MAYORALTY CAMPAIGN APPROACHES SIXTH YEAR

By William Winston

In 1950 a new tradition was instituted at KTC. This particular tradition, the election of a campus mayor, was established to choose an individual from the student body in spirit and action. Being elected by the students, he is accepted as their voice.

Campaigning may not be done on a serious level but its final end should be taken seriously, with the welfare of the college in mind.

This year, as in the past, competition will center around the three fraternities, who will go through a great deal of ballyhoo to win public appeal. Monday, October 2, will be the beginning of the campaign, and the trees, poles, and buildings will be fairly well covered with posters by them.

The names of two candidates have been released to the paper. Alpha Pi Tau will sponsor Gordon Beane, a sophomore in secondary education. Characterized as "Flash Gordon," spaceman of reknown, he will instill the campus with interplanetary concepts. Theta Chi Delta has summoned the talents of Peter Bostwick, a sophomore in industrial education. Pete, posing as Al Capp's "Tiny" will have the citizens of "Dogpatch" as his loyal supporters and he intends to introduce us to the ways of country folk. The other fraternity on campus has not released the name of their candidate to the paper (apparently for psychological reasons).

Each candidate will have one day in which he may campaign actively. At the end of the week each fraternity will put on a show in Spaulding Gym, using this event as a last stand for the much desired vote. Saturday night (night or delight) the winner of the campaign will be announced at the Mayoralty Dance.

With a minimum amount of energy, every student may have a voice in the choosing of the campus mayor—this energy being exercised in the form of voting. Apathy is for apathetic people; results are attained by people of action. If you have any interest in this school, at all, why not go out and vote?

Sophs Raise Havoc With Frosh

By Sandra Hussey

On September twelfth at five-thirty p. m. Freshman Initiation officially started. All the freshmen, attired in their red beanies and name tags, came from the dorms down to the lawn for supper. Much to their disappointment, they had to wait until all the upperclassmen had eaten.

The performances of Elvis Presley, the bunny hops and group singing were suddenly curtailed by an unexpected thunderstorm. Activities again began the next morning at six-thirty when all freshmen had to go to breakfast, knowing the school song and cheers. From then on it was, "Behave yourself or else!"

The freshmen also received crime sheets. A crime was given to any freshman if he didn't tip his beanie or failed to say "hi" when he saw an upperclassman. Of course, loads of crime sheets were signed the first day by the sophomores.

The first court was held on Monday night, September eighteenth. The freshmen had to pay for their crimes by attending. Fred King officiated and had a great crew of sophomores to help him. The big turnout of upperclassmen helped make our first court a real success. A second was held on Wednesday, with not so many people turning out.

The freshmen were all good sports and seemed to be enjoying themselves. Initiation will officially end when they have given their talent show provided the sophomores accept it.

growing better. Students and faculty are continuously working on ways of improving and enriching the curricula and co-curricular program. The college is accredited by the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and by the National Council on Accreditation of Teachers Education. Most of the graduates are going into teaching and are doing well in their positions. Many are doing "graduate work" and are doing work that is a credit, both to themselves and the undergraduate work they received at KTC.

The year 1956-57 looks like another busy, interesting and challenging college year. I am proud to be a part of Keene Teachers college. You, too, are a part of Keene Teachers college and we continue to solicit your interest and cooperation.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT SHATTERS RECORDS

By Dorothy McCarthy

This year, for the first time, Keene Teachers college numbers over seven hundred students. This total breaks all previous records for the number of students attending Keene Teachers college.

The freshmen also hailed victorious in breaking records as the largest class of entering students. They number over two hundred and twenty to their credit.

Keene Teachers college is still in its youth. It was founded in 1909 and, at that time, consisted of one building and five women students. From 1909 to 1939 it developed until finally a four-year course was required. Instead of being called a normal school it was named a college.

Keene has expanded greatly since its origin; thus, many buildings have been built to enlarge its campus.

Keene Teachers college is one of the two state colleges and, as the name implies, is chiefly for preparing teachers to teach within the state. Because it is a state institution, those students living in New Hampshire pay half-rate tuition with the state financing the other half.

Looking into the future, Keene Teachers college will undoubtedly be hailed as one of the best teachers colleges in the country. It will stretch over acres of land and will have more new and modern buildings. This can be predicted because Keene Teachers college, in the past, has broken records and will continue to do so in the forthcoming years.

New Science Building Plans

By Gerry Davis

An appropriation of $350,000 by the New Hampshire Legislature will make possible the erection of an annex to the Butterfield Vocational Building. The addition will house the chemistry and physics departments, as well as the auto and electrical shops. Classes in the latter two are, at present, being conducted in a warehouse off campus.

This will be the second recent major addition to our college, the first being the men's dormitory. It will provide for the enlargement and modernization of facilities for a greater number of students.

The site of the building is the property directly behind the vocational building. Plans for the new building have already been completed and construction will probably commence sometime next Spring. John R. Holbrook of Keene, the architect, is, incidentally, the same contractor who built Monadnock Hall.

President's Reception Successful

By Nelson Megna

Social life on the KTC campus was formally inaugurated at Spaulding Gym on Saturday, September 15. The occasion was the annual President's Reception (sponsored by the Class of 1958). The event was a success as was evidenced by the large attendance of both faculty and students.

The guests were escorted through the receiving line by Ken Roulx and Elaine Stahl, John Faust and Cyn Randall, and Romeo Morin and Doris Davis. The receiving line consisted of Dr. and Mrs. Young, Dean and Mrs. Carle, Mrs. Randall and Dean and Mrs. Barry.

An interesting side light was the announcement of Miss Statler's birthday. The announcement was greeted by applause throughout the gym. The orchestra then played the Anniversary Waltz in her honor.

Scavenger Hunt, Open House Held For Freshmen

By Roland Blanchard

On Friday, September 14, as part of Orientation Week the Newman club, attempted to get the Freshmen better acquainted with their fellow students and with the college grounds by sponsoring a scavenger hunt.

Following the scavenger hunt, the sacred and noiseless Monadnock Hall Dormitory threw open its doors and welcomed all campus residents and faculty to inspect and admire its interior.

The boys of Monadnock Hall stood with pride because of the neatness of their rooms. Some of them have never been cleaned so good before and probably will never be cleaned again this year. Regardless of motive, everyone seemed to enjoy themselves and especially the men when the women praised their modern rooms.

A social hour was held after the tour of the building in the social room. Refreshments were served and there was dancing to records. There was also card playing and television which interested many.

Changes on Campus

By Marjory Adams

The puzzled upperclassman stood in front of the gym, a brand new registration card in hand. For a while he pondered and then, as a smile spread over his face, he started toward the Campus club mumbling to himself, "I got it made—nine hours a week in Belknap House and there ain't no Belknap House!"

But, dear readers, he didn't know that while the campus was deserted this summer, certain significant changes occurred, or more specifically, the three former fraternity houses were remodeled, renamed, and reclassified as follows: Theta House is now Merrimack, used to house male students; Alpha House has evolved into Carroll, used as a residence for a few women students; and Kappa House has been converted to Belknap, a classroom building containing rooms 31, 32, 33, and 34, the domains of Mr. Drenan, Mr. Hayn, Mr. Barnard, and Doctor Abbott.

Naturally, with the increased enrollment at KTC, the change was inevitable; but it isn't hard to believe that at the present time, the ghosts of former Alpha, Kappa, and Theta men are lamenting "o tempora o mores" from the bottoms of their eternal and fraternal hearts because of the changes at KTC.

H.D. Carle Retires As Dean of Men

At the first all-college convocation, Dr. Young announced the retirement of Dean Carle as Dean of Men. During the 25 years that Dean Carle has held this position he has been an inspiration and guide to the hundreds of men who have attended KTC.

As both Dean of Men and Dean of Instruction, he was responsible for a tremendous amount of work and had to make many important decisions which have elevated our college's standards.

Dean Carle was born in 1895 in Hyde Park, Mass., where he attended both elementary and high school. Upon receiving his Bachelor's degree, from Middlebury college, where he was a member of Kappa Delta Rho Fraternity, he went to Boston University where he received his master's degree and also became an honorary member of Pi Delta Kappa Fraternity. After this he did advance graduate study in science at Harvard.

Before coming to Keene Teachers college, Dean Carle was principal of a high school in Ashfield, Mass.

Dean Carle was the founder of the New Hampshire Science Fair and the first president of the Science Fair Committee. He is past president of the New Hampshire Academy of Science Teachers and is also a member of the S. S. S., a national science organization.

During World War I, Dean Carle served in the Rainbow Division before being transferred to work with President Conant of Harvard in the making of secret poisonous gases. During World War II he had charge of the poisonous gas education program in the Keene area.

Nature is Dean Carle's primary interest and centers around the study of birds, animals, flowers and snakes. He is the recognized authority on snakes of New Hampshire and his written several articles on snakes and their habits.

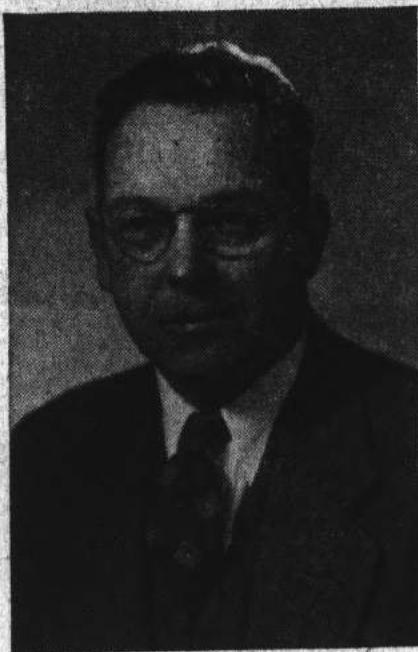

Dean Carle will continue in his capacity as Dean of Instruction and as Chairman of the Science Department, and as such he will continue to help and guide students in solving their problems.

President's Greetings

By Lloyd P. Young

It is a privilege to again extend greetings and best wishes through the Monadnock to all the students, staff and alumni of Keene Teachers college. With an enrollment of almost 700 students, KTC is larger in 1956-57 than in any time in its history of 47 years. We are delighted to have such a fine group of students as a part of the college, even though we are "straining" some of the facilities in an effort to accommodate the increased numbers.

The college is growing, slowly, in facilities, as well as enrollment. Monadnock Hall, the new dormitory for men, is filled with 150 men students. Belknap Hall (the former Kappa House) has been converted into a temporary classroom building. There are four good classrooms and offices for four faculty members. The third floor was made into an apartment for a married student and his wife. Plans are being completed for the addition to the Butterfield Vocational Building, and it is hoped that the building will be started in the spring and be ready for use by September 1957.

We are trying hard to obtain approval to add more staff members to handle the larger enrollment. Since Keene Teachers college is a "state institution," it requires approval of several departments and officials.

Keene Teachers college is growing larger, and we think that it is

CUSTOMS AND CONDUCT

Last Thursday evening, a brief ceremony at the athletic field concluded another "first-week-of-school" affairs. This one, of course, was Freshman Initiation, a period in which incoming freshmen are given the opportunity to wear red beanie and name tags and to comply with a list of written regulations or else face the consequences. All this is fine, but it is becoming increasingly evident that the results are not. Oh, the first few days are wonderful. Spirit is at a peak, freshmen are really having a time, and frivolity seems to prevail everywhere. Then, everything dies. After the first court session's newness wears off, the initiation effect seems to falter and disappear. The freshmen start to disregard the rules and make their own, others start or continue being wise, and the sophomores just relax and make a feeble attempt to enforce initiation policy. The ensuing result is that, for about a week and one-half, some freshmen still wear their beanie and name tags, but find their own "select" crowd and strive not at all to mingle with the college.

It would appear to me that the main purpose of an initiation period is to get the new freshmen to know the upperclassmen. But this situation never becomes too well accomplished; again the main reason being that no one seems to really exert an effort to speak to another person. After the initiation period ends, everyone goes about their affairs and gradually some friendship occur between freshmen and upperclassmen but, in the latter case, it is the result of normal happenings and not the initiation process.

Despite what might seem the contrary, I do favor some initiation program. I do, however, believe it should be shortened or else the period time exploited more successfully; I believe upperclassmen should also wear name tags, and I think every student should be acquainted with what's going on — yet still let the initiation be carried on by the sophomores. A more conscientious attitude by everyone would accomplish the desired goal; that of a student interrelation resulting in a harmonious, prosperous, and happy year for all persons.

Club Notes

This year, mainly for your convenience, the Monadnock is establishing a new set-up regarding the reports of club activities here on campus. In this and future issues, such articles will be combined and printed in this column, Club Notes. It is quite proper in this initial issue of the 1956 school year, that we welcome into our circle a new club entitled the Industrial Arts Society. The best of success and progress to this organization. Also, let's take a look at the opening activities of several other clubs.

Industrial Arts Society

By Paul Jackson

During the closing days of school last semester a new club was born on campus. This new club is the Industrial Arts Society, open to all members of the Industrial Education curriculum. It was formed to help bring them together as a social group and to promote their professional growth.

Several meetings of the association were held this spring. At these meetings a constitution was drawn up and adopted, and it is now before the Student Council for approval. At the last of the meetings the constitution was approved by the club, and officers were elected with the following results: president, Chester Perkins; vice president, Paul Jackson; secretary, Kenneth Giff; corresponding secretary, Louis O'mara; and treasurer, Carl Contois. Also elected were three members of the board of directors: Raymond Plante, Albert Beaudoin, and James Marion. Mr. Tisdale was appointed faculty advisor.

The association plans to hold one meeting a month, with entertainment or a technical session to follow. Trips or other outings of interest to the group will also be included in the list of activities.

Thursday night, September 20, in Hale Building. The officers of the organization were introduced to the visiting freshmen. Vice president Ernie Popple, chaplain Gert Woodward, and program Shirley Kelloway presented informative talks concerning the ideals and activities of the S. C. A.

The formal initiation of new members is to be held tomorrow night at the college camp. Reverend Mosley of Marlboro will be the guest speaker.

Included in this month's events is the annual mountain climb next Saturday, October 13. Anyone interested in participating in this climb is cordially invited.

Particular attention should be given to Skip LeClair, Jim Marion, Ronald Kallach, and Syd Loran. Since they are expected to face the majority of the scoring for the Owls.

The first game for the Keene Eleven will be at the A-Field on October second, at which time they face New England college. It is sure to be a bitter contest with plenty of tenacious and excitement throughout the game. Although I'm a lousy one to pick winners (especially at Rockingham), I'll pick Keene in a close game. Well, sports fans, that's about it for this edition; look for me between the pages of the next edition of the Monadnock.

KEENE SOCCER CLUB
HOPES RIDE HIGH

By Tom Sawyer

After a disappointing 1955 season, the KTC soccer team now have high hopes for a successful 1956 season in the N. E. T. C. Conference. The Owls have lost only three lettersmen from last year's team. Veterans Ted Geers, Bob Hicks, Nils Peterson, Mike Tierney, Gene Ross, Gordon Bean, and Ronnie Morse will provide a strong backfield for the Joycemen. Skip LeClair, Syd Loran, Jim Marion, and Tow Sawyer will be returning linemen. Newcomers to the squad are: Roger Wilson, Francis Davis, Andy Phelps, Percy and Richard Nye, and Ronald Kallach. Although the freshmen turnout was small, it will not affect the team seriously.

Girls' Sports Report

By Donna Martin

Here we are back at KTC for the 1956-57 year, and all the girls have selected their individual sports for the school's first quarter. It is, as you all know, required here at Keene Teachers college that every girl participate two hours a week in a selective sport. This is in addition to her regular gym period for the week.

I thought perhaps you might like to know what has been offered for sports and who the leaders are. Swimming is being offered and the teachers for this sport are as follows: Carolyn Sage—Beginners, Donna Martin—Intermediates, Ann Stuart—Intermediates, Jane Murtagh—Swimmers and Advanced Swimmers, and Connie Hawes—Synchronized Swimming. So, by the looks, we should have some excellent swimmers by the end of the quarter.

Tennis is being offered and instructing the beginners will be Marie Kallach, and Charles Simmonds. Intermediates—Louise Snow, Marie Ludgate, and Eveline Binmore.

Field Hockey is being taught by Lorna Niemela, Ann Weska, Jacky Carey, and Pat Campbell who will be instructing the beginners. For the advanced players, instructors will be Mary Nelson, Barbara Marshall, and Gert Koerner.

Archery Leaders are as follows: Cynthia Randall, Priscilla Gellinas, Jackie Abbott, Inge Wolf, Marilyn Britton, Janice Hartwell, Annette Proulx, Mary Mock, Janice Garlity, and Barbara Fredette.

Badminton Leaders are: Begina Schirley, Kelloway, Gert Woodward, Sylvia Orrill, Dottie Reed; Intermediates—Marilyn Brown, Sandy Burnett, and Mary Lee Pelcar.

This concludes the sports for the quarter, and in our next issue we will let you know how the Red and White teams turn out.

Outdoor Education
Stressed at Workshop in Peterboro

Keene Teachers College and the Department of Education were represented at the New England Outdoor Education Workshop at Camp Sargent, Peterborough, September 26-28. The program highlighted a variety of conservation problems and teaching techniques. Recognition of the inseparable relationship between conservation and outdoor education stems from the fact that first-hand learning experiences in resource-use must take place outdoors and that youngsters need to be trained in the skills and understandings which will enable them to make wise use of outdoor resources, both for recreation and for other economic values.

In addition to receiving skill training in casting and shooting, these included the chance to observe six high school students operating a wilderness camp demonstration of a biological survey of a pond overpopulated with fish, a flood control dam on an interstate watershed, and present land-use implications of a deserted farm.

Purpose and Plan of Action
This was one of a series of national regional workshops conducted in collaboration with the National Outdoor Education Project of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. Its principal objective is to stimulate productive efforts at the state level. With this in view, participants were selected by their state chairmen at those best qualified to form a permanent leadership team within the state to promote outdoor and conservation education.

It should be apparent that no program could have possibly been designed within which each aspect was of equal value to the states. The committee hoped that by sharing common experiences and selecting a few appropriate activities, ideas, and content, each group of participants will be able to identify those areas which will be most useful in their home state.

At the very heart of the workshop was a series of planned clinical experiences in which groups have been subdivided and kept small to facilitate individual participation.

The workshop committee believes that outdoor education should not be a matter of vicarious experience but of actual doing and enjoyment. Through this activity-centered approach, attitudes and appreciations of the utmost significance to conservation and outdoor education will find their place in the curriculum.

Why Outdoor Education?
Outdoor recreation is big business. Education for the wise use of leisure time is assuming more importance in our education plans. Conservation education and the proper use of our natural resources is a "must" in order to preserve outdoor activities and our very existence. Millions of Americans, with the shortest work week and longer vacations, are seeking outdoor pursuits. This is indicated by the following information:

20 million fishing licenses are sold annually.
13 million hunting licenses are sold annually.
23 million participated in boating activities last year.
Millions of others engage in camping, aquatic and swimming activities, archery, winter sports, etc. What is education doing about it? It would seem that we have some responsibility in teaching proper and safe use of the outdoors and the prevention of poor practices that exist in our state and local parks, improper handling of guns, misuse of boats and motors, undue exposure, forest fires, poor conservation practices, etc. Education for these activities must start early. It is a least partially a school responsibility and how to accomplish this was a primary objective of the Workshop.

BIRDTALK

By The Wise Old Owl

Hootings and indistinct calls to reptiles and insects alike! From where this old bird sits, it looks like the mating season got under full swing on September ninth. Par usual, many of the upperclass "hunters" are out for younger, fresher game. A few, one Theta man in particular, prefers tagged game. I'm not called wise for nothing, so heed a little advice and remember that Portsmouth game usually stays tagged. . . . We understand that many KTC sportsmen have caught their "dear." Among these, and may I extend my congratulations, are Jean LaCasse and the Mayor of our campus, John Laughlin, Ginny Pritchard and Skip LeClerc, Margaret Russell and Murray Ramsey, Joan Wachsmuth and Fred Hale, Bev Campbell and Shell Blanchard, and Dee Godfrey and Bill Beane. The exuberant spirit of the freshman class is a welcome sound to my gnarled old ears. Let's keep it up, frosh. . . . While flying past the tennis courts on my way to chow down, I've observed a couple of blond heads and flashing smiles ambling slowly toward Fiske. How about it, Char? . . . A student teacher here at the Student Teaching Department has a number of nature lovers observing nature's autumn phenomena from the "cozy" park benches placed around the campus. Since when is the interest in nature, Sandra and John? Did you know you aren't alone? Ed and Bev seem to have an interest in Biology of sorts too. . . . For some "Weeks" Dartmouth is a pretty special place. I suspect that a certain not-so-plain Jane shares your high interest in the little green Indians. Go get'em, little green. Three Cheers for Adrienne and Bean, Liz and Mike, Judy and Al, Patti and Bush, Rochelle and Doug, Connie and Ed, Sandy and Rolly, Doris and Homer, Dottie and Norm, and Martha and Al. They all seem to have passed the "summer survival test" with flying colors. . . . Well, all you need is love and a snootin'.

VETS' COLUMN

Notes of interest: The Legislature of Rhode Island is having difficulty in passing a bill to obtain a ten million dollar bond to pay Korean bonuses. The main opposition comes from industry.

A veteran has one year from his discharge to be eligible for dental work, with the exceptions of adjunct service-connected disabilities and prisoners-of-war suffering from malnutrition. Newly married veterans are reminded to change beneficiaries on form obtained from the VA. The VA has a representative at the City Hall in Keene on Monday and Friday from 9:30 to 3:30.

A new law will go into effect January 1, 1957. Basically it means no more free insurance to servicemen, and a new plan similar to social security will be put into effect. Anyone recently discharged has 120 days from date of discharge to apply for this term insurance which is relatively inexpensive and is a good "mortgage insurance."

Veteran of the Week: Richard Leone, a Junior in the Industrial Art Curriculum, enlisted in the U. S. Marines in September 1950. Dick received his basic training at Parris Island followed by cold weather training in the Sierras. A trained machine-gunner, he left for Korea with the First Marines and spent 11 months in combat, receiving two battle stars. Dick and his wife, Elaine, both from Sunapee, N. H., reside at the Barracks with their three boys.

Student Teaching Assignments

By Shirley Kelloway

Many of you have probably been missing familiar faces around campus since you have gotten back to KTC. The main reason is that half of our senior class is out student teaching this first semester. While gaining experience, as well as the satisfaction of working with children, these students are fulfilling one of the requirements for graduation in June.

This period of student teaching will end on January 25, 1957, for those who are in the Elementary and Secondary curricula. Those in the elementary curriculum divide the semester, spending nine weeks each at different age levels. Since the Home Economics practice teachers go out in three twelve-week "trimesters," the student teaching period will end on November 23, 1956, for those in the first trimester.

Student teachers are found in many cities throughout Southern New Hampshire. The following is a list of the students and their assignment locations, as compiled by the Student Teaching Department here at the college:

MAYOR PREPARES FOR NEW DUTIES AT KTC

By W. M. Winston

With the exception of a bad landing made by Flash's rocket ship, the majority campaign passed by in its usual manner. Fortunately Flash escaped unscathed. Winning by a fair margin, Gordon Bean, our new mayor, is beginning to outline his program for the year. Some of the items of concern are: a bulletin board for announcements, rather than disturb people who attend the dining hall for purposes of eating, a bulletin board at the barracks, investigation of the Student Union building, hoping there might be one; and bonfires preceding games. Supplying buses for the out-of-town games, and entertainment between halves is also included in the mayor's program. Of course that old thorn in the side, school spirit, has been considered too. This seems to be where we all came in.

The mayor's council is to include two members from each fraternity, two from the Barracks, Hillaboro, Merrimack, Carroll, Sullivan, and Blake. The commuters are also to be included as part of the school this year with two members.

The purpose of the Council are still a little vague, but the Mayor hopes to get money from the Student Council to sponsor dances and other forms of entertainment, bearing in mind that we do have some dull weekends.

Let's hope that the mayor is greeted with some form of cooperation from the student body. As they say in French, "Hell is paved with good intentions."

Freshmen Talent
Show Is Tomorrow

By Marjorie Adams

For the past few years at KTC, it has been the custom for the freshmen class to put on a talent show several weeks after school begins. This talent show is possibly an effort on the part of the freshmen to please the sophomores who voice the dire threat "If the show doesn't go on, your beanies don't!" However, the talent show is much more than this; it is the first organized contribution from the freshmen class to the social life of the college; they are the class of 1960's proof that they belong; it is an indication of their willingness to co-operate with each other and with the upperclassmen; and lastly, the talent show is almost always proof of the worth of the freshmen class. That is the way it has been in the past; let's hope that this year finds the freshmen way up there on top.

The acts of the show seem to be mostly of a musical variety, although there are a few very humorous skits included. Sad to say from all reports, this year's talent show seems to be progressing slowly, but it is still in the embryonic stage. However, if we may be allowed to paraphrase: "Great shows from little embryos grow," and with a great deal of co-operation, the freshmen, under director Ted Williams, may have more than meets the eye at present.

By the way, do you know what Harry S. Truman's views are on pots, or what kind of wild life in habits Scotty square? No? Well, go to the Freshman Talent show, you may be surprised to find out!

Can You Write?

The Monadnock announces that, effective immediately, it will sponsor a literary competition open to all undergraduate students at Keene Teachers college. Poetry, essays (no novels please). The writings may be on any subject and it would be appreciated if stories did not exceed 1500 words. Articles should be bylined and should also be typed before they are submitted. Finished material may be placed in the Monadnock mailbox in Hale Building. All manuscripts will be considered for publication and the editors reserve the right of censorship. The deadline for the next issue is November 6, but manuscripts are welcome at any time.

Concert a Success

By Shirley Kelloway

To many of us whose knowledge of ballet has been limited to home-town recitals, the Civic Concert presented on October 16, at the Keene high school auditorium was a pleasant surprise. Some two hundred KTC students were able to attend this first presentation of the Keene Civic Association as the concerts are one of the many activities provided for in our Activities fee.

Nora Kovach and Totvan Rabovsky with Sonia Arova and Job Sanders danced to the accompaniment of the dual pianist Howard Barr and Julian Elbaz. Each is recognized as a great performer, I'm sure, by everyone who saw and heard them.

The program was varied to suit many interests, for in the ten different arrangements there were the slow and fast tempos, the serious and comical moments, as well as the grace and beauty which typified the ballet.

The applause which was waiting for each dancer and the pianist as well as the completion of the concert, indicated the success of the first Civic Association presentation. Those of us that had the opportunity to attend the concert will long remember each one who has been stimulated.

Bloodmobile To Visit KTC Nov. 5

By Maurice Beaulieu

On Monday, November 5, the Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit KTC. Knowing of the great support that has been shown here in the past, the Red Cross is again appealing to us to give a pint of blood to this worthy cause.

Mayor Gordon (Flash) Bean is in charge of the blood drive here at KTC working with the Men's Advisory Board and the Women's Dormitory Council, he is starting an active campaign to urge everyone to give his or her pint of blood. Mayor Bean has expressed his wish that we go well over the quota of 170 pints of blood set for our school.

Slips are being passed out this week to all students under twenty-one years of age for their parents or guardians signature. It is hoped that these permission slips will be signed and returned to the student in order that the Red Cross can accept his or her donation.

Mayor Bean has made note that several of our fellow students have already passed the gallon mark in their contribution of blood. It is high that many more of us can attain this goal in the near future.

New Dean of Men

By Maurice Beaulieu

Effective this fall Mr. Fred Barry, the former Administrative Assistant of KTC, has been appointed Dean of Men, replacing Mr. Dwight D. Carle in this position. Dean Barry, a married man with two sons, is a 1936 graduate of KTC with a Bachelor of Education degree. Teaching high school in Enfield, New Hampshire until 1941, Dean Barry was then called into the service. He continued his teaching career in the service, becoming a Senior Instructor at an Army Service school and later the Administrative Officer of an Airborne Training group.

Released from the service late in 1945, Dean Barry went to work with the Veterans Administration supervising the rehabilitation program at Dartmouth college. He returned to KTC in April 1948 as a substitute instructor. At the beginning of the fall term in 1948 Dean Barry was appointed Administrative Assistant at KTC and also continued in this position until this year. He received his Master of Education degree in 1950 through summer courses at Bates college in Lewiston, Maine. In 1955 Dean Barry received a certificate for Advanced Graduate Specialization from Boston University, working Saturdays and during the summer to earn the credits for this certificate.

In his new position Dean Barry serves as the intermediary between the administration and the men students. He assists the men to participate in group living through the several representative organizations such as the Men's Advisory Board and the Inter-Fraternity Council, and through personal individual guidance. He handles such details as room assignments, jobs for students, disciplinary action, and all other details that are in making every man's stay at the college a successful one.

Kappa Will Present
Year's First Formal

By Nelson Megna

There are three events of the social calendar that characterize fall, winter, and spring here at KTC. These are the formal dinners of the fraternities and the Kappa Delta Phi is sponsoring the fall formal this year, which will be on November 10. We have been informed that "Autumn Leaves" will be the theme of the dance. Ted Herbert and his fine orchestra have been engaged to provide the music. We hear that Kappa is going "all out" to provide an evening of enjoyment for everybody that should be long remembered.

Demerit System, Girls?

A new WSA demerit system for University of Maine coeds has been "drawn" up for approval. Under this system women students will be expected (Continued on Page 4)

The Editors, in order to obtain the political feelings of the student body of KTC, recently conducted a survey on the forthcoming Presidential election. The following article is the result of the survey with the opinions expressed not necessarily those of the Editors.

By John B. Tucker

Thanks Jim, for a fine performance in the last issue.

It's great to be back with the opinion column once again after a summer of no "gripes," and no comments of any shape, form, or matter. I hope your summer was as successful as mine, and that you've now returned to fill this feature with choice bits of information.

The question for this time is based on an age old philosophy that everyone should be aware of the world around them. In broadening the scope of K. T. C. students world, I have moved to the national political scene, where a bitter battle is now being waged and the victor chosen on Tuesday, November 6, 1956. The staff of the Monadnock and this column feel that everyone should be aware of the development in the presidential battle. Therefore, I busied myself by taking a sojourn around campus to see how a cross-section of the student body felt on the situation.

Here's the question I asked: "Will Adlai Stevenson or Dwight D. Eisenhower win the presidential race, and briefly why?"

Here are the answers I received: Jackie Abbott: personally, I like Ike. I think he has a lot of appeal to both men and women, and after all, that's all there is.

Janice Garrity: I'd vote for Ike every time—mainly because I'm a Republican—and besides Jim is a Democrat.

Ed Poor: well, being in the old Republican New England, I don't know whether it's safe to say this or not, but the people of this nation are smart enough, I believe, to vote Democrat all the way. Ruth Sprague: Ike—because I think he's done a wonderful job.

Sally Truelove: I'm for Ike. He's a great man, and he has done a wonderful job for our country. Also, he has brought about good relations throughout the world.

Ednie Popple: I believe that Ike will once again return to the White House, not only because he seems to be greatly favored, but because he has proven himself to be a very competent man during the past four years.

Tom Rouillard: because of the tremendous work in the past by the Republican Party, I think Ike will have no difficulty in obtaining the position of president.

Fred Currier: our country is facing a very important stage in world development. I think Ike is the man to cope with the problem, not only do I think he is qualified, but I'll predict that he will be elected and will solve the problems.

Carmen Nalbene: I believe Ike will win, because the American people have seen what he has accomplished in the past four years.

Roger F. Wilson: I believe Ike will win the 1956 election, because of his background and integrity. Adlai has absolutely no one to back him up.

Robert Gendron: I think Stevenson will win. I'm sorry I can't elucidate on the above statement or prove it's veracity. I'm pressed for time.

Edwin C. Johnson: I don't think Eisenhower will win again, because if the American people want a golfer for president, they will elect Ben Hogan. Why not elect a good golfer?

Patsy Labonte: I think Eisenhower will win because the majority of the people in this country have great faith in him, because of the way he handled national affairs during the perilous four years regardless of his illness.

Peggy Hale: In my opinion, Eisenhower will be re-elected this November, because of his four years of experience, and the respect that the American people as a whole have for him.

Carol Rand: I think Eisenhower will win the election because of his great ability in handling domestic and foreign affairs, as he has previously done during his administration; and his friendliness toward the individual has increased his popularity.

Barbara Fredette: my bet is on Eisenhower. I think he has shown this country many years of good service, and will continue to do so in the future. "Dizzy" Cleary: I'm betting on Ike. So he'd better win!

Joan Woodhull: I'm for Ike because I think he's the best man for the position, and besides he's "Cute."

How about that. Did you count the results? If not here they are:

17 for Eisenhower

2 for Stevenson

1 for Hogan, (where'd he come from?)

Well it looks like "Ike" would win here at KTC, but how things will shape up on the national level is a different story. We've supplied some information, now it's up to you to formulate "your opinion."

Until we meet again, this is O' Tuck saying, "Keep out of the hot sun, and stay happy."

Keene
Regional Forum

By Elinor Perfect

A new sign has been added to the Hale building bulletin board! This sign announces the Keene Regional Forum—a series of public lectures on many vital subjects. These lectures will be offered from time to time throughout the year; the first one held Monday, October 22, 1956. Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a nuclear physicist spoke on "The World of Tomorrow."

On November 26, General Carlos P. Romulo, Ambassador to the United States from the Philippines, will have as his subject, "America's State in Asia." College students are urged to attend this lecture.

March 7, 1957 will be the date of the third lecture. This time, Harrison Salisbury will speak about a "Report from Russia." Mr. Salisbury is now a New York Times correspondent. He was formerly chief of the New York Bureau in Moscow.

"Behind the Lenses" is the topic of the fourth and last forum lecture by Margaret Bourke-White, famed Life Correspondent.

All these lectures will be in the Keene high auditorium and start at 8:00 p. m. The price for students who attend separate lectures is the low fee of 50 cents each and the presentation of the KTC activity card at the ticket office in the auditorium.

Winnie McCarthy: I think Eisenhower will win the election because he is doing a pretty good job now, and if the people realize this fact, they will re-elect him.

Barbara Fisher: I think "Ike"
