Dear George,

Nothing of any significance to write about. just want to drop you a few words.

This waiting around for the "judgment day" is rather trying. There is no question about it. This tops all my other "decisions" that have come up in my short but full life.

I am rather optimistic, perhaps too much so; but deep down, I know I'm without "mazel", so I'm prepared for the worst. Although I must admit, this optimism that I'm displaying, is going to make it that much harder to accept the blow. Perhaps I'd have been better off if I had no "case" to present; but knew that I had no alternative. I only hope the "jury" is vulnerable.

In any event, I started this letter to thank you for bolstering my spirits with your note. —
