Doris Haddock's message:

Standing up to the corruption in Washington politics is an act of heroism and patriotism. I am here to honor Senator Lugar for standing up against all the pressure and all the lies being told about the campaign finance reform bill now in the Senate. If the McCain-Feingold/Shays-Meehan bill is passed, it will signal a change in direction away from the big money corruption of our elections. The bill does not require anyone to be silent – it only requires them, in an election campaign, to NOT use corporate money and to NOT hide behind a cloak of secrecy.

We thank you, Senator Lugar, for being a wise leader on this issue. I am an old woman from New Hampshire who has come to give my thanks to the people who elected you and sent you to Washington.

The radicals who would steal this democracy from us are working to delay a vote on this bill. We must all act. We must all call our Senators and let them know we are behind them and behind this reform bill.
