Win two in Maine
KSC Owls clinch titleBy PETE HANRAHAN
Monadnock Sports Editor

The University of Maine at Portland-Gorham (UMPG) was the first weekend victim of the Owls on Friday. The Owls topped them by a 79-58 count. Jose DeCaussey's 29-point performance led all scorers.

UMPG was without their flashy guard and leading scorer Matt Donahue, who flunked out of school. Without Donahue, the UMPG backcourt did not play well at all. The Portland-Gorham attack was very slow and deliberate, which set the stage for Coach Glenn Theulen to release Mark Tinker from the bench to join Jose DeCaussey and Wit Summers on the front line. When Gorham did get a shot off, the rebound belonged to Keene.

Mercifully, the Owls did not press the oversized and under-agile Portland-Gorham guards. If they had, the game would undoubtedly have been a massacre.

Kevin O'Leary hit for 15 points in the first half, and that spurge carried the Owls through a so-so first half. Jose DeCaussey's heroics in the second half sealed the verdict.

The game saw Randy Bowman start in the slot usually filled by Jim Drew, while Ron Pierson started in Ollie Dunbar's place. Bowman scored 10, while Pierson did not score in limited action.

The Owls defeated the University of Maine at Farmington by a 69-60 score Saturday. It was the Owls' second win this season over Farmington and it was a big one. The win meant that the Owls will play for the NESCAC Northern Division title.

It was not an easy win. A well-coached Farmington team played well enough in the first half to lead 40-34 at halftime. Coach Glenn Theulen's forces regrouped at halftime and came out in a man to man defense that throttled Farmington's wheeling offense. Farmington was held to 20 points in the second half, while their high scoring guard, Barry Peaco, was held to a mere field goal after intermission.

In the second half, Ronnie Pierson came off the bench to give the Owls the boost they needed. He finished the contest with 12 including an 8 for 9 performance from the charity stripe. As Theulen says, "when Pierson comes off that bench, something happens."

Jose DeCaussey led Keene with 17, while Kevin O'Leary added 14.

The Owls entertain Castleton, a team which the Owls beat on the road, at Spaulding Gym tonight. The score in the December game was 101-60 at Castleton. Saturday it will be onto Plymouth, for a rematch with the Panthers. This one could be a preview of the NESCAC northern division championship game.

Tinker is back in fold

By PETE HANRAHAN

Mark Tinker returned to action for the Owls Friday night at UMPG. In a short stint he collected seven rebounds, scored four points and blocked four shots. His return to early season form greatly strengthens Keene's can be a valuable member of the squad. To all who witnessed Friday's game, Tinker proved his worth. The one-two rebounding combination of DeCaussey and Summers has been impressive, but the one-two-three combination of DeCaussey, Summers and Tinker proved awesome on the boards.

Tinker gives the Owls valuable insurance in case of foul trouble to either the 6-8 Summers or the 6-6 DeCaussey. His presence increases Theulen's flexibility in using Jim Drew and Randy Bowman in the backcourt.

Mark's addition increases the roster by only one, but the versatility and extra freedom that it gives Coach Theulen makes his value all the more evident.

On The Inside

chances in post-season competition. Shortly after seeing limited action in the Sub-Base Tournament in early January, Tinker left the team and went home. He has apparently been convinced by Coach Theulen that he KSC's Ollie Dunbar drives in for two vs. Plymouth last week. Owls invade Plymouth for rematch on Saturday.

Two Owl's nationally ranked

KSC's Jose DeCaussey is ranked 45th in the nation in scoring with a 24.9 points per game average, and Kevin O'Leary is ranked second in the nation in free throw percentage at .909. Coach Glenn Theulen said Monday.

"These statistics were compiled by the National Athletic Intercollegiate Association (NAIA)," Theulen said. "The NAIA is represented by colleges from all the sections of the nation."

Theulen said that he was pleased by his teams performance over the weekend, and he had praise for his players. He said that Elmer Dunbar has played outstanding defensive basketball over the course of the season, with the Plymouth game as a mid-season peak.

He believes that Dewitt Summers has been a very steady influence on the Owls. "He may not strike you as playing a hard game, but when you realize how unselfishly he plays the post, and how few turnovers he causes, then you begin to realize his importance," Theulen said.

Ron Pierson and Bobo Bowman are both streaky, Theulen said. Bowman gets the hot hand and can really pull the team out, while Pierson "comes off the bench playing."

Theulen expects Jim Drew to regain his form soon. He is coming off a bad ankle injury.

Theulen had special praise for Mark Tinker, who just returned to the team. He blocked four shots in Maine Friday night against Gorham and played a fine game all around. "Mark owns Gorham," Theulen said with a grin.

In tournament action it looks like the Owls will play Plymouth in the NESCAC tournament. Theulen believes this game to be a very important one. "If we beat Plymouth then we'll get a chance at the nationals, regardless of how we do later in the NESCAC tournament," he said. So once more it comes down to Plymouth against Keene.

Basketball Owls to play Plymouth Saturday

The Basketball Owls travel to Plymouth Saturday night to meet the Panthers in a rematch. The Owls won the first game two weeks ago, 86-64, with Jose DeCaussey picking up 43 points.

Plymouth Coach Spaulding is resourceful, and can be expected to come up with a surprise for the Owls. He probably will devise a defense to stop DeCaussey, who was the whole story in that first game. What could ruin Spaulding's plans is the talent and potential of the rest of the Owls.

The potential has always been there, although the rest of the team is not used to any extra pressure to score. The Panthers probably won't be too worried about Wit Summers on offense. He scored only two points against them last time. But Summers has a good shot, and he could be the difference this Saturday night.

Offensively, Plymouth's 6-3 guard, Richie Thibodeau, will probably be gunning away as he did at Spaulding Gym. With Bruce Johnson and Thibodeau in there together, the Panthers front court of Cilley, Russell, Cowie, and Blood will see very little of the ball. If the guards are hitting, it will be a good game. But if both Johnson and Thibodeau are cold, the game will be a landslide for the Owls. To say the least, Plymouth's guards "like" the ball. A big win will provide the Owls with renewed confidence away from home.

THE MONADNOCK

Vol. XXIII, No. 17
Feb. 16, 1972Student support asked for budget requestBy COLIN R. LYLE
Monadnock Staff Writer

It could cost less to attend KSC next year but it all depends on whether the students are interested, Student Senate President David Kyle said yesterday.

The N.H. legislature is now in special session to disburse some $5,000,000. Kyle said students should let their legislators know their thoughts on several key issues before the session.

The trustees of the university system and the presidents of the three colleges have proposed that part of the surplus be used to provide a 10% reduction in the cost of tuition for in-state students next year. This would reduce the student's burden by about $65 dollars a year.

Dr. Leo F. Redfern, president of Keene State College, says that the trustees have been impressed by the amount of support that has been promised by student representatives. He said that the trustees have pushed hard for the proposed tuition reduction and they are awaiting help from students. If it fails to materialize, Redfern said, the trustees would probably not be as aggressive in the future.

Kyle said that an intensive campaign is being started to get students to influence the legislature. A list of names and telephone numbers of state representatives will be posted in the KSC Student Union. Both Kyle and Redfern have called the proposed reduction "token" but they said it would show support by the state for higher education.

The special session convened on Feb. 8 and can run up to 15 legislative days.

The three university presidents made their request before the special budget surplus committee of the legislature last week. The idea has received the support of New Hampshire Governor Walter Peterson.

Redfern said that data collected by the financial aids office of KSC shows that it will be harder for those now attending the school to stay as the tuition costs rise. He also feels that the current $650 yearly in-state tuition is discouraging able students from entering the state university system. He said there is a vast disparity between the current tuition rates and those of just three years ago.

If the legislature does grant KSC a 10% tuition cut, out-of-state tuition would not be affected. In fact, their tuition could go up some $150 according to Redfern. The trustees of the university system are bound by law to pass along the total cost of an out-of-stater's education in his tuition.

Both Kyle and Redfern have stressed on the action's intangible meaning. Redfern had this to say, "Many of us feel that if the legislature were to appropriate money for this (tuition reduction)...that it would be an important symbolic act that indicates the principle of low cost public higher education has not been completely abandoned in New Hampshire."

IS IT A RIVER? IS IT A LAKE? NO, IT'S FISK LAWN! Seeing as most students were unable to make it to the ocean this winter, Mother Nature decided to bring the ocean to them. This intraversable barrier is causing a few problems in getting to classes, but for the most part it is nothing more than a minor nuisance. Rumors that the Lochness monster is residing there have not been confirmed, however, we have yet to see anybody try to find out.

Student Senate slates second voter drive

KSC students interested in voting in this year's primary and November election will get a big boost this week from the KSC Student Senate.

They'll have an opportunity for seven hours Thursday (Feb. 17) to request absentee ballot forms or to re-register in Keene.

"All KSC students on their home town voter checklist will be able to accomplish the next step—that of requesting absentee ballot forms," David Kyle, Student Senate president, said.

Students who are not from Keene will be able to vote by meeting certain requirements: They must be 18 years old as of this March 7, and must have been living in Keene for the past six months as of that date. If students have previous registrations they will be required to sign an affidavit recinding their home town registration."

Kyle said that students have been permitted to vote in N.H. college towns as a result of a recent agreement between New Hampshire Atty. Gen. Warren Rudman and the American Civil Liberties Union.

The registration drive will be held in the Student Union coffee shop from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 1 to 4 p.m. The registration process will be transferred to the KSC Dining Commons lobby from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Kyle said.

The absentee request forms will be sent to the students' home towns by Student Senate workers. The actual absentee ballots then will be mailed by the various cities and towns to the campus, Kyle said.

Hildebrandt-Kerr motion
OK'd by committee

The Student Affairs Committee of the College Senate passed the Hildebrandt-Kerr motion (printed in the Feb. 9 issue of the Monadnock) last week 6-yes, 1-no, 1-abstention.

The resolution, which was referred to the committee at the Feb. 2 meeting of the Senate, will be brought before the Senate at its next meeting, March 1.

The motion would prevent "arbitrary exclusion" and discrimination or at least stop an organization which practiced such things from receiving college recognition or funds.

Members of the committee who voted for the motion were: Mr. David A. Smith, chairman, Mr. Joseph A. Bernier, Mr. Christopher R. Barnes, Miss Nora F. Kerr, Miss Pamela J. Holme, and Miss Barbara E. Rosinski. Voting in the negative was Mr. Patrick M. Murphy and abstaining from the vote was Dean Ernest O. Gendron.

The vote came after an hour and a half of discussion.

Steinem attacks media 'distortion' of women's movement

By MARTY GINGRAS
Monadnock Campus Editor

"One of the problems with the women's movement is that it has been trivialized and ridiculed," Gloria Steinem told KSC students last week.

In her second visit to KSC in two years, Steinem said that this ridicule has been used as weapon against the feminist movement.

"Nobody ever burned a bra," she said, but she explained the reason for this was that nobody could get a fire permit. She also attacked mass media for distorting the movement.

Steinem said that women's position as idol in earliest times have changed. "We've been talked into the notion that having children is an inferior position," she said.

She added that raising children has been designated as a feminine task. "A feminine task is defined as anything a man doesn't want to do."

Steinem also commented on the issues of legalized abortion and welfare.

"More women are dying from butchered abortions than men died during the war, even at its highest casualties," she said.

She further explained that welfare is actually a women's issue. Welfare has been used as a race issue to make it an unpopular thing, she said.

Steinem, who appeared to speak for Sen. George McGovern, went into a discussion of presidential election politics.

She said that the average representative at the Chicago Convention was white, male, over 50, and earning over $18,000 per year. "This does not exactly represent the population," she said.

Steinem spoke of forming a coalition to change the system through the "politics of personal experience." George McGovern understands the coalition and will redistribute the wealth and humanize the country, she said.

She added that here in New Hampshire, it is possible to do something that will turn the country around. The first thing that women learn in the feminist movement is that they can change things, she said.

Once again attacking the chauvinist mass media she observed, "According to television, we have peculiar odors that have to be remedied." But then, she said, anyone passing a male locker room has to wonder about that.

THE WEIGHT OF ONE

Even the radicals have discovered the potential power of the youth vote.

If you caught the network TV news report on the Chicago 7 last week you may have heard Jerry Rubin, Rennie Davis and John Froines preaching for social change at the grassroots level—through voting!

It is easy to see the power of a combined student vote, but even the lone student can wield a surprising amount of weight. A letter or phone call are taken seriously by a politician who needs all the votes he can get.

At our own grassroots level there are a number of things worth actively backing. For instance, KSC's supplemental budget request, if passed by the state legislature (which is in special session) would mean a 10 per cent tuition cut for in-state students.

The reactionary anti-tax forces throughout the state are now lobbying to defeat all of the state income tax proposals which are now before the legislature. Not only would a state income tax present a more equitable tax structure to the state, but it would help save the money-starved university system.

This year's tax proposals have a better chance of passing than ever. It is certainly time that student voters make their voices heard.

A list of all state representatives (and their phone numbers) is now attached to the door of the Student Senate office (2nd floor, Student Union). Use it; it'll help make a better KSC.

'Don't buy life insurance'

Consumer Reports advises

Unless a college student has children, he should not buy life insurance," an article in the January issue of Consumer Reports advises. "The need for insurance arises mainly with the birth of children."

Of special interest to college students, is the fact that many insurance companies are concentrating their sales programs on the college market, the report says.

"An industry survey of more than 300 life-insurance companies turned up 20 per cent with sales programs aimed at college students and young professionals who are not yet earning enough to pay the premiums," the article states.

Although most students are approached four to six times a year, the article points out that in some areas they are approached five to six times per week, and that the integrity of their methods are sometimes suspect.

"Insurance men approach the premium-paying problems by offering to finance the first annual premium, and frequently the second, with a loan to be paid off perhaps five years later," Consumer Reports states. In one case, "the compounded finance charge on the premium loan of $151 came to $76.07."

According to the article, most of these student policies are written for the safety of the creditors. It says that many students are forced to sign a promissory note and a policy assignment form. The latter makes the insurance company the beneficiary in the case of the student's death, so that it can collect the unpaid premiums and interest.

Some companies and insurance agents go so far as to tell students that the forms they are signing are for medical purposes, when actually they are insurance policies.

The article urges all students who are interested in insurance to contact agents in their hometowns, or check with their parents. It also stated that to help the students Consumer Reports is revising and expanding its publication, "The Consumers Union Report on Life Insurance."

Juicer campaign begins

A growing problem of tremendous import has recently been brought to our attention, a problem every red-blooded patriotic American knows and hates: drunk drivers.

To try and ferret out these sick and disgusting persons, the Monadnock, in keeping with the spirit of a major N.H. newspaper, is conducting a "Bust a Juicer" drive.

The Monadnock will pay 84 cents (or 84 cents in any currency you wish) for information leading to the arrest of a drunk driver.

To insure the secrecy of the informant, special rules have been devised. First, address a letter to "Bust a Juicer" in care of the Monadnock, giving the name of the person you believe drives while drunk, also give his home address, his home bar, and any sexual deviations and unpatriotic acts you think he may have committed.

DON'T SIGN YOUR REAL NAME TO THE LETTER! Sign, instead, a 32 digit number and the name of a past president of the Audubon Society. Or if you wish list a series of 72 North American birds and 14 cereal box tops along with the name of your favorite American war. These should serve to identify you.

By producing the second half of whatever you choose, your reward will be immediately turned over to you.

The chairman of the drive is Pascuali Kaputo, who formerly headed the now defunct "Deck a Drunk" drive which failed because of its militancy. "We believe that drunk driving is a direct result of the infiltration of Communists into the alcohol industry. We hope to save people from being dupes of Communism and bring them back into the fold of the patriotic, American way of life."

Kaputo is also forming a lobby group to make the sale of alcohol to anyone but pedestrians illegal. Kaputo said, "We think that the law has a good chance to pass because most of the legislators are too old to drive anyway."

Ultimately, our goal is to produce a society in which one half the population is spying on the other half. Hopefully we will reach a point where the population is so paranoid that they won't do anything. This is the American way!

STUDENTS CLARIFY McCLOSKEY RECORD

To the Editor:

In response to an article in last week's MONADNOCK concerning an evaluation of the presidential candidates, we would like to correct a few errors recorded in The MONADNOCK pertaining to Paul McCloskey's voting record.

First, McCloskey has never voted for the SST. He three times voted against it in 1970 and 1971.

Second, McCloskey cast an initial vote against the Women's Rights Amendment in 1970, but voted for the amendment introduced in 1971. He cast a "nay" vote in 1970 because the amendment was introduced without notice, and only one hour was allowed for discussion on the amendment before the final vote.

It was McCloskey's feeling that the 1970 Women's Rights Amendment was poorly phrased, and left too much room for loose interpretation. McCloskey feared that the constitutional amendment, as phrased, could force women to be included in the draft if the issue was pushed. Rhetorical question: Haven't we got enough draft problems now?

Some presidential candidates are now promising women more prestigious positions in government. Unlike some candidates we all know and love, Congressman McCloskey currently has filled the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th most important positions on his congressional staff with women. McCloskey is not prejudiced against women, nor is he prejudiced for them. He believes in excellence and quality as qualifications—regardless of sex.

Third, the MONADNOCK article neglected to point out that McCloskey's stand on anti-pollution is particularly strong. He has authored and co-sponsored several environmental bills. He was the

The Bible says . . .

A missing day

The Bible says that twice the motion of the earth was altered by God. This occurred several thousand years ago, but just recently astronauts and scientists in Green Belt, Maryland discovered this amazing incident.

The scientists were checking the motion of the planets and the stars to see where they would be 100 or 1000 years from now.

As the computer searched back and forth over the centuries mysteriously a red light came on indicating that something was wrong. A check by the maintenance crew ensured that the computer was operating correctly.

The program was checked and found accurate except for the one day of elapsed time recorded as an error by the computer. The scientists scratched their heads but could figure no reason for the mysterious lost day.

One religious fellow on the team said, "You know; one time I was in Sunday School and they talked about the sun standing still." The other scientists didn't believe him but said, "show us." He took out his Bible and turned to the book of Joshua, the tenth chapter.

Joshua was in the heat of battle with the Amorites but the day was getting late and more time was needed to finish the battle. So Joshua asked the Lord to stop the sun and the moon. The sun and moon was stayed "about a day" and didn't set until the battle was over.

The computer was set whirling again and they discovered that Joshua's day was twenty-three hours twenty minutes long, not quite a day. Where was the other forty minutes?

The religious fellow thought again and remembered the words written in II Kings. The words told of Hezekiah, on his death bed, was visited by the prophet Isaiah, who told him he was not going to die. Hezekiah asked for a sign as proof.

Isaiah asked him if he wanted the sun to go ahead ten degrees. Hezekiah said, "It's nothing for the sun to go ahead ten degrees, but let the shadow return backward ten degrees." Isaiah prayed to the Lord and He brought the shadow ten degrees BACKWARD!

Ten degrees is exactly forty minutes. Twenty-three hours twenty minutes in Joshua plus forty minutes in II Kings is the amount of time logged by the scientists as the missing day in the universe.

KSC rugby club draws 25 men

About 25 KSC men were introduced to scrums, lineouts and other such unheard of things at the first meeting of the KSC Rugby Club last week.

Bruce Stephenson, a transfer student from the University of Virginia gave a one-hour lecture on the basics of the game.

Only two of the men said they had ever played the sport, but Stephenson, who said he was encouraged by the turnout, has decided to arrange a spring schedule with the teams in the area.

Stephenson said he will try to arrange games with teams from Hanover, Concord, Springfield, Burlington, and Boston. The next meeting of the club will be held next Wednesday, (Feb. 23).

Rugby is played on a field 100 by 70 yards, with 15 men on a team, in 40-minute, non-stop halves.

Rugby is like football, only there is no blocking, no stoppage of play, and no forward passing. Rugby is like soccer, but the ball can be carried.

Scoring in rugby is done by four-point touchdowns, two-point point-after, and three-point penalty kicks.

We hope this letter has served to answer questions raised about McCloskey in last week's Monadnock. We urge you to support Pete McCloskey in the N.H. primary. The Democrats are now running against themselves and will not be running against Nixon until the Democratic nomination is made next summer. In the N.H. primary, McCloskey will be running directly against Nixon, since both seek the same party nomination. We feel that a stand with McCloskey on March 7 can force more immediate change in the Nixon administration more than can a stand with any other candidate.

Play, rock opera to come as Winter Week opens

KSC's 1972 Winter Week is now in full swing; and there's still a play, a dance, and a rock opera to come.

"Superstar," a concert version of the Broadway rock opera "Jesus Christ Superstar," will highlight the week with a performance Sunday (Feb. 20), at 8 p.m. in Spaulding Gym.

Admission will be $2 for KSC students, faculty and staff and $4 for others. The show is a presentation of the KSC Concert and Lecture Committee. Tickets are now on sale at the Student Union ticket office.

The rock opera is the story of the last seven days of Christ as performed by the Original American Touring Company. Music for the show is taken from the original British hit recording of the opera as well as from traditional and original material.

The show's producer, Betty Sperber, won a court battle with the British management-publishing firm of Robert Stigwood, Inc. to present the concert. The Stigwood firm had alleged copyright violations, but a federal judge lifted temporary restraining order last July which permitted the group to continue its national tour. It was barred from using the name "Jesus Christ" in its title, however.

Starring in "Superstar" is Billy Barnes as Jesus, Joe Morton as Pontius Pilate, and Danny Belline as Judas Iscariot.

Music for the show is provided by three guitars, a piano, an organ, drums and an alto sax. Musical director is George Broderick.

"Marathon," a play performed by eight ex-drug addicts will be presented Thursday (Feb. 17) at 7:30 p.m. in the Brown Room of the Student Union. Admission is free.

The play, which re-creates scenes of drug addiction and rehabilitation, presents a capsule view of the philosophy and techniques used by Marathon House in the treatment of drug addicts. The performers, aged from 15 to 23, are all current residents of the House.

The play's producers says "Marathon" is not aimed at lecturing the audience but rather "it is a challenge to communicate, to care."

The play ends with a "rap session" where the cast and the audience come together for group discussion, formal questions and answers or individual talks.

"Marathon" is being sponsored by the Social Council, the Student Union Board, and the Freshman, Sophomore and Junior classes.

Saturday, the Social Council will present "Poison" in a concert-dance at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Brown Room. Admission will be 25 cents.

"Poison" is a four-man Connecticut-based rock group. Most of their material is original, but occasionally they reconstruct tunes from the fifties and early sixties in their own style.

The members of the group are Ed Bradley, lead guitar; Mike Karpiak, drums; Pete Nimrowski, bass guitar; and Kenny Joppie, vocalist.

COFFEE HOUSE CIRCUIT

Sigidi, an afro-jazz, bluesrock group will appear on the Coffee House Circuit at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Coffee Shop next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Admission is 25 cents.

PARTS OPEN

in the play, "Hellow out there" by William Saroyan. Open auditions will be held Thursday from 4-7 p.m. in Morrison 74. Student Tom Andrews will be directing.

SKI CLUB SPONSORS TRIP

The Ski Club will sponsor a ski trip to Mt. Sunapee Saturday (Feb. 19). Any student wishing to attend should sign up any day this week from 12-1 p.m. in the Commons. Bus fare will be $2.00. Lift-ticket discounts will probably be in effect.

ARTIST SOIREE

An artist soiree will be held Tuesday (Feb. 23) at 7:30 p.m. in Butterfield 202 with the art faculty to plan monthly evening art programs. The college community is welcome.

The Owls lifted their regular season mark to 15-4 with a 99-79 rout of Lyndon on Monday. Despite the fact that starter Randy Bowman did not make the trip, there was never much doubt about the outcome.

Captain Kevin O'Leary exploded for 30 points. The big night for O'Leary could not have come at a better time. Leading scorer Jose DeCausy scored only 9 and was ejected from the game in the first half.

The rest of the Owls responded to the call also. Ron Pierson picked up 15, Jim Drew 12, and Ollie Dunbar 10. Wit Summers picked up 19 rebounds to pace the Owls in that department. The Owls owned the board all night, and even guard Ollie Dunbar picked off 16 cars.

Swimmers lose to Lowell Tech

Keene State's swim team lost a close meet against Lowell Tech Feb. 7, 62-51. The KSC swimmers put on their best showing this season capturing eight first places in 13 events. Most of the second and third places, however, went to Tech.

Since the Lowell Tech meet, the team has lost two more meets, one to Holy Cross and Brandeis in a tri-meet on Feb. 12 and the other to Bridgewater State on Feb. 12.

The team has seven male swimmers, one out with injury, three female swimmers who swim well, and three divers, who also swim. But this is not enough.

The loss to Brandeis - Holy Cross came in the last event when Keene could not produce four swimmers who had not already swum three events, hence the event could not be entered.

Although the team has been losing, they have drawn sizable crowds and are looking forward to picking up additional swimmers for next year's team. They are also looking optimistically at the three remaining meets of the season: at Nichols College (Feb. 19), Norwich University, at home (Feb. 22) at 4:00 p.m., and Trinity College at home (Feb. 29) at 4:00 p.m.

DeCausy nets 33

Owls topple Plymouth

Arch-rival Plymouth State once again fell to the Owls by an 81-73 score. The Saturday night game was an exciting one as a fired-up Panther squad made the favored Owls work hard for their victory. Jose DeCausy scored 33 points to lead the way for the Owls.

Plymouth really wanted this one. They designed a special defense especially for the game. The alarming part was that it almost worked. The Panthers came out in a box and one. The man out front, Bruce Johnson, stuck with Kevin O'Leary. The four man box inside made it practically impossible to get the ball to DeCausy.

DeCausy, not to be denied, picked up 13 first half points, mostly on tip ins. But Paul Cilley, Richie Thibideau and Johnson were hitting from outside while the Owls were not shooting well at all. At one point Plymouth led by as many as nine. At halftime the score stood at 37-34, in favor of the Panthers.

The Owls came roaring back in the second half. Randy Bowman seemed to be everywhere, getting the key rebound, making the good pass, and scoring the key basket. DeCausy crashed the offensive boards hard, giving Keene second and third shots at the hoop. DeWitt Summers rebounded well and scored with consistency.

The big story, however, was a stellar defensive job on Panther guard Richie Thibideau by Ollie Dunbar. Dunbar played the first 34 minutes of the game, and hustled all the way.

A packed house witnessed a whale of a ballgame. Despite inferior talent, a well-disciplined Plymouth team had almost upset the powerful Owls. But the key to the Owl win was the hard dominance of Summers and DeCausy. Only with near-perfect shooting could Plymouth hope to stop Keene.

The game was a preview of the NESCAC Northern Division Championship game to be played at Spaulding Gym on Feb. 26. It is certain to be a SRO game, for the third time in 1972.

Fights hurting the game

By PETE HANRAHAN

The collegiate basketball scene has been marred this season by a great number of brawls. The number and complexity of these fights have risen to alarming heights. This is so much true that even our own Basketball Owls have been involved.

On The Inside

On January 15, the Owls travelled to Manchester to meet New Hampshire College. Aggressive defensive tactics by NHC, plus some very loose officiating, ended up causing an all out brawl. The brawl included fans as well as players and coaches.

At the University of Minnesota a few weeks ago, the most alarming of all fights, so far, took place. Visiting Ohio State led by a convincing margin with 20 seconds left. Then, on a drive to the hoop, OSU center Luke Witte was deliberately fouled by two Minnesota players. One of the players bent over and held out his hand to the fallen Witte, apparently in a sportsmanlike gesture. But as Witte rose, the player deliberately drove his knee into Witte's groin.

All hell broke loose, and the court was mobbed with free swinging fans and players. Another player, a reserve from Minnesota, stomped several times on the head of Witte, who was still writhing in pain on the floor.

Sequence photographs from Sports Illustrated verify the above story. Also, a nationally televised game between Marquette and South Carolina ended up being nationally witnessed fistfights.

The true athlete is a performer, not a brawler. This year the non-athlete is making his gory mark on the collegiate basketball scene. I hope he is weeded out before he ruins the game for all involved.

Trustees hike non-resident tuition $150

By RON BOISVERT
Monadnock Exec. Editor

Out-of-state students at KSC will be paying $150 more in tuition next year the UNH Board of Trustees decided Saturday. Identical tuition hikes were voted for Plymouth and UNH.

The new tuition figures for Keene and Plymouth will be $1,450. UNH out-of-state fees jumped to $2,150.

The $150 figure is based on per-student costs computed for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1971. New Hampshire state law requires that non-residents pay the full per-student cost of education.

Dr. Thomas N. Bonner, UNH president, emphasized that in-state tuition rates would not be affected by the non-resident hike. The trustees are hoping that the current special session of the state legislature will provide $811,000 so that in-state tuition could be cut 10 per cent. This would mean a reduction of $65 for KSC students who are New Hampshire residents.

Some Hope

Dr. Leo F. Redfern, KSC president, said Monday that there is "some hope" that the legislature will grant funds for in-state tuition relief. He added that passage of requests for additional student financial aid does not seem as likely, however.

The greatest adverse affect of the non-resident tuition hike, according to Redfern, would be the "considerable burden placed on students who enrolled here when tuition was much less." An unwanted transfer could have serious effects on these students, he said.

Redfern also said that the hike would place further strain on KSC's financial aid resources.

"Although our ability to aid is limited, we will make every effort to aid the out-of-state students who may now be eligible for financial aid," he said.

David Kyle, Student Senate president, called the concept of charging non-residents twice the tuition for the same education "ridiculous."

High tuition costs are keeping students out of college, both residents and non-residents, Kyle said.

In-state applications for KSC are down some 17 per cent while out-of-staters are up 11 per cent.

Kyle called for more support from the legislature for higher education, even if it means the passage of a broad base tax.

Pressure on Trustees

Redfern explained that "the trustees see the educational, cultural, social and economic advantages to the state" of having out-of-state students. But, he said, relief will not come to the out-of-state student until the legislature removes its pressure on the trustees.

Redfern said that based on very preliminary assessments of this year's per-student expenses, the trustees might be able to announce an out-of-state tuition reduction for the fall of '73.

"But as long as there is the legislative intent there will be a drifting upward (of the out-of-state tuition) due to the inflationary economy and the increasing cost of providing a good college education," Redfern said.

Rep. Paul N. McCloskey (R-Calif.) outlined his views on the war, the draft, the environment and other issues for a SRO crowd in the KSC Coffee Shop Monday morning.

Rep. McCloskey urges anti-Nixon vote

"It's not what happens in November that is important, but what happens on March 7," Paul McCloskey said before a packed KSC Coffee Shoppe Monday noon. McCloskey reaffirmed his pledge to force President Nixon to stop the war by making a strong showing against him in the New Hampshire primary.

"We are no longer willing to die, willing to bomb, in the support of a corrupt government in Saigon," McCloskey said.

When asked if he would support Richard Nixon in November if he should withdraw from Vietnam and secure re-nomination, McCloskey said no.

There are other issues involved. It would be hard for me to support him for his Southern strategy, or the policies of Attorney General John Mitchell.

McCloskey, who spent about an hour answering questions from the audience, was asked to explain his vote for the D.C. Crime Bill.

"There were about 220 provisions to that bill, including important ones like reform of the juvenile court procedures."

"Although I did not support some provisions, including the wire-tapping measures, I was not prepared to vote against the entire bill, he said.

He also stated that, on a number of other issues, he was forced to vote for the entire bill despite his disagreement on certain sections of the bill.

On the latter, he said, "I only supported a measure to shut federal funds to those convicted of a violent crime."

McCloskey had things to say on a number of issues:

THE ENVIRONMENT - "At present 50 per cent of all funds for sewage treatment comes from local property taxes. Federal participation must increase, perhaps as much as 70 to 90 per cent."

DRAFT - "I am reluctant to establish an all-professional army. It is a question of an army of reluctant soldiers versus an army of men who like to kill."

DRAFT AMNESTY - "We can't have amnesty as long as there is a war going on. However, if I were elected President, I would grant across-the-board amnesty, with a condition that the person serve two years in an alternative service."

ABORTION - "I am for a liberalized abortion law. I feel that a woman has the right to decide whether to have an abortion, and, if she can't afford it, she should receive government assistance."

DEFENSE SPENDING - "With cuts in spending in Vietnam, Europe, and wasteful projects, it should be possible to cut the military budget by 15 billion."
