

Dr Sir.

Boston 16th June. 1792 ²¹⁰ 138

Mr Gillman has been fermenting ever since the Co's departure theatrium in different company's that a good friend of hers had advised her to a scheme which would put her in possession repeatedly inviting the neighbours to come and see her in her new House after Payson had fixed it at last her Plan was divulged to one of her best Friends who happened to have a leak in his Breast and dropt it as a great secret to a friend of mine think it my Duty to inform you as soon as possible —

Serry Fogg is expected here as soon as the Court rises and she is determined to give them the Deed of this Place which was given by Herriman to her providing He will give her a Life Lease of the premises as your knowledge is superior in those matters submit it to your consideration whether she can damage you or the Co by such procedure. — if she can think Co Gillman ought to be advised immediately He will not value the expence of an Express from Concord for that purpose in an hour's time if there is any steps you can take to prevent your interest in the Estate being rendered disputable doubt not you will take them. —

I write not from trifling occurrences but am in fact assured she has that determination and if so. she will do it for when raised if there was in listing Orders for Devils she would make an excellent recruit —

Please to remember my love to you on the subject of Johnstons Note to P Green Esq. Your attention to make an effort in that Matter will much Oblige

Dr Sir. — Your friend & Humble Serv^t

Jon Payson

Handwritten text in cursive script, mostly illegible due to fading and bleed-through from the reverse side. The text appears to be a letter or a formal document, with several lines of writing across the page.

Handwritten text in cursive script, mostly illegible due to fading and bleed-through from the reverse side. The text appears to be a letter or a formal document, with several lines of writing across the page.

Received

of the sum of £100

Major General Peabody

Concord.

From Washington
June 93 about
11 1/2 miles

