

KSC Personnel At State Convention

KSC was represented at the Democratic State Convention last weekend by eight professors and students. Farring wall in the County Democratic Committee, David Gregory (Biology) and John Wiseman (History) both professors at KSC were elected Vice-chairman and state committeeman respectively.

Gregory and Wiseman served together as Co-chairmen of the McCarthy campaign in Cheshire county and since their victory in the March 12 primary have been working toward the State Convention.

Wiseman served as a delegate and was also on the platform committee. Gregory served on the Caucus committee and presided over the Cheshire County Caucus.

The other delegates from KSC were Carl Wels, Chris Barnes, David Battenfeld, Richard Cunningham, Tom Havill, Cheryl Paradis, and Charles Michaud. Barbara Battenfeld and Mary Gregory, wives of KSC professors,

Thor Johnson And The Nashville Little Symphony

Few musicians in this country have done more for American music than Thor Johnson. One of the world's distinguished orchestra conductors, he was the first American-born, American-trained conductor ever appointed by any major orchestra in the United States. For seven years he was music director of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, resigning in 1958 to become Director of Orchestra Activities at Northwestern University.

In 1959 Thor Johnson organized his own unique, professional ensemble, THE CHICAGO LITTLE SYMPHONY. During its initial seasons consisting of over 175 concerts throughout the United States, Mexico, and Canada, this unrivaled group has been accepted by critic and audience as "America's Finest Chamber Orchestra."

After eight North American tours the CHICAGO LITTLE SYMPHONY continued to thrill concert audiences throughout the country. Founded by conductor, Thor Johnson, this is the result of more than a century of unrivaled experience in the chamber orchestra field. His repertoire, of "Unusual but listenable," is as interesting to the connoisseur as it is entertaining to the novice concert goer.

In recognition of his splendid work in behalf of contemporary American music, the American Composer's Alliance presented Dr. Johnson with their highest honor: the Laurel Leaf Award, with the citation: "For Distinguished Achievement in Fostering and Encouraging American Music." He has also been honored with numerous other citations, awards, and honorary doctorates. Several foreign governments have decorated him for outstanding cultural services to their countries.

As guest conductor he has appeared with the New York Philharmonic, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Los Angeles, C.B.S., Rochester, New Orleans, and other orchestras. Besides engagements in Europe and Asia, he conducted the Japan Philharmonic of Tokyo, the Taiwan Provincial Symphony of Taipei, Taiwan, and the National Symphony of Iceland in extended assignments. In 1955, he was co-conductor of the Symphony of the Air (formerly N.B.C.) in its nine-week tour of South East Asia, the first Western Symphony Orchestra to visit the Orient.

Since 1939 Thor Johnson has been Choral Conductor for the Ann Arbor May Festival, leading the 325-voice choral union, internationally known soloists and the Philadelphia Orchestra on the campus of The University of Michigan.

From 1946 to 1952 Dr. Johnson conducted the Ojai (California) Festival and in 1953, founded the Peninsula Music Festival, Fish Creek, Wisconsin. In 1950, he began a series of festivals in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania devoted to

Action Taken In Student Senate Meeting

The Student Senate met last Thursday to consider a method by which the three representatives of the College Senate would be chosen. Twenty of the twenty-one student senators attended the meeting, along with a handful of interested students.

The first order of business was a motion submitted by Roger Goldsmith proposing that the representatives be elected by the student body in a series of preliminary and secondary run-offs. Also contained in the motion was a stipulation that an accumulative average of 2.5 be a cut off point for qualification. The motion was generally discussed.

Major opposition to the motion centered around the idea of a student election, to which a number of senators were opposed. They felt it was the Student Senate's responsibility to select the three representatives. Some also felt that there was not enough time to properly conduct campaigns and elections before the Sept. 26 deadline. A vote was called for to determine where the sentiment lay in this matter. In a close vote, the general election proposal was defeated.

A motion then followed proposing that the Student Senate select at least one representative from its own body and the remaining number from the student body. Considering qualifications, it was decided that any candidate must have spent at least one year at Keene State as a full time student, and that he have a 2.5 accumulative average.

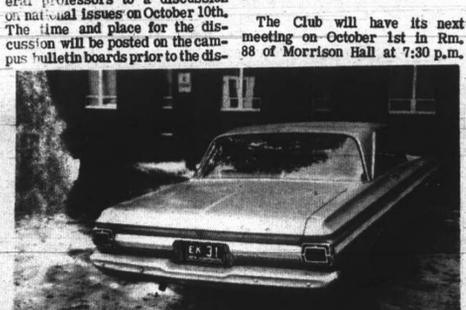

The Senate holds its regular meeting Monday night and meets Thursday to select the three representatives to the College Senate. Candidates must obtain a nomination blank from this issue of the Monadnock and submit their names to the Senate by 1:00 Thursday afternoon for consideration in that night's meeting.

Young Republicans Meet

The K.S.C. Young Republican Club held its first meeting of the year on September 17th. The club agreed to challenge the Young Democrats to a debate. The Y.R. Club hopes that Democrats accept this challenge. The Young Republicans feel that they and the Young Democrats should let the students of this campus know where their parties stand on the issues.

Plans were made to invite several professors to a discussion of national issues on October 10th. The time and place for the discussion will be posted on the campus bulletin boards prior to the discussion.

The Club will have its next meeting on October 1st in Rm. 88 of Morrison Hall at 7:30 p.m.

What Sign? -- The No Parking sign at the end of Duffy Court doesn't dismay the economy-minded owner of this vehicle. This student and others, including the faculty member who parks his car in the Hospital parking lot, have avoided the cost and inconvenience of required stickers by using such illegal tactics.

Carey, Goldsmith, Treat On Senate

On Thursday, Oct. 25, the Student Senate and faculty elected their members to the College Senate. This filled 15 of the 36 seats on that body.

The Student Senate, in closed session, elected three students: John Carey, Class of '71, Roger Goldsmith, Class of '69, and Marilyn Treat, Class of '70. Goldsmith is a member of the Student Senate and was elected from that group as its direct representative to the College Senate. Treat, editor of the Monadnock, and Carey were chosen from the campus at large to serve on the Senate.

The two at-large representatives were chosen on merit and from a list of submitted names. Nine names were considered by the Senate.

On the faculty side, at-large elections were held last Thursday. As a result twelve representatives were elected to office.

Japanese Educators Impressed

What impresses a visitor from a foreign nation in this country? Many things, if one takes a group of Japanese school teachers that spent a day at Keene State College this week as an example.

Many said the friendliness of everyone on campus. The informality and relaxed atmosphere, coupled with hard work, others commented. Even the college band, which was practicing nearby as the visitors gathered in a lecture hall at the end of the afternoon Wednesday, Sept. 25, to hear a dean speak. One teacher was particularly impressed with a history professor's lecture which a group of seven sat in on," said Craig

Wheeler, a sophomore from Portsmouth majoring in elementary education at the liberal arts college which includes teacher education in its curriculum. Wheeler was one of a dozen student guides who volunteered their time to show the visitors around the campus.

"He listened very carefully," said Wheeler, "and after the class was over went up to the professor and discussed the topic further. And the lecture was about the United States Constitution."

Another Japanese visitor who was among 10 who served as interpreters took hurried notes on a lecture in Japanese and relayed the

Physical Plant Expanding

On July 8 construction was begun on a new Men's Residence Hall. It will be located on the southern end of Butler Court into the west of the new Physical Education facilities. This building is scheduled for occupancy during September, 1969, and will accommodate 304 male students. It is being built by the MacMillin Company of Keene, and the total project cost for this building is approximately $2.5 million.

The building, when completed, will have the common areas, on the first floor. These areas include a main lounge which will be about a foot, or a foot and a half, below the lobby level. It will also include typing rooms, study carrels, television rooms, laundry rooms, recreation rooms, telephone areas, mail room and the living areas for the house director and the assistant house director. The laundry rooms will also be included on this first floor.

"Give A Damn" Going Strong

by Roger Goldsmith

Last summer, eighty-five young people, most of them non-white and from Harlem, were given an opportunity most of them had never dreamed possible. They were lifted from the slums of the city into Saxton's River, Vt., and there they developed the obvious potential they had in the area of fine arts. For most of the students this was the first time they had lived in a room of their own, eaten three meals a day, or simply gone to bed at night with a definite desire to wake-up the next day.

The entire project was conceived by John Torres Jr., a sculptor and promising author. Financial support was provided by the Art Students League of New York and the Ford Foundation. Teaching the students were five artists who had been brought up in the ghettos and were sensitive to the student's problems. Dr. and Mrs. Martin Saltz from K.S.C. conducted a reading clinic at the project.

The problem arose when, at the end of the summer, the money ran out and the students had to return to the ghetto. Torres then took it upon himself to do something about it.

He began writing letters, making phone calls, and visiting people in an attempt to raise money so these students could be placed in colleges and art schools around the country. By now Mr. Torres has succeeded in placing twenty-six students in school and hopes to place all eighty-five in schools by next year, and he needs money! On Oct. 12, 1968, the Thorne Art Gallery will present an exhibition of the works produced at Saxton's River. John Torres spoke to Carl Wels, the gallery director, and asked if there was any way of raising money to aid a scholarship fund for these art students. Mr. Wels scratched his head, puffed his pipe, and started talking to students.

The momentum has picked up and is increasing at a rate that's hard to believe. The once apathetic students of K.S.C. are creating something of proportions they're not even aware of. Led by Roger Goldsmith, Carol Johnson, Sue Crosby, Tom Powers and Mike Fanny, about forty students are organizing a talent show.

"Give A Damn" is the name of the show and it will be performed on Saturday, Oct. 12, 1968 at 8:00 p.m. The cost will be only $1.00 per person, and the show will be well worth it. Since a limited number of tickets are available, you are urged to purchase yours soon either at the Student Union or from either at the Student Union or from Sue Crosby. Why? Because this is your chance to "Give A Damn," because this is the people who say our country is going to the dogs and because this is your chance to see a helluva good show. Currently in the talking stages is the possibility

Coed Suspected Of Drug Use

Following the discovery of what is suspected to be marijuana in her dormitory room, a KSC coed has voluntarily withdrawn from school.

State Police Lt. Paul Doyon said that state and local police are in the process of investigating the case. A sample of suspected marijuana has been sent to the state lab.

Dr. R. J. Zorn said that the student had not been dismissed. He further stated that no student would or could be dismissed without observance of the disciplinary procedures as presented in the student handbook, and that the coed's parents had made the decision to withdraw the student from school.

The college released the following statement: "A small quantity of what is suspected to be a narcotic was determined to be in a student's possession on the Keene State College campus recently. The material has been turned over to authorities for analysis. The student has voluntarily withdrawn from the College."

"The College considers it unrealistic to assume that any college or university campus is completely free of some drug or narcotic use."

"The personnel deans at Keene State College will continue their counseling of any student who requests advice or whom they judge to need counsel."

"Keene State College is concerned with the welfare of its students in all aspects of life, including the temptation or enticement to use drugs or narcotics, and feels that efforts made, formally or informally, to counsel young men and women against any involvement with drugs and narcotics are very important. It is hoped that such efforts will minimize this involvement."

"The College does not plan any further comment on the incident." Keene Police Chief Albion Metcalf, indicated that the local police should have been notified by the college, as drug possession is a violation of the law, and is included under the department's jurisdiction.

Marilyn Treat, New Editor

Marilyn Treat, a junior English major from Nashua, N.H., has been chosen by the editorial board to succeed Lonnie Bourn as editor of the Monadnock. Bourn resigned as editor for academic and personal reasons.

Miss Treat has served on the staff of the Monadnock as a writer, cartoonist, and member of the editorial board. She was chosen last week by the Student Senate to be one of the three representatives to the College Senate.

Bourn's decision came rather unexpectedly late Friday morning and Friday afternoon the editorial board held an emergency meeting in order to fill the vacant position. After a discussion of the situation and organization of the work-load, the board decided that Marilyn could best fill the position. It is hoped that the fine job done by Bourn will provide a solid springboard for future publications.

Concerning the course of the Monadnock from here on out Miss Treat said she would "like to provide expanded coverage of all college activities. The Monadnock should recognize the major issues on campus and help provide a sense of direction for the student body."

Natural Heads Meet — For a discussion on Taxidermy.

Taxidermist To Lecture

On Thursday, Oct. 3, a special meeting of the Biology Club and Tri - Beta will be held in Room 301 of the Science Center. Herbert G. Nims of Sullivan, N.H., will present an informal demonstration of his vocation, taxidermy.

Mr. Nims will have a special section of his demonstration set up for bird and deer hunters, showing how to prepare the kill for the taxidermist. He will also discuss the preparation of fish and small birds and mammals. A question and answer period will follow.

This is the first in a series of campus-wide activities sponsored by the Biology Club to interest students in biology.

Ministry Announces Clothing Appeal

The Campus Ministry announces the opportunity for Keene State College students to join the Keene community and the whole nation in the 1968 CLOTHING APPEAL of Church World Service.

It is estimated that the number of world refugees has grown from 11 million to nearly 20 million in the last 18 months. Warm blankets and good clean lightweight clothing for men, women, and children are desperately needed.

The Keene collection is to be made BEFORE OCTOBER 14. Alpha Phi Omega will assist in the office of the Campus Ministry in the placement around campus of several large containers for our collection. They will be plainly marked, and will be picked up before October 14.

Individuals or groups having no clothes to give may wish to buy one or more blankets. They are purchased wholesale and cost $3.00 each. Mr. Gemmill, Craig Wheeler, or Fred Andrews will receive any such cash contributions.

There is also a 10¢ per pound cost of sorting, processing, baling, insuring, and shipping. Contributions toward this cost will gladly be accepted.

College students, "activists" and others often lament that no one does anything. Here is an opportunity to help in an admittedly temporary way to meet an urgent human need. Don't just give away what you don't need. Share something you could use but can live without. Many people in our world die from exposure.

Education at the United Church of Christ in Keene, did undergraduate work at the University of Western Michigan. He received a Masters in Sacred Music at Union Theological Seminary in New York City.

Mrs. Goder, who holds a Bachelor of Science in Chemistry, a Bachelor of Music in piano, and a Masters in Music in piano, is working on her Ph. D. in Music Theory and Composition at the University of Virginia at the University's Creative Art Center.

Mrs. Goder studied piano with Victor Babin, the head of the Cleveland Institute of Music. She also studied Harpsichord with Gunnar Johansen, Resident Artist at the University of Wisconsin.

Student Anti-War Activists In Vietnam

Vietnam's anti-war student activists have grown increasingly militant this year despite the heavier price of openly opposing the government. If they wish to speak out strongly against the war, students face the choice of risking a long prison term or joining the National Liberation Front or its allies.

Some of the student leaders have already chosen the latter alternative. Several leaders of the Saigon Student Union in 1967 joined the NLF during Tet. Several of the student activists, traditionally more militant, joined the Front before the end of last year.

It is difficult to get accurate information on how many students are actually working for the clandestine Alliance of National, Democratic and Peace Forces or its student affiliate, the Saigon Students Committee for Peace, both of which have aligned themselves with the Front as an alternative to the Thieu government.

One political figure well-known for his anti-war stand believes that the figure is probably no more than 100. Student leaders themselves admit that only about ten percent of the approximately 25,000 university students in Saigon even know or care about the Alliance and its purpose.

Anti-war activists, however, have clearly been driven to a position of advocating the overthrow of the military government by a Communist-led coalition of forces. One student leader interviewed at the Student Union headquarters, still filled with refugees from the May offensive, said, "The future role of the generals who rule the country depends on how they respond to the people's wishes for peace. If they do not give the people peace, they will be lost."

Militance was also reflected in his position on the future reunification of North and South Vietnam. Far from speaking vaguely of a ten-, fifteen- or twenty-year period before reunification, the student said without hesitation, "Reunification will take place within five years, at the most. Most people believe that all Vietnamese are one, North and South."

The activists are not typical of Saigon students. It is usually estimated that only about 10 percent of the university students are politically active. Most of them have little respect for either the Saigon politicians or the generals, and they have been perfectly willing to let someone else die if they can avoid military service. But since nearly all of them are from middle-class families, most students also find a victory by the Viet Cong unacceptable.

They are also queasy to the social cleavages and conflicts which underlie the present war. When beginning students at Saigon University were asked by an American teacher of English to write a composition on the racial problem in the U. S., comparing it with Vietnamese social problems, very few mentioned the gulf between the urban middle class and the peasant, between Vietnamese and Chinese, or between Vietnamese and Montagnard tribesmen.

The anti-war movement is limited by the inherent social class composition of the student body. Little interest is generated by the elections for positions in the Saigon Student Union, the organization representing students of the 14 divisions of Saigon University. But the left-wing opponents of the war seem to be in a majority among those who are more involved in politics.

Anti-war students have been elected to the executive committees of the various faculties of the university over the last two years, and since these representatives in turn elect the powerful seven-man executive committee of the Saigon Student Union, the anti-war movement has dominated it during that time.

Beneficial Activism

Activism on college campuses is a virtue not to be denied. It is the condition which creates progress and pushes society into the future rather than holding it back. However, we must consider the way in which all opposition can be classified. Activism today rings synonymous with "communism" fifteen years ago and "socialism" twenty years ago. Everyone who differed from the majority was a "phoo-rai-fink" ready to throw the entire nation to the communists at the clang of a hammer and sickle. So it has come about that the majority charges the minority with activism intending for them to be herded together and not differentiated one from the other.

We cannot do this. Each active group is a discrete nucleus and, in itself, SWCC differs from the KKK; the SDS differs from the SDS; and the Black Panthers differs from the League of Women Voters. All of these, however, are active groups although obviously not aiming for similar goals. None of these organizations can be grouped together and called one. Depending upon the relative position of people in society they view each group by different sets of criteria. Some will be seen as beneficial to man and society while others appear to be negative and harmful. The distinction that should be made is not between activists and non-activists but between beneficial and harmful action.

Acceptance of the activist groups, on the campus and off, is a necessary corollary to progress but these groups must be constructive rather than destructive. To violently destroy what we have already built is foolish and dangerous although to slowly erode the untried ways is progress.

There is a prime condition to be met before there develops a beneficially active group. This condition is that of an intelligent, thoughtful and aware membership. A membership that is aware of what they really oppose and can deal with problems with a rational intelligence rather than rash irrationality. The whole community must participate in this membership if it is to exhibit the desires of the total population.

This invariably leads to another point which is the apathetic outlook of many college students across the country. Apathy is represented by those students who sit back, wish for change but do nothing about it. It is a LAZZIEZ-FAIRE condition by these arm chair quarterbacks. It is an infectious condition and dangerous because of its infectious tendencies. No longer is it "in" to be a joiner, to be "in" one must sit back and criticize everything. This leads to so many student committees and organizations to be filled with duplicate memberships, or leaders, that they do not reflect the attitude of the entire student body. More interested, active students are needed to fill vacancies so they can be beneficially active organizations.

If we can attract the students into beneficial activism we are on the road to progress. Campuses would not be mired in the ough of Despond.

center this summer, I saw students teaching refugee children in a school which they had begun on their own. Anti-war activity has run in cycles, depending on the political circumstances of the moment. Last year, students were mobilized by the results of the Presidential Election, which were denounced by Buddhists and student leaders as fraudulent. Opposition to the election was coupled with calls for a negotiated settlement of the war.

Late last September, members of the executive committees of the four universities at Saigon, Can Tho, Da Lat and Van Hanh organized a seminar and demonstration, then issued a statement demanding the cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam, a ceasefire, the withdrawal of foreign troops and negotiations to reunify the country. Within the same week, students demonstrated in front of the National Assembly and tore up the board displaying the names of those elected in Presidential and Senatorial elections.

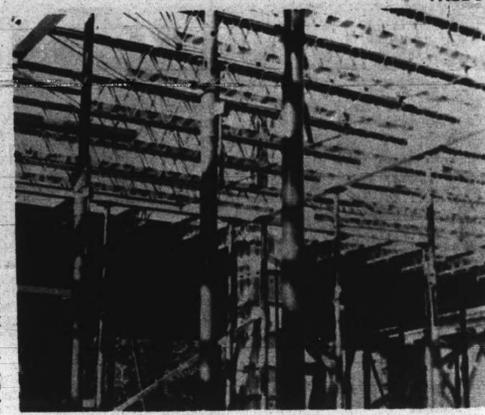

As a result of these and other demonstrations, the chairman of the Executive Committee of the Saigon Student Union, Ho Huu Nhat, and six other student leaders were arrested and spent some time in jail before they were drafted into the army. At the beginning of the Tet Offensive, all seven joined the Viet Cong.

A new cycle of student anti-war activity began early last summer, not with demonstrations but with public statements. After a long, silence on the war, the official newspaper of the Student Union, with a circulation of about 5,000 published an editorial both strongly anti-war and anti-American. At the same time, the Student Union's Executive Committee issued a statement urging that the war "must cease by negotiation in order for the nation not to be destroyed." It called for a "realistic peace solution" acceptable to both parties. Within a month, the editor of the student newspaper was arrested and later sentenced to five years at hard labor.

The main reason for the timing of these statements was the impending general mobilization under which most students would lose their draft deferments. Students called on members of both houses of the National Assembly to protest the mobilization and to demand how long they would permit the war to go on. They also consulted political figures like Tran Van Tuyen and Au Truong Thanh, who had spoken out for a negotiated settlement based on the participation of the Viet Cong in elections. But the effort to deflect the mobilization law failed.

Prospects for the student anti-war movement in Vietnam are worse than they have been since the fall of Dien. Prevented from demonstrating, severely limited in what they can publish, and continually harassed by police, who frequently enter their offices to search for subversive materials, the activists still remaining in Saigon are frustrated but determined. Asked what they could do to influence the government's policy, one student leader replied firmly, "We can only demand peace, again and again."

Home Ec Staff Visits England

Mrs. Margaret N. Chickering and Miss Dorothy F. Kingsbury, members of Keene State College Home Economics staff, and Dr. Marjory Wybourn of the University of New Hampshire, attended the 11th International Congress of Home Economics at the University of Bristol, England, July 22-27.

Over 1,100 members, representing more than 60 countries were involved in the theme of the Congress, "Home Economics in the Service of Cooperation."

The congress was opened by the Duke of Beaufort and other dignitaries from Bristol, Gloucester and Bath.

Fraulein President L. Voellmy of Switzerland presided. Speakers at the general sessions were from Finland, France, U. S. A., Austria, New Zealand, and Denmark.

They represented Research in Social Science, FAO, Nutrition and Food, Health and Medical Research, Extension Service, Vocational Education, Agriculture and Forestry, and Home Economics Education.

Sociological, scientific and economic, and educational aspects of the theme were developed by discussion groups.

The congress committee planned events to meet the needs of the overseas visitors, with civic receptions, and formal dinners to casual visits. The group was invited to a Domestic Arts College in Cardiff, Wales. One evening the members were entertained individually in private homes.

After the close of the congress, the group from the United States spent time in visiting Wales, Northern England, Scotland and Ireland. The next year's conference is scheduled for Helsinki, Finland.

GIVE A DAMN

The Monadnock recognizes the KSC "Give A Damn" benefit variety show as the direction this campus has needed. If apathy was the general atmosphere a year ago, or even a week ago, it is not so any more. The project seems to be snowballing into a campus project now, while just two weeks ago, it was the concern of a handful of people.

Students already involved in this benefit should be encouraged by the growing enthusiasm... it's highly contagious.

The project seems to have a twofold purpose. Its main goal is to help students in the ghetto, and the means to this goal has become a key to activating campus-wide interest in a single event. This can only mean unity for the student body.

You have two weeks to get into this project. There is more work to be done, and most important, more tickets to be sold. If this is to be a CAMPUS project, YOU have to be in that audience Oct. 12. YOU have to "Give a Damn."

GROWING PAINS

This past week has witnessed the seventh student involved in a narcotics incident at the college. This among other factors, seems to indicate a growing need for professional psychiatric counseling on this campus. To date, no such program has been established.

Apparently, this year's proposed budget includes salary for both a physician and a clinical psychologist. Both are certainly needed, and the college should not attempt to expand, and bring in more students, until it is prepared in this field to meet the growing demands of a growing student body.

Cuts in the proposed budget will inevitably occur. The question, then, becomes one of priority. So far, a professional counseling service has taken a back seat to the development of the "physical plant." This year, plans to move the main tennis court are in the budget. When it's time to decide what's more important, which project will win, the tennis court or the counseling service?

The Monadnock Area Family Service, and other local institutions, have given counsel to a high percentage of college students. It is not the responsibility of local establishments to take on the problems of the college. With evidence for a need for such a service increasing as it has in the past few years, why hasn't some program already been started?

Statistics indicate that approximately 8% of any given college community is in need of psychiatric care. This would mean about 110 students on this campus. If this is the case, then the existing local facilities are not even equipped to handle the college's students effectively. To give counsel to all these students, along with the residents, would mean less time given to each individual which, in essence, for many patients is worth nothing.

It is time for the college, and the Board of Trustees to become realistic about this problem. If having a counseling service here means we all walk around the tennis courts for another three or four years, then that will be our sacrifice, and what a small one it is to make. If the college is to expand any further it must prepare itself to take care of its own. Tennis courts don't give very good counsel.

Letter To The Editor:

To the Editor:
As President of the Keene State College Young Republicans I wish to inform the students of some of our activities and invite them to come to our meetings and join the club. I want to stress the importance of participation in this election because we are electing a man to serve in the highest office in the land. If people do not participate in the election activities then they have only themselves to blame if the candidate of their choice is not elected.

The Young Republicans will have a sign up table in the Student Union on Oct. 3 for all those students who would like to volunteer to help elect Republican candidates this year. Oct. 10 we are sponsoring a debate among 6 faculty members on the major campaign issues, be sure to attend this one, it should be very interesting!

In closing I would like to urge everyone who is old enough to register and vote to do so. Voting is a very easy and painless way to stand up and be counted!

Theatre Today

To the Editor:
A lack of interest and a feeling of resentment has arisen with the announcement that "The Importance of Being Earnest" will be the first theatre production of the college year. This resentment is easy to understand, when you realize that this play has been done on the high school level for a good number of years. I agree that the show has an important message, and does take a degree to skill to produce, but it will take more than elaborate scenery and costumes to invigorate the old plot.

The college theatre in past years has presented the members of its audience with fresh and new experiences. The record of the productions speaks for itself, and these students who participated in the theatre program maintained a high level of moral and enthusiasm.

Many of us, who have worked in dramatics, feel that the theatre will lose its significance with the student body, unless we can commit ourselves to the goal of UNIQUE college theatre in the future.

The Education Beat

by Harold C. Colburn

This column mentioned last week the idea of increasing Federal control of education also known as National Curriculum. It mentioned that certain elements in our country would be violently opposed to this idea.

George Wallace and other conservatives want to have each educational system controlled by only the community it serves. In other words it is acceptable to them if one school is teaching math and science from text books written around 1930 while a neighboring community uses texts of the 1960's. A person graduating in 1968 with a little more education might find it a little more difficult adjusting to the work-a-day world than the 1968 type if the terms and procedures have changed.

According to Harold H. Punke in "The Elementary School Journal" centralizing tendencies are

Simulated Disaster

Twenty-five Island Street was the scene of a simulated gas explosion disaster test for the city of Keene. The test involved fifteen KSC students.

The students were organized under the direction of Craig Collemer and Mike Sewell as victims for the disaster which was directed by Mrs. Jon Baldwin, Red Cross first aid instructor trainer for Cheshire County.

The purpose of the test was to determine the preparedness and the ability of the emergency first aid and hospital facilities in the Keene area.

The call reporting the disaster was placed at 7:05 Saturday morning to the Mutual Aid Communications Center. From then on activities were carried on as if it were an actual disaster. The "victims" were made up with various devices to represent burns, broken bones, shock, and varying wounds.

Upon entering the residence of several college students at 25 Island St., the ambulance crews had to deal with the 15 "victims" lying from one end of the house to the other, as well as with two "hysterical" women.

The whole simulated disaster took approximately one and one half hours from the time of the call to the time that all victims had been attended to.

In general, it was considered a successful test, and was also viewed as being extremely profitable for the residents of Keene. The fifteen students who volunteered were: Craig Collemer, Mike Sewell, Ray Croteau, Pete Tucker, Ray Morissette, Dick Dumont, Ed Forcier, Zeno Elye, Doug Armstrong, Candy Peters, Joan Pilcher, Marylu Covell, Armand Vien, Bob Ross, Rollie Ambiehl.

A KAPPA EXCLUSIVE: Brother Bill Hollis scooped all the local news media by taking the only pictures of New Hampshire Congressman James Cleveland. Jim visited K.S.C. early Friday morning, stopping to see a friend. Brother Hollis learned from the Congressman that he plans to make an announced appearance to Keene about the middle of October to campaign for his re-election. We at Kappa wish him the best of luck.

Kappa would also like to announce that this evening an event of momentous significance will occur which is of interest to every freshman girl. The first KAPPA NIGHT AT THE ZOO for freshman girls will be held from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. This social event will give the girls a chance to meet the famous Kappa Animals, and to dispel any fears that they may have about them. It will be an evening to remember.

Brother Dave Brown's sensational football team, the Monadnock Regional Huskies, swept to another victory last Saturday, sootily trouncing Fall Mountain Regional High, by a score of 26-0, Fall Mountain, coached by Tony Maturu, Alpha's house father, were simply outclassed and were powerless against Brother Brown's power-packed offense, and devastating defense.

Brother Mike Sotz is still looking for his set of dumbbells and Wheat Germ Oil. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of them should contact Kappa House immediately. Brother Sotz needs these items desperately as he's in training for the athletic events coming up in Greek Week.

Finally, the Kappa-sponsored Blood Drive will be held October 14 and 15. In order for those under 21 to donate, a special form (reprinted below), must be signed by the donor's parent or guardian. We hope that all of you will donate to this lifesaving cause.

My daughter (son/ward)....., being under the age of twenty-one (21) years, has my permission to make a voluntary donation of blood at a visit on Oct. 14, 1968, of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to Keene State College. I understand that all blood donations are made in accordance with the regulations and procedures of the American National Red Cross, and I hereby release and discharge The American National Red Cross, its officers and agents, physicians, technicians, nurses, and others connected therewith, from all claims or damages whatsoever that I or my representative have or may have against it or any of them by reason of any cause arising out of or incident to such blood donation.

TAU Kappa Epsilon

by Sumner Harris

On Thursday, September 26, Lambda Sigma chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon installed four new members of former Theta Chi Delta into the new chapter. Thomas Zarnowski, John Richard, Roland Ambiehl, and William Hill were initiated, bringing the total membership of TKE to 74 brothers.

On Saturday, September 28, six brothers from TKE took part in a simulated gas explosion tragedy at 25 Island Street. This was the first attempt by the Keene Red Cross at "Triage," (classifying types of accident patients). The group went off at 7:45 a.m., marking the beginning of the drill. Two ambulances, the Civil Defense, and the Keene Red Cross arrived at the scene of the "accident" finding fifteen people with varying degrees of injury, ranging from shock to a stake driven through fraternal Peter Tucker's neck. The ambulance crews sorted out the "injured" and took them to the hospital for treatment. Frater Ray Croteau was the only fatality. Fraters participating in the "accident" were Bob Ross, Rollie Ambiehl, Ray Croteau, Peter Tucker, Armand Vien, and Ed Stokel. TKE would like to extend their congratulations to the Keene Red Cross for a very efficient job done.

J. Pablo Aramburu, field representative from the Central Office of Tau Kappa Epsilon will be staying at TKE house from October 1 through October 15. This provides through the Lambda Sigma Chapter with a direct link to the central office. Mr. Aramburu will answer any questions which may have arisen during the beginning of the academic year concerning the affairs of the chapter. Lambda Sigma extends a warm welcome to frater Aramburu to the Keene State College Campus.

Fraters Paul Charpentier, George Biron, and Barry Ostorn attended a TKE convocation in Boston two weekends ago. The meeting was held to help promote individual chapter strength. It was announced that our chapter would be selected as one of the sites for a leadership school to be conducted in the near future.

Congratulations to the TKE A, B, and C football teams who at present are all undefeated and unscored upon.

Neronsky Alpha

On Saturday, Sept. 28, the Brothers of Alpha Pi Tau Fraternity held a work day at Mary Walker's farm in Harrisville. The work was supervised by Vice president Pete Kukish. After the work was done, everyone enjoyed a great roast beef dinner. Mrs. Wear, an honorary Alpha Sweetheart, is the Financial Aids Secretary at KSC.

A get together was held on Friday evening, Sept. 27, to celebrate our 40th anniversary as a chartered fraternity. Everyone grooved to the sweet beat of the Psychedelic Lollipop, a rock group from Nashua. Brothers Dennis Clark, Jay Dufour, and Tom Martinson seemed to enjoy themselves more than anyone else. We're all looking forward to next year when we'll be able to celebrate our 41st anniversary!

Jim Barton has replaced Doug Howe as one of the IFC delegates from Alpha. Other delegates include Pete Kukish, Jay Dufour, and President Bob Cloutier. This delegation, working along with those from Kappa and TKE, hope that this will be a most constructive and successful year for the IFC.

This week the Alpha Due coffee display last Saturday evening, the Sweet Tooth Supper, which included a couple of plain old uncooked pancakes, sweetened and beautified with fresh, sun-kissed, frozen chopped strawberries, topped with snow-white instant whipped cream, served with two (and only two) over-cooked, crumbly, fork-bending slices of bacon, backed up by imported, pre-frozen, thawed-out, artificially filled, watery cocomose frosting-topped eclairs. What a meal! What do you expect for $2.10?

The Mankind A Ship Of Love

Dear Friends;
For centuries man has sought political, economic and religious solutions to his problems. These attempted solutions have been at times helpful, and at times harmful; in any event they usually were directed toward symptoms of man's problems rather than to the real source & shape of his conscience. We propose to do something which is directed to the conscience of mankind.

We are going to acquire a ship that can transport approximately three hundred people and sail around the world as a gesture of Peace and Universal Brotherhood. In order to do this we have formed a non-profit corporation to organize this voyage. We have no affiliations with any political, social, or religious organizations. We will depend solely upon mankind for support.

Perhaps you would like to be one with us. If you cannot come you might like to help us. There is much to be done. We will try to get a government ship - perhaps one of the moth-balled Liberty ships - and adapt her for our purposes. We will change a "Ship of war" into a "ship of Peace." The ship will be painted in beautiful colors by artists. On her sides she will carry messages of Peace and Goodwill from anyone who wishes to send them. In the course of preparing our ship, we will prepare ourselves for the journey. Before we sail as during the voyage, it is planned that seminars be held to explore and discuss the attitudes of Peace, non-violence and love through discussion and meditation.

None of the persons aboard our ship will be "passengers." Everyone will have some sort of duty however small it may seem to be. We shall all have an interesting and enlightening experience. When our ship is ready we will christen her the "Mankind." It is a good name - for the whole purpose of our trip will be to express the attitude that we are all one, a seemingly reluctant brotherhood, with only one world to live in. We are convinced that our one and only hope for mankind to survive is by love expressed through a gentle attitude and kindness shown to our brother.

We intend to leave San Francisco in June 1969, and go to many ports. We will sail first to Hiroshima. There we will say that we are sorry for the terrible bombing that happened. All of us, including the Japanese, are responsible for allowing it to happen; and our apology will be from mankind, not just from America.

By going to Hiroshima, we will call attention to the specter of hydrogen bomb warfare, a specter we have all but forgotten except for a nagging fear in the back of our minds. Hiroshima will remind us of the possibility of nuclear holocaust; but it can also be a beginning place for a reaffirmation of the nature of God in man. There is much despair, Bitterness, and Cynicism in people now, but there is also much reason for hope. We feel that our ship, "The Mankind," can do much to symbolize this hope for all.

The world now is full of violence and conflict. Forces of both concern and hatred appear to have become polarized into opposing camps. We feel a closer look reveals that man is more than ever before concerned with the treatment of his fellow man. There is more "life-force" manifest now than ever before. This force is expressed through Love; it is everywhere and it will be aboard our ship.

We will never reach a world of love through violence. Many who feel despair and bitterness now, may turn to violence. In one way this violence and hatred is a corruption of their desire to love and be loved. Because of feelings of futility and frustration in finding avenues for the expression of love, this love turns to hate. Our ship will be such an avenue.

We are entering a "New Age" for mankind. It will not be an age of "Universality" in which we realize that all men are brothers, that the greatest joy in life is loving one another, and that we can never benefit at the expense of another. In this age we will have no cause to fear or mistrust anyone. This will come about as we overcome our doubts, guilt, fears and selfishness. These barriers separating man will be removed aboard our ship. We hope this will be true for people all over the world. We want everyone to identify with our trip, and what we are trying to create, a pure gesture of love.

Wherever in the world we stop, we will offer flowers, music, singing and dancing. We will have gifts for children made by other children. We will express our feelings as a group as well as personally. After our ship leaves Hiroshima, we will go where we think we can best express our theme of brotherhood; but we will consider the safety and well being of everyone on the ship as well as the people in the ports of call. We would like to stop in China, Vietnam, Africa, India, and Europe.

As we mentioned before we plan to leave in June, 1969. If you wish to go with us, or to contribute in any way, please write to MANKIND... BIG SUR, CALIFORNIA... 93920. Those who wish to go with us will receive a letter explaining all of the details. The intramural football teams are providing some keen competition this far this season as they battle it out for the first place. At the top of the standings are both TKE A and TKE C who are both showing fine team effort. Both teams rolled their opponents last week; TKE A beating George's Gym A 28-0, and TKE C stopping TKE D 14-0. Both teams also have a good chance of remaining number 1, but it will be a constant struggle to stay on top.

TKE C VS TKE D

TKE C took their second straight victory as they blanked TKE D 14-0 in the intramural play. Neither team scored in the first half, but the score quickened considerably in the second half.

PLANT EXPANDING

per three floors, whichever may be the case, since there are 2 3-story structures and 2 4-story structures all tied to together in this total project, will be the living area. On each floor there will be accommodations for 28 students plus one large living room as well as toilet facilities, kitchenette area, ironing room, etc. The bedrooms will accommodate two students and will have built-in furniture, including wardrobe, bureau, desk, and movable bed. This building will be electrically heated and each room will be individually thermostatically controlled for heat.

The addition of this much needed residence hall will increase the needed bed capacity at the college for continued growth.

The exterior of the building will have a blacktopped play area — hopefully which will be available for flooding and skating during the winter time.

STUDENT UNION

The other project which was begun during the summer was the renovation of the former Spaulding Gym to a Student Union with an addition. This building is moving along fairly well and we estimate that it will be materially completed by the beginning of the second semester.

The new addition will house a snack bar area to accommodate 300 seats, with a full kitchen. The upstairs of the new addition will have a pool-ping-pong room, a large computers room with lockers, etc., a television room, meeting room, and an office for the associate director. The old Spaulding Gym, when renovated, will have on what used to be the old gym floor an all-purpose room including the stage. The complete balcony will have been removed, a new ceiling put in, a new floor put in, and we expect that it will meet our need for a general all-purpose room for some time.

The downstairs area that used to accommodate the locker rooms and a big room, as well as the bowling alley, will be converted to a new book store. Also on the first floor will be the office of the director, the director's secretary, information room, and a large quiet lounge.

This building is moving along schedule and hopefully will be completed at the beginning of the second semester.

ON SENATE

The top four vote getters were placed on the Senate for three years; the next four for two years; and the next four for a term of one year.

Elected for four years were: Dr. David H. Dattenfeld, Dr. John D. Cunningham, Dr. Richard E. Cunningham, and Dr. Peter Jenkins. For two years were Mr. Malcolm Keady, Mr. Harry Kenney, Dr. Ann Peters, and Dr. James Smart. One year terms went to Dr. Thomas Havill, Mr. Herbert Lourie, Mr. William Pardus, and Mr. Frank Tisdale.

Yet to be determined are the fourteen department seats. These are being decided now and will be released Wednesday. There are also five administrative seats on the Senate.

George's Gym B forfeited the game to Kappa A.

TKE B Vs Kettles

TKE B played the Kettles to a 0-0 tie Wednesday in intramural play. Quarterbacking for TKE was Paul Olsen and for the Kettles, Mark Soles.

The first ten minutes of the first half showed no gain for either team as the ball switched hands several times. Finally Dimco broke out on a left end sweep to bring TKE deep into Kettle territory. Carlson intercepted for the Kettles to stop the drive. TKE got the ball back with a Byron Richardson but a few plays later Petrovski intercepted again for the Kettles. With seconds left in the first half, Mollon intercepted for TKE.

The second half brought more passing. TKE brought the ball deep into Kettle territory but was forced back by a penalty and gave up the ball on downs. Both teams mounted passing attacks and got nowhere. In the last minute of play, the Kettles brought the ball down to TKE's 1 yard line with consecutive passes to Gustafson and Petrovski. Time ran out with the Kettles stranded on TKE's one yard line. Final score: 0-0.

Alpha A Vs Married Students

Alpha A and the Married Students played to a 0-0 tie in a penalty-riddled game Thursday. Quarterbacking for the Married

Students was Larry Hayn and Barney Kolb, while Alpha's quarterback was Cassey Pozzani.

The first half consisted of a continuing exchange of the football as both teams were forced back by penalties. The first break came when Bramante intercepted for Alpha in deep enemy territory. The Married Students stopped them on downs but were then unable to move the ball themselves.

Much like the first half, the second half was a stalemate dominated by penalties. Alpha's Lemanic and the Student's Kolb intercepted during this period but neither offense was able to get off the ground. The game ended with an Alpha passing attack which failed to hit paydirt.

TKE A Vs George's Gym A

TKE A swamped George's Gym with a 28-0 victory as the combination of Jocko-Zenco proved too much to handle. First half action saw George's Gym deep in their own territory when Zenko intercepted a Destetano pass to move TKE down to 1st and goal. On the next play Charpentier carried over for the TD.

After exchanges TKE again took possession about midfield. Landry then connected with Zankowsky who scampered to paydirt. Attempted extra points were good.

K.S.C. Soccer Team Captures Home Opener, 4-2

by Vern Young

The Keene State College Varsity Soccer Team captured its home opener Saturday against Lyndon State College by a score of 4-2. After falling behind 1-0 early in the first period the Owls rallied and dominated the rest of the game.

The first score came at 19:27 of the first period as Curtis, just having been sent into the game, lined a low, left breaking shot that sailed into the net barely out of reach of Keene goalie, Brian Richardson. But less than six minutes later Keene's Casagrande dribbled the ball between two Lyndon defenders and kicked in the equalizer at 13:33. Keene took the lead for good 2 minutes and 50 seconds later when sophomore Rit Swain scored from point blank range during a wild scramble for the ball. The first period ended with the Owls leading 2-1.

The second period was a hard nosed fight and, although neither team scored, some of the best play took place. Keene missed several scoring chances as they were called off-sides five times. Keene's passing continued to improve and the majority of the Lyndon play was in Lyndon territory. Lyndon got off many shots but they were erratic and couldn't capitalize on any of the Owl mistakes.

Keene moved out in front 3-1 when Wally Dwinells took a 60 yd. kick from the toe of Tom Chase and beat the Lyndon goalie for an easy goal. The goal came at 9:27 at the 3rd quarter and at this time the Owls seemed unbeatable. The Englishman, Steve Parker, seemed to be everywhere

The purpose of this column is to open a new window and let fresh air in. I hope these articles will present new ideas to ponder and different attitudes to muse. However, if you have pondered all there is to ponder and mused your final muse, this column isn't for you.

Man was created in God's image..... Man was a pre-existing organism which evolved to its present state.....

Man was found under a massive cabbage leaf..... No matter what way you look at it, we are here and will probably be around for quite a while. Permit me to define "here": Here is where you find it, and as adaptable organisms we are capable of functioning in various situations.

We are given facilities which enable us to communicate with our fellows, we also are able to satisfy our bodily needs and to appreciate the intangible things in life.

Along with these basic qualities of man, each of us possess an individual attribute which differentiates you from your neighbor and your neighbor from his friend. It's this individual nature that sets each of us apart from one another thus making existence worth living. So what makes you think you're better than anyone else? It's your character—don't lose it in a day to day existence, cultivate it with new plans of travel — fortune or fame. We can all dream.

When you think or have a thought, let us know.

Tennis, Anyone?

Variety of Design

NEW YORK (a) — What's the latest in the stream of dramatic developments tennis has experienced over the past few years? An aluminum racket, that's what. And it is likely to attain the popularity of other recent innovations in tennis, such as synthetic playing surfaces, new scoring systems and open tennis.

Why an aluminum racket and what are its playing advantages? With aluminum, sophisticated extrusion processes and new space-age alloys put virtually no limit on the variety of design innovations that can be produced. As to the playing advantages of the racket, lightweight aluminum allows the most effective distribution of weight for maximum power. Occasional players will discover that one of the best things about the aluminum racket is how it acts when a ball is not hit squarely.

The Start Of Varsity Field Hockey

Last Tuesday, the first varsity field hockey practice got underway at 5 p.m. with about twenty girls in attendance. It was difficult for the first few minutes as one of the boy's touch football teams felt that they should have the field — not the girls. Like gentlemen, they moved to another part of the field and the girls started scrimmaging.

It has been decided that the practice of skills and conditioning will be done on free time, while on Monday through Thursday, from five to six, scrimmage will take place.

Squads have not been chosen yet, so anyone interested in joining the varsity club is invited to come down to the scrimmages.

The first of four games that are in the offing this season is with Colby at Colby around the middle of October. The field hockey coach is Miss Virginia A. Irvine.

YD's Invite Candidates

by Ray Miller

The first meeting of the year of the Young Democrats Club of Keene State College took place on Sept. 25. The main purpose of the meeting was to introduce the new members into the organization, and to sign up new members.

The Club announced its inviting of many of the Democratic candidates for office to speak at Keene State. Among those invited are Vice President Humphrey, Senator Muskie, Governor John King and Emile Bussiere. David Hoeh, candidate for Congress, and John McLaughlin, candidate for Governor's Council have already accepted invitations.

Bob Higgins, a former student of K. S. C., spoke about David Hoeh campaign and urged the active support of the Club. This campaign, designed to draw independent voters and dissatisfied Republicans as well as Democrats, is aimed at promoting the new politics which was slowed, but not stopped, by the failure of Eugene McCarthy to capture the Democratic nomination.

Club President Armand C. Michaud gave his ideas on the ways and means that this year's Young Democrats will hit the campaign trail at Keene. He also expressed his desire to accept the challenge issued by the Young Republicans to a debate. The Club looks forward to an active and Jeward campaign in this crucial election year.

Monadnock Player Of The Week: Wally Dwinells

(Note—This will be the first in a series of stories covering the athletes of our school, where they come from and their own personal reflections on the sports they play at Keene State College).

The Monadnock Player of the week is Wally Dwinells. He is a member of the varsity soccer team and playing in his third season. Awarded letters in both his freshman and sophomore year, he is presently working for his third one.

Wally was born in Concord, New Hampshire and attended Hopkinton High School, where he was a member of the soccer team for four years. In 1964, Hopkinton captured the State Crown and in 1965 they finished second, losing to Raymond 4-1 in the finals. Dwinells feels that the team is now starting to round into shape and that the two recent key injuries could hurt their chances for the conference title.

Rich Messer has an injured foot and Duane Webster suffered a broken rib in the last exhibition match against New England College. He feels that for the Owls to have a chance these two players must be up to par.

When asked about the rest of the freshman he felt that Casagrande, Parker and Chase would definitely help the team. Casagrande

New Physical Education Instructor — Miss Virginia A. Irvine.

Who's Who In The Phys. Ed. Dept.

A new figure on the scene at Keene State College campus is Miss Virginia A. Irvine. In spite of her tiny stature, she has much vim and vigor as witnessed by those trying to master the skills of field hockey or trying to teach or even learn how to play tennis.

Miss Irvine graduated from Gettysburg College with a degree in Physical Education. While a student there, her strong interests were in field hockey, basketball, and softball. She then went to Washington and worked for two years in public schools there. Following this, she returned to school, this time to the University of Washington for graduate work.

Gymnastics became a focused interest and she is very proficient in the skills. When asked for her impression of KSC, she commented that she likes it very much. She reasoned that at a small school, one can get to know the students personally, know its policies, and work with the faculty more closely.

Miss Irvine's work at KSC is, for the present, primarily with activity classes and the preparation of leaders for those classes. She is also concerned in getting a woman's varsity field hockey underway this fall and act as its coach.

and Chase only needing experience while Parker is in class by himself as an excellent soccer player. Dwinells is a Liberal Arts Candidate with a major in History and a minor in Geography. In the spring of 1967 he was inducted into Theta Chi Delta, now TKE. He encourages the student body to support the team as it promotes to be one of the best in the history of the school.

Hang-out Hang-up! After many delays the new student union is finally showing some progress. It is hoped that the structure will be ready for use by second semester.

Secondary Schools Find New Freedom

The American Civil Liberties Union announced today (October 2) the release of a new policy statement, ACADEMIC FREEDOM IN THE SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

The policies, outlined in a 22-page pamphlet, were prepared by the Union's Academic Freedom Committee and voted upon by its Board of Directors. Although the ACLU has long been active in defending the rights of students and teachers on the high school level, this is the first pamphlet it has issued devoted exclusively to these issues.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM IN THE SECONDARY SCHOOLS states: "No formulas or prescriptions will fit all cases and problems. The policies set forth... are offered as recommended guidelines, not as a body of established principles."

Some of the policies delineated in the ACLU pamphlet are: Teachers should be free to join unions of their own choosing and to participate in union activity including the right to strike.

Any student whose religious scruples or other principled convictions lead him to refuse to participate in a salute to the flag, or an oath of allegiance should be exempt from such activity.

The freedom to teach controversial issues is a critical test of the teacher's freedom in the classroom. A school's professional staff is qualified to establish what shall be included in the curriculum and when and how it shall be taught, free from dictation by community groups or individual citizens.

Any infringement of the rules by a student which may lead to serious penalties such as suspension or expulsion from school, or a notation on his record requires a formal hearing and the right of appeal.

As long as a student's appearance does not, in fact, disrupt the educational process, or constitute a threat to safety, it should be no concern of the school.

Outside the academic setting a teacher can engage in political activity, associate, and dress as he pleases, and engage in whatever sports, recreations, pas-

'In Loco Parentis'

The degree to which European universities adhere to the concept of "in loco parentis" is manifest in a spectrum of official administration doctrines. The forms of university-imposed student restrictions in Europe follow roughly the same outlines American administrators have adopted in the past. In the United States, these regulations times he chooses unless it can be shown that his behavior is affecting his professional performance in a demonstrably deleterious manner.

In general, no teacher or administrator should attempt to interfere with the practice of wearing buttons or badges, armbands or insignia on the grounds that the message may be unpopular with any students or faculty or even with the majority of either group.

No student should suffer any hurt or penalty for any idea he expresses in the course of participation in class or school activities.

The ACLU is opposed to the imposition of all loyalty oaths that go beyond the oath requirements of the federal Constitution for office holders.

The cause of decision as to the content of a publication should be placed clearly on the student editorial board of the particular publication.

The right to an education provided for all students by law should not be abrogated because of marriage or pregnancy unless there is compelling evidence that the student's presence in the school or classroom does, in fact, disrupt or impair the educational process for other students.

A list of the amendments to the U. S. Constitution relevant to these policies is contained in the pamphlet.

The academic freedoms set forth in the student section of ACADEMIC FREEDOM IN THE SECONDARY SCHOOLS must be looked upon as more than a line of defense; they are positive elements in the educational process of a democracy.

If secondary school students are to become citizens trained in the democratic process, they must be given every opportunity to participate in the school and in the community with rights broadly analogous to those of adult citizens.

have taken the form of restrictions on where students may live, when they must return to their dorms at night, visitation bans and drinking, smoking and automobile regulations.

While many Italian, Spanish and Greek universities have been painfully slow in abandoning the "in loco parentis" thesis, several newer British universities have chosen a laissez faire attitude toward non-academic student life.

The administration of Keene University, one of the newest English institutions, is representative of this new concept. A school with an enrollment of roughly 1,500, Keene has trusted the student with his own private life.

Only freshmen are required to live in university housing and no closing hours are kept in any of the university's dormitories. Visitation (men are allowed in Women's rooms and vice versa) has been unregulated by the university since its inception.

According to the students at Keene, few problems have resulted from the position taken by the administration.

Barbara Dew, a senior at the university, said, "Most of the students are serious enough about their education to take care of themselves. The men and the women know they have to be up for classes the next day and most of them get in at reasonable hours. As for men going into women's rooms, all I can say is that it doesn't happen too often - what can you do when there's a roommate around? You can always do what you want anyway somewhere more private. One thing I should tell you though, is that almost all the students at my university live on campus even though they don't have to - it's the best housing around."

In direct contrast to the system at Keene is the situation which exists at many universities in Italy and to an even greater extent, Spain.

The University of Barcelona keeps close tabs on each of its students. In addition to regulating student housing, the administration restricts the speech of the students by taking action against persons who speak out against the interests of the university or government. The sentences may take the form of expulsion from the university, army service, trial in civil court, or lesser punishments.

In addition, students find their dorms closed tight at 12 p.m., visitation is not permitted, and no student organizations which might threaten the dictates of the faculty are permitted.

Educational Reform An educational reform program which if carried out will significantly erode centralized government control over university life was approved last week by the French government.

The program, the government's answer to the massive student-worker strike last May, is considered the first significant change in centuries in the education system of France. Its passage through the Cabinet is credited to new minister of education Edgar Faure.

The reforms still must be approved by Parliament. Debate there is scheduled to begin today, and Faure expects passage of the measures. Implementation of structural changes is scheduled for February.

The major change provided for in the program is the establishment of a governing council in each university, to be made up of students and professors, students constituting "up to half" the members. The councils will set their own policies and procedures for budgeting, administration, teaching methods, examinations and maintenance of order. The president of the university will be elected by the student-faculty council and will serve as chief administrative officer.

The reform measure also contains provisions for allowing student political activity on campuses - activity which has always been strictly banned.

The measures will give new power not only to students, but also to professors, who under the present system of almost complete control from Paris had as little voice as students in the running of the universities.

Some observers see the education reform measure as a forerunner of change in all areas of French social and political life, moderation of the doctrine of centralized control over all aspects of life which has ruled France since the Revolution.

Student reaction to the reforms seems mixed. Although the more radical students reportedly are contemptuous of the changes and determined to re-start the protests when school opens in October, make-up examinations from last May have been administered on all university campuses without major incident and with about 90 percent attendance.

For what it's worth Department of Education officials, in an audience yesterday, said "the new generation deserves praise" for its rebellion against "traditional hypocrisies."

The Pope called young people's reactions in protests and demonstrations "unleashed against well-being, against the bureaucratic and technological order, against a society deprived of superior and really human ideals, perhaps the result of insufferance of psychological, moral and spiritual mediocrity... against the impersonal uniformity of our surroundings as modern civilization has made them."

It was sent on Aug. 22, the day after the Soviet troops marched into Prague.

TEXT OF TELEGRAM Following is the text of the telegram.

I don't know how to sleep. I don't know how to continue living. All I know is that I have a moral duty to express to you the feelings that overpower me. I am deeply convinced that our action in Czechoslovakia is a tragic mistake and a bitter blow to Soviet-Czechoslovak friendship and world Communist movement.

It lowers our prestige in the world and in our own eyes.

It is a setback for all progressive forces, for peace in the world and for humanity's dreams of future brotherhood.

Also, it is a personal tragedy for me because I have many personal friends in Czechoslovakia and I don't know how I will be able to look into their eyes if I should ever meet them again.

And it seems to me that it is a great gift for all reactionary forces in the world and we cannot foresee the consequences of this action.

I love my country and my people and I am a modest laborer of the tradition of Russian literature, of such writers as Pushkin, Tolstoy, Dostoyevsky and Solzhenitsyn. These traditions have taught me that silence is sometimes a disgrace.

Please place on record my opinion about this action as the opinion of an honest son of his country and the poet who once wrote the song "Do the Russians Want War?"

PISTONS FOR POWER NEW YORK (a) - Diesel locomotives use aluminum pistons for higher rotation speeds and larger combustion loads.

The number of aluminum railroads cars is growing because they have proven their ability to haul more at less cost and require a minimum of care.

LONDON - Yevgeny Yevtushenko, the Soviet poet, has sent a telegram to Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin and Leonid I. Brezhnev, the party chief, protesting against the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia.

This was learned in official circles in Moscow today.

Mr. Yevtushenko rose to fame in the Kruschev era with poems attacking Stalinism and advocating humanism and liberalism in Soviet life. These themes and his verse captured the imagination of the Soviet people, especially the youth.

He remains to this day one of the most popular poets in the Soviet Union. He has also recited his poems to large audiences in many countries.

The Soviet leaders have made no statement about the telegram and Mr. Yevtushenko has refused

Cox Report Blames Columbia

by Peter Fuller

Rewritten for The Monadnock from the New York Times, Oct. 6.

The Cox Commission, which investigated the campus uprising that crippled Columbia University last spring, issued a strong indictment of the institution's administration yesterday.

The commission said the administration of Columbia - including its trustees - "too often conveyed an attitude of authoritarianism and invited mistrust."

The five-member commission also condemned the "disruptive tactics" of the student rebels. It warned that "the survival - literally the survival - of the free university depends upon the entire community's active rejection of disruptive demonstrations."

At the same time, the commission said in its 222-page report that the police employed "aggressive force" when they cleared campus buildings that students had occupied, that the quality of student life at Columbia was "inferior in living conditions and personal associations" and that Columbia's faculty and administration functioned as "rival bodies."

The April uprising started and grew haphazardly. As it developed, its entire character was altered. The S.A.S.'s (Student Afro-American Society) decision to elect whites and barricade the doors in a demonstration of black student power was one of the key turning points - with each successive day the uprising gathered its own physical and emotional momentum.

The view that the April and May disturbances were primarily a conspiracy of student revolutionaries was rejected. The student revolutionists within SDS manipulated the facts in ways to create distrust, and so part of the responsibility rests with the revolutionaries, but they were a small part of the SDS membership.

SUPPORT Support for the demonstration was evidenced in wide spread sympathy among the students and the junior faculty.

The seizure of Hamilton Hall, Avery Hall and Fayerweathers Hall was, for the most part done on spontaneous reaction, and carried no evidences of SDS connection. It is important to note that support for the activities came from the portions of the student body who are concerned with university and community affairs.

OBJECTIVES OF THE DEMONSTRATIONS The objectives of the April demonstrations, stripped of their context and symbolism, were inadequate causes for uprising. The gymnasium issue was a symbolic issue. It was freely acknowledged by some black students that the public gym to be built

Hoeh Gives Peace Plan

by Dana Sullivan

(Sept. 30) David Hoeh, the Democratic candidate for Congress from the Second District, outlined his plan for peace in Vietnam in a speech here Monday night.

The nine points of Hoeh's plan are:

1) The United States should declare its intention to end the war. Its own physical and emotional momentum.

2) End immediately the bombing of North Vietnam.

3) Move to de-escalate the fighting in South Vietnam.

4) Negotiate in Paris with North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front for a cease-fire to be supervised by an international commission.

5) Encourage the factions in South Vietnam to reach a settlement.

6) Protect those South Vietnamese who would feel personally threatened by a new regime.

7) Contribute to the reconstruction of Vietnam.

8) Emphasize our determination to protect American lives.

9) Let us as a nation realize that the pursuit of peace, not the use of force, is the only just way to live with our fellow men.

Hoeh's speech came just minutes after Robert Humphrey's announcement of his promise to end the bombing of North Vietnam and de-escalate the war if he is elected. Mr. Hoeh said that he had met with Mr. Humphrey and had presented him the nine point plan outlined above.

Hoeh said that in this political year, the Vietnam war "must be foremost in our concern. It is a cancer which has sapped our energies. We must eradicate ourselves from that stricken land."

Women's Hours Discussed

by Roger Goldsmith

The foremost topic at the Oct. 2 Women's Council meeting was the recently circulated petition calling for a change in the Women's Hours Regulation.

The petition, with 669 signatures, was presented to the Council by Marilyn Treat, president of Monadnock Hall. Miss Treat pointed out that 669 was more than a sufficient number since the Student Senate Constitution required only 5 percent of the signatures of the student body to appear on a petition before the Senate could act on it.

She also mentioned that if this petition were taken to the Senate, action would have to be taken within two weeks and failure to pass it would mean the Senate would have to present the question to the student body for a vote.

A motion was then introduced to the Women's Council "to act on the petition within two weeks."

cal year, the Vietnam war "must be foremost in our concern. It is a cancer which has sapped our energies. We must eradicate ourselves from that stricken land."

His opponent, James Cleveland, has been "a rubber stamp for the Administration, supporting the Administration's Vietnam policy even more strongly than the Administration has."

Hoeh said that he has often been asked: "What are young people interested in in 1968?" His answer was "relevance." Youth are seeking "ways to move our country forward." He said that there is a "new direction" in American politics and "you as students have become a part of this direction."

David Hoeh, age 30, was the controversial chairman of the New Hampshire delegation to the Democratic National Convention. He had served as Eugene McCarthy's campaign manager for New Hampshire.

What Is The College Senate?

The Faculty Manual describes the College Senate as "the legislative body of the college." It further states that the Senate is "under the leadership of the college president, (and that) it has legislative jurisdiction over educational policy and program, and student activities." The actions of the senate, are subject to review and approval of the Board of Trustees. (The Trustees, however, have yet to reject any suggestion of the Senate, even controversial ones like student representation on the Senate or the new hearing committee).

The bulk of the Senate's work is handled by its 5 standing committees: the Executive Committee, the Admissions and Standards Committee, the Curriculum Committee, the College Welfare Committee, and the Student Affairs and Organizations Committee. Ad hoc and special committees are formed when there is a need for them.

The president of the college serves as chairman of the Executive Committee. He is advised, by the four members of the Senate elected onto this committee, as to appointments to all other ad hoc and standing committees.

The Admissions and Standards Committee concerns itself with the entrance standards for incoming students. It is also responsible for formulating the scholarship requirements for honors, warnings, probation and expulsion. It may, when deemed necessary, review records of student performance. It also determines the eligibility of candidates for degrees.

The Graduate and Undergraduate Curriculum Committee deals with all matters of educational policy. This includes the subject matter of courses, methods of instruction, the facilities and research. It works directly with the office of the dean of instruction and the academic departments.

The College Welfare Committee is concerned with the economic welfare of the faculty. It is also concerned with the general working conditions which the faculty must contend with.

The Student Affairs and Organizations Committee formulates policy for the non-athletic student affairs and organizations. It also approves constitutions, by-laws, and programs by working in cooperation with the director of student affairs.

Committee work is divided up between the members of the Senate. Although it only has to meet twice each semester, the Senate generally meets every month and committees often meet on either a weekly or bi-weekly basis.

In all there are 34 faculty, administration, and student representatives on the Senate. These include 5 permanent administrative representatives, 12 faculty members elected at large by the faculty, 14 departmental representatives, and 3 students.

The permanent administrative representatives are: Roman J. Zorn, President; Edward F. Pierce, Dean of Administration; Clarence G. Davis, Dean of Instruction; Robert S. Campbell, Dean of Student Personnel; and Christopher R. Barnes, Librarian.

The at-large faculty representatives are elected for three years with one third of the seats up for re-election each year. Since this is the first year of this new Senate all seats were vacant and up for election. The four candidates with the greatest number of votes were elected for 3 years; the next 4 top vote getters were elected for 2 years; and the next 4 received 1 year terms.

The present at-large delegates are: David H. Battenfeld, John D. Cunningham, Richard E. Cunningham, and Peter H. Jenkins with terms expiring in May 1971; Malcolm H. Keddy, Harry E. Kenney, Ann C. Peters, and James C. Smart with terms expiring in May 1970; Thomas L. Havill, Herbert S. Lourie, William D. Pardus, and Frank E. Tisdale with terms expiring in May 1969.

Departmental representatives are elected from their respective departments for terms of one year. They are: Eta M. Merrill, Art; David E. Costin, Jr., Education; Cornelius R. Lyle II, English; Peter H. Batchelder, Foreign Languages; John B. Wiseman, History; Dorothy F. Kingsbury, Home Economics; Leonard R. Aldrich, Industrial Education; Charles A. Riley, Mathematics; Hubert C. Bird, Music; Dorothy L. MacMillan, Physical Education; Harold A. Goder, Science; Martin W. Brown, Social Science; George S. Bergeron, Wheelock; and Ernest O. Gendron, Professional Services. These representatives will all serve till May 1969.

Three student representatives are also elected for one year terms. Jack Carey, class of 1971, Marilyn Treat, class of 1970, and Roger Goldsmith, class of 1969, will serve until May 1969.

Sam Levenson To Keynote Convention

New Hampshire educators attending the 1968 teachers convention will hear from "America's greatest living humorist," Sam Levenson. Carl Sandburg described Levenson as such and the teachers will hear him keynote their 114th Annual NHEA Convention scheduled for Manchester, Friday, October 18. Levenson is the featured speaker at the 9:30 a.m. General Session at Memorial High School.

Sam Levenson is a product of New York. He was born there, attended school there, taught school in N. Y., and got his start in show business there. He is a humorist in the purest sense of the word because his stories have their roots in experiences common to all, family, religion, education.

He got his first money telling stories while a teacher at Tilden High School in Brooklyn. In 1949 he got his first big break with an appearance on the Ed Sullivan Show. That $85.00 routine led to engagements at the Capital Theatre and the Latin Quarter in New York.

By 1950, Sam was known from coast-to-coast. He appeared in the top clubs in Los Vegas, Chicago, Miami, and Los Angeles. CBS-TV gave him his own television show which ran for two years. He has been seen hundreds of times with Jack Paar, Johnny Carson, Mike Douglas, and Merv Griffin. He filled in for an ailing Arthur Godfrey during a one-year stint.

A couple of years ago Sam expanded into a new field. He became an author and his first book, "Everything But Money," became number one best seller for several weeks.

In addition to Sam Levenson, the NHEA convention will feature other well known figures. Music will be provided by the Lebanon High School Band, Ralph Bowie, director. Mrs. Edith T. Whittem of Exeter, NHEA president, will preside.

Conquest

On Saturday, Oct. 5, a brave band of 61 KSC mountaineers conquered the defiant Mt. Monadnock. At 10:30, we left base camp behind the Commons supplied with ham and cheese sandwiches, cookies, apples, and of course, olives. Everything was conveyed to the foot of the mountain in luxurious school buses.

The party wound its way along the treacherous trail. Through grass and bushes, over slippery rocks, under and over logs, and onward ever onward.

Then foul weather struck a foul blow. A terrific blizzard (probably Sullivan's dandruff) terrified the climbers. But Steve Skibowski, Junior class president, was bringing up the rear with his box of potato chips. Skib used his influence to get the snow to stop falling.

Above the timber line the climbers were faced with a howling 25 mph wind. Some of the people wanted to turn back but Big Steve and his potato chips effectively blocked the return route.

Singly, in pairs, and in little groups, the climbers crawled to the top. Once at the top everyone scurried for protection from the wind. When Skibowski finally reached the top he was interviewed by a Monadnock reporter. In response to all questions his only reply was "Whose idea was this, anyway?"

After eating lunch and playing poker for olives the climbers returned.

Casualties were light, and Dr. David Knowlton administered first (and last) aid.

Special attention should be awarded to Sharon Driscoll, who was the first to reach the top. Honorable (?) mention to Frank L'Honniedieu and friend, who were the last ones down.

And, of course, special thanks in order to the chaperone, Mr. Charles Hornbeck, instructor of Philosophy. Had he not accompanied us on the climb with a copy of Descartes' "Meditations" we might still be wondering if we had in fact climbed Mt. Monadnock. (ED. note: Are we SURE that you accompanied us, Mr. Hornbeck?)

Be Sure Of Your Forms

No, Keene State College does not consider its students as numbers instead of persons, or individuals. However...

With the addition this year of data processing to facilitate the considerable amount of work necessary in processing the many forms required for some 1,600 students, it is vital that these various forms, cards, slips and registration blanks be filled out correctly.

The Registrar's Office reminds the registrars in particular, if completed incorrectly, will result in particular annoyance to the student.

"It is important that the student be positive of his Social Security number when filling out the red and white grade cards," says Mrs. Eleanor W. Betz, registrar. "Otherwise, he or she is apt not to receive a grade at the end of the semester."

"And on the Selective Service forms for men, the Selective Service number is the correct one to use, NOT the Social Security number," Mrs. Betz said. "If a student puts down the wrong number here, it could cause confusion at Selective Service headquarters, with a resulting inquiry from a draft board."

So, though KSC does not want to "fold, staple or spindle" you, it also doesn't want you to work hard for a semester and then not receive a grade. And it doesn't want to lose you to the draft solely because of the use of a wrong number on a form.

Turning Point Reached

The Eta Delta Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega reached a major turning point last Wednesday night, when all active members of the chapter unanimously accepted a new constitution as presented by Vernon Young, a member of the Constitution Committee. A copy of the new constitution will be sent to the Student Senate for ratification.

Alpha Phi Omega, which supplied student guides, would like to thank all those who made the visit of the Japanese professors to our campus so pleasant, so enjoyable and so successful. Our campus was the first institution of college or university level which they visited. They were impressed by the students and by such facilities as the physics laboratories, the solarium, the audio-visual department and the closed circuit television, and the Dining Commons.

Alpha Phi Omega has volunteered their services to Reverend Gemmel. Members will work in the clothing drive and will perform such varied tasks as placing containers in strategic locations, collecting these at the end of the drive, sorting and packing all contributions. All contributions of usable clothes for overseas refugees will be gratefully accepted. Other members have volunteered their services to the Boy Scouts of America to teach the Webelos at the Camporee in Peterborough on October 19, 1968. Classes will be held in tying knots, raising, lowering and folding the flag, starting a fire with flint and steel and other arts.

Our next meeting will be held on Wednesday, October 9, 1968 at 8 p.m. in the "Newman Center Subway." We were pleased to see so many new prospective members attend the last meeting. We extend an invitation to all interested male students to attend this next meeting.

Kappa Zoo Night A Success

Our first open house for freshman girls - the "Kappa Night at the Zoo," held last Wednesday, was one of the most successful events ever held by Kappa. Over 150 girls, from every dorm on campus, attended and all had a tremendous time. The girls were entertained by the famous Kappa Band under the direction of president Manekas. Refreshments were prepared and served by brothers. Joe Rodrigues, Ernie Burley, and Marty Kadel. Brother Jack Carey, chairman of the Zoo, would like to thank all of the girls who attended, and who found out for themselves that what they heard about the Kappa Animals through rumors and other news media, is entirely true.

Brothers Herman Gilman and Bob Bahloe, our IFC delegates, were elected President and Secretary respectively of that group. Brother Gilman's policy will be that of "promoting good will and understanding between fraternities through close cooperation and organization; in this way, we will all benefit."

With Greek Week fast approaching, our Greek Gods is becoming restless. He has to remain anonymous though because of security reasons. The only hint that we can give you is that he's one of Kappa's biggest "animals." See this demanded being for yourself this Thursday. We guarantee you the thrill of your life.

Kappa severely trounced Georges' Gym "A" last week by a score of 12-0. Standouts for Kappa were Jack Carey, Dave Tait, and Glen Page.

In other sports news, A FIRST: Barney Kolb, referee for many football games, actually called one penalty out of twelve right. He's to be commended for his fine job, calling penalties isn't easy, especially if he forgets his glasses for most of the games.

Finally, Brother Joe Rodrigues got the thrill of his life last weekend when the same girl actually said "yes" to a second date with him.

Alpha

The brothers of Alpha are planning a raffle in the near future as a fund raising project to meet the expenses of the new house. There will be three prizes in the raffle: first prize will be a $100.00 gift certificate to the winner's choice of either Bergeron's or the Sport Shop; second and third prizes will be $25.00 gift certificates to the same stores or the cash equivalent.

With Greek Week coming up soon the brothers are getting in the mood for the festivities. Alpha plans to make a strong showing in this year's Greek games. The undefeated Tug-of-War Team is looking well and the track and field men are shaping up fine. Alpha should indeed make a strong showing for the 1968 Greek Week activities.

The Alpha deck sends his wishes for a quick recovery to Betsy Kazakis, who was watching the Alpha "A"-TKE "B" game.

by Columbia would be more beneficial to the community than the 2.1 acre park, if the project could be judged on that basis alone.

THE DISCIPLINE

The third issue, the discipline of the six IDA demonstrators, had somewhat greater substance. Of 100 students in the March IDA demonstrations, six were selected for punishment. The Dean's office said that only these six were recognized. They were given a public hearing and promptly punished. Although the older procedures gave greater protection, there was wide and justified campus support for the principles:

- 1) That a student is no less entitled to due process of the law than one charged with a public crime.
- 2) That students should share in the handling of disciplinary procedures.

Columbia's administrative affairs too often conveyed an atmosphere of authoritarianism, and had allowed student government at Columbia to deteriorate to the point of non-existence. Government by improvisation seems to have been the rule. The quality of student life was also a purely internal cause of unrest.

The fabric of Columbia was twisted and torn by the forces of political and social revolution outside the university. Columbia's geographic situation symbolizes the relation between white and black affluence and poverty, youthful reform and established order. The students were frustrated by

To Be Dedicated On Parent's Day

Dedication Day ceremonies for KSC's three new buildings have been set for Sunday, Nov. 17. President Roman J. Zorn has named a faculty-administration-student committee to plan and make arrangements for appropriate dedication exercises and to coordinate the ceremonies with Parents Day, which also will be held on Nov. 17.

Robert L. Mallat Jr., director of physical plant development, will chair the 13 member committee, which is composed of Dr. William S. Felton Jr., Dr. Arthur J. Giovannangeli, Dr. David P. Gregory, Keith V. King, Mrs. Jeanne M. Eaves and Frank E. Tisdale of the faculty; Dean Clarence G. Davis and Dean Robert S. Campbell of the administrative staff; and Patricia Peppard, Donald Nelson, Sumner Harris and Frederick Collins of the student body.

The three buildings to be dedicated are the new physical education building, which will be named the Spaulding Gymnasium, the science and arts building, which will be named the Science Center, and the technology building, which will be named the C.A. Adams Technology Building in honor of the professor of industrial education who served on the KSC faculty for 33 years before retiring in 1957.

The new building names were chosen by a committee chaired by Dr. Ann C. Peters and approved by the University trustees. The Science Center will be named in honor of two other retired professors with lengthy service at the College. They are Miss Ella O. Keene, professor emerita of geography, who was on the faculty here for 24 years, and Maynard G. Waltz, professor emeritus of education and languages, who served for 35 years. They retired in 1967 and 1965, respectively.

During the second semester of the last academic year, renovation of the second floor of Butterfield Hall was begun in an effort to provide better facilities for the Art Department. A major portion of this was accomplished during the summer. The renovations were completed and the facilities are now available to the academic discipline to be housed there.

Similarly, during the second semester of last year, the Industrial Technology was occupied for the first time. During the summer the balance of the installations for that building and remaining construction were completed. The major portion of the new equipment necessary for the new four year Industrial Arts program are now in the building and in the process of being set up.

be drawn into government of the university. A way must be found that they can meaningfully influence the education afforded them and all other aspects of the university.

With participation, students will surely acquire a more sophisticated understanding of the university's difficulties and complexities.

5) We add only that the success of those who must follow this course will depend upon the willingness of parents, alumni, and friends to recognize that the April crisis is being converted into a creative source of renewal.

The next five observations must be taken as a unit.

1) A university is a free community of scholars dedicated to the pursuit of truth and knowledge. It must depend upon wise counselors both inside and outside of the academic world.

2) The resort to violence or physical harassment is never an acceptable tactic for influencing decisions. The survival of the free university depends upon rejection of any force or violence used in trying to influence the university's decisions on policy. This decision rests with the students and can save or destroy the institution.

3) The acceptability of the foregoing principle depends upon organization of the community. The dissenters must be convinced that the opportunities for change are open, without resorting to violence.

4) The student body is a natural and essential part of the community of scholars. The students must

The disturbances were greatly enlarged by the delay in calling the police - from Thursday night until Monday night. The Ad Hoc faculty group forced this delay upon the university officials. There was hope the group could negotiate a peaceful withdrawal from the buildings.

THE SUIT CASE CAMPUS

It would be difficult for any student on this campus to remember a time when there was any feeling of unity. For most of us, there has been no evidence of any such thing. The lack of campus unity has resulted in this, the Keene State College suit case weekend.

One of the problems seems to be the fact that there is little or no leadership within the student body. The Monadnock feels that were there cooperation among the four classes, the mass exodus on weekends might be ended.

The IFC illustrates a perfect example here. The three fraternities, through combined efforts, manage to make one of the biggest weekend events of the entire year. "Combined efforts" is an important factor in the success of Greek Weekend.

The Monadnock wonders what might happen if the individual classes followed the IFC's example, and set up an inter-class council for the purpose of unifying the student body. Such a council would have FOUR times the financial support, FOUR times the student support of an individual class. We might be able to end the monotony of the usual weekend dance, and occasional party.

This past weekend's Climb Mt. Monadnock gives support to the need for an inter-class council. Sixty-one students took part. If this had been the project of one class, we would probably have to mark it off as a failure.

The Monadnock does not pretend to think that ending the weekend exodus will be easy. Students now feel that they "might as well leave since there is nothing to do." They don't consider the fact that there will be nothing to do until they stay on campus. In the beginning, support will probably be of microscopic proportions, but this council might succeed in starting something. A rolling stone may not gather moss, but it does gather momentum.

An American Tragedy Revisited

by Tom Stauffer

When the dawn of November 7 breaks across this politically pocked land and the American people have a new leader to dominate the headlines, it's a safe bet that few will be overly enthralled by what they see. What a paradox, the "people's choice" so miserably unhappy with the "people." But considering their choice of candidates at the polls, the voter's reactions are not altogether unpredictable.

George Wallace, the Alabama Bigot, will have attracted an alarmingly large following of Northern bigots and the frustrated backwash of urban society mesmerized by the demagogic cliché and slogan. With his vote totals swelled by protesting defections from the two major parties, the Wallace thing will not make happy reading in the history of this decade.

Richard Nixon, or perhaps we should practice saying President Nixon, will have embraced the backlash revision against Lyndonism, having gained additional support by avoiding the issues and raising false hopes. If clandestine silence is the mark of a statesman, perhaps Nixon might qualify for that distinguished label; however, it's no doubt just a case of "Tricky Dick" remaining tricky all the way to the White House.

Hubert Humphrey, once the steadfast defender of principle for its own sake, will have been saddled with the sorry Johnson record of disunity at home and war overseas. Increasingly drowned out by anarchist heckling and destroyed by rank and file dispondency with his listless campaign, the politics of joy will have to find a new champion.

Negativism, reactionism, and lethargy characterize the campaign and only a millimeter's worth of confidence will have been generated. "Wait 'til next time" say the Lindsay and Kennedyites, the Lindsay and Kennedyites, "wait 'til '72 and '76. Yet this too is a sad commentary. One might as well say, "Wait 'til '96," since, after all, the year is 1968 and problems are now.

So maybe the lack of presidential talent is the result of the selection process. It could just as easily be blamed on the "Establishment," the mass media, or any of the other scapegoats of recent years. The American voter has become unhappy with the political orgy because his intuition tells him that the new President will be cast from the same mold that gave us Barry Goldwater's double when we thought we were voting for John Kennedy's Vice President.

The American body politic is visibly tired of the razzle-dazzle, hypocritical, incision scarred edifice of the Johnson administration. The cause is not to be found with the trumpet blaring, civil service prepared "history" of the Lyndon years; history will no doubt give due recognition for many successes as proudly recorded. It's not even Johnson's propensity for play acting the super role created by Franklin Roosevelt. Lyndon's problem has been Lyndon and his lack of style, confidence, calmness of purpose, or credibility.

Unfortunately for the nation, the limitations of the Johnson personality are reflected and imposed on the country's character.

Yet, even all this would not have been stifling, had it not been for a phenomenon over which LBJ exercised no control. The nature of the Presidential institution has undergone considerable change since the Roosevelt years. Like Kennedy, Johnson should have recognized the difference and adapted to them; unlike Kennedy, Johnson failed to accept the challenge.

No longer do the American people seek a man who will serve only

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor: This letter is addressed to no single person. Its intent is to start people thinking and, hopefully, to get a reasonable answer concerning the following question.

The problem concerns a course offered at Jonathan Daniels School on Maple Avenue in Keene. It is a three credit extension course of Notre Dame College in Manchester and is called LEARNING DISABILITIES. This course is being taught by the staff and consultants of the Monadnock Children's Center. Registration took place and the first class met on September 23 at 7:00 p.m. It is interesting to note that the course is recognized and approved for credit by the New Hampshire State Department of Education.

My question concerns the fact that, to my knowledge, no Special Education student was made aware of this course. I firmly believe that it was the college's responsibility to notify interested students about the course. The deficit of Special Education courses at Keene State College seems to strengthen my argument.

WHY didn't Keene State offer this as an extension course? Doesn't it seem a little odd that a private institution is offering a Special Education course in the same town where there exists a state teachers college while the students of that college remain ignorant of its existence. It does to me.

Craig Wheeler
44 Gates Street, Keene, N.H.

To the Editor: In the past, campus guides have significantly influenced prospective students in selecting Keene State College as their institution of higher education. These guides have served as an integral part of the operation of the Admissions Office and have been coordinated by the Director of Admissions. It is extremely important that the correct individuals serve in this vital, voluntary service of student guide. They play a critical role in the decision making process of high school students involved with college admissions. Campus guides personify an institution and express an image of the College like no catalog or brochure can ever hope to accomplish.

Male students interested in applying to serve as student guides should obtain an application form from John Becker, Room 302 Huntress Hall, and women can obtain an application from Sue Crosby, Room 407 B Randall Hall. Applications must be completed and returned to the Director of Admissions no later than noon Friday, October 11.

Sincerely yours,
John J. Cunningham
Director of Admissions

Y. R.'s Present Political Panel

by Janice Nadeau

The KSC Young Republicans will present a panel discussion on the national issues Thursday, October 10, at 8:00 p.m., in room 101 of the Science Center.

The panel will consist of 6 KSC professors with Professor Lloyd F. Hayn acting as moderator. Professors Carl Granquist, Michael

D. Keller, and David Harvey will defend the Republican position and Professors David Gregory, John Wiseman and Thomas Stauffer, the Democratic positions.

All are invited. There will be a question and answer session following the discussion.

as a decision-making, problem-solving machine; they seek a man who will lead in the best sense of the term, a man who will serve as a model for high standards of style and conduct, a man who will infect the whole nation with a sense of resolve. The President is no longer merely a head of state and a head of government; in his actions, he has the power to mold or destroy the nation's confidence, its purpose, and its composure. Lyndon Johnson has confused decision-making with leadership and has set the norm too low.

In the age of political television, mass culture and mass everything, style is extraordinarily important. When a man, living in the glass-walled white house, sets standards for the nation and beyond, his every action and decision takes on special significance.

With the singular exception of Edmund Muskie, no matter which lever the voter pulls on November 6, he will be voting for a stylistic standard in which he has no confidence. The long term behavior of Wallace, Agnew, LeMay, and Nixon and the tragic short-term behavior of Hubert Humphrey offer little in common with the national resolve experienced under Kennedy and Eisenhower, or with the national resolve being experienced today in Canada under Trudeau.

Certainly, a decision in the White House can be made on one side of an issue or another and the decision may even stand the test of statistical analysis, but that

Are Chaperones Necessary?

The question has already arisen as to why the KSC dances require chaperones. Mrs. Jeanne M. Eaves, who was a member of the Faculty Senate two years ago when the present policy was adopted, said that at that time the committee was asked to find an alternative to the present policy.

Their first suggestion was to abolish chaperonage. She said the committee fought to pass this solution but Dr. Zorn vetoed it and when it was brought to the Faculty Senate it was voted down.

The basic reason for the rejection, Mrs. Eaves said, is the legal liability of the college to its students. In the college insurance policy, the school is held legally responsible for any accidents or disturbances which may occur at school functions. Although there is a policeman present at these dances, when a disturbance occurs it is often preferable and easier to refer to a chaperone.

When asked why the chaperones could not be in another room, but still available, Mrs. Eaves said they are, for the most part, and would readily comply with this suggestion. At the present time, though, there is no place in the Wheelock Gym. But she thought space would be provided in the new student union.

Mrs. Eaves felt that if some of the suggestions listed on page 95 of the Student Handbook were followed it would improve the chaperone situation.

The term "Chaperon," Mrs. Eaves concluded, is inaccurate. "They would rather be thought of as college representatives available if needed."

Under the Minis Tree

by Rev. Fay Gemmill

It is my opinion that in a liberal arts curriculum there is as much justification for offering somewhere, perhaps in the English department, a course in Biblical literature as there is for a course in Shakespeare's plays.

That idea is not intended for further developing at this writing -- except to say that many a student today, if he is not "religiously" illiterate, is so lacking in mere literary knowledge of the Bible that he misses the point of many a rich metaphor in literature and in conversation.

AMERICAN TRAGEDY

spurious claim that democracy was at stake in Southeast Asia, the President should have leveled with the American people and said that it was necessary to confront Red China's power in that part of the globe.

How different would have been the Johnson chronicle if the President had respected the intelligence of the American people and told them in 1967 that the nation was in financial trouble.

Waits For New Administration

WASHINGTON -- The idea that the federal government establish a novel loan program called the Educational Opportunity Bank is not dead -- just dormant until after the November elections.

The plan was recommended last September by the President's Panel on Educational Innovation. It calls for establishment of a fund from which any student could borrow money for his education with repayment contingent on future income.

The idea met strong opposition from two powerful college associations and got only lukewarm support from federal officials.

Proponents of the Ed Op Bank have been biding their time, not wanting to spark partisan debate over the controversial idea, and knowing that working with the lame-duck Johnson Administration would be futile.

An avid supporter of the plan is Dr. Jerrold R. Zacharias, a Massachusetts Institute of Technology physicist who headed the now-defunct presidential panel.

He expects "a lot of support to come out of the woodwork" after the election is settled, including some from a Carnegie Commission on Higher Education headed by Clark Kerr.

Dr. Zacharias and other supporters recognize that the plan could drastically alter the present system of financing higher education.

asked, to help in the shared searching for highest values and the expression of the most creative responsibility toward them and life as a whole.

In this role a campus minister is in constant dialogue with students, families (sometimes), faculty, administration, and community and state-wide interested, concerned people.

From this dialogue, volunteer group discussion and action may evolve, but there is no attempt to organize a "religious" group from "above" or "underneath."

I point out here that, of course, I help in such ways as I can any group which wishes to organize (under college rules) and to meet (around its own special church, beliefs or shared theological interpretation of religion).

At present Christian Science students meet each Monday evening. Another group of nondenominational students calling themselves the "Campus Student Christian Organization" meets each noon for prayer and each Tuesday evening for business, Bible Study, and discussion.

Both groups meet in the second floor conference room of the Student Union.

A campus minister offers personal counseling for those who seek it. Like many ministers my special graduate training was in clinical psychology and counseling.

Through the campus minister there are opportunities for special contacts with local churches. Sometimes that can mean an invitation into a local home for an "uncommon" Sunday dinner!

There are times when young people can assist me in conducting services for a community project which is absent. A few students in the chorus have volunteered their singing services for such occasions.

Through the office of the Campus Ministry there are available such possibilities as small group weekend retreats, study groups, and social action projects. Weekend work trips can be arranged to such a community as Roxbury, Massachusetts.

Under such a program a group from Keene State College works with other college groups in cooperation with the United Ministries to Higher Education in Cambridge and through local churches and social agencies in the Roxbury community.

The students spend a weekend living in Negro homes, working for a day in a social agency project with Negroes, and attending various church services Sunday before returning to campus.

There are some things a Campus Minister can do, in any way it is

"It's a big change, with unpredictable repercussions," says Andrew M. Gleason, another panel member who teaches math at Harvard.

The major roadblock to setting up the experimental program has been lack of federal money because of Vietnam spending, Gleason said.

The total Ed Op Bank program is designed to make it easier for schools to raise tuition and to provide money for students to attend any college for which they qualify.

Dr. Edgar F. Shannon Jr., chairman of NASULGC's executive committee and University of Virginia president, said, "Our fundamental concern is that this proposal would shift the responsibility of financing higher education to the student."

Dr. Zacharias of the panel discounts such criticism, saying the real concern of public educators is that students with the ability to pay might choose private institutions over public ones.

Dr. Fred H. Harrington, president of the University of Wisconsin, feels the plan would not be fair to students who do not want to borrow money for their education.

Phostalgia

Years ago when dirt roads were the only means of communication and transportation, men and women were content with their menial tasks of clearing, cooking and staying alive. There was little to disturb their peace of mind; no air pollution or water contamination, no overbearing politicians screaming at them through television sets.

YD's Help Open Keene Office

On Friday night, Oct. 4, Keene State College's Young Democrats' Club were on hand for the opening of Democratic Campaign Headquarters in Keene.

Democratic candidate for Governor, Emile Bussiere, took part in the ceremony. When asked about the race for the governor's chair, Mr. Bussiere stated that although the tax problem was, of course, the main issue of the campaign, there were other problems to be considered.

Democratic stalwarts of the city of Keene expressed their appreciation to Club President Armand Michaud, Club Vice President Dan Taylor and other members of Keene State College's Young Democrats. Their participation and support was said to be invaluable in the coming campaign.

"Torres Leaves Lasting Impression At Give A Damn"

Saturday, Oct. 12, was a successful night for the students of KSC for the residents of Keene, and for the Saxton's River project. To date, complete counts are not available, but there were an estimated 800 people in attendance, and ticket sales broke the 1,000 mark.

The show itself created an atmosphere of unity, and that unity was channeled into concrete meaning through the words of John Torres, who delivered an unexpected informal talk at the end of the show.

Torres related an incident following the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King, telling how he had walked through the ghetto that Wednesday night. He said he saw "many angry and embittered blacks" and heard talk of training for militant purposes.

Torres concluded saying that his project is going ahead, and is going to succeed, that it will work, that it must work for the sake of America. Then he thanked the students and KSC for what they had done to help. The audience rose, again spontaneously, and for some minutes applause echoed through the auditorium.

Sunday afternoon the Monadnock asked students how they felt about the show. The comments received are as follows: "I loved it. Cheryl Downing's monologue was very effective, and Mr. Torres left me with a new understanding of the problems America faces," said Ron Taylor, freshman senator hopeful.

John Maxwell, also a freshman, commented that he considered the show to be "of a fairly high professional level... It went off very smoothly." He added that he "felt he had participated in a truly great thing," and it is "good to see what can take place when a group of college kids start working together." Another student said "The show was great. I loved it. The college has got to get more involved in this sort of thing."

John Cass, president of the Young Republicans said, "The whole thing was great. What really brought the whole thing to home was Torres talk at the end."

Bill Ashworth, a sophomore, said, "It was great to see the campus involved this way." Denise Moreau said, "The encouragement of audience participation really set the mood for Torres' speech. The feeling of stringing together and then listening to Mr. Torres has left me speechless."

Judy Henderson, residence counselor at Monadnock Hall said, "A job well done. The fact that the audience was really together is so impressive. The impression didn't leave after we left the hall either. We all knew we just have to do more."

When asked to comment on his feelings toward having taken part in the show, Jack Broese said "Groovy." (And that sums it up for all who participated.)

Every student interviewed said that they thought the student body should continue in this vein. Every student indicated that the feeling of unity was a rewarding and unforgettable experience.

It would seem that KSC has gotten off to a good start this year and that the student body is in fact "coming alive." (Editor's Note: Perhaps this project can be used to show the inter-class council how to end the weekend exodus. The students seem to be interested in doing more. What is needed now is responsible leadership to harness and channel all this student interest. What do you say inter-class council. What's next?)

Young people from the Saxton's River summer project being assigned rooms Saturday afternoon. The students came to Keene from New York to see Saturday night's show.

Sullivan To Take New Post

Dr. Neil V. Sullivan, KSC class of '36, has been named commissioner of education for Massachusetts.

Dr. Sullivan is currently the Superintendent of Schools in Berkeley, California. At Berkeley, he has directed the total integration of the school system by bussing and reorganization.

Dr. Sullivan's most notable achievement, however, was the organizing and directing of the "Free Schools" in Prince Edward County in Virginia. In June of 1959, the school supervisors of the county attempted to forestall integration by making no provision for ANY public schooling, then setting up a private academy for whites only with state funds.

In September of 1963 Dr. Sullivan left his post as superintendent of schools in Williston, Long Island, New York, to supervise the Free Schools. In a few weeks, he set up an entire educational system for the instruction of the county's 1570 Negro children.

In order to compensate for the four-year lapse in the children's education Dr. Sullivan innovated freely, employing a non-grade system, team teaching, and individualization of curriculum.

In 1964, the United States Supreme Court declared the segregated school system of Prince Edward County unconstitutional. Dr. Sullivan has recorded his experiences in Prince Edward County in his book, BOUND FOR FREEDOM.

Neil Sullivan began his educational career in a one-room, eight-grade school house in Glencliff, N. H. He has taught in Raymond, Derry, and Newport. He was superintendent of the Jay-Walton and Sanford districts in Maine.

As superintendent in Sanford, Dr. Sullivan instituted an adult vocational training program for the people who had been put out of work by the mills.

While at KSC, Sullivan was a member of the track and basketball teams, and a member of Alpha Pi Tau fraternity.

According to the Boston Herald Traveler, Sullivan is looking forward to the "most challenging assignment in public education today." Sullivan said that the challenge has been shifted from the local to the state level. "That is where the action is going to be and I want to be a part of that action."

When asked to comment on student apathy, Estey said, "It's terrible. If we can get something good enough on campus, the students will stay."

Estey also had this to say on the question of the revision of women's curricula. "I am definitely in favor of a change, as are the other Freshman class officers." With hopes of putting his ideas into action as soon as possible, Estey believes that "we can get a lot done with the spirit the freshmen have shown. If we can tap it."

Alumni Gifts

The KSC office of Financial Aids reports that for the college year, 1967-68, loans in the total amount of $9600 were made to 22 students. The college's Alumni fund raising in 1967 and 1968 were conducted in behalf of the Keene Alumni Loan Fund.

New Ideas In The Freshman Class

by Adrienne Greenberg

Last Friday the Freshman Class elected Butch Estey as their president, Jeffrey Arnold, vice president, Donald Shillman as their treasurer, and Brenda Martin as secretary.

President Estey's platform rests on his plans to further stimulate interclass Council activities, with the hopes of "riding the campus of its suitcase college atmosphere." Estey hopes to bring mass groups to the college, and to sponsor all activities in a joint co-operative manner.

The newly elected President has hopes of establishing a Freshman Council, to replace the ineffective Freshman Council meetings.

The Freshman Council would be made up of freshman representatives from each Freshman Composition class. These elected representatives would be those freshmen who are willing to express and support their opinions. At present, this plan is supported by several English Profs.

When asked to comment on student apathy, Estey said, "It's terrible. If we can get something good enough on campus, the students will stay."

Keene Profs Debate

by Ray Miller

On Thursday night October 10, six Keene State College professors took part in a debate on some of the campus issues. Three topics were discussed: the Vietnam issue, Political Structure and Urban Affairs.

The moderator for the panel was Dr. Lloyd Hayn. The three professors speaking for the Democratic side were Dr. David Gregory, Dr. John Wiseman and Mr. Thomas Stauffer. Representing the Republicans were Dr. Carl Granquist, Dr. Michael Keller and Mr. David Harvey.

The Democrats, as has been the case in this election year, were split into two groups. Dr. Gregory and Dr. Wiseman are in support of Eugene McCarthy and the "new politics." Both argued that the two major candidates do not present a choice to the American people.

Dr. Gregory alluded to the conventions in his statement that "politics have become sterile." The Republicans have selected an "old loser" in Richard Nixon for their candidate. The Democratic convention was composed of two groups: the old coalition and the McCarthy people.

Although the minority plank was turned down at the convention, McCarthy's candidacy represented a test of the political system. Dr. Wiseman concluded that the Republican Party is "not relevant."

States Handicap Schools

WASHINGTON (CPS) — The University of Montana had to cancel implementation of an honors program. Colorado State could hire less than half of the additional professors it needed. The University of Massachusetts shelved plans for educational television. Enrollment projections at Michigan have been revised downward.

Why? Inadequate state support to higher education is why, according to the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

A survey conducted for NASULGC by Dr. M. M. Chambers of Indiana University reports that 1967 aid is up 43 percent over 1967, but not up enough to meet rising costs and demands.

Since 1960, state assistance has risen 223 percent to the present $5 billion level. The figures are deceptive, the report says, because at the same time state aid has steadily declined as a percentage

Young Republicans To Sponsor Mock Election

The Keene State College Young Republican Club will sponsor a mock presidential election on Thursday, Oct. 17. It will be held at the Student Union from 9-6. All students are invited to vote for the candidate of their choice.

New Hope New Horizons

We are continually reminded of the National Advertising Council advertisement which reads, in part: "Six million mentally retarded have enough problems without you adding to them. Now you're probably saying to yourself, 'Why blame me? I didn't do anything. That's the problem.'"

We hope that, through your experience at The New Hope Center, through meeting and working with our children, you will become concerned, as we are, with the fortune of our forgotten children, our neglected citizens, our wasted human resources, and add your concern and your voice to those which no speak for the retarded who may not, at present, themselves uphold their rights.

INTRODUCTION TO THE CENTER

The New Hope Center is a special project of the Cheshire County Association for Retarded Children, a non-profit organization which also sponsors the summer camp Camp Holiday program for the retarded.

The Center was established to provide classes for children who were considered ineligible for public school special education classes within Cheshire County. The Center is staffed by an Executive Director and two full-time Instructional Counselors in addition to part-time staff. These personnel, as well as the several consultants employed by the Center, are trained in the areas of education, special education, psychology, nursing, or medicine. To provide more individual attention for the pupils enrolled, volunteer workers are also used in the program.

The Center is the recipient of a "partnership grant" through the U.S. Office of Public Health. This means that a portion of the necessary funding comes from the Office of Public Health, part from the local community, local funds, as in the past, come from donations by private and industrial Hope Center represent a variety of problems, they are in no way "depressing." Quite the contrary, they are a joyous and loving group of children. They are deeply appreciative of attention and interest, apply themselves assiduously to any task demanded of them, and reward their teachers and other adults who meet them as equals and treat them as beings with a great deal of love and affection. Indeed, the love, the joy, the innocence which they bring to everyday living is a constant reminder to us of the Center staff of the truly wonderful qualities that exist in every human being. We frequently wish that we, in our dealings with others, could be as lavish with these gifts as our pupils are.

No summary could possibly give you as much insight into the children of The New Hope Center as actually meeting, talking, working with them. We hope that you will have the time to do so; those who have reported the sensation of being in some way changed by their contact with our pupils.

Peace Corps Placement Tests

The Peace Corps has released the following information concerning placement tests to be given in the area on Oct. 19, and Nov. 4, at 1:30 and Dec. 2, at 3:00.

The test is not geared for pass-fail results. Its purpose is to tell the Peace Corps how the individual can best help in developing countries around the world.

Any citizen of the U.S. who is 18 years or older, and has no dependents under 18 is an eligible candidate. Married couples are welcome if both husband and wife can serve as volunteers.

All persons interested in taking the test must fill out a Peace Corps application, available at all Post Offices, and from the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20523.

Applicants must bring their social security number with them to the test. Test in the area are to be held at: Hanover Post Office Building, and Manchester, Post Office Building.

Endorses Candidate

Governor Philip Hoff of Vermont endorsed the Democratic candidate for Congress David Hoeh in a brief visit to the KSC campus Friday afternoon.

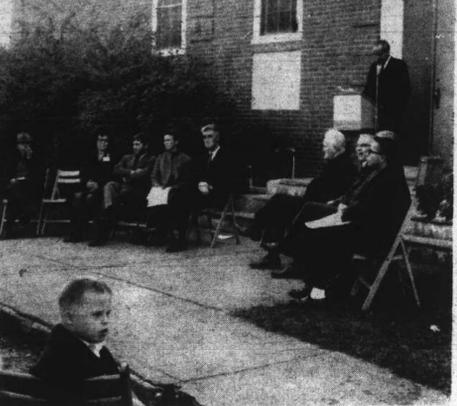

Gov. Hoff said that he had read the position papers of Mr. Hoeh, and he was convinced that "David Hoeh is the type of man we need in Congress."

In a brief question and answer period, Gov. Hoff and Mr. Hoeh discussed such things as the reluctance of the Atomic Energy Commission to investigate the dangers of "thermal pollution" due to the planned construction of an atomic energy plant in the Connecticut River Valley.

Book Review

"UPPER ASHUELOT": A HISTORY OF KEENE, NEW HAMPSHIRE. By the Keene History Committee (City of Keene, 1968, 728 pp., $5.50). Keene's population has doubled since 1904 when the city's last history, that by Simon Griffin, was published. Further, the All-America City award in 1965 to Keene, the first city in New Hampshire to receive such an award, made a look into the city's past natural. A History Committee was established on recommendation of the City Council, and this book is the result. David R. Proper, KSC's Assistant Librarian, wrote the "Narrative of Keene, N. H., 1732-1967," the first and by far the largest section of the book. Fifteen other members of the committee contributed chapters on topical subjects such as the city's blocks, homes, transportation, religious development, government, and fire department.

Mr. Proper's section and the Chapter on "Schools" point out four historical landmarks on the KSC campus — certainly a richer heritage than the average state or private college has. The first building in Keene, a log house built by Nathan Blake in 1736, was on the site of the present Blake House. The oldest (East) section of Blake House is itself the historic home of Captain Abel Blake. Built in 1833, it was then the most elegant house in Keene. Hale Building, built in 1860 as the home of Governor Dinsmore, was later the house of Governor Samuel Hale. The President's home housed from 1824 to 1845 the fashionable women's school operated by Catherine Fiske. Miss Fiske's Seminary educated more than 2,500 girls from all sections of the country.

About 1890 the city helped institute Normal Training courses to better prepare teachers for their profession. Keene had a history of education innovation, and it was a logical choice for a Normal School in 1909.

Other chapters indicate significant events of the past. From about 1815 to 1865 several Keene glass factories produced some now highly prized flasks and bottles. At the opening of the Twentieth Century Keene was the home of the Kingsbury Toy Co., the largest manufacturer of the Sprague and Carleton Company. A number of scholars, including Thoreau, Emerson, Hawthorne, William E. Channing, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Abbott H. Thayer, and Louis Agassiz were attracted to Keene because of family ties such as Thoreau's or, as with the others, because of their interest in Mt. Monadnock. Along with this, we also learn about the day the firehouse caught a fire (actually this happened twice), that Keene once had garbage collection, and that bicycling is a town sport of long tradition.

The fact that a group of amateurs produced a history of considerable scope in two year's time and produced a fairly good work is a cause for envy and some humbling for the professional historian, who carefully squeezes out his precious few words year after year. Though styles differ, some generalizations can be made about the book as a whole. On the positive side, all the sections indicate considerable research and a dedication to accuracy. Most of the authors are good story tellers. The photographs and illustrations are well done. Topics such as the "Weather," "Music," "Local Grounds," and "Newspapers" make not only good normal chit-chat but also interesting chapters. A make not only good normal chit-chat but also interesting chapters. A series of maps illustrating city development in the chapter "Highways and Streets" is especially valuable. There are few, if any, typographical errors.

Former Keene Resident Elected To State's Top Educational Post

REPRINTED FROM KEENE EVENING SENTINEL

A graduate of Keene High School and Keene State College has been elected to the state's top educational post, the commissioner of education.

Newell J. Paire, 54, of Concord, deputy commissioner since 1963, was unanimously chosen for the post at a meeting of the State Board of Education yesterday in Stowe, Vt., during the annual conference of the Northeastern Region of the National Association of State Boards of Education.

Paire was hired at an annual salary of $17,160, the highest salary level allowed. He will assume his duties July 1 following retirement of Commissioner Paul J. Farnum who joined the Department of Education in 1927 as supervisor of vocational education.

The new commissioner has a broad experience as a teacher, school principal and superintendent.

Born in this city on July 3, 1913, a son of Mrs. Eva (Castor) Paire and the late John T. Paire, he was graduated from Keene High School where he excelled as an athlete, in 1931. Following graduation he enrolled in the four-year high school curriculum at Keene State College, graduating with the class of 1936.

Active in many campus organizations and activities, he was a member of the Alpha Phi Tau Fraternity and captained the varsity basketball team. He did his practice teaching in Hancock and took his first teaching job in North Hampton.

Paire also attended the University of New Hampshire and did further work at Harvard, Boston

Where Is The Kronicle

by Judy McKinley

What has happened to the 1967-1968 Kronicle Neil Gallagher, editor, explained that it has not yet gone to press. This is due in part to a change of editors in the middle of last year. When the editor went off to student teach, Neil was asked to take over. There was very little organization and since then Neil and his few assistants have been trying to compile a year book that we can be proud of. The editor hopes that the Kronicle will go to press on October 17, and should be back by Thanksgiving. He feels it is more realistic to plan on its return by final exams. This year's Kronicle will feature more colored pictures, write-ups and candid photos of the faculty.

Neil Gallagher hopes to make some significant changes in the arrangement and content of the Kronicle as well as in its business organization. At the present time Neil is assisted by only a few students. All offices are vacant except editor and assistant editor. Applications are being taken to fill these positions. The office is located in the basement of the Student Union.

The problem with the Kronicle in the past would appear to be the fact that it has been left up to the seniors who have to spend one semester out student teaching and therefore, the Kronicle must suffer. Gallagher hopes to draw up a constitution where any senior officers would be required to have an underman as an assistant. He also plans to have an executive yearbook who will have complete charge of their parts of the yearbook. The editor also favors a yearbook with less photojournalism. Gallagher says that pictures tell only part of the story, and since was among the thousands of Vietnamese who "disappear" daily, and no one except a few friends know he is now in one of South Vietnam's numerous detention camps.

Special Education

I learned of his arrest only a few days ago when a friend in Washington on "official business" and as a gift brought me a tape of Trinh Cong Son songs. "You may not see him again," my friend said. "He was arrested." According to my friend, his arrest, although not made public in the Saigon press, is no longer a secret; his admirers now organize clandestine parties to sing his songs or listen to his records.

Trinh Cong Son was born with the war in 1940 (when the Japanese invaded Vietnam), and since then saw nothing but destruction in his homeland. His native town, the ancient city of Hue, the last bastion of Vietnamese culture with its museums and its libraries, was destroyed during the Tet offensive this year by U. S. rockets and bombs.

As Bob Dylan once said, "Open up your eyes and ears and you are influenced; there is nothing you can do about it." Trinh Cong Son opened his eyes and saw only death and burning. He opened his ears and heard only the thunder of bombs and the chatter of machine guns. And there was nothing Trinh Cong Son could do but write and sing songs and express his sadness at the devastation of the land he loves so much. He admitted he was influenced by Bob Dylan and Joan Baez: "I like Bob Dylan — his voice is a cry, a lament, Joan Baez — her voice is melancholy and beautiful."

Trinh Cong Son supported himself, his mother, two brothers and five sisters with his talents. Who is going to take care of them now?

The Bob Dylan Of Vietnam Is Silenced

by Tran Van Dinh

WASHINGTON (CPS) — The name of Trinh Cong Son came to the notice of the American public only at the beginning of this year when the New York Times published an article by its correspondent in Saigon, Bernard Weinraub, under the headline: "A Young Vietnamese Sings of Sadness and War."

But long before that, Trinh Cong Son, the "Bob Dylan of Vietnam," was the idol of the Vietnamese public, especially the young. His public appearances were always sold out in advance, and his records treasured by students and workers alike. In his war-torn Vietnam confided and through him expressed her agony and shed her tears.

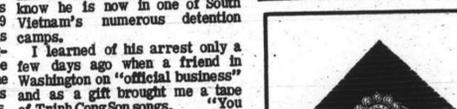

"I want to describe the absurdity of death in my country; I want to describe the war," he said. He opposed the killing and he longed for peace.

His increasing popularity frightened the ruling Saigon generals who fear peace more than war, the source of their wealth and power. They decided that Trinh Cong Son must be silenced.

Two months ago, on a visit to the northern provinces of South Vietnam, he was arrested (without warrant and without trial of course) by the military security police in Da Nang. Officially he was among the thousands of Vietnamese who "disappear" daily, and no one except a few friends know he is now in one of South Vietnam's numerous detention camps.

Deprived of their Bob Dylan, the Vietnamese people now probably have to ask Dylan and Baez to be the interpreters of their agony and their dreams and make them weep. The atrocious war maddens not only the Vietnamese women but the sensitive and sensible people of the world. Not to be maddened, one has to cry sometimes.

Kappa "A" vs Alpha "A"

Kappa A beat Alpha A Monday, October 7 by a score of 12-6. Quarterback for Kappa was Jack Kerry and for Alpha was Peter Martin. Kappa controlled the ball in the first half with two interceptions by George Manekas. One of the interceptions was turned into a TD with Jerry Gilman going over for the score. Toward the end of the first half Alpha tied the score on a pass from Martin to Bob Langdon. The second half showed no score but both teams requested a short overtime to keep from ending in a tie. In the overtime Kerry intercepted an Alpha pass and a few plays later hit Manekas for the win.

Clinics For Basketball Officials

KEENE, N.H. - Clinics to train women's basketball officials will be held at four sites in New Hampshire this year. The training clinics will be sponsored by the New Hampshire Board of Women Officials. Mrs. Richardson, an instructor in physical education at Keene State, will direct the Keene clinic with the assistance of Virginia A. Irvine, instructor in physical education, and Mrs. Ruth Keddy, dean of women at KSC and a former physical education instructor. Persons interested in the clinics may obtain further information from Mrs. Richardson at Keene State, Miss Diane McCallister in Nashua, Miss Janet Atwood in Durham, and Mrs. Carol Hamilton, Hampshire High School gymnasium, Keene. The first meetings, to determine interest and need, will be held on Nov. 8, at 7 p.m., at the physical education building, Keene State College, Keene; Nashua High School gymnasium, Nashua; and Hampshire Hall, Durham, and Mrs. Mallett, Hampshire High School gymnasium, Keene.

Pool News Leaks Out

The Monadnock learned Thursday that the new pool had been test-filled the previous week and that there had been some leakage. When contacted, Physical Plant Director Robert Mallett disclosed that some minor leakage had been anticipated and that the contractors wanted to determine its nature and extent before the tiling was installed in the pool. Mr. Mallett stated that the leakage has occurred in the racing lanes and that they had been chipped out and repaired and that two coats of water-proofing had been applied to the surface. The pool holds 252,000 gallons of water. It was estimated that a five percent leak occurred. It takes twelve to fourteen hours for the pool to fill up, costing approximately 350 dollars per filling. However, with the filtration and purifying methods currently used, it was expected that the pool would not have to be emptied and refilled for at least eight years. The pool is expected to be ready for use by November 17.

Owls Tame Plymouth 5-2, Wallop North Adams 12-0

The Keene State College Varsity Soccer team continued its winning way today as it mauled North Adams State College by a score of 12-0. Scoring in every period the owls passed with precision that completely deflated the visitors defense. The real story of the game lies in the statistics as the Owls outshot the Massachusetts team 71-6. The first score of the game came early as Chuck Stone collected his second goal of the season at the 15:29 mark of the first period. Then at 10:02 of the first period Stone got his third goal to give the Owls a 2-0, Wally Dwinnells assisted on both Stone goals. The first period ended this way with the homeowners outshooting the visitors 19-3. The second period saw only one goal as Glen Wescott got his first goal of the year at 18:16 and the Owls left the field at halftime with a 3-0 margin. Steve Parker received an assist on the Wescott score. In the third period the Owls upped the score to 4-0 as Rit Swain, at this time the teams leading scorer, fired home his seventh of the season. It was a beautiful head shot off Steve Parker's corner kick. It was Parker's second of three assists in the game. The third quarter ended this way and the North Adams squad probably wish they had gone home then. Only nine seconds into the fourth quarter the Owls score on Steve Behrsing's first goal of the season to make it 5-0. Then only 22 seconds later Rit Swain took a lead pass from Parker and drilled it home to make it 6-0. The Owls then proceeded to pour in 6 more goals in the last twenty minutes. Three of the goals came from Dwinnells as he has now scored 6 goals in his last two games in that department. Brian Richardson was called upon to make two saves as the Owls never let the visitors mount a sustained effort on the Keene goal. It was Brian's first shut-out. The Owls have now scored 33 goals in their first six games for an average of 5.5 goals per game. The Owls displayed a new kind of spirit as they never let up hustling. To the students of Keene State College - we've got ourselves a team that will never quit - so let's get out there and back them. The next home game is October 18 against Fitchburg. BE THERE.

Monadnock Player Of The Week - Rit Swain

The Monadnock's player of the week is Rit Swain, a native of Norwalk, Connecticut. There he attended high school at Norwalk High and played three years of soccer. During his senior year the team won its division, class LL, and the State Championship. Rit came to Keene State in the fall of 1967 and joined the soccer team. He contributed eight goals as the Owls chalked up a 9-4 season mark. This season through the first six league games, he already has eight goals and along with Wally Dwinnells has a chance to break the school scoring record for a single season. When asked about the team and where it was headed for this season he replied, "The team is really well organized in its passing and each match has become a team affair with each guy doing everything he can. Where before it was a lot of guys playing for themselves it has become a matter of team pride. There's no stopping us now." Rit is a sophomore in secondary education with a major in English and a leaning toward a minor in history.

Last Friday's Greek God rally in the parking lot in back of the Commons was a huge success as nearly 50 K.S.C. students attended in addition to the GREEKS. If more than 25 students attend an event at K.S.C., it's called a "crowd." The Kappa band was the highlight of the rally and God Mike Stone made an appearance in his modern motorized chariot. After speaking briefly, Mike autographed a few pictures and passed some out to the crowd of screaming girls who almost tore him apart in their frenzy. A word of sympathy: Kappa would like to extend its wholehearted regrets to Wally Dwinnell, Tekes' Greek God. It seems his golden chariot developed a few broken wheels, and so Wally had to make an ungodly scene by walking out of the parking lot instead of riding. Last Saturday Kappa pulled Tekes into the mud, as the first event of the highlight of the rally and they started. The Kappa team dragged the entire Tekes team in this easy victory goes to show that "KAPPA IS TOUGH!" Finally, Brother Jerry Gilman would like to announce that HE is the greatest person alive. He has talent, save, and looks; and to add to all this, he has a great girl.

Miss Clara A. Giovannangeli

Staff Member Of The Week

This week, Miss Clara A. Giovannangeli, the Bursar, deserves our attention. She began working at what was then the Keene Normal School during her last year of high school in 1928, under Dr. Mason, assisting Margaret Murphy, the Treasurer and Penmanship teacher. When Mrs. Murphy resigned to teach in Norwich, Connecticut, she continued under Mr. Melvin West, the retired Superintendent of Schools in Marshfield, Massachusetts. At that time ALL bills were paid through the Bursar's office, and all students' accounts were collected there. (Now bills are handled through the business office). After Mr. West resigned, Mr. Hays served a short time, and then Miss Giovannangeli took over the Bursar's duties, in 1941, under Dr. Young, who retired in 1964. At this time the University took over the supervision from the State of New Hampshire and Dr. Zorn became the President. Miss Giovannangeli, with the help of two able assistants, Miss Cynthia Forest and Miss Deborah Salatas, cashes student checks, collects student fees, gives out student pay-roll checks, and bills the Veterans' Administration and other scholarship associations who give loans to students attending college. They also collect Endowment loans and scholarships due by students who do not teach in New Hampshire after graduation or who withdraw, and collect and keep records of evening-extension classes as well as those of over 1600 day students. Miss Giovannangeli attended Keene High School, and evening sessions at the college. She is an Honorary member of the Newman Club under Father Deselos, Secretary of the State Employees Association of New Hampshire, Treasurer of the Keene District Club of Keene State College, a member of the Catholic Daughters of America and Past Grand Regent. She is also a member of St. Bernard's Parish and Altar Society. She has one brother, Arthur, graduated from Keene, and is now a member of the staff. Two nephews, Gary and Arthur Jr., have also graduated, as has a niece, Jean Ann. Two other nieces, Linda, and Marcia, are now seniors at Keene State. Her only other niece, Ann Marie, married a teacher, Joseph Smolen of Montpelier, Vermont. Miss Giovannangeli lives at 13 Willow Street in Keene, and in her spare time enjoys gardening, canning, chair-sewing, and playing bridge. Her only other comments were:

Alpha Phi Omega Awaits Pledge Week

by Phil Purdy

It was announced at our last meeting that all active members will undergo an examination by a National Representative of Alpha Phi Omega. This will occur in the next two months and the test will cover the principles of Alpha Phi Omega. In regard to service projects, further plans for the Webelos classes to be held next weekend were made. Also, last Monday, other members helped Reverend Gennell collect, sort, and pack what few donations were received. Many of our active members submitted applications as Student Guides to Dean Cunningham last Friday. Our organization is always willing to participate, if possible, in worthwhile campus affairs. The chapter has sent a copy of our recently-ratified constitution to the Student Senate for ratification. We hope that the Student Senate will act on it soon. Because of several recurring

The Biology Club will meet tonight in Science 305 for a general business meeting and work period. The Agenda will include a national convention here in 1970, possible guest speakers for the coming year and a set up for the open house on Dedication Day on November 17. The work hour after the meeting will concentrate on the tank room and the greenhouse. Anyone having special talents in either of these two areas should wear appropriate clothing. The birds in the museum will also be catalogued so any ornithologists who still have their Petersons should bring them. Anyone who is interested in Biology Club should attend this meeting. It promises to be an interesting one. Biology Club, Wednesday, Oct. 16, Science 305

by Nancy Morse

Mr. Keith V. King, a member of the faculty who has been a leader in promoting and directing the change from the old gymnasium to the new one and his new and more versatile program, is the subject of who's who in this week. Often times Mr. King can be seen talking with the finish men, working toward the removal of the "kinks" that any new building seems to have. Concerning the improved program, he commented that our direction now basically is to broaden and strengthen. For example, such sports as tennis will be taught on the beginner, intermediate, and advanced levels. To broaden the program, wrestling and handball have been added to the variety of interest areas. Mr. King's next area of concern is in the development of a stronger teacher-coach minor. Did you realize that there are 8-10 coaching positions available in the Monadnock area but that the physical education teachers generally hold on to? Did you also realize that the men who graduate from Plymouth with a degree in physical education are having a rough time getting a job? There exists a definite need for men with a teaching minor. Involved in such a minor would be such courses as anatomy, physiology, care and prevention of athletic injuries, coaching classes and a specialization in an area of interest like basketball or swimming. Soon K.S.C. hopes to offer places for 85 - 100 men to enter and complete the coaching minor in about 2 1/2 years. As for Mr. King, he attended Springfield College. Of his many interests, he specializes in football, skiing and track and field. He held the low hurdle record in New England for 20 years.

Super Highways Proposed for High-Speed Travel

How would you like to drive your automobile 100 miles an hour on the highway legally—or be ticketed for being a slowpoke by driving less than 90 miles an hour on the same road? This is the type of new highway predicted by the turn of the century by the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratories whose traffic safety research has attained national recognition. Such highways could be commonplace by the year 2000, which is only 32 years away, according to Cornell researchers. They have developed seven inter-related concepts of a proposed "Century Expressway" and recommend that a 100-mile stretch of it be designed and built to serve as a proving ground for high speed automobile travel. Recognizing that all licensed drivers could not qualify to drive at this speed, Cornell has proposals for screening out both unsafe cars and unsafe drivers before a motorist would be allowed to travel on a "Century Expressway." The driver would be required to pilot the car through a series of tests including an unexpected stop to test his control ability and reaction time. There would also be a health inspection. Drivers not competent for any reason, such as being too tired, ill, or under the influence of liquor, would not be allowed on the highway.

Journalism College Majors Up

For the fifth time in seven years American colleges and universities have had gains in journalism enrollment that have surpassed the rate of increase in overall college enrollment. The survey findings were reported in last winter's issue of Journalism Quarterly, and were based on a survey by The Newspaper Fund of Princeton, N. J. It also showed that the enrollment had doubled in seven years. The 118 schools answering the questionnaire from Prof. F. J. Price list a record enrollment of 24,446 for 1967 as compared to the 1961 figure of 12,368.
