Sunday 10¹⁵ P.M.

My darling, you don't ^{know} how happy I am that you are missing the present heat wave, as attested to by the enclosure. I am truly glad that you are able to be up in the mountains at a time like this. The present heat would have just about worn you to the bone, and goodness knows you were pretty close to that before you left. And so, my little cup cake, since it is much too warm for love-making, let us be happy that your absence is the opportunity for a display of our feelings, mentally - You know, dear, the first week has already passed, and there are but two more staring us in the face prior to our seeing each other - and although, I hope you are having a grand time, I do wish Time would march on just a wee bit faster so that I can again ~~cover~~ ^{envelop} you as in other days - so that I can again see you smile - down deep - and be happy -

Well, dearest, we finally visited fine cemetaries, and even though this may seem like an unearthly way to spend Sunday - yet it turned out to be a pleasurable trip - as I advised you yesterday, Sam, Kay & Anita came along - Sam drove most of the time.
We saw some very nice propositions, all more than $200, naturally, and I expect to come to a decision during the week - These places are nicely set up, and arranged - to look like a park than a cemetery - but that's the way it should be, I guess -

Sam paid me $10, and that leaves only 10 more he owes as - Nat had, eh Kid - They are all well and wish to be remembered!
I expect they will accompany me, when I come up July 4th -

I spent so much time in the sun looking at plots, that I got a nice burn - Does not hurt a bit - did not need tanning oil - but it sure does make me look more handsome than ever?

Hope you are having a nice time, now that you are acclimatized - Take good care of Florence, my "little devil" - and remember that I love you as ever,

Ag.
