Florence, dearest:

Your Tuesday letter arrived to-day, and it was good to learn that you and Jim are well, and that the weather is improving. It seems like a very long time since last I played with the little rascal, and I sure do miss him. However I am hopeful that the near future will find you and him visiting me, and then perhaps we will make up for the time lost since I joined the Service.

I am rather busy these days, and looking forward to technical training. It is too bad that I was not placed in a branch of the service where my training as an accountant in finance could be utilized, but I think all will turn out well. Received a letter from Bob, the first this week, and all is well with him and Fran.

Hope you had an easy time of it with the painters, and Jim's first experience with this kind of a mess. Sorry I was not around to help, but perhaps the next time. I join you in hoping that Henry Ford's prophecy is more prophetic than he was in the last war.

In any event, it was good reading, but don't count on it too much. Sorry to hear about Ben, and I hope Betty is able to carry on with the same standard of living when, as, and if he goes.

Have not heard from the folks lately, but your assurance that they are well is sufficient. Hope they are not worrying too much these days, as I am fine and dandy, feeling swell, and the weather is getting warmer. Irv's wife is in town; but I have not met her yet, and don't think I'll get a chance to do so for a while.
Please speak to Mr. Pinck as I suggested the other day.

Stay well, darling, Kiss Jim for daddy, and I'll Kiss you in mind as usual.
Will write first chance I get, until then I'll be thinking and dreaming of you

As ever,

gg
