the department bulleting boards.)

All advisement must be completed by November 20. Those who are not advised will not be allowed to register on January 15 and will have to pay a $10.00 fee for late registration.

Procedures for preregistration are as follows.

Students should see their advisor at the designated time. At this time the stu- dent will fill out a Registration Form and Course Registration Cards for courses de- sired.

Next students will take registration form and course registration cards to the chairman of the department offering each course. Course approvals will be initialed by a person in the department.

If any of the courses selected are closed (filled up) students are urged to go im- mediately to the departments of their alter- nate course selections.

When all the courses are initialed on the registration form, the student should return to his advisor for his signature.

At the end of each advisement day a tally of all the remaining seats available in each course will be compiled by the Computer Center and distributed to all advisors and chairmen the following day.

At the end of the preregistration pe- riod the Computer Center will print out master lists which will be used for control of class admission.

Copies of schedule of courses will be at the Student Union and all resident halls by today, Betz said.

The schedule for advisement is as fol- lows:

Audio visual gets new head

By RON BOISVERT
Equinox Managing Editor

Edgar E. Bernstein, former media assistant at Boston University, has been appointed coordinator of Audio-Visual Services at Keene State College.

Bernstein fills a position left vacant when Sherman A. Lovering, associate professor of education at KSC, relinquished his part-time A-V duties this year to become director of the college's new Testing Center.

The 24-year-old Bernstein will direct all campus audio-visual services on campus, with special attention, he says, to "helping the faculty use media potentials available here as supplements to their classroom teaching."

Bernstein's responsibilities will include teaching faculty and others to make their own A-V aids such as video tapes, copy slides and transparencies for use in their classrooms, he said. "For instance, the use of slides might save 15 minutes an hour over chalk on a blackboard."

A native of New York, Bernstein received his bachelor of arts in history from Boston University in 1970 and his master of education degree from BU this past August. He has been with BU's Media Services Department for the past year, working for eight months as a graduate assistant and for the past four months as a staff media assistant.

He has attended several summer photography workshops, has been a freelance photographer for Boston magazines "The Phoenix," and "Time Out" for the past two years, and was a voluntary teacher of Photography at Boston's Chinatown Branch of the YMCA.

ADMISSIONS INTERVIEWS

On November 27, a representative from Syracuse University will be here for admissions interviews for their MBA program. Make appointments at the Placement Center, Hale Building, first floor, by November 18.

FACULTY EVAL HEARING

The Student Senate Curriculum Committee will hold an open hearing on Faculty Evaluation Tuesday (Nov. 7) from 12-5 p.m. in the Student Union Conference Rooms. Important questions to be discussed include the publishing of evaluation results and the inclusion of an administrator evaluation form. All students, faculty and staff are invited.

Yearbook demand greater than supply to students who want a copy of the book, he said.

But, some students may again find themselves without a yearbook.

Another problem with numbers and the yearbook is the budget which "controls" the book. Student editors have faced problems in balancing the factors of cost, quality and quantity.

"If we raise our circulation it will mean a smaller number of pages," Ransom said.

In the past, editors have been surprised with tremendous surpluses of yearbooks. Thus, recent staffs have tried to only order enough to meet the demand for the book, using the money saved in cutting circulation to improve the book's quality.

Now the increased demand for the book has put pressure on the Kronicle budget, which will mean a smaller yearbook next year, Ransom said. But 1700 copies will be ordered, 200 more than this year.

Ransom was also disappointed with Student Senate action last semester which cut the Kronicle budget by $2000. Last year's budget was $10,500 while this year the Senate gave them $8,500.

The rationale, was that the yearbook would make up the $2000 in advertising revenue, Ransom said.

"But after we spoke with local salesmen we found that we can realistically expect only about $1000 in advertising," Ransom said.

Therefore the Kronicle is really working with $1000 less than last year, he explained.

The yearbook began soliciting advertising for the first time last year and collected about $300 worth.

Ransom explained that competition with the local high school yearbooks, in addition to inadequate staffing, are factors which are making ad soliciting difficult.

Thus, next year's yearbook will have less pages with more carefully chosen content, a larger circulation, and a staff whose new motto will have to be "economy first."

A final word

Next Tuesday is election day and the voters of New Hampshire and the United States will have to decide in what direction they wish to head our society.

Although many people have made their final decisions on the races, a final word is in order for each race:

For President—Richard Nixon has no right to a second term as long as charges of corruption are hanging over him.

Those who say "Milhouse - A White Comedy" will remember when, in his famous checkers speech, Nixon scorned those in office who meet charges of corruption "either by ignoring them or denying them without giving the facts." Now, he is doing just what he supposedly deplores.

Many of McGovern's policies are questionable, but we can be assured that he is honest and sincerely has the interests of America in mind.

For Senator—Wesley Powell is running on the slogan, "The only man qualified by experience." Perhaps he is the only man qualified by experience to run—this is his fourth try—but McIntyre has been in the Senate for ten years and is certainly more qualified to hold office.

He is not as outspoken as he could be, but he is better than anything else we have.

For Congress—Charles Officer is hands down the better candidate. Cleveland is a "yes man" for the President, when the President should be questioned the hardest.

Officer also has had much experience in the field of environment, and Congress needs men who know more about pollution than that it comes out of a smokestack.

For Governor—Malcolm McLane has evaded many questions on abortion, marijuana, and similar social questions, but the real issue in this election is taxes.

Both Crowley and Thomson have spent their time since the primaries trying to establish their identities, and, although Crowley is not the ogre that many people thought he was, he still cannot shake off his association with William Loeb.

McLane may be a colorless Governor, but he is more open to tax reform than either of the other candidates.

We love you, Ed

This year's Most Impressive Candidate Award goes to the forgotten man in the 1972 Presidential campaign—Edward Coll.

Ed, you and your rubber rat have maintained your purity since that fateful day in March. While the other candidates have stumbled and blundered, while the backlash of skepticism has splattered their clean uniforms, you have remained as the only symbol of political chastity.

Congratulations, Ed... in the end, you were the only winner.

World will end Thursday

By ERIC MALONEY
Equinox News Editor

In a major nationwide election eve speech, President Nixon announced last night that the world is ending Thursday.

Nixon said that the end would come at approximately 1:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, "to allow everyone to eat lunch first."

However, he refused to give any details of the plan.

"I cannot go into specifics, in the interests of national security."

Anticipating opposition from the Democratic Party, Nixon said that "in no way is this a political move. Those who would say that I am taking this action as a ploy to get votes are wrong."

Frats hearten Hildebrandt

To the Editor,

It has been discouraging to talk with both Nixon and McGovern campaign leaders locally and to hear that so few students have been willing to contribute to canvass and do legwork. It has also been sad to note the rather mild interest on campus in the gubernatorial campaign with its ominous portent for the State of New Hampshire and Keene State College.

But today (Oct. 26) my heart is lifted. The campus is burgeoning with "witty" and colorful posters dealing with the Greek God election, the obvious product of hours of planning, drawing, lettering, and distributing. It is heartening to know that when really important issues come along Keene State students do find the time and energy to come through.

BLAISDELL ASKS SUPPORT

To the Editor,

There are two gentlemen who are running for election for the state Senate from District No. 10. I, Junie Blaisdell am one, and I believe there is a difference between me and my opponent.

I believe in lowering the tuition at the state colleges and the university. I also believe in instituting a broad base tax to help support higher education.

If college students will look at the records of the two candidates, they will have to conclude that I am the better man to represent the interests of all the people, including the youth, in promoting a forward-looking, constructive program of state services for the people of New Hampshire.

I look forward to receiving KSC's student support.

'STICK BY McLANE'

To the Editor:

I was disappointed to receive in today's mail a reprint of an editorial of yours (10/25/72) being used by Roger Crowley to solicit support from McLane People. Mr. Crowley's letter did not have the hoped-for reaction in my case. Rather, it only fortified my belief that it is the desperate cry of a potential loser.

These last minute acts of both candidates to recapture the McLane supporters only indicate that the chances of McLane are steadily increasing, and should very well rise above that 34% he is stressing as the minimum vote needed to WIN. Please also bear in mind that any polls of accuracy are 10 days old when printed, which is a significant factor in a rapid campaign such as is being conducted by McLane and his workers.

The people of New Hampshire have seen and rejected these recycled candidates once too often. This year is our chance to repudiate the parties who now claim that either Thompson or Crowley should be governor of this state.

If you truly support McLane, as you have seemed to in the past, don't be duped by either party's attempts to mislead you. Advise your readers to stick by their choice of McLane. That IS the only way he can win...and that is the only victory the people of New Hampshire will accept.

I feel is in the best interests of all people, regardless of their race, creed, nationality, color, or religion."

Immediate reaction to President Nixon's announcement was mixed. An overnight Gallup Poll showed 59 per cent backing the President, 36 per cent opposing him, and 5 per cent undecided.

Conservative Senators and Congressmen hailed it as a step towards stabilizing international relations, while liberals labeled it as "potentially devastating to our environment."

Democratic Presidential candidate Sen. George McGovern lashed out at Nixon in a speech before the Skokie, Illinois, Rotary Club, calling it "an obvious political tactic."

Nixon does not want to go down in history as the first President to lose the world," McGovern said.

William F. Buckley, conservative publisher of the National Review, called the measure "another example of Mr. Nixon's swing to the left."

He called the plan second in opportunism only to his visits to Red China and Russia.

On college campuses across the nation, college leaders, called for a huge rally in Washington, D.C. this morning. However, many students were studying for mid-terms, and the rally brought out only an organic farmer from Vermont, two gay liberationists, and People's Party candidate Benjamin Spock.

Unlike 1970, no colleges shut down, and classes are going on as usual.

"We're just skeptical of the President's promises," said the president of a mid-western school. "I don't want to cancel classes, only to have Nixon call of the whole affair."

In other related items, the Post Office has said that it will continue its mail service until Thursday noon.

NBC said that they have signed a contract for live satellite coverage of the event, and Norman Mailer has been commissioned as a special commentator.

The administration, however, has announced that it will black out coverage in the Washington area, and D.C. residents will have to go to West Virginia or Maryland to view the spectacle.

HALEY TALKS ABOUT NHCUC MARINE SCIENCE COMMITTEE

To the Editor,

I am convinced that the student body in general is not aware of one of the more exciting experiences available to them through the New Hampshire College and University Council Consortium.

The Consortium has offered an Introduction to Marine Sciences course for the past three years and is now in its fourth year. Since all NHCUC institutions are involved in this marine science program, it has the vast resources of all institutions at its disposal. With these resources of academic talent, equipment, and facilities, the Marine Science Committee has organized an outstanding, very successful and popular program.

The only drawback to the whole program is that classes are held on Saturdays. However, only through a Saturday schedule could such a program involving the afore-mentioned resources, be put together. Students enrolled in the semester course travel from institution to institution, as classes are held at the home institution of the respective professor. This provides the student an unparalleled opportunity to visit and work with the facilities, equipment, and faculty of several institutions.

In addition, each semester includes a field excursion to the UNH Jackson Estuarine Labs on Great Bay, with a trip aboard their research vessel, the Jere Chase, and a weekend trip to Woodhole Oceanographic Institution with a one day excursion aboard one of their research vessels.

Students who become inspired with the introductory course may then consider extending their interest in the marine sciences by enrolling for a 6-week summer session. The summer session is scheduled to start in late July so students may have as much time as possible to work during the summer. The students register for two courses (8 credits) which are held at a host institution for four weeks, and the last two weeks are held at the Marine Science Field Station at Cobscook Bay in Maine.

The entire program has been an outstanding success and popular with students because of its emphasis on the field, the excitement of a varied, enthusiastic faculty and institutions, and a quality of educational experience that cannot be provided by any single institution.

The introductory course is open to non-majors as well as science majors. Students interested in further information may contact Mr. Haley (Science 208). The KSC marine science coordinator and chairman of the Marine Science Committee.

The women's movement has some strong implications for changes in the way that men think. Aside from the question of chauvinism, some truly constructive innovations have begun to make themselves evident.

The latest of these developments is the establishment of paternity leaves. Already some of the nationally run businesses in Keene are offering paternity leaves for their employees. Unfortunately, the State of New Hampshire is again not one of the places to initiate change.

The question posed by child psychologists and sociologists is, how important is the father's role in early childhood development? If the father's role is really as important as some contend it is, then paternity leaves are a necessity.

Keene State's employees, as of yet, have no leaves for paternity. For that matter, they have just revised their regulations on maternity leaves.

Prior to the revision, a woman employee of the college could not work past her fifth month of pregnancy without the consent of her physician, and then she could only work for another two months. Under the present law, according to Wendell L. Pollock of the Business Office, "A woman may work until the day of delivery."

Any accumulated days off with pay will be added to her leave, and she will also receive her vacation pay during this period if she desires. These policies are for non-exempt employees of the college. Other college employees now have similar benefits as stated in the notes of the meeting of the personnel committee of the College Senate of October 6, 1972.

The question of paternity leaves still seems to be a matter of personal preference rather than a generally accepted procedure.

This week's note: Congratulations to the Gyn. Clinic for their fine work last week.

To the Editor,

Hi there:

I read with great interest Debbie Neuhauser's reaction to my letter. Debbie felt that I focused "people's attention on specifics" and shocked "people into taking reform actions." She also thought I might be turning people off. Well, I guess I can't have everything.

I also noted the Equinox's distorted interpretation of my second letter. I've never "lashed out" at our school newspaper. When I do, you'll know it. After speaking to Debbie, I'm sure she agrees that her letter was not "lashing out" either. Rather, it was the thoughtful reaction to some criticism that she did not understand. With a couple of years of experience on the Senate I'm sure she will. It happens that Deb and I both work on the Student Senate. It also happens that I disagree with my hardworking president once in a while.

There's one point I must bring out. I have the hindsight of starting at KSC in 1965. I have worked in the Senate with no less than 4 Student Senate Presidents. I have seen alot; therefore, I offer criticisms and despite Deb's accusations, I offer alternatives to the criticisms.

I can't see a college newspaper functioning in its editorials and its comments from its readers like Jack Anderson. It's too easy. That's why I want the Equinox, editorial board to get off its butt and inform the students as well as state its opinions.

That goes for the Student Senate as well. Get intellectually and morally relevant and stop all this yacking about a Pub. As soon as you involve money and profits, somebody is going to get screwed somewhere and it's usually the students in the form of another fee or outrageous prices for what's offered. (Note the health food prices in the bookstore.)

The editor of the Equinox answered my inquiry as to who investigated the craters and defoliation in North Vietnam with another question mark. They stated the source of their information was the Congressional Record and a special study done by Cornell.

Prestigious as this might sound, kids, it means relatively nothing. Anyone can and does get up in a meeting of Congress, say his two cents worth and it goes into the record. It doesn't have to be true.

As for that "special" study done by Cornell, the only thing special about it to me is the ivy league name. Just who comprises the study? Why is Cornell able to get into North Vietnam to measure craters and count trees when the International Red Cross is not able to get to our POW's. It seems irrelevant at best and immensely cold-blooded at worst to be more concerned with holes in the ground and dead trees than living men held incommunicado by the North Vietnamese.

Patriots will lose again, Giants to win

The NFL season is now half over. The Miami Dolphins, despite the loss of Bob Griese, remain the only unbeaten team. Some key match-ups are on tap for this Sunday, including Cincinnati at Pittsburgh, Oakland at Kansas City and Atlanta at Los Angeles. The winners of these games will gain first place in their respective divisions. This writer was lucky enough to go 10-3 last week in predictions. The overall record: 18-7-1, for a 72.0 percentage.

LOS ANGELES over ATLANTA—Roman Gabriel was 3-16 passing Sunday with four interceptions. He will not have another day like that for a while.

DETROIT over CHICAGO—This should be an interesting game, pitting running quarterbacks Greg Landry and Bobby Douglass against each other. The Lions lost to Dallas Monday, but looked tough in a close game.

CINCINNATI over PITTSBURG—The Bengals have an edge on defense, while quarterback Ken Anderson seems to be finding himself of late.

DALLAS over SAN DIEGO—Mike Montgomery and Billy Parks, who came to Dallas from the Chargers in the Duane Thomas trade, have been spectacular for the Cowboys. The Chargers could use Duane Thomas.

GIANTS over DENVER—Veterans Norm Snead and Charlie Johnson have revitalized the offenses of the respective clubs. But the Giants defense has been markedly superior to that of Denver.

CLEVELAND over HOUSTON—The Oilers can't settle on a quarterback. That is one of their lesser problems.

MIAMI over BUFFALO—O.J. Simpson is in college form, coming off a 189 yard rushing performance Sunday. But Miami, with a balanced offense and the league's stingiest defense, should win.

MINNESOTA over NEW ORLEANS—The Vikes need a win to stay in the NFC Central Division race. The Saints are weaker everywhere.

Pete Hanrahan

OAKLAND over KANSAS CITY—Both teams are stingy on defense, but the Chiefs' offense has been sputtering of late, due in part to injuries to signal callers Mike Livingston and Len Dawson.

ST. LOUIS over PHILADELPHIA—The Eagles have the worst offense in football. It's tough to win on three points per game.

SAN FRANCISCO over GREEN BAY—The 49'ers were awesome in last week's win over Atlanta. Steve Spurrier may have found himself at last.

WASHINGTON over JETS—With or without Sonny Jurgensen, the Redskins are tougher offensively and defensively.

BALTIMORE over NEWENGLAND (Monday night) The Colts may be bad, but they are nowhere near as bad as the hapless Pats. The veteran Colt defense will be the difference.

Owls host Plymouth Saturday

By JASON HANDFIELD

The Keene State College Booters will get their crack at the NESCAC conference title Saturday afternoon at the A Field.

The opponent will be none other than the Plymouth State Panthers whom the Owls defeated earlier in the campaign 4-0. The booters of head coach Ronald Butcher are not taking the Panthers easily as they have had a very good season beating top notch competition.

Last season as most Keene soccer fans remember was somewhat of a disappointment as the Owls were barred from participating in the Conference Championship for not being a member of the NCAA, which is a conference rule.

The problems have been cleared up and the Owls will not let the title skip away again.

Keene to date has an outstanding record of 14-1, with 10 shutouts credited to Brad Steurer and his superb defense of Jerry Leavitt, Dick Bush, Don Kozera and Todd Silig. Halfbacks Klaus Weber and Mickey Rooney are having an exceptional year collecting many Keene goals and displaying fine ball control at midfield.

The offense, composed of Hal Shortleeve, Graham Jones, Jim McCormick and Chip Conran, have blasted opposing goalies throughout the season and Saturday should be no exception.

The Owls will be without the services of two of its fine ballplayers this weekend. Mark McEvoy and Pat Stacy are both hampered by injuries that most likely will prevent them from competing.

Rhode Island College came to the Granite State last Wednesday with dreams of beating the Owls for the Eastern Conference Championship, but the dreams turned to nightmares as the Owls buried the Anchormen by a score of 7-0.

Hal Shortleeve perhaps playing his best game in a Keene State uniform tallied twice and also notched two assists. Mick Rooney also found the net for 2 scores. Klaus Weber, Freshmen Lyman Morgan and Jim McCormick, each booted in one for the victory.

The Keene State booters upped their record to 13-1, with a 2-0 victory over Plattsburg State of New York, last Saturday.

The shutout set new KSC records as Brad Steurer picked up his 10th blanking of opposing teams, and also his sixth in a row.

Jim McCormick, a native of nearby Hinsdale, opened the scoring with just 55 seconds gone in the first half. Klaus Weber, an All-American soccer star from Ulster Community College, blasted a shot past the Plattsburg netminder who hasn't recovered yet.

Owl Harriers 8th at Albany, will face Panthers Saturday

Coach Bob Taft's cross country team finished eighth at the Albany Invitational Saturday. The fifteen-team meet featured mostly teams from New Jersey and New York. Keene was the only New England entry. KSC's Junior Varsity team finished fourth of eight teams in a separate race.

In the varsity race, won by C. W. Post, freshman Bob Brown was the top Keene finisher, in 50th place. KSC's Rocky Stone was just three seconds behind in 51st. Veterans Glenn Braunhardt and Pete Hanrahan finished 56th and 62nd, followed by Dave Millson in 75th. KSC's total of 266 points was just one point better than 9th place RPI's total of 267.

In the Junior Varsity race, the Owls fourth place finish outpaced Syracuse, Queens College, Albany State and RPI. John Barrows and Kris Roberts, both freshmen came up with fine efforts to finish 6th and 12th respectively. Keene's Chuck Torpey was 20th, Jerry Dee 23rd and Tom Keegan placed 27th. Tom Greenwood and Mike Marino placed 38th and 40th for Keene State.

The competition in both the varsity and junior varsity events was some of the toughest that the Owls have seen this season.

son. But, Coach Taft indicated that he thought the team could have finished at least fifth with a little stronger all-around effort.

Today the Owls run their last home meet of the season. The meet, to be held at Robin Hood Park, features five teams. The Owls host Merrimack, Eastern Connecticut, Norwich and Worcester State in the 4:00 event.

Saturday the Owls travel to Plymouth to run in the NESCAC finals. Although the Owls are undefeated in NESCAC competition, they will face some stiff competition. Plymouth State has three runners who have broken their course record, and has the important advantage of being at home. Eastern Connecticut and Rhode Island College are also top-flight contenders for conference honors.

The Keene runners, now 19-11, finish their season at Gorham, Maine on Saturday, November 11, at the District 5 NALIA finals.

TEAM TOTALS—C. W. Post 39; Syracuse 59; Colgate 101; Albany State 102; Paterson 125; Trenton 169; Stony Brook 225; KEENE STATE 266; RPI 267; Queens 278; Oneonta 326; LeMoyne 329; Siena 335; Plattsburgh 341; New Paltz 438.

After an hours delay and the settlement of who would referee, the game was finally started under a driving rain. Keene took control of play early, driving within the UNH twenty-five repeatedly but accomplishing nothing. Captain Bruce Stephenson missed two penalty kicks (3 points each) within the UNH twenty-five. UNH then came back, aided by Keene errors, by kicking a three point penalty kick. The half ended shortly after that with UNH holding a 3-0 lead.

The Owls came out driving but were disorganized and not working together. UNH again capitalized on KSC errors, pushing the ball into the Keene goal from a set scrum and boosting their lead to 7-0.

Keene finally got things together about 15 minutes into the second half. The Keene backs worked the ball well on repeated occasions. Don Shuffleton culminated the efforts with a grubber kick into the goal which was touched down for a try by George Allen. Bruce Stephenson converted the try and the score was 7-6. From this point Keene desperately tried to drive in for the winning score but just couldn't do it.

Swim Team buoyed by ten freshmen fishfeet

By GERRY PILOTTE

(This is the first of a two part series)

This year's new crop of swimmers is a very impressive group. Ranging from former high school record holders to one former national champion, coach Jim Quirk's first year swimmers total 75 years of competitive swimming experience.

Along with the valuable experience of five returning veterans, this year's KSC swim team seems to flourish with talent.

Nevertheless, coach Quirk refuses to let himself go further out on the limb than to predict that "we'll win more than last year."

Following are a few of the freshmen members of the 1972-73 KSC swim team who have been chosen to help improve last year's 1-12 record.

Carl Arlig: Carl is a biology major from Holyoke, Mass. He is the Massachusetts State Champion in the 200 and 400 yd. freestyle events.

Eric Bickford: a native of Portland, Maine, Eric is a physical education major. He holds the New England record in the 400 yard freestyle event and also Maine records in the 200 yd. individual medley and in the butterfly event. He is the only member to compete in both swimming and diving events.

Ron Demers: calling Lewiston, Maine his home, Ron is a math major. He shares the Maine state record in the breaststroke relays and was also a member of his high school's divisional championship squad.

Jeff Gornall: Jeff comes to KSC from Wayne, New Jersey. He is a freshman technical education major who expects to compete in the butterfly, freestyle, backstroke, and individual medley events this year.

David Hague: Dave is a physical education major from Cranston, Rhode Island. He shares the All-New England record in the relay events. His high school team was state champion in 1971 and 1972, and New England champion in 1972.

Michael Hague: Mike is a freshman physical education major who swam on the same squad as his brother Dave. He intends to compete in the 50 and 100 yd. freestyle, and the relays.

Bad weather, mix-ups plague ruggers as they bow to UNH

Foul weather and mix-ups plagued the KSC Rugby Club Sunday as the Owl A's lost to UNH A's 7-6 at Durham. The Keene B's likewise dropped a close game, losing 7-4.

The first of a series of organizational foul-ups occurred when the referee failed to show for the game. UNH offered one of their players as a ref but Keene opted to have their regular referee, Brian Cowley, referee instead of play.

After an hours delay and the settlement of who would referee, the game was finally started under a driving rain. Keene took control of play early, driving within the UNH twenty-five repeatedly but accomplishing nothing. Captain Bruce Stephenson missed two penalty kicks (3 points each) within the UNH twenty-five. UNH then came back, aided by Keene errors, by kicking a three point penalty kick. Dear Student,

I choose this format to communicate with you rather than some flashy ad because I'm convinced that you are more impressed with facts than with advertising quality.

I know that many of you face difficult decisions in casting what may be your first votes in the gubernatorial election. I ask you to discard this system of labels which so many have tried to implant in your minds and to vote in the best interest of your state and your future. Recent surveys have demonstrated beyond doubt that the choice is between the two major party candidates.

Throughout this long campaign, I have opposed the tendency of some who want to "axe" education, to "axe" the university system and, in short, to tear apart the very fabric which molds our youth. In brief, I think I can honestly say I am the original "anti-axe" candidate in this campaign.

I have proposed among my goals a tuition cut for New Hampshire students in our university system, more emphasis on drug rehabilitation programs and full adult rights for those between the ages of 18 and 21. I also have advocated an orderly anti-pollution program with emphasis on removing the one great barrier we face in cleaning up our environment — the loss of the jobs and livelihood of many of our workers.

I also have proposed programs such as the homeowners exemption to revise the property tax system with relief for those carrying the heaviest tax burden — the low and moderate income families and the elderly. I also have outlined an attack on the spiraling prices being charged for regulated services. These are things which will affect you in the near future.

I have sought to develop a forward-looking program to turn the leadership of this state toward the future — not cast longing glances over the shoulder toward a time which has slipped into our history like Shakespeare's tide of affairs.

This is the kind of leadership I think our state must have and the type I would do my utmost to offer.

Sincerely,

R. J. Crowley, Jr.

American Studies major given Senate approval

By RON DOISVERT
Equinox Managing Editor

An interdisciplinary major in American studies was approved by the College Senate last week. The program will use present course offerings in history, English, the fine arts and the social sciences to enable students to study American history, culture, thought and social institutions.

The new major will lead to a B.A. degree in American studies or the B.S. degree in Education. Dual majors in English/American Studies and History/American Studies will also be available for students who wish to major in two disciplines.

The program will be available starting next semester.

Course requirements for the new major will number 36 credits including several "core requirements" in English and history, American literature, American arts and philosophy and social sciences.

No additional staff or facilities will be needed to implement the program, William J. Sullivan, assistant professor of English and the program's interim coordinator, said.

The program would be administered by a committee consisting of a coordinator and four or more members of the history, English, social science and arts faculty.

Sullivan hailed the coming together of departments as well as the breadth, depth, and flexibility of the new major.

In other business, the Senate voted to eliminate the commencement address as a required part of KSC graduation exercises.

The motion, which differed slightly with the Hildebrandt-Goff motion proposed last month, would leave the decision of whether to have a commencement speaker to a committee composed of the college president, the senior class adviser, and the senior class officers. This group would also replace the Commencement Committee as the group to organize and carry out commencement.

"This motion would allow the senior class to come up with unique and innovative programs of a scholarly nature to observe commencement," Thomas D. Aceto, dean of students, remarked.

A motion is expected at the next College Senate meeting, Nov. 6, calling for immediate implementation of the new procedure.

The Senate also voted to begin immediate enforcement of new smoking rules approved last month.

The new rules would allow smoking in classrooms which met fire regulations concerning ventilation, accessibility of exits and absence of flammable materials. It may be some three to five weeks before smoking will be allowed in many classrooms, however, as the physical plant office is waiting for ashtrays which will have to be installed in many classrooms to meet safety regulations, Leo F. Redfern, KSC president, said.

A motion establishing deadlines for notifying non-tenured faculty was also passed.

Faculty employed more than two years would need one academic year's notice, those employed more than one year (but less than two) would require notification by Dec. 15 and those with less than one year's service would be notified of non-renewal by March 1.

The Senate elected three faculty members to the College's Campus Residence Council. They are: May W. Huang, assistant professor of home economics; William J. Sullivan, assistant professor of English, and Joseph S. Rousseau, assistant professor of education.

Debate will reopen on discrimination bill

By JOHN BASTILLE
Equinox Staff Writer

The Hildebrandt-Kerr anti-discrimination proposal seems ready for another go at it as the Student Affairs Committee of the College Senate braces for more debate on the controversial motion.

The proposal, co-authored last year by Charles A. Hildebrandt, associate professor of sociology, and Nora F. Kerr, assistant professor of Spanish, would bar the use of "public monies or fees levied from all the students" for support of organizations "involved in categorical and arbitrary discrimination."

Hildebrandt categorized arbitrary discrimination as discrimination based on sex, race or age, or discrimination of a "vague and capricious" nature such as personality.

The motion was referred back to the Student Affairs Committee late last year after many senators took issue with the motion's referrals to sex discrimination. Thus the motion may take on quite a different form this year.

Broader Base

"We are trying to revise the proposal by calling in as many people from the campus as possible in order to criticize it and give it a broader base," Hildebrandt said.

The committee is planning to hold an open hearing on the matter, although no date has yet been set.

He has no idea as to what form the revision will take, but "the touchy area is sex" he said. "The area of nebulous and arbitrary exclusion in which the criteria for membership in the organization is not spelled out is another."

Last year it was mainly the fraternities and sororities that felt threatened and fought the bill, but Hildebrandt stressed the idea that it is not anti-frat as such. The women's council and other organizations will also be affected and the ramifications could be far reaching, involving the basic roles of the Student and College Senates, he said.

"No criteria"

Hildebrandt explained that, "The Student Senate has no criteria for recognition or non-recognition of organizations, and this could be dangerous. If a bona fide organization wanted recognition and was denied, it would ask why and not be able to get a valid answer."

"The Student Senate has the power to recognize and evaluate its own constituency, but has shown no initiative," he said. "They have accused me of usurping their power, but how can I usurp power that doesn't exist? The power is there, but I don't think they are exercising it."

'Hundreds' of issues missing

Periodical rip-offs costing school 'thousands'

By PAUL LAUGHNER
Equinox Staff Writer

"Books may be stolen, but they are much easier to replace than periodicals," said Rick Eggleton, new head of the periodical department at the Wallace E. Mason Library.

According to Eggleton, "We have a definite problem concerning permanent or otherwise borrowing of unbound periodicals."

"As a matter of fact, we are constantly losing many issues, which cost usually two to eight dollars per issue to replace."

"A file is being compiled of missing issues and hundreds have already been listed."

Eggleton said that this would put replacement figures in the thousands of dollars category.

"Many issues are simply not replaceable, which can destroy the continuity of valuable material," Eggleton added. "It appears that the students are just ripping each other off."

Christopher Barnes, the college librarian, said that "the goal of the library is to supply academic as well as recreational facilities to the student body." He said the library is now open some eighty-five hours a week so students don't really need to slip certain unbound periodicals into their notebooks and leave with them.

"Students don't need to hide volumes for their own personal future reference, as many copies are found hiding in corners and other dark secluded areas of the library," Barnes said.

Eggleton urged that the students be more considerate of each other. He said he is "more than willing to cooperate." If students feel they would like the periodical department to subscribe to other periodicals, he would be glad to talk possibilities over with them, he said.

Eggleton has even gone so far as to put a tape on IRS 135 to assist students in getting the most out of the periodical section of the library. All he asks is "cooperation."

Eggleton said a closed-door, over the counter system would curb the rip-offs but would not be practical. "It is up to the students to be more considerate, as they are ripping each other off."
