Sunday morn -
My darling -

Please forgive me for the outburst. I'm all right now. Yesterday was just one of those days and when I heard your voice I let myself go. All the nice things I wanted to say, I just didn't. So, forgive me again, my love.

Last night we had a real electric storm and it was most welcome. It's much cooler now. Has the weather changed much in the city?

Liesel and Al are both fine and both are doing all they can to make my stay here a most pleasant one.

Business is picking up a little.

After your call, I called Seamon to find out about accommodations and they're completely filled - all the other places in this locality are restricted. So I have no alternative but to stay and try to make the best of it until I see you again, my darling. The days can't fly fast enough.

In the meantime please don't worry about me, my Seargie, because I'm getting up already and my appetite is O.K. I'm getting darker and darker each day and you may have a hard time recognizing the girl you sent away.

More guests are arriving and I do manage to know everyone's name, no matter what. I'm not talking so much and will try very, very hard to be a good girl. Finest.

This afternoon we've going caroling - Liesel and I - and expect to take it easy the rest of the day.

Until to-morrow, my sweet, all my love to you.

Always
Florence

P.S. Please send me about 5-34 stamps.

Best regards from Al & Liesel
